TWENTY-THIRD YEAR
1893-1916
The Pharmacy Alumni Association was organized in 1907 and pursuant to suggestions made in August, 1908, an Annual was gotten under way. This first appeared in 1910 and was followed by a second issue in January, 1913. An attempt has been made to get a third issue to you early in 1915 but the work has been too great for one individual and the date is now 1916.

By adopting the new plan described elsewhere in this issue, what has been an Annual in name should become an Annual in fact.

One thousand copies will be distributed. Upon receipt of this will you not give us a prompt acknowledgment. Let us hope that the spirit of Auld Lang Syne will rest upon you long enough to impel you to a response.

Charles Wark, President

G. D. Timmons, Secretary Officers of the Pharmacy Alumni Association

President, Charles Wark
Vice-President, Clinton Nixon
Sec'y-Treas. and Editor, G. D. Timmons

Class Secretaries are named at the head of their respective classes.
To Our Members:

“Dick” Timmons advises me today that I have been defeated in my fifth race for the Presidency. After four years of hard work for you, you show your appreciation by treating me in this manner. (Rather reminds me of a man named Taft, who was treated likewise.)

Prof. Timmons also tells me that he has appointed me Secretary of the class of 1902 for the purpose of getting information about my classmates, to aid in the publication of the next Annual. This idea of letting each class get its own information is good and will relieve our worthy Secretary and Editor of much labor.

Now listen; the class that has any more dope than 1902 will have to get up and hustle, as I propose to go after each member of my class and furnish Prof. Timmons with a complete history of each of us from birth to date.

I cannot close without again asking you to be loyal to Valparaiso University, and thanking you for your most loyal support of me while acting as your presiding officer, an honor of which I have been most proud.

Sincerely,

W. L. Moss.
To the members of the Pharmacy Alumni Association of Valparaiso University:

It seems but a breath, a moment, a bright, brief day, since we gathered in the Auditorium of the Valparaiso University to enjoy the commencement exercises of our different classes. But record tells us, that for some, many years have passed, years that have brought joys and pleasures, cares and possibilities, opportunities and failures. To some of us it has been a rough, rocky pathway, and at times it seemed that we could not overcome the difficulties, while to others it has apparently been smooth sailing. My pathway has to a certain extent been along the first road.

The progress of the members of our association is something that every member should be proud of. Some of them have obtained the highest in the gift of the various professions in which they are now engaged. While some of us have not reached the height of our ambitions, yet we shall continue to strive and some day we shall reap our reward. Some measure our success in dollars and cents, but the best of all measures is, has the world been benefitted for our having lived in it?
The writer has been chosen to represent you as your president for a short time. There are others among you, in my estimation, who are better fitted to take up this work. I am far from brilliant and the only reason I can think of for the bestowal of this honor, is that they think that I have a capacity for work. To be frank they have overestimated my ability in this line and without your hearty co-operation we will not be able to make this association, that which it should be, one of the foremost of its kind in the United States.

We are graduates from a college that has no equal when all of its qualifications are taken into consideration. This is our foundation to work upon, and with this advantage it should be an easy matter for us to set the pace for others.

During the meeting of the association in Valparaiso recently, the writer had the pleasure of being with some of his classmates of 1897. It was not only a day of pleasure, but I received some information that will forever be a benefit.

The old saying, "Experience is the best teacher," is true to a certain extent, but experience costs considerable at times. Benefit from the other fellow's experience. It will not only save you money, but worry and unnecessary trouble and instead of wasting powder on dead ducks, save your ammunition for live ones.

Make an effort to meet with us and we will go over these problems together. It will make all of us more able to cope with life's future battles. As a society all of us have each other's welfare at heart.

We have agreed to print the Pharmacy Alumni Annual yearly instead of every second year as has been done heretofore. In order to do this we must all be prompt in paying our assessments.

Secretaries have been appointed for nearly all of the different classes. They are to work in conjunction with the self-appointed secretaries from each class. By the latter we mean (YOU). Undoubtedly every one of you are keeping in touch with one or more of your former classmates. Write them a personal letter. (Do it now). Get all of the information that you can about them and yourself in letter form and mail it immediately to the appointed secretary of your class. Then make arrangements with some of them to come with you to our next meeting.

There may be some soreness existing in regard to the imagined mistreatment of some of your classmates or of some of the instructors. Forget it instantly. Bury the hatchet. Get together. Forget yesterday. Work today. Look forward to tomorrow.

Fraternally,

Chas. Wark, President.
A boy's reason for choosing a certain line of work may be quite different from a man's reasons for selecting the same occupation. As a boy, I considered pharmacy my best substitute for a college education—as a man I chose it for the business I would enter, confirming this decision by the test of practical work. My final decision I made at the age of twenty-six, when I went into the drug business for myself.

At the age of nineteen I entered a "prep" school, largely on my parents' urging. They wished me to finish the preparatory school course, then take a four-years' college course, and finally enter law or medical school for more preparation before taking up real work.

After two years of this plan, I rebelled; it was too much for a boy used to independence. I was older than most high or preparatory schoolboys, I had been used to making my own way, and I could not endure the thought of spending six or eight years longer in a schoolroom. Besides, I had doubts as to my fitness for either a lawyer’s or a doctor’s career. Still, I was too well aware of my need for a good general education to quit school altogether.

Long and hard I pondered the question of how I could sooner gain the essentials of a good education, at the same time fitting myself for a man’s work. Nearly half my original capital was left and I decided to invest it in a course in pharmacy. Here, I thought, I had found the solution for my problem.

WHERE PHARMACY SCORED

By reason of its dual nature, pharmacy had a great and forceful appeal to me then. In four years’ time I could fit myself for a profession, gain a practical working knowledge of a business, and put by something toward a start in business for myself. To follow medicine or law, I must spend all my time and money in preparation alone. In pharmacy I saw all the advantages of a profession, with few of what might be termed a profession’s disadvantages, and with all the profit of a conservative enterprise.

Another thing that appealed to me was the fact that the druggist can start in with an amount of capital that would give him only a “one-horse” stock in any other business, and yet be comfortably independent, prosperous, a man of influence in the community. A modest beginning in a drug store of my own seemed to promise infinitely more than limited capital might in other lines of business.

Two years in a pharmacy school broadened my general fund of knowledge. In Latin, botany, physics, histology, and English, the courses, while planned with special reference to the needs of pharmacists, were helpful in their general scope as well. A good foundation for the theoretical side of the calling was obtained from a strong, thorough training in chemistry, materia medica, and pharmacy. Education on the practical side of the subject was secured from courses in commercial law and bookkeeping, and from special lectures on practical pharmacy. In few, if in any other schools, do we find such a training in scholarship allied with a basis for immediate work as is offered in a standard college of pharmacy.

MAKING THE FINAL CHOICE

Upon my graduation I again considered my choice of a vocation. In the roll-call of druggists I saw few failures; many more-than-moderate successes confirmed my choice.
The testing of my devotion to pill-rolling came in the years of my apprenticeship. Working for a grouch tested both my ability and stickability. That boss chewed tobacco, spit, and growled, while I did the work of two men for half-pay. In happy contrast to the grouch I recall my last employer, a druggist of the old school and a shrewd and practical man of affairs. His example, training, and kind advice have been potent factors in making the druggist's calling my final choice and have contributed much to my success therein. His ideas were sound and his methods good. The experience I gained while in his employ has proved of incalculable worth to me.

From his success, more than from that of any other druggist I have known, I was thoroughly convinced of the real profit in a properly managed drug store. I believe the business will yield better returns in proportion to the amount of money invested than any other line. That's why I'm sticking to it, spite of cut rates, etc.

For me pharmacy as a profession retains all its old fascination, and as a business I enjoy it more every day. I believe in its future. I am heart and soul for its advancement. If I had my life over I would again become a pharmacist.

GET-TOGETHER CLUBS.

Do you feel just a little nearer to a classmate than to an ordinary acquaintance? If he isn't a classmate but attended the same school at an earlier or later year, haven't you still much in common? Isn't it a pleasure to meet a man who hails from the same alma mater?

Then look about you and see what pharmacy graduates are in reach of you. In many localities you should be able to get a considerable number to meet together occasionally. Just try scanning the whole Annual through and see if you do not succeed in locating some one whom you might otherwise never meet. Call him up and tell him who you are. See if he knows others near you. Get together. Then write and tell us what you have done. Let us have these reports to publish next issue. They will be interesting and stimulating.
PHARMACEUTICAL LIBRARY.

In our special pharmacy catalog sent you each year there is a brief account of our Pharmaceutical Association. In this issue there is an article by F. E. Weeks telling more about this organization. Now we have long had a number of reference books over in the general library but the pharmacy folks do not take kindly to this arrangement of things and object to running over there every time they want to use a chemistry or materia medica. To obviate this they decided to appropriate $100.00 from their treasury for the purpose of contributing the nucleus of a library to be kept and used in the pharmacy building. Mr. Kinsey very kindly and promptly gave them another $100.00 for this purpose, and the library is established and installed.

We realize the feeling any alumnus has when continually asked to pay, pay, pay. Because of this we do not even ask you to pay for the Annual, but instead leave it to your own free will to contribute or not as you may desire. We would like to have you do likewise regarding this library. It is a student proposition from its inception and any donation you may make goes to this Association and not to the school or school library.

Many who read this may feel a desire to give something, and yet know that they are not financially able. Others know that they could well afford to make a contribution and a generous one. Many have books in their possession for which they have no particular use and which would be of service as reference books in this library. The alumni of various institutions often make huge gifts—endowments—to their mother school. Why can't the pharmacy graduates of Valparaiso make at least a modest showing in comparison? Let us hear from you regarding this plan.
FINANCIAL REPORT.

On two occasions itemized statements were made of finances on the backs of circular letters. On one, the cost of the second annual was given together with a list of all who had remitted up to that date, showing a deficit of $70.74. Later, a second report made in a similar manner to the first one was sent out. This showed that the deficit was reduced to $8.34. Since then, there has been a very considerable expense, due to an extra effort to reach every one. In several instances as high as a dozen letters were written, including return postage to postmasters and other disinterested parties, in hopes of locating a lost one. It is now thought best to consider both those reports as temporary or explanatory in character, and to disregard them, or rather to embody both in this final report. Every effort is made to credit each individual with his remittance and to send him a receipt at once. If you find that you are not included in this present list, and have remitted to me, please notify me at once and the error shall be rectified in the next annual. Let me call your attention to the fact that the retiring president, White L. Moss, paid out more than $50.00 for stationery and postage, for which he has never been reimbursed. This is not included in the financial report proper.

This present annual is very much larger than any heretofore published and is costing considerably more. Not "on account of the war," but because it is larger and better. Mailing expenses and all correspondence incident upon acknowledging receipts, together with the printing bill for this issue will certainly cost near $300.00. This sum I am advancing, and hope your response will show a genuine appreciation of the work we are doing.

The report shows that less than 225 out of 1,190 have borne the burden. Further glance down the list will show that this has been quite unequally distributed even among those who have paid. For instance, one alumnus contributed $2.00 at one time and $5.00 later. Several have sent in $5.00, $4.00, or $3.00 and any number $2.00. Can't we distribute this more equally? To be sure, some can better afford a larger sum than others. That is true in all walks of life. However, oftentimes it is not the one with the most property who pays the highest taxes. Why not all help a little?

The big question is, shall we have another issue of the Annual next year?

A FUTURE PLAN.

At the Alumni meeting in Altruria Hall, May 19th, the following plan was worked out and unanimously adopted:

First, the Annual is to be issued annually and as soon after commencement exercises and Alumni meeting in May, as possible. This should get the Annual out in June, if every secretary is prompt.

Second, Each class is to have a secretary to whom all reports are sent and whose task it shall be to write up the report of his class and send it to G. D. Timmons, the general secretary and editor.

Fourth, Class reunions shall be held every five years. This means that in May next year, 1916, the members of the graduating classes of 1896, 1901, 1906 and 1911 make a special effort to meet here. The next year, 1917, the class of 1897, 1902, 1907, and 1912 will meet. In 1918 there will be a meeting of five classes, namely, 1893, 1898, 1903, 1908 and 1913.

It is to be understood that all members of other years have a standing invitation to return and are wanted each year and every year when it is possible for them to be here. This plan is only meant to bring together a greater number of those who are better acquainted and thus insure them a greater recompense for the expense of coming back.

Fifth, the editor shall see that all class reports sent him are published, together with reports of the Alumni meeting, class exercises, papers by alumni, and all other matters of interest to the association.

The magnitude of this enterprise has grown until it is positively too great a burden for anyone to carry if he pretends to do anything else. For any individual who has as much demand on his time as the writer it was out of the question to carry this on longer.

The arrangement to appoint secretaries came as a welcome relief, for the writer believes in the spirit of the association. He believes that it deserves to live and to flourish. That it is a positive good to you as graduates of this Institution.

With this new arrangement his labors will be so far lightened that the Annual shall continue to live and greet you each summer.

Secretaries were chosen from those who were present, in so far as it was possible. Reasons for this are apparent. They could accept or decline—none declined—thus letting us know at once what we might depend upon. Many were in or near Valparaiso, which means that we can have a call meeting of the majority of the secretaries once in a while if there should be a demand for this. In other instances these secretaries have been rather arbitrarily appointed. We hope they will serve. All of them must have your hearty co-operation. Some arrangement must be made for the selection of their successors. The burden is too great to leave indefinitely on any one individual, unless that person is so situated that they accept it from choice.

Plans for the selection of class secretaries should be formulated. These should be selected by members of their own classes hereafter, and not appointed by the president or chosen by a general committee as had to be done in this, the beginning.

Everybody boost! Write and tell us what you think of this Annual. Knock where it needs it. Point out deficiencies and suggest improvements. Be a helper.

G. D. Timmons,
General Secretary.
CLASS OF 1893.

Date of Graduation, August 10, 1893.

Class Secretary, DR. W. A. PRICE, Nappanee, Ind.

Childress, H. M., Glasgow, Ky. Now at Paducah, Ky. After graduation, worked two years in drug stores in Glasgow and Cave City, Ky., and Knoxville, Tenn., registering in both states. Later graduated from the Tennessee Medical College in '98 and has been practicing since. Is unmarried, but declares it isn't his fault. Denies being a millionaire. Worked at the Eastern Hospital for the Insane for a year after graduation, then a couple of years in other Tennessee towns, then went to Chicago and specialized in eye, ear, nose and throat, thence to Paducah where he has been for the past fourteen years. Is interested in the Paducah Hosiery Mills. Has never received even a catalog from Valparaiso since leaving and is greatly interested in the success of the Annual.

Ferneau, F. D., Bainbridge, Ohio. Now at 447 Nicholas Building, Toledo, Ohio. Immediately after graduation, entered the U. of Cincinnati and graduated in Medicine in '96. Practiced in the country about four years, then became resident physician at the Toledo State Hospital for eight years, resigning there in '09 and is now specializing in Toledo in nervous and mental diseases, doing well both professionally and financially.

Funk, J. Russell, Danby, Mo. Now at Festus, Mo. Still in business at the old stand, running the best Rexall store in that part of Missouri. In good health, has a nice home, and "best of all, one daughter and two sons," whom he hopes to send to Valpo some day. Recently received a copy of the "Torch" which he enjoyed.

Grady, M. J., Elkton, S. Dak. Now at Medical Lake, Wash. We have been unable to hear from him in reply to any letters for this Annual. Two years ago, he reported a good drug business at the above place, also that he was married and had two children.

Hawkins, P. L., Flandreau, S. Dak. Letters to him are returned. The postmaster at his home town says, "I regret very much to report that we have been unable to find any trace of Mr. P. L. Hawkins, of whom you inquire."

Jensen, N. P., Marissa, Ill. Does not reply to our letters for this Annual. Two years ago, he told us that he had been in drug business in his home town for over a dozen years. We have had no further news of him.

Klussman, F. M., Elliston, Ohio. "Died in Seattle, Wash., about a year ago," is the report of the postmaster at his home town.

Price, W. A., Nappanee, Indiana. He admits that a letter, while it brings glad tidings also has a touch of real pathos since it makes him think of parting with the first graduating class of more than twenty years ago. Says he has little different to report as he has been practicing medicine in his home town since '95. He and his brother have established a private hospital for general and abdominal surgery in connection with their regular practice. Sends news of a class mate and hopes to be with us in May, but failed to make his appearance.

Ross, Arad L., Murphysboro, Ill. Now at Carbondale, Ill. Gave us a long account of himself for last annual, but does not reply to our later letters. We have had no notice of a change of address, and do not understand his attitude.

Rouse, W. L., Forestville, Pa. Letters returned and in reply to our inquiry, the postmaster directs us to Minersville. We found three Minersvilles in Pennsylvania, one each as suburban parts of Pittsburg and of Johnstown, aside from the true Minersville. Letters to all three places brought no results.

Sattler, J. M., Bredstadt, Germany. Now at Antigo, Route 4, Wisconsin. Address furnished by Miss Higgins of '94. We finally locate him and he starts out by saying, "never have seen nor heard anything in regard to the school since '93." He graduated from the Keokuk Medical College in '01. Has followed both the drug business and the practice of medicine, and is registered in Wisconsin. Married Helene Topf of Berlin, Germany. Was last practicing medicine at Marion, Wisc., but last fall moved to his farm at the above address for the winter, and is now looking for a new location to practice, preferably in the city. We are glad to get these very early graduates located. Who will help us find another one?

Shrader, J. Frank, Linn, Ill. Now at Bridgeport, Ill. Graduated from the Medical College of Indiana in '95 along with two of his Pharmacy classmates, Price and Stuckman. Since this time has never met a member of his class, and would be greatly pleased to get into communication with other members. Located in Bridgeport, Ill., immediately after graduation, while it was a small town and has grown with it, having served as President of the Board of Education and is now finishing his second year as Mayor of the city. Also President of a local club of 32nd degree Masons, an organization of sixty members. Married Jennie B. Cunningham of Linn, Ill., in 1895.

Stroup, A. L., Lincoln, Calif. Now at Pueblo, Colorado. For a long time druggist at Monte Vista, Colo., then turned his attention to the improvement and sale of San Luis Valley land, where he has acquired enough real estate to be largely engaged in farming business. He is also a Civil Engineer, and had a very able paper, which showed his proficiency along this line, presented at a drainage conference a year ago. Still keeps up his registration in Colorado, which registration was made on examination, carrying off the best grade which had been made in the state up to that time. Married Cora B. Williams of Sandusky, Ohio, in '97. Has always been an enthusiast in support of the Association. Back to drug business.

Stuckman, E. D., Nappanee, Ind. Now at New Paris, Ind. Graduated from the Indianapolis Medical College in 1895 and has been practicing medicine since. Successful both financially and professionally. Married in 1892 and has a son 18 years of age. A twin to this boy died when five years old. He promised to be with us in May, but failed to come. We wrote him asking him to act as Secretary of his class and furnished him with up-to-date addresses with the request that he urge everyone to be present May 19th, as well as to come himself, to which we have had no reply.

Westcot, E. R., Brookside, Wis. Now at Spalding, Mich. In the last Annual, he told us he was practicing medicine at the above city and doing well. Later letters are not answered.

Wittwer, W. F., Salem, Nebr. Mail returned and a letter to the postmaster is ignored.
CLASS OF 1894.

Date of Graduation, August 8, 1894.

Class Secretary, C. M. JAMES, 1027 Grand River Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Bache, Jos., B. S., Ficklin, Ill. Now at 12th Place and Clinton St., Chicago. Mail to his home address returned and a letter to his postmaster gets the information that he is teaching some place in Chicago. A letter addressed to him as a teacher in the city locates him as Superintendent of a Jewish Training School. He has been interested in teaching in Chicago almost since graduation and has never actively practiced Pharmacy, although he finds it of value to him in his school work. He admits it both a duty and a pleasure to be on the income tax list of the Federal Government and hopes to reach the 5% class before the closing of his last day of school. Married but has no children.

Barkley, H. A., Otisville, Mich. Letter is returned with the word "Dead" written on the face of the envelope. A letter to the postmaster inquiring for further particulars meets with no reply.

Bradbury, A. E., Big Sandy, Mont. A letter to the postmaster brings a suggestion of a doctor in Chicago who may know him, also a dentist in his home town, but both inform me that they can not locate him.

Carney, A. E., Baxter Springs, Kans. Now at Okmulgee, Okla. In the drug business in the firm of Bradford Drug Co., in the above named city. Registered in Kansas and Oklahoma. Married and prospering financially. His address was given by Dr. Nagel of Chicago.

Creswell, C. W., Arvada, Wyo. Was at Ft. Corpus Christi, Texas. A letter mailed to his original Corpus Christi address returned. The postmaster at that place informs us that he is practicing medicine at Buffalo, Wyo. A letter sent to that address is unanswered, but not returned.

Driver, C. M., Arcadia, Indiana. Now at Hedges, Ky. Was practicing medicine in the above town when he replied to our letters of inquiry two years ago. This year letters sent to him are unanswered, although they are not returned and we are left to assume that he is still in the practice of medicine at the above address.

Groth, F. J., Savanna, Ill. Now at 608 West Central Ave., Toledo, Ohio. After much correspondence, we succeeded in locating this 20 year old graduate and he has an interesting report. After graduation, he failed to find work in a drug store at once and as it was a period of depression, turned his hand to the live wire of the day, namely, the tin-plate industry, starting as a laborers' boss at $1.50 per day and in 18 months, became superintendent of the works at $125 per month. Following this, came executive positions in mills at Elwood and Muncie, Ind., Muskegon, Mich., and Canal Dover and Canton, Ohio. A break in health in '09 sent him to Texas for two and a half years, and on his return he started the manufacture of automobile leaf springs, being one of the incorporators of the Mather Spring Co. of Toledo, which firm has prospered. In December, 1914, he broke into the Pharmacy game again by taking a half interest in Walter S. Klappich and Co., incorporated at $10,000. He is now president of this firm and treasurer of the Mather Company, and has accumulated $25,000 to $30,000 from absolutely nothing in 1894. Married Abey Bolton, daughter of a mining engineer of Philadelphia in 1898. Promises to meet with us at Valpo this summer, but didn't come.

Higgins, Libbie, Mendota, Ill. Now at Isabel, S. Dak. Registered in Wisconsin in 1896, where she was interested in two stores, conducting one herself until 1910. In 1911, she came to South Dakota and located on a homestead on account of ill health. Now financially interested in a sheep ranch, but says she finds her Pharmaceutical training very helpful in many ways. She sends news of two of her classmates about whom we had never heard.

James, C. M., Mayville, Mich. Now at 1027 Grand River Ave., Detroit, Mich. "Yours received and such persistency ought to be rewarded, even though the recompense be small. Here is hoping the reward will be large in the aggregate." This is the way James starts a reply to the last of a series of letters. "After graduation, soon left the old home town and was the big 'I am' clerk in a Pharmacy in Cairo for two years before engaging in business for myself at Reese in '98. The next year I also started a newspaper which was and is, well patronized by King's Discovery, Lydia Pinkham's, Pisos' and other well known 'Pure Food' brands. Then I added a wife and next a jewelry store, an optical department, even annexed the title of village postmaster. With all this I never had a little son-shine in, so sold the whole works, came to Detroit, and engaged in business where you found me on that trip which included Goebel's as well as P. D.'s. Still here and would be glad to hear from any of the boys of '94." His letterhead reads "The Charles James Co., Manufacturer of the Totalgraph Account Register." These are the kind of letters to send in. However, you needn't be so particular to mention those Goebel visits too frequently.

Larsen, Charles, Lemvig, Denmark. This address is the only one we have ever been able to obtain and no attempt has been made to get mail to him.

Martin, Dessie, Corning, Iowa. Was reported at Wichita, Kansas. Her classmate, Miss Higgins, gives us the above address and informs us that she has been practicing medicine in the above city for a number of years. Letters to the Wichita address are returned, and a letter to the Wichita postmaster received the reply "we can find no trace of her." A letter to the Secretary of the State Medical Board gets the reply, "I have no record of her." Lastly we hear from the local medical board at Wichita and they can give us no information regarding Miss Martin.

Miller, Edward, Elkhart, Indiana. Died February 20th, '11.

Nagel, John S., Chalmers, Indiana. Now at 5 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. After graduation, went to Chicago and worked in a drug store for a year. Entered Medical College and graduated from the University of Illinois in '98. Began practice in Chicago. Went to the Philippines in 1900 as Surgeon in the U. S. Army, returning to Chicago the next year and resuming the practice of medicine, specializing in genito-urinary surgery, of which subject he is professor and head of the department in the C. C. M. S., and the same in the West Side Hospital. Treasurer of the Chicago Medical Society and fills the same office for the West Side Hospital. Retired as a Major in the Ill. National Guard. Married and doing splendidly in a financial way. Gives us the address of one of his old classmates with whom we had never gotten in touch.

Outhouse, Waldo, Huey, Ill. Died June 18th, 1898.

Paine, E. M., Brookfield, Mich. Mail returned and we fail to get any information concerning him.

Pankey, C. A., D. D. S., Virginia City, Mont. Letters sent to the above address are never returned and never answered. Is there any one in touch with our friend Pankey?

Paul, L. C., Valparaiso, Indiana. We have never been able to locate Paul. It is occasionally the case that a student without any permanent home will register "Valparaiso," and on leaving here, all trace of him is lost.

Postlewait, Neal, Valier, Pa. Now at Columbus, Ohio. Judging from his letterhead, he is a member of a very prosperous law firm of the capital city of Ohio. He did not follow Pharmacy, but graduated from the Ohio State University in '99 and has been practicing his chosen profession since. We wish we could reproduce his letter. How a man can be a very successful member of one of the oldest law firms in the city of Columbus and be so everlastingly modest, seems to be a genuine case of incompatibility. He expects to be in Valparaiso at commencement exercises in 1916, having made an engagement with two of his very particulars in 1896 to meet them in Valparaiso twenty years after. We sincerely wish the arrangement had been made for 1915. He reports that he is married and has two girls and a boy.

Schwartz, B. F., Troy Center, Wisc. Now at East Troy, Wisc. Repeated letters to the above address get no response. However, a student now in the Pharmacy course gives us definite information concerning him. He was in drug business with his brother, but about two years ago was appointed postmaster and retired from active work in the drug store. Married a Wisconsin girl about three years ago.

Tassel, Mary, Coudersport, Pa. Now at 13 Hicks St., c/o Watch Tower Bible Soc., Brooklyn, N. Y. We had a reply from Miss Tassell two years ago and a personal item in that issue of the Annual. Since then letters sent to the above address are neither returned nor answered. One of our alumni in the city of New York was asked to hunt her up and reports that she is at the above address and engaged in the redemption of lost pharmacists and all others.

Taylor, Ralph, Milburn, Ill. Letters are returned bearing the stamp "No such postoffice." A letter to the P. M. General gets the information that this discontinued office is now served by rural delivery from Wadsworth, Ill. We have written him at the corrected address and get no response.

Warner, H. P., B. S., Hastings, Michigan. Now at Marlette, Mich. He was reported at the above address, but letters sent both there and to his original home address have met with no reply. The letters were not returned.

Whitmer, C. F., Edinburg, Ill. Now at Colton, Calif. Some one tells us that Whitmer is at Colton, Calif. Letters to that address are neither returned nor answered.

Wilmarth, Eva, now Mrs. Eva Sullivan, Eldred, Penn. Now at Duke Center, Penn. After graduation she taught until '97 when she was married to S. N. Sullivan, a merchant and oil producer. She has since been a homekeeper and a bookkeeper, living at the above address all these years. They have five children, the two eldest ones now attending their State Normal School, and the three others still in the home nest. They own a dry goods business and have a nice trade, also have a number of oil wells, as they live in the oil belt. Owned the nicest home in their section of the country until the last of 1914 when a gas explosion in a neighbor's home took both their houses. One of the losses was her old diploma.

CLASS OF 1895.

Date of Graduation, August 15, 1895.

Class Secretary, Mrs. Alpha Malcolm-Hatfield, Edwardsburg, Mich.

Baker, Maury D., Alexandria, Va. Now at 408 Corey Ave., Waukegan, Ill. Letters to his home address returned. Postmaster says he thinks he is in the Navy, and gives us the address of his brother, Henry Ball Baker, Germantown, Pa., to whom we wrote. Later we have a letter from Maury D. Baker telling us he is Chief Pharmacist in the U. S. Navy and stationed at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Great Lakes, above address. A letter asking for more news is not answered.

Bartlett, Mary E., 346 Grand Ave., Beloit, Wis. Taught a year after graduation, then attended medical college in Chicago, graduating in '99 in the same class with her Pharmic classmate, Emil Grubbe. Practiced for a short time in small towns in Wisconsin, doing very well but at last decided to return to her native town, where she has settled down to a busy practice of medicine. Admits she is not half so successful "in getting men as in getting babies." Tries to make herself believe that it is after all a narrow escape and yet wonders if "the water isn't fine." Signs herself "neither a suffragette nor man-hater, but just a plain, jolly old maid."

Bevelhymer, Bernard, Beech, Ohio. A letter to the above address was opened by mistake and the individual receiving it writes that Bevelhymer has been dead for three or four years, but could give no other information.

Bishop, Francis E., Etna, Ill. Now at Mattoon, Ill. Worked in a drug store for some time after graduation at Eureka Springs, Ark., but objecting to the long hours and indoor work, he turned his attention to Engineering and has been Assistant City Engineer at the above location for the past eleven years. Married in 1908.

Brinkman, Ellan, Lancaster, Wis. Became Mrs. Robert Butler. After graduation taught one year in Forsyth, Montana, then entered the University at Berkeley, Calif., and while there married Mr. Robert Butler, a member of the faculty. She died July 6th, 1903, an infant son preceding her one week in death. She rests in the Cypress Lawn Cemetery, San Francisco.

Brown, Philip W., Neoga, Ill. Now at 411 Baltimore Ave., Muskogee, Okla. An interesting write-up was in the last Annual in which the above address was given and the information that he was clerking in the "best town on earth." Letters sent to both the above addresses are not returned, neither are they answered. Who can help us find Brown?
Crain, L. F., Villa Ridge, Ill. Now at Deep River, Iowa. Was enjoying a successful medical practice at the above address when last Annual was issued. We are unable to get any reply from him for this Annual.

Davis, Delmar L., Glassford, Ill. Now at 619 City National Bank Bldg., Omaha, Nebraska. It will be remembered that he was the Gold Medal Graduate of his class. He followed Pharmacy with a course in medicine, graduating from the Hahnemann Medical College in Chicago in '02, and has since been busily engaged in the practice of medicine, specializing in surgery. He also held a professorship in the medical department of the Iowa State University, two years ago, but doesn't mention it at this writing. Was married in 1904. Gives us the address of J. E. Purdie whom we have been earnestly striving to locate for some time.

Eikenberry, Mary, Peru, Indiana. Now Mrs. M. E. Weeks, 1102 Sterling Street, Indianapolis, Ind. Began working in a drug store soon after graduation and later owned and operated her own store for eight years, selling out in the spring of 1911 on account of ill health, still retaining ownership of the building. Later moved to her home town, which she reached just in time for the disastrous flood, and a little later spent some time in a hospital with pneumonia. Just recently, moved to the above address where she is matron, assistant in surgery, and pharmacist for the Indianapolis Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital. She, together with her brother, Dr. E. A. Eikenberry, surgeon in charge, are stockholders in the above concern. Married George T. Weeks, a printer and publisher, and former student of Valparaiso, who died soon after their marriage in 1907.

Everitt, Joel R., Teheran, Ill. Letters not returned nor answered.

Failor, Thomas J., Quincy, Mich. Now at 2704 North Central Park Ave., Chicago, Ill. Was married soon after leaving school and entered the profession of teaching. Was a business college teacher and high school principal in six different states for a period of 18 years. Now in the real estate and life insurance business with an office on Milwaukee Avenue. Believes a course in law very valuable and has an insurance plan which he wishes to present to graduating classes. Has a family of eight children, five boys and three girls, the eldest boy finishing the Chicago Business College this year.

Fluesmieir, Statella, Watson, Mo. Now Mrs. Statella Fairchild, M. D., Fall River, Kans. Graduated at Barnes Medical in 1908 and was elected to the faculty of that institution, confining her work in both practice and teaching to the eye, having had charge of the eye clinic until 1914. Resigned at that time to move to Fall River and enter into general practice, as well as specializing in eye work with her husband, Dr. A. F. Fairchild, a St. Louis man whom she married in 1908. Sends news of her classmates and of one later graduate.

Foor, J. Delbert, Macy, Indiana. Now at 1100½ S. 9th St., Terre Haute, Ind. Finally succeeded in locating Dr. Foor through the efforts of two or our alumni, Musselman and Jalbert. Dr. Foor graduated at the old Medical College of Indiana at Indianapolis in 1900, and has been practicing medicine since. Married E. Leora Whitlock about the time of graduation. He does not admit that he enjoys a good practice, but Jalbert says he does. He also fails to mention the fact that he has represented his district in the state legislature. But he is guilty, just the same.
Galbreath, Martin L., R. R. 1, Valparaiso, Ind. Taught school three years and then turned his attention to farming, owning his own farm six or seven miles southeast of Valparaiso. Married a Wanatah girl about sixteen years ago. Attended the alumni meeting with his wife this year and enjoyed himself.

Godman, Freeland J., Chicago, Ill. Letters are returned from the Chicago postoffice marked "name not in directory."

Grahmann, Ernst F., Chicago, Ill. Letters are returned from the Chicago postoffice, marked "name not in directory." Who can help us locate either of these old Chicago boys?

Green, John D., Remington, Ind. Now at Monango, N. Dak. He was doing a good business in the above town, but soon after the issue of the last Annual, we heard that he lost his entire business through the visitation of a terrific windstorm, and somebody reported that they had met him in the far West, either Washington or Oregon. We have been unable to get any further news. Letters sent to Monango are not returned.

Grubbe, Emil H., 130 N. State St., Chicago, Ill. We understand that Grubbe is enjoying a prosperous medical practice in the city of Chicago. Several of his classmates have written us about him, one sending a clipping giving notice of his death, but fortunately for him, it was the wrong Grubbe. If anybody in the class has influence enough with the Doctor to pry a little news out of him, we would appreciate hearing from them.

Harvey, George W., Albion, Indiana. This is the first time we have received any reply from Harvey. He tells us nothing of his early experience as a druggist, but says he is now a tiller of the soil. His letterhead also shows that he is politically inclined, as he is trustee of Jefferson Township, Noble County. Has enjoyed the best of health since engaging in farming. Married and has two children, a boy and a girl, both in high school.

Haskinson, Aimee, J., Indiana, Penna. Galbreath reports that she married W. D. Owen, who was at one time Secretary of State for Indiana. Later they went abroad to live, and at last accounts, were in Paris.

Howminski, Frank C., Eugene, Ill. The postoffice at Eugene, Ill., is discontinued. The postoffice authorities at Washington tell us to address Williamsfield, Ill., and also to try Eugene, Ind., which is situated very close to Eugene, Ill. A letter to Eugene, Indiana, is not returned, while a letter to Williamsfield, Ill., is returned with the information from the postmaster that he has made diligent inquiry and could not locate any one by the name of Howminski.

Hunte, A. F., Beecher, Ill. We have never been able to hear from him. Letters to the above address are not returned. Where do they go?

Johnson, Charles, Aurora, Ill. Mail returned after every effort to locate the addressee.

Kendall, John L., Shawnee Mound, Ind. Now at 706 South Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill. Back in the city of Chicago and practicing medicine, teaching chemistry in both the dental and medical departments as a kind of diversion. Meets a few of the old Valpo students and always glad to see them. Tells very little of himself. Was asked to write to each member of his class urging their attendance at the Alumni meeting, May 19th. We had no reply from him.
King, George E., Mt. Carmel, Ky. Letters not returned nor answered. Who can give news of King?

Kitchen, Harry C., Leonidas, Mich. Now at 416 Federal Building, Indianapolis, Ind. Letters not returned nor answered. He was U. S. Food and Drug Inspector and located at the above address. See his write-up in last copy of the Annual.

Knudson, Frank B., 2641 N. Troy St., Chicago, Ill. The Chicago directory lists him as an M. D., and at the above street number. Letters are not returned nor answered. See last Annual.

Lenhart, Amil P., Davenport, N. Dak. Now at Bismarck, N. Dak. Still in business at his old stand where he has been for the past thirteen years, having bought the store in which he clerked in his early apprentice days, carrying about a $15,000 stock and enjoying a nice business.

Lewis, Homer E., Smicksburg, Pa. Now at Claysville, Pa. On graduation he purchased the College Pharmacy in Valparaiso and operated it for a year selling out to Prof. Roe. He then went to the Alleghany College in Meadville, Pa., and in '04 received an A. B. degree. Later he attended Boston University School of Theology and is now a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Pittsburgh Conference. He has been preaching for twelve years, likes his work very much and has been quite successful.

McClune, Mattie, Tilton, Iowa. Now Mrs. L. F. Crain, Deep River, Iowa. Still at Deep River we presume and presume further that she is still Dr. Mattie Crain. Letters mailed to her address are not returned, neither are they answered.

Malcolm, Alpha, Gravelton, Ind. Now Mrs. George Hatfield, Edwardsburg, Mich. Married soon after graduation and lived at Nappanee, Indiana, until a few years ago when she moved to a farm in Michigan. Has a son of fourteen who is preparing to enter Valparaiso University in a few years. Miss Malcolm took upon herself to write to all of her classmates and forwarded their letters to us, which was a great assistance and certainly appreciated. If more would only do this, the Annual would be better. She says: "I regret to see so many 'mail returned' or 'no response to letters.'" We are asking her to continue as class secretary and write up next year's report entire.

Mauck, Abram V., Owensville, Ind. Letters returned with the word "deceased" written across the face. A letter to the postmaster asking for further information was unanswered.

May, Elkanah, Dwale, Ky. Letters are not returned and as yet we have never had any information regarding this alumnus.

Meade, H. Willis, Francisco, Indiana. Letters returned with the annotation, "address unknown."

Nash, Nina B., Peach Belt, Mich. Now Mrs. C. T. Dougherty, Fennville, Mich. See the write-up in the last Annual. No later information available. Letters are not returned nor answered.

Nash, Thomas B., Cape Girardeau, Mo. Now at Oaktown, Ind. Tom won't write, but Mangrum says he was with a big drug firm in Princeton, Indiana, for twelve years when he took a notion to try outdoor life for himself and family, so moved to a good farm near the above town where he is doing well.

O'Connor, Thomas E., Beresford, S. Dak. Now at Sioux City, Iowa. His classmate, Webber, gives us O'Connor's address and after some persistence on our part, we get a reply. What do you suppose is his excuse? "Not being a member of the Alumni Association, I felt like an interloper and didn't answer." Well, we have given him something for that "feeling" and he is better now. Has followed Pharmacy continually since leaving school, first as clerk, then half interest in a couple of Iowa stores. Later owned drug stores in three different towns in Nebraska. Burned out at Waterbury, Nebr., a year ago and soon thereafter came to the above city where he has already established. Married fifteen years ago and has a girl of thirteen in high school and a boy of eight. Sends reminiscences of "droll old Tom Nash" and wishes to be back with us again.

Parker, Dunham C., Maxincuckee, Ind. Now at Argos, Ind. Started in retail business in '95, meeting strong competition and cut prices. Was without experience and found he had met a difficult proposition. By hard work and doing most of it himself he finally established a very nice business. In '09, traded for a small farm and ended his drug career. However, he didn't establish himself as a farmer, but went in with a few others of his locality and started a bank which has developed into a National Bank with an organized trust company as an auxiliary. He enjoys the profession of banking and is prosperous and happy, though exceedingly busy.

Perisho, Ellsey E., Yale, Ill. Never have had any communications from him. Letters are not returned to us. Who gets them?

Purdie, John E., Detroit, Mich. Now at 69 Fifteenth St., Detroit, Mich. In retail drug business in Chicago for a year then with a large manufacturing house in Detroit for the next six years. Was advanced to a Boston house where he remained five years. His health suffered here and he was ordered to leave the coast. Landed in Peoria for a two years stay at laboratory work, back to Detroit for another five and a half years in a laboratory, then took a position with a Philadelphia house who sent him to their Canadian branch, where he remained three years. Back to Detroit and went on the road as salesman for two years, then into retail business for a year and a half when he sold out and went back to the manufacturing line, taking a position with a New York house where he remained four years. Finally, back to "old progressive Detroit," and took up his residence in the home where he was born. He is now interested in the real estate business and doubts whether he will ever go back to drug work, as he is well enough fixed financially not to fear the "rainy day." Hears occasionally from some of his classmates with whom he has visited as well as corresponded during these twenty years.

Richards, Grant S., Cordova, Ill. Letters returned with the word "dead" written across the face of the envelope. A letter to the postmaster asking for further information is unanswered.

Richmond, William, Prestonsburg, Ky. Letters are neither answered nor returned. We have never had any news of him.

Simmons, Valentine, Walker's Bridge, Miss. Now at Shreveport, La. Mail to his home address is returned marked "no such postoffice." The postal authorities inform us that this locality is now served by rural delivery from Tylertown. Letters sent to that address are neither returned nor answered. Later we get a report direct from the Doctor and find he graduated from Tulane in '97 and is now practicing in the above city. In his examination for
The Mississippi Board issued a statement to the effect that he made the highest grade out of a class of 137 applicants. He is “getting along well financially and professionally.” Married Sallie Sumrall, a Mississippi girl in ’97 and has two children, a boy and a girl.

Sissakian, Arsen H., Constantinople, Turkey. Can any one suggest how to locate him?

Stevenson, Henry C., Green Oak, Mich. Now at South Lyon, Mich. Druggist and postmaster at the above town. Registered in both Indiana and Michigan. Married and has two daughters. Says he started with nothing when he left Valpo. Now owns his home and business and a large store building. Has only seen one classmate lately, namely, F. G. Thatcher of Battle Creek.

Street, Charles M., Farmersville, Ill. Now at 800 High St., St. Louis, Mo. Clerked for three years after graduation and in ’99 purchased the store where he is still holding forth. Registered in Missouri. Married in 1900. Doing well financially and is well satisfied with the Annual.

Sunderman, Fred L., Lowell, Ind. Now at Fairview, Okla. Hoyt Weed of 1908 gives us his address. He replies to our letters for the first time and gives us the following information. Never practiced Pharmacy, but taught school for several years over in Lake County, Indiana, then on account of ill health, went to Oregon, remaining there three years and from thence to Oklahoma, where he has been for the past six years. Owns a fine farm just outside of Fairview. “Have three children, and the best wife ever, who, by the way, is a graduate of the Scientific Class of ’96.”

Thatcher, Frank G., Hastings, Mich. Now at Battle Creek, Mich. Classmates of his tell us that Thatcher is at Battle Creek. Letters sent to that address are neither returned nor answered. A letter to his home town is returned.

Tindal, Edward F., Sumter, S. C. Now at Muncie, Ind., Wysor Block. Entered the Medical College of Indiana immediately upon graduation and obtained an M. D. degree in ’97. Located at Stone Bluff, Ind., and did general practice for four years, then to the above address where he has been ever since. Now specializing in diseases of the eye, ear, nose and throat. During this time has taken post-graduate work at intervals. Has a well equipped office, a good city residence, a 140 acre farm near the city, and is enjoying a good practice. Married Hattie Malcolm, a “Hoosier girl” in ’95. She was a Scientific of ‘94 and ’95 and a former graduate of the Teachers’ Course. Has a son of eighteen years finishing high school.

Topp, Charles, Mitchell, Wisc. Letters returned marked “no such P. O.” Government information says Mitchell is served through Eden, Fond du Lac Co., Wis. A letter sent to that address is “returned unclaimed.”

Webber, Benjamin D., Luverne, Minn. Now at Lester, Iowa. After clerking for a number of years, he bought a business of his own in the above town where he is still to be found. “Not getting rich, but certainly getting along.” Keeps up his registration in Iowa. Sends us news of his classmates, particularly of O’Connor, Thatcher and Grubbe. Wants latest news from Thatcher who was his roommate while at Valpo. Married in 1895.
Wells, Milton M., Fargo, Indiana. Now at Fairland, Ind. Was in Nevada for three years after graduation, and then entered the Louisville Medical, receiving a year's credit for his year of Pharmacy at Valpo. Transferred to the Indiana Medical in '99, and after graduation, served a year and a half of internship at the Indianapolis City Hospital. Established himself in the above town in '02 and has been busily engaged in the practice of medicine excepting for short vacation periods taking post-graduate courses.

Wood, J. M., Antioch, Ill. Room 1, McKinnie Block, Moline, Ill. After graduation he engaged in school work as Superintendent and continued until 1900 when he entered the P. and S. of Chicago, graduating in '03. Practiced for a time in Chicago, later in Kewanee, and in '04 came to the above city where he has prospered since. Takes advantage of the fact that he is a pharmacist as well as a druggist and has quite a private drug store. Mrs. Maude Lee Wood was a Valpo girl, Commercial of '91 and Elocution of '95. They have a daughter completing high school this June and a son of 12, who is a "chip off the old block."

CLASS OF 1896.

Date of Graduation, August 13, 1896.

Class Secretary, WILLIAM H. WILLIAMS, Valparaiso, Ind.

Ayers, Daniel F., Fort Plain, N. Y. Now at Poolville, Texas. The postmaster at his home town suggested that we try Chicago Heights. A letter to that address was returned. Ted Sylvester, of 1910, now of Chicago Heights was appealed to, who found a sister of Ayers, Mrs. J. A. Smith. She reported him practicing medicine in Poolville, Parker County, Texas. We find that he graduated from the University of Illinois in '05 and has been practicing medicine since. Practiced pharmacy in Chicago for ten years prior to studying medicine, taking out full registered papers in 1910. Married Nellie E. Johnson of Springfield, Ill., in '07. Owned two stores in Chicago and is now doing exceptionally well in the practice of medicine. Never returned to his home town and seems surprised that we should find him. Gives us some news of his classmates.

Bailey, Charles A., South Troy, Minn. Letters neither answered nor returned.

Bartlett, Edith, Beloit, Wisconsin. Now at 211 Jackman Building, Janesville, Wisc. Graduated at Hahnemann College, Chicago, in '99, and has had a very successful practice as physician and surgeon, particularly in chronic cases. She has been located at her present address for many years, after having practiced a couple of years at Eagle, Wisc., and later at Honey Creek, Wisc. She will not admit that she made an exceptionally good showing before the State Board, nor that she owns an automobile, but the facts remain. Incidentally, she accuses us of not assisting in any way in helping to get her a man.

Basnett, H. Samuel, Fairmont, W. Va. A letter to the postmaster at Fairmont was referred to Fairview, W. Va., and the postmaster at that place says that Basnett is at Fairview, but a letter addressed to him there meets with no response.
Benjamin, Howard, Laclede, Mo. Now at Omak, Washington. After finishing the course in pharmacy, he spent five years as prescription clerk in Missouri, but concluded that indoor work was too confining and decided to change it for the open air and sunshine. He is now engaged in raising fruit, making a specialty of fine apples.

Boothby, F. L., Valparaiso, Ind. Never heard from him directly since he left Valparaiso. Who knows where he is?

Buckley, John P., Lowell, Ind. Now at 39 South State St., Chicago. At last we got a “rise” out of the old Chicago boys, a real letter from the Doctor which says at the top that he is chairman of the Committee on Materia Medical and Therapeutics, belonging to a National Dental Association. He promises to come down to graduation exercises this year and bring with him Drs. Elliott and Grisamore. If they ever do such a thing, we shall endeavor to show them such a good time that they will never miss it thereafter. “The unexpected happened” and the doctors were not able to be present, but if we are to judge by the communications received, the “regret” was a genuine one.

Canfield, Charles W., Geneva, Iowa. Now at Dinsmore Hotel, Kansas City, Mo. Gives us very little news of himself, but admits that he is a traveling salesman, not practicing pharmacy, but registered in Iowa. Not married and “am getting by financially.”

Church, John, Nebraska City, Nebr. His roommate McRill says Church is at Dover, Nebraska. This year we get our first reply from Church, following a special request sent to the address given by McRill. However, he is back at his home address where he has been for some years. Soon after graduation and before he got fairly started in drug business, he was called home by the death of his father where he has remained ever since. It fell to his lot to fill his father’s place, so he never continued in his pharmacy work. He is a breeder of fine cattle and hogs and is making money. In reply to the query, “Are you married,” he replies: “No—no show for me,” which despondent reply does not harmonize with the rest of his letter.

Eiman, Charles C., Montague, Mich. We have not been able to locate him since he left the employ of Rodman in Fowler, Indiana, several years ago.

Elliott, Elmore W., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 39 South State St., Chicago. He is a very prosperous dentist with a suite of offices in a very prominent downtown location. He tells us absolutely nothing about himself, but does answer a letter and promises to come down in May.

Fishburn, Edward K., Muscatine, Iowa. Now at Route 1, Granger, Wash. It will be remembered that he was twelve years in the drug business, but sold out and bought a fruit farm in the Yakima Valley. He is still in the business of fruit raising, which has proven both pleasant and profitable. Sends news of two of his classmates, but tells us little of himself.

Fowler, George, Loda, Ill. Our original records had been printed “Soda” Ill., and letters were always returned marked “No such postoffice.” We finally got next to Loda. Started in drug business at Kentland, Ind., where he continued successfully until 1902. At this time, his health failed him and he left the drug business for the farm, renting the farm which he now owns. Now enjoys the very best of health and intends to keep up farming although he still has his diploma on the wall, alongside registration in Illinois, which he keeps up to date. Married and has three boys and two girls.
Sends us news of his classmate, now Dr. J. A. Miller.

Fowler, Willie E., Ashkum, Ill. Now at 1608 Edmond St., St.
Joseph, Mo. Does not reply to our letters, but does answer a letter addressed to him by his classmate, W. H. Williams. In this he says, "I quit the drug business a year ago and am now on the road for the Waterbury Chemical Company of Des Moines, and am doing nicely. Still financially interested in the St. Joseph Drug Co. and have my residence in that city. If you could have a copy of the Alumni Annual sent me telling of the proceedings and about the whereabouts of our classmates I would certainly appreciate it." We do not understand why he did not receive the last Annual, which contained a personal notice of him, and which was mailed to the above address, c/o St. Joseph Drug Co.

Giles, Grant, DeWitt, Nebr. Now at Stiles, Iowa. A letter is returned, but his postmaster gives us his father's address and from the father we get into communication with G. G. himself. He reports that he is a graduate in medicine and has a nice general practice.
Has a boy whom he proposes to send to Valpo as soon as he is old enough. Extends best wishes to Alumni, but doesn't give much news of himself throughout the years.

Glasgow, J. M., Galena, Ill. Never have been able to find him.

Grisamore, Thomas L., Centralia, Ill. Now at 29 E. Madison, Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. We have not been able to get any reply to recent inquiries. He is at the above address and practicing dentistry.

Grove, Carl J., Millville, Minn. Mail is returned marked "Unclaimed.

Hemphill, A. Otis, Forest, Ill. No reply to letters. We heard he was in Chicago, but have no street address suggested. Mail sent to his home address is not returned to us.

Holahan, James F., Castalia, Iowa. Mail not returned to us and never answered. Who gets it?

Horn, Charles F., Owensboro, Ky. Now at Pueblo, Colo. Practiced pharmacy in Kentucky for about three years after graduation, but on account of a poor location, he left there, moving West, where he has been doing well ever since. Working on a salary for some time in Colorado and then decided to "get into the game." He sends this very good advice,—"all an honest man has to do is to smile, hope, and work and he has a business capital that no one can take away from him and one that will surely bring financial success in the end." Mr. Horn took in one of our younger graduates, G. W.
Bean and they now have a paid-up capital of $25,000. Of course, he is registered in Colorado. Married Miss Vanarsdie of Shelbyville, Ky. "Have a ten year old girl and a three year old boy, each worth a million."

Huff, John J., Gilson, Ill. Passed the Illinois Board fourteen years ago and still keeps up his registration. Is engaged in the drug and general merchandise business. Married Mary R. Young of Knoxville, Ill., in 1898, who died in March, 1904. "I surely will be pleased to hear from classmates of '96. Have had so much to think about that I have lost track of those with whom I was closely associated."

Jensen, John W., Manning, Iowa. Now of Marathon, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters to him. Had a good letter from him in May, '13, in which he gave news of several classmates and promises to come to Valpo some time.

King, Daniel S., Alexandria, Ind. Clerked for a time, then owned a drug store of his own, then back to clerking, and finally moved back to his farm near the above city where he has resided since his marriage in July, 1912.

Lang, William, Muscatine, Iowa. Now at Wilton Junction, Iowa.
Luckily located for us by Byall of 1910. Did not find position in pharmacy immediately after graduation and accepted a position as assistant cashier in the bank which he has served since '99. After six years service was elected cashier, holding that position ever since. Owns a quarter section of land near the city which he rents on shares, largely for the sake of an excuse to go out and visit it occasionally. Married. Registered in Iowa and still keeping up his registration.

McCarty, William T., Campbellsport, Wisc. Letters returned with the word “deceased” written across the face. Letter to the postmaster asking for further information was unanswered.

McEvoy, Thomas Matthew, Adair, Iowa. Now at Mondamin, Iowa. Has been in the banking business since 1903. Married Bessie Morrow who was a student in Valpo at the same time he was.
Reports seven fine children ranging in age from fourteen to one year old, all of whom are spending their winter in San Diego, Calif.
Doing fine financially.

McRill, Elijah E., Findlay, Ohio, Route 4. Worked in a store only a short time, then went back to the farm. He says, “I would not do without my pharmacy training for twice its cost. The pleasure and satisfaction of knowing things and being intelligent is worth much.” He is quite a church worker and has recently passed an examination in teachers’ training in the Ohio State Sunday School Association. Owns a good ninety acre farm on which he has recently cancelled his last mortgage. Drives an automobile and is enjoying “democratic prosperity.” Married and has three boys and a girl. Mentions the fact that his room-mate, John Church, had no write-up in the last Annual, and gives us a better address, which we promptly make use of.

Miller, John A., Chicago, Ill. Now at Taylor, Texas. Letters returned marked, “Name not in directory.” His classmate, George Fowler, reports that J. A. graduated in medicine and practiced near Loda, Ill., until last year, meeting with excellent success. Further that he is now located at the above address.

Nettles, Frank, Cape Girardeau, Mo. See last Annual. Later letters are neither returned nor answered.

Pickerell, James R., Iowa, La. Now at Long Beach, Calif. We hear from his classmate, Jensen, that he is at the above address and doing well. No reply to letters.

Piles, Freeda May, now Mrs. G. B. Clark, Oakland, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to recent letters. Since she was actively practicing medicine, we take it that letters would be forwarded, if she had moved from Oakland.
Price, Joseph J., Braidwood, Ill. Now at 1371 E. 63rd St., Chicago, Ill. Letter to his home address returned and his postmaster gives us the above address. He replies: “After graduation, did not enter drug work, but went into the employ of the Illinois Steel Co., where he has been employed for the past fifteen years, excepting during dull times when the plant was not running. Has been doing “fairly well financially” and enjoys his work as chemist. Not married.

Quigley, John E., Chicago, Ill. Now at 954 E. 43d St., Chicago, Ill. Has been located in Chicago in the drug business ever since graduation. Likes work and is prospering. Sends best wishes to all classmates. Promised to be with us in May but failed to get here.

Roberts, Jay G., Thawville, Ill. Now at Oskaloosa, Iowa. See last Annual. Have not been able to get a reply since.

Sailor, J. H., Wakarusa, Indiana. Mail returned marked “Not in the directory.”

Sappenfield, J. Williard, Evansville, Ind. Suite 14, Court House. Followed pharmacy for a time then got into politics and law. He is now serving his second term as prosecuting attorney for Vanderburg county on a salary of $3,000 per, and feels that he is doing “fairly well.” Married.

Schmidt, Oscar W., Campbellsport, Wisc. Now at Edmonds, Washington. Graduated from Rush Medical in '99 and has been practicing since. Reports a good lucrative practice. Married Anna W. Joy in '01. Was East two years ago, but was not able to visit Valpo. Praises the climate in which he lives, having been located about eight miles north of Seattle city limits for the past twelve years.

Schreifels, Leonard, St. Cloud, Minn. Letters returned and the postmaster in answer to an inquiry says, “party unknown to me and am unable to find anyone who knows him.”

Schwartz, George E., Troy Center, Wisc. Now at East Troy, Wisc. Urgent appeals for news are quite systematically ignored. A pharmacy student now in Valparaiso who has been in his employ for the last two years past gives us definite news concerning him. He is in the drug business in the above town, having owned and operated a store there for years. Formerly in partnership with his brother, B. F. of '94, and later operating the store alone. Not married.

Tennery, Willet R., 7 Illinois Av., Danville, Ill. See last Annual. Have been unable to get a reply since. Mail is not returned.

Wetzel, Charles E., c/o Court House Pharmacy, Quincy, Ill. See last Annual. Have never had a line from him since. Letters are not returned.

White, William H., Beresford, S. Dak. Now at 4104 St. Louis Av., St. Louis. See last Annual. Mail was returned from both addresses this year. Who can help with his present address?

Willan, LaFayette, Panama, Indiana. Letters returned marked “No such postoffice in the state.” His classmate, Jensen, suggested that it might be Panama, Iowa. Letters sent to that address were returned. The U. S. postal authorities can give us no information regarding a Panama, Indiana.
Williams, William H., Toronto, Iowa. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Sold his drug business here in Valpo about three years ago and is living a retired life with a small fruit farm on the side to keep him out of mischief. Is class secretary and will write up the 1896 news in the next Annual.

Woolman, Harry H., Manning, Iowa. Now at Ames, Iowa. Jensen gave us the Ames address two years ago, but we have never had a reply from Woolman. Letters to him are not returned. Where is he now, Jensen? Write and tell Williams.

CLASS OF 1897.

Date of Graduation, August 12, 1897.

Class Secretary, GEORGE R. JONES, Valparaiso, Ind.

Andrist, James W., Owatonna, Minn. The doctor finally replies to repeated appeals and tells us that he is doing well in the practice of medicine, having graduated from the Rush Medical College in 1900. He also admits that he is still looking for a wife, but doesn't say whether he admits it with regret or not. He has lately been on a European trip for some post-graduate work, in fact got caught there during the war and intends writing us an article, which appears elsewhere in this issue, on his experiences in the war zone. We never heard from him after extracting the above promise.

Anklam, Albert E., Weyauwega, Wis. A card from him conveys to us the regret that he cannot be with us May 19th, and sends best wishes to all his classmates. No other word has come to us, but at least we know where he is.

Aubry, Edward A., Headlee, Ind. Now at Hammond, Ind. Left drugs for politics and is now City Comptroller of Hammond, Ind. Still keeps up his registration in Indiana. Visits Valpo occasionally. Married.

Bowden, Charles L., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at Wychmere Hotel, E. 18th St., Chicago, Ill. Has not practiced pharmacy since he graduated. Is now engaged in selling real estate, although he confesses he is decidedly interested in automobiles. He married Katherine M. Ertz, Scientific of '97. Sends news of some of his classmates.

Coady, John J., Minooka, Ill. Graduated from C. C. M. S. in 1907 and has been located in the above city ever since and is doing well. Married and has two children. Promised to make an effort to be with us May 19th, but failed to get here.

Cogsdill, F. R., 966 Arcade St., St. Paul, Minn. Graduated regularly with the class, but owing to a misunderstanding, failed to get his name on the regular graduating roll. It was left for his classmate, Klingsmith, to put us in touch with him and get his name on the roll where it properly belongs, thus making amends, at this late date, for the error. Came to Minnesota twelve years ago and in a reasonable time passed the State Board and has since been steadily employed in the practice of Pharmacy. At present, is manager of the Phalen Park Pharmacy.
Corskie, John A., Harrison, Idaho. See last Annual. We have not been able to get a reply lately. Letters to the above address are not returned.

Cull, Fred M., Iloilo, P. I. See last Annual. We have never been able to get a reply from him.

Dally, Nonie M., now Mrs. W. M. Sutton, Kempton, Ill. Worked a year in a drug store after leaving school and a short time after that was married. Now has two boys and two girls. Her husband is postmaster at the above named town while Miss Nonie is assistant. Kept up her registration in Ill., until last year when it seemed she would never need it again so she allowed it to lapse. Wishes very much to hear from Anna Schmidt and Nellie Hoover.

Dirstine, John T., Hatton, Wash. Now at Lind, Wash. Still in business at the old stand and stock ranching on the side. Married Joanna B. Hitchcock, Scientific of '07. Declares he hasn't made a cent for years but is still smoking good cigars. Sends us a picture of himself standing before a prosperous looking drug store which looks very much as if he hasn't been making a cent for years. Sends news of many of the old boys. He claims his wife gives him his breakfast for doing chores on the ranch while he has to rustle for himself for the other two meals. Pretty tough on John.

Dochterman, Lloyd B., Covington, Ind. Now at Williston, N. Dak. Can't get a "rise out" of the doctor but his classmate, Bowden, reports that he is at the above address, practicing medicine and doing well.

Fenton, William T., Valparaiso, Ind. Deceased. See last Annual.

Glover, Eph. A., Minto, N. Dak. Letters returned. Postmaster says he was for years railway station agent at his home town for the Great Northern. Have written the G. N. for further information. The reply is, "Very sorry, but we are unable to find any record of him in our St. Paul office."

Griswold, Lewis E., Dale, Wis. Now at 1104 Fourth Ave., Great Falls, Mont. Worked in two or three stores in Wisconsin for a number of years after graduation, then became manager of a drug business which he afterwards bought. Put up a fine new building and continued in business until his wife's health failed, when he sold out his building and took up a homestead at Eagle, Mont., upon which he proved up the very first year and is now at the above address, where he expects to go to work for the Great Falls Drug Co. While in Wisconsin, he filled over 20,000 prescriptions for one doctor. Also took two courses in chemistry and feels that he has become very proficient in both chemistry and pharmacy, in fact, has a leaning toward the teaching of chemistry if the right position should turn up. His wife's health is improving in the Western country and, with his prosperity, he is very happy.

Hayden, Ralph E., Grant Park, Ill. Now at 5037 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. The last annual stated that Hayden was in business in Chicago. This news was gotten from his postmaster. The Chicago directory now gives, Mrs. R. E. Hayden at the above address. A letter to her inquiring about Hayden is unanswered.

Hedrick J W., Owasco, Ind. Now at LaCrosse, Wis. Klingsmith and Aubry both tell me about Hedrick. He was not on the graduating roll. They think he received a diploma later. Who knows? We cannot get a reply from him. Letters to the above address are not returned. Aubry says he is a prosperous dentist in LaCrosse, married and has a girl in high school.

Hoffman, Clyde B., Poland, Indiana. Now at Kent, Washington. See last Annual. Since then we have been unable to get a word from him. Letters are not returned to us. Who gets them?

Holland, Herman R., Blanchardville, Wisc. See last Annual. We have been unable to get in touch with him since. Letters are not returned.

Holmberg, Norval T., Galesville, Wisc. Was at 300 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif. The letter to Los Angeles, which was his old address, is returned. The postmaster at his home town tells us that he is now at Santa Ana Calif., 607 Brush St. A letter sent to that address is unanswered, but not returned.

Hoover, Nellie, Canal Fulton, Ohio. Now Mrs. H. C. Bliss, at 2705 Woodland Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. We have been very definitely informed, not only by the postmaster, but by a student from Canal Fulton that the above address is correct. The form letters sent to her are unanswered and a personal letter appealing for a reply in the name of two or three of her classmates, meets the same fate.

Hubble, William M., Clark, Mo. See last Annual. He does not reply to letters. They are not returned to us. Why, Hubbard?

Jones, George R., Valparaiso, Ind. Still a prosperous and prominent dentist of his home town. Also still married. Is now secretary of the class of 1897 and intends to make a report in the next Annual that will surprise the natives. Send your news to him and let George do all the work.

Kennedy, Lewis, Nevada, Mo. Now at Purcell, Okla. Now a member of the firm of Janes and Kennedy and doing well. Registered in Kansas and Oklahoma. Married and has four boys: the oldest a lad of thirteen. Financially has prospered to the extent of about $12,000. Passed the State Board the first crack without any trouble. Has been in business for himself the past eight years and before that worked in Nevada and in Garden City, Mo., then in Pittsburg, Kansas, for seven years. Is enthusiastic about the Annual as this is the first time we have been able to get in touch with him.

Kennedy, Francis M., Route 2, Bethany, Ill. See last Annual. We can not get a reply from him. Letters are not returned. We will now sic Dr. Jones on him. Let George do it.

Kircher, Henry K., Bald Mount, Pa. See last Annual. We can not locate him. Letters are neither answered nor returned.

Klingensmith, Charles L., Pittsford, Mich. Now at 688 Mt. Elliott Av., Detroit, Mich. Has been in business at the above location for nearly a dozen years. Married and has a daughter now of school age. Meets with us when we make our trip to Detroit and also met us at the A. Ph. A. meeting last August. Still interested in the old class of '97.

Krablin, Henry, Ridgeville, Ill. Deceased.

Mackenbach, Charles W., M. D., Portland, Indiana. Now at 11 West 5th St., Cincinnati, Ohio. Still a practicing physician in Cincinnati. Had just returned from New York where he has been doing post-graduate work. He reports that "The Gothamites aren't so gosh darn slick after all, even though they do think the wild and wooly West begins on the West shore of the Hudson.” His wife accompanied him on this trip. She also accompanied him on a trip to Michigan and back by way of Valparaiso a year ago, where he remained over night, taking dinner with Wark, Stoner and myself, together with our respective wives. It was an enjoyable evening, marred only by the absence of our classmate, George Jones, who was compelled to remain at home because of the illness of a member of his family. We have begged “Mack” for an open letter to his classmates, which will be placed at the head of the 1897 list if we succeed in getting it. He was present at the alumni meeting and banquet, but that much desired letter failed to materialize. See what George can do next year.

McIntosh, Edwin L., Calcutta, Ohio. Now at Oxford, Ohio. See last Annual. Letters are not returned nor answered.

Murphy, Henry J., Austin, Minn. Now at 1343 Shetto St., c/o Mariposa Apartments, Los Angeles, Calif. Letters returned. We can not get in touch with him. He never would write. We got news for last Annual by meeting him personally here in Valparaiso. He is now at the above address, I am informed by a relative of his wife.

Nelson, George G., Volga, S. Dak. A very pathetic letter from his widow tells of his death in June, 1911. He left three little children whom Mrs. Nelson is now caring for. He had built up a good business and a nice home and was on the highroad to prosperity when death came. The fact that he had lived an exemplary life is the greatest source of satisfaction to the bereaved.

Orr, Clark, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 6955 Eggleston Ave., Chicago, Ill. Never answers a letter. See last Annual.

Owen, Jefferson R., Western Saratoga, Ill. His brother, E. P. Owen of ’06 says J. R. died shortly after graduation.

Pinard, Phillip W., Jefferson, S. Dak. Now at Vincent, Iowa. We never could get a word out of Pinard, try as hard as we might. In reply to a letter of inquiry his father, Dr. Pinard, says that, “P. F. W. is located at Vincent, Iowa. Married and has a good drug store of his own. Seems to do well.” Letters addressed to him are neither returned nor answered.

Post, Herman S., Hudson, Mich. Now at 920 North Center St., Terre Haute, Indiana. We can get no reply from him. A letter to Jalbert of ’06 says that he is there in Terre Haute. Maybe Jones can get him to write.

Rigg, Perry L., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at Lowell, Ind. Never writes, but did come over in his big car May 19th, bringing Dr. Sauer with him. Is still practicing dentistry in the above town where he has been located since graduation from the C. C. D. S. Married, of course.

Ryan, Clement E., M. D., Key West, Iowa. Now at 776 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wisc. Is still to be found at the location chosen over a dozen years ago where he has not only established himself in a fine practice, but has also built for himself a beautiful home. He says, “Am very anxious to hear from the boys and more than anxious to hear from the girls.” This we put in for the eyes of a certain Miss O’Donnel who now signs her name Mrs. Ryan.
the object being to bring down upon the head of the doctor enough trouble to satisfy us for the test tubes he used to "flim" when we were over visiting with Charlie Wark, or hiding Pinard's notebook.

Sauer, Frederick W., Calumet, Mich. Now at Indiana Harbor, Ind. After graduation took post-graduate work in the analytical course at Ann Arbor, then completed the medical course at that institution in '02. Received some hospital training in that city, then moved to the Harbor when it was a small place and has grown with it. Business is so good that he never got time to come to the college until this year, although it is only a matter of twenty-five or thirty miles away. Has three boys. He came over to see us on the 19th and certainly looks prosperous. We hope he will come again and often.

Schaeffer, Cleiton M., Grant, Pa. Now at Barnesboro, Pa. The above address was given us by his home postmaster two years ago. We have never heard from him. Letters to Barnesboro are not returned.

Scott, Earnest N., Osceola, Iowa. Now at Hinsdale, Ill. See last Annual. We have not heard from him since. Letters to Hinsdale are not returned to us.

Schmidt, Anna M., St. Charles, Minn. Now at 729 17th Av., Seattle, Wash. See last Annual. We have never heard from her since. Letters to the Seattle address are not returned.

Shiveley, Virgil M., West Louisville, Ky. Worked as prescription clerk in Chicago for a year, then to Evansville, in the same capacity for four years when he became proprietor, and continued as such until 1903, operating at the last three different stores. Too close confinement led to his sale of these businesses and he took a position as pharmacist in the Vanderburg County Contagion Hospital where he remained a year. Concluded to engage in the real estate business and located in Evansville, where he remained for three years, and then returning to his home town where he has remained since. "Have been fairly well treated by this old world and am pretty well prepared to keep in out of the wet when the rainy day sets in. Have had my valency satisfied and have two girls, Madeline, three and a half and Hazel three months."

Simmons, Alvin L., Canal Fulton, Ohio. Now at 3950 Denver Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. The postmaster at his home town gives us the above address, but letters sent there are neither answered nor returned.

Stoehr, Gustave L., Elgin, Ill. Now at Boyd, Iowa. See last Annual. We have not been able to get a reply to later letter. They were directed to Boyd and not returned.

Stoner, Gerald H., Valparaiso, Ind. The genial doctor has recently completed a very fine residence on College Avenue just opposite Altruria Hall. Teaches Therapeutics in both the medical and pharmacy departments. Married and has a two-year-old girl. Was toastmaster at the alumni banquet and did himself proud.

Sullivan, Mrs. Mary E., Galeton, Pa. Still a druggist in her home town, where she is being quite successful, although the loss of her husband in 1909 as well as a fire which wiped out her store was enough to discourage the average individual. She is registered in the state of Pennsylvania and loyal in her support of the Annual.
Swedenburg, Francis G., Maiden Rock, Wisc. Now at Ashland, Oregon. Still in the same location and prospering as physician and surgeon in the far West. Tells us very little of himself but much of his classmates, the Panama Exposition, etc. Seems to be afraid he will write another long letter which will get published.

Timmons, G. D., Wadena, Ind. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Still here and on the job sixteen hours a day.

Wark, Charles R., Valparaiso, Ind. The hardest working mem­ber of the class and Prof. Roe's favorite is still wearing the same broad smile and never missing one minute from his business. He was elected president of the Alumni Association and elsewhere in this issue speaks for himself regarding the policy of the new administration.

Watros, Oliver C., Cresco, Iowa. See last Annual. He is still at his home address we believe. Letters are not returned to us.

CLASS OF 1898.

Date of Graduation, August 11, 1898.

Class Secretary, OLIVE B. PIERCE, 750 S. State St., Elgin, Ill.

Allison, J. Byron, Welcome, Ohio. Was in drug business somewhere in Pennsylvania, but died a dozen years ago.

Baillie, Frederick D., Pierpont, S. Dak. Never had a line from him. Letters to his home address are not returned.

Barr, Lorenzo Newton, Cornell, Ill. Now at Utah Conservatory of Music, Salt Lake City, Utah. Has forsaken pharmacy for the time being and is at present with the Utah Conservatory of Music, but he hastens to add, "in order not to tax the credulity of former classmates, that he is serving in the capacity of salesman." He has traveled to the Pacific Coast and nearly back again within the last sixteen years. He has sworn off practicing pharmacy a number of times on account of ill health and admits that he will likely be back into it again before long. Wishes to hear from any old classmates and promises to promptly answer every letter received.

Beall, Walter Clare, Walkerton, Ind. Now at 4955 King St., Denver, Colo. Graduated from the Indiana Medical College in '01. Served one year in a dispensary and established a good medical practice in North Indianapolis, but in '07, suffered a severe nervous breakdown and has never resumed the practice of medicine. He is a letter carrier in Denver, Colorado, the climate and out-door work having helped him to regain his health completely. Married Pearl R. Mourer in 1903. Sends his best wishes to old Valpo students.

Blacklock, S. Scott, Vergennes, Ill. Now at Hibbing, Minn. See last Annual. We have failed to get a response from him this time. Letters are not returned.

Brown, Alexander B., Marissa, III. Now at San Fernando, Box 375, California. Graduated from the dental department of the University of Southern California in 1901 and has been practicing dentistry since. Married a California girl and has a daughter of eleven and a boy of eight. He first practiced in Corona, Calif., but in 1911 came to his present address, a suburb of Los Angeles, where he has met with exceptional success.
Butler, Charles Gilbert, Hailey, Idaho. Now at Argenta, Ark. Still in business at the above address in partnership with Moseley of 1900. They operate two stores, one under the name of Hall Drug Co., and the other Moseley and Butler. Their last inventory was over $22,000 with a business for the last year of more than double that. Their prescription work runs fifty a day, which is enough to keep a man in practice and incidentally allow a little profit. Married, of course, and has two little girls of eight and eleven.

Carithers, Oliver Lewis, Princeton, Ind. Now at New Castle, Ind. Has been engaged in the drug business since leaving Valpo. Is now half owner of "The New Corner Drug Store." Is busy and prospering and wishes to hear from all old classmates.

Coakley, John Francis, Parnell, Iowa. See last Annual. Letters are not answered and not returned.

Conway, Charles Edwin, Strawton, Indiana. Now at Cashmere, Washington. "Postoffice discontinued, probably was Strawton, served by rural delivery from Cicero." A letter sent to that address was forwarded to Cashmere and receives a reply, practically as follows: "Entered medical college after graduating at Valpo, graduating from the Louisville Medical College. Practiced at Perkinsville, Indiana, ten years and the last four years at Cashmere, the home of the big red apple. Have succeeded fairly well. When convenient, eat t. i. d. Cannot ride in an auto yet, but get there the same in a Ford. Best wishes to all."

Corboy, Cornelius J., Valparaiso, Ind. Deceased.

Crawford, Blair, Merl Point, Wisc. Now at Mineral Point, Wisc. Bean tells us that Crawford returned to Mineral Point, Wisc., in the spring of 1913, not being in very good health. We can not get word from him. Letters are not returned to us.

Dorn, Charles Adolph, Waterville, Minn. A letter to both the Dorns is, in each case, returned. The postmaster at their home town in reply to an inquiry says, "I am unable to locate the whereabouts of either of the Dorns." Dr. Rawles says that they both graduated from the P. and S. Chicago, about 1902. No other knowledge of them.

Dorn Louis Conrad, Waterville, Minn. See above notice.

Drew, Riley Jay, Rochester, Ind. Now at Kingston, Wisc. Had a long letter for last Annual, which see. This time we do not get a reply. Letters are not returned. Who gets them?

Driscoll, Davis Christopher, Lowell, Ind. Seldom writes, but comes over occasionally. Was here for the alumni meeting and banquet. Has sold his drug business and retired to a fine farm which he owns near Lowell.

Fouch, William Harry, Allegan, Mich. Now at Fennville, Mich. Worked in the drug store while attending school and then went back to his home town in Michigan and worked there until he had experience sufficient to be allowed to take the state examination. Brushed up with a five weeks' review at Ferris Institute and passed the Michigan State Board in 1901 with an average of 88, making 96 in chemistry and 97 in pharmacy. After working a year and a half longer, he purchased the drug store in the above named town where he now owns his own home, as well as store and has outside investments, bringing him in a nice yearly income. Married, but not to a student of Valpo.
Frigon, Heavy Joseph, Salix, Iowa. Letter returned and his postmaster, in reply to an inquiry, says he is in Kankakee, Ill. A letter to that place is unanswered.

Ghent, Monroe M., Carterville, Ill. Now at St. Paul, Minn. Dr. Rendleman says he is a graduate of Rush and is now located in St. Paul. Letters to that address are neither answered nor returned. He spent several years in Europe and married a woman whom he met in Germany.

Gillespie, Alexander, Minto, N. Dak. Now at Stanford, Montana. In drug business at the above town. Registered in North Dakota, Minnesota and Montana, making a good average in each state. Married Rosa Engebretson of St. Cloud Normal, Minnesota, and has a boy and two girls. Reports that he is doing fine, having gathered together about $25,000 and the phiz he presents on a postcard leads one to believe that he is enjoying the situation. A letter of inquiry to him asking for information of Donald Gillespie, of Minto, N. Dak., is unanswered.

Gillespie, Donald, Minto, N. D. Now at Glenburn, N. D., in drug business for himself. Clerked for some years, registering in Minn. and later in N. D. Went into business with his brother at their home town and later started a branch store at Glenburn, where he is now sole owner, and where he has laid up about $20,000 for old age. Married in 1905 and has a boy of ten and two girls of eight and three. Sends us a student frequently.

Hagenbuch, Allen W., Wadena, Ind. Now at Wabash, Indiana. See last Annual. Have had no reply to later letters. Letters not returned. Busy, Allen? David Sheedy reports he moved to the above town from Fowler and is engaged in farming.

Headley, Clarence W., Laingsburg, Mich. Now at Williamston, Mich. Clerked for about five years and then went into business for himself at the above town where he is still located and prospering. Of course he is registered in Michigan. Has been married for a dozen years.

Herm, David Gullickson, Vinge, Iowa. Deceased.

Hermann, John H., Quincy, Ill., c/o Keifer Pharmacy. Never got a reply from him. Purpus of '05 tells us he is at the above address, that he is married and has an eight-year-old girl and owns his home. Letters are not returned.

Hershey, Elam L., Lancaster City, Pa. Now at Pulaski, Va., Box 543. Clerked in a drug store about two and a half years after graduation and then specialized in Chemistry, particularly iron and steel. Was with Buffalo Union Furnace Co., assistant chemist, then chief chemist for the Northern Iron Co. at Fort Henry, N. Y., and for the past eight years chief chemist for the Pulaski Iron Co., which position he still holds. Also Director of the Pulaski Concert Band, a fine organization of 35 men. Plays the cornet and teaches on the side and reminds us that he used to play under Prof. Wolfe while in Valpo. Married a Virginia girl.

Hendershot, Roy Wheeler, Fostoria, Ohio. Now with the Owl Drug Co., Portland, Ore. See last Annual. Have never been in communication with him directly. His picture was in the September number of the Pacific Drug Review. A second letter was sent him but it was not answered.
Hiler, Harry Gleason, Coesse, Ind. Now at 2635 Fox Ave., Fort Wayne, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Letters not returned.

Hoesly, Henry, Montrose, Wisc. Original postoffice discontinued and the National postal authorities suggested writing to Fennimore, Wisc. The postmaster at that place says he is unable to locate our friend Hoesly.

Hosman, Wilbert Clinton, Akron, Ind. Still in the drug business in his home town, where he has been for the past eleven years. Says he has an $8,000 stock and money to buy another business if the opportunity presents itself. Owns his own home and has a dwelling to rent. Married Miss Kendall of Indianapolis in 1905. Prosperous and happy.

Johnson, Lyford M., Annawan, Ill. Now at Arrowsmith, Ill. Still in his original location where he has been practicing medicine for the past ten years. Married Miss Carrie Gless, a Music student, and has an eight-year-old daughter. Visited Valpo last spring and is enthusiastic regarding the continuance of the Annual. We sent him up-to-date addresses and asked him to write all of his classmates and continue to act as secretary for his class, but never had a reply.

Kelly, Earl Wallace, West Duluth, Minn. Now at 5207 East Superior St., Duluth, Minn. See last Annual. We have not been able to get a reply later. Mail is not returned to us.

Koehler, Edward F., Cavalier, N. Dak. Never have been in touch with him. Mail is not returned.

Lacke, Edward H., Newburgh, Ind. See last Annual. Have not been able to get a reply later. We met him and his wife at the State Association at Lake Wawasee last year. He was still in business in his home town and doing nicely.

Lake, Thomas William, Decatur, Ill. Mail returned and a reply from his postmaster says, “After numerous inquiries of druggists in the city, we are unable to locate this man.”

Leavenworth, Warner Bates, Leavenworth, Ind. Never have been in communication with him. Mail is not returned.

McAnallen, Florine, Harrisville, Pa. Now Mrs. Thomas Mack, West Sunbury, Pa. See last Annual. Have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

McClellan, Granville C., Tranquility, Ohio. Now at Chicago Junction, Ohio. Has been busily engaged in the practice of medicine since his graduation from Miami Medical College of Cincinnati, in ’01. Married and has three children. Wishes he could be with us in May, but fears it will out of the question for him to get away.

Merritt, Charles Henry, Elkhart, Indiana. Now at Sweet Grass, Mont. Graduated from Bennett Medical in ’01, practicing in Old Mexico for a time, then back to Chicago and to Alton, Ill., then received a position as surgeon to Craig Hospital at the above address where he has been for the past four years. This city is a large port of entry on the Canada line. He owns a drug store there and is getting along well financially.

Musselman, F. D., Macy, Ind. Now at Wagoner, Ind. Practiced pharmacy about two years after leaving school, as a clerk in his home town, then bought out his proprietor and operated the store about four years when he sold out and moved to the country, to operate a 260 acre farm, 100 acres of which is now his. He makes a specialty of breeding fine cattle. He sends us a report of a number of his classmates and asks about others. Married a young lady near his home and now has two boys and three girls.

Pearson, William Lewis, Mount Vernon, Ill. Letters returned and the reply to a letter to his postmaster reads, "Party unknown by residents of this city." Suggested we try Mt. Vernon, Ind., which we did, with no reply.

Phillips, Floyd, Tuscola, Ill. Now at Arthur, Ill. See last Annual. We have been unable to get a reply since. Mail not returned.

Phillippe, James Rutherford, Frankfort, Indiana. Now at 3001 North Illinois St., Indianapolis, Ind. Worked at drug business since graduation, having been in his present location as owner for the past six years. Registered in Indiana making the highest grade in the July examination, 1899. Married Pearl High of Indianapolis in '03.

Pierce, Olive Blake, Princeton, Ill. Now at 750 South State St., Elgin, Ill. Held a position as pharmacist and manager of a drug store in connection with the Post-Graduate Medical School at 2400 Dearborn St., Chicago, for nearly eleven years. A year ago she resigned to accept the position of pharmacist in the Elgin State Hospital. She is also president of the Woman's Pharmaceutical Association of the State of Illinois. We have asked her to act as secretary for her class because she knew about many of you and has the disposition to do things, else she would not be occupying the position she holds. We expect every member of the old '98 class accounted for next year.

Purcell, Ora, North Bend, Nebraska. See last Annual. Never replies. Mail not returned. We hear she is at home with her parents in North Bend.

Ramsay, Andrew Jackson, Marble Rock, Iowa. Now at Randalia, Iowa. Still in business for himself where he has been since '99. Had the misfortune to sustain a severe accident by jumping from a rapidly moving sleigh and is still walking around on crutches. He hopes to fully recover, but it is coming slowly. He was appointed postmaster some years ago, and still retains the office, although a change is due soon. Married Margaret Maloney, a Valpo girl in 1900.

Rawles, Lyman Talmage, Bushy Prairie, Ind. Now at 219 Gantt Bldg., Ft. Wayne, Ind. Immediately upon the issue of the last Annual in which the only notice following the above name was "Mail returned," there came a letter from a prominent doctor of Fort Wayne, which reads, "I want to acknowledge today the receipt of the Pharmacy Alumni Annual, and in it, note with pleasure the achievement of some, and with sorrow the deaths of others. As I glance over the list, and note the names of those who did not answer, I wonder if they, like myself, did not receive the communication, or were just plainly negligent in regard to such matters." He then gives us his history as follows: "Graduated from the Northwestern University Medical School in '04, and was at once elected a member of the faculty of the Fort Wayne Medical College, teaching chemistry there until that school moved to Indianapolis.
Served as assistant registered physician to the Indiana School for Feeble Minded for fourteen months. Now nicely located in the downtown district with a good practice. Married Frances S. Chapman of Philadelphia, in '06. "Have nothing startling to report excepting a few gray hairs." Promised to be in Valpo at the alumni meeting and made good.

Reaves, Harry G. B., South Bend, Indiana. Deceased.

Rendleman, W. H., Wolf Creek, Ill. Now at 404 Lane Bldg., Davenport, Iowa. Continued in school here in Valpo, graduating from the Scientific course in '99. Took special work in the University of Chicago and graduated from Rush in '04. Spent the next year as house physician at Cook county. Located at the above address where he has been practicing since, with the exception of the year 1913-14, spent in the study of medicine in Vienna, Austria. Reports that his collections have increased about $1,000 each year over the preceding year since he has been in practice. Married Dr. Anne Shuler in 1912. Sends us news of some of his classmates.

Richardson, Edward David, Wilmot, S. Dak. Letters returned. Letters of inquiry to the postmaster at his home town were ignored.

Riley, Llewellyn Alonzo, Frankton, Ind. Now at Bay Minnette, Ala. See last Annual. We fail to get a later reply. Mail is not returned.

Sacker, Caroline Maude, Monroe, Wisc. Now Mrs. F. S. Bauder, 1712 N. Main St., Aberdeen, S. Dak. She gives little information of herself, saying, "I have no especial news to give you, having been retired from business for six years. However my interest is keen toward your Association and toward the drug business. For this reason, I retain my registration in both Wisconsin and South Dakota.

Sanders, W. Henry, Unityville, Pa. We have never heard from him. Mail is not returned. Who gets it?

Scott, James O., Wheatland, Mo. Now at Holland, Mich. Graduated in dentistry from the Detroit College of Medicine and has been practicing since. Doing well enough that he has been able to save $1,000 a year above all expenses since he left school. Married in '03.

Sierpinsky, Karl, Germany. Can any one help us to locate Sierpinsky?

Smart, Robert Warren, Whitefield, Ill. Mail two years ago was returned, marked "No such postoffice in the state." This year letters sent to the same address are not returned and not answered. It makes us wonder whatever does become of some of the letters sent out.

Spohn, Ulysses Grant, Pinnebog, Mich. Never heard from him. Mail is not returned.

Staley, Ralph W., Sidney, Ohio. Now at 334 Melton St., Cincinnati, Ohio. See last Annual. No reply later. Mail not returned.

Stout, Arthur Benjamin, Chicago, Ill. Mail is returned after exhausting directory service. We have never been able to get into communication with him.

Storms, George Vernon, Ellendale, N. Dak. Now at Lorelli and Trolleyway, Venice, Calif. Mail to his old home address was returned. A letter of inquiry to the postmaster is returned to us without any annotation. Evidently the postmaster up at Ellendale is a very busy man. We then wrote to the principal druggist, B. C. Leiby, of that city, who replied promptly and could give us no information, but referred us to W. G. Campbell of Edgeley, N. Dak., a distant relative of our Alumnus. A letter to him brings the information that Storms' mother is living in Jackson, Mich., and a letter to her brings his accurate address as shown above. Finally, two letters to Storms are unanswered. What would you say if you were secretary and editor?

Stumm, Thomas Wesley, Fredonia, Ill. Graduated at Rush, had a hospital service in Cook County, made three trips abroad to study, was a prominent specialist in internal medicine in St. Paul and died last March in Vienna while studying medicine abroad. He died of heart trouble very suddenly in a laboratory. (Reported by Dr. Rendleman, added to by Miss Pierce.)

Walker, Mrs. Helen, Pensacola, Fla. Was never able to find her. See last Annual.

Weldon, Thomas Aplias, Sheridan, Ky. Now in St. Louis, Mo. He is in the auditing department of Anheiser Busche at the head plant, where he has been for several years. Married and has one daughter.

Williams, Alvin L., Goodland, Ind. A druggist in Goodland informs us that A. I. is a dentist in Spokane. Letters sent to him at that address are neither answered nor returned. Dirstine of ’05 intends to hunt him up when he is next in Spokane.

Woodruff, Leonidas B., Jackson, Miss. Now at Hattiesburg, Miss. See last Annual. No reply since. Mail not returned.

Young, Charles Worthington, Mt. Morris, Ill. Now at Isabel, S. Dak. Have never had a reply from him. Mail not returned.

Young, Eugene, Glasgow, Ky. See last Annual. No reply later. Mail not returned.

Class Secretary, DR. J. D. KEEHN, Valparaiso, Ind.

Ahern, D. Fay, Kinde, Indiana. Letters returned marked "No such postoffice." Postoffice authorities at Washington say it was evidently meant for Kinder, now discontinued and supplied from Franklin. A letter to that address is returned undelivered. Rorabeck reports that he and Ahern went to the Dakota harvest fields immediately on graduation, starting back and landing in St. Paul in November, where Ahern stopped for a few days, agreeing to call at Rorabeck's Michigan home on his way back. This was the last he ever saw or heard of Ahern.

Ambre, Henry L., Dyer, Indiana. Have never been in touch with him. Letters are unanswered, but no mail directed to him is returned.

Ames, C. M., Muscatine, Iowa. Now at 4395 Elston Ave., Chicago, Ill. Replies: "I am now practicing dentistry. Am feeling fine, with business good." He could find time enough and had interest sufficient to bring him down the 19th of May, but unfortunately had to go back to the city before the banquet.
Armstrong, Archie W., Pontiac, Ill. Wrote us in the fall of '13 wanting a clerk. The letterhead read, "Morrison and Armstrong, Drugs, Books and Jewelry, Pontiac, Ill." Since then we have not heard from him.

Beard, W. S., Manteno, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters but mail is not returned.

Brown, J. B., Montpelier, Ohio. Now at Clarence, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Burns, E. H., Clark, Mo. Letters are returned. Postmaster at his home town says he is in Caney, Kans. Letters sent to that address are not answered, neither are they returned.

Cahill, Carl Martin, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 1553 West Madison St., Chicago. See last Annual. The telephone directory gives the above address. Letters sent there are not returned nor answered. We do not know why the genial doctor withholds any news. He visited here last summer and was healthy and happy and enjoying his vacation.

Carter, Frank E., Pipers City, Ill. 2524 West Pico, Los Angeles, Calif. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Cassady, John Thomas, Philadelphia, Pa. Now at Navy Yard, Medical Department, Boston, Mass. Hearing that he was in the employ of the Navy, we sent a letter to Washington, c/o the Navy Department, with a request to forward it. Later we have this letter: "I entered the U. S. Navy shortly after graduating and have never had the pleasure of meeting any of my old classmates since. This is probably due to the fact that I had been cruising in foreign waters during the greater part of my first ten years service and only recently has it been my good fortune to be detailed for duty in the U. S. With all good wishes and success to the Annual, I am, Yours," This is signed "Hospital Steward, U. S. N."

Caswell, Charles R., Valparaiso, Ind. Never have been able to locate him. Can anyone help?

Cluxton, Winfield Scott, St. Francisville, Ill. Owns a drug business in the above town, which is under the management of Freshour of 1911, Cluxton himself serving as cashier of the First National Bank in which he owns considerable stock. Sends his check for $2.00 with the remark that "the deficit reported does not look good to a banker, so I ask the boys to rally to the support of the alumni fund." Nothing later have we heard from him.

Cobb, Horace, Hastings, Mich. Now at 2109 West Adams St., Chicago, Ill. Almost continuously in drug business either as clerk, manager or owner since graduation. First in Cassopolis, then Kalamazoo and then Detroit. At the latter place, started a course in medicine and is now at the Illinois University Medical Department completing this course. Married Emma Ering, a Scientific of '99 in June '04. Hopes to meet any Valparaiso students in his vicinity.

Cole, Thomas O., Edinburg, Ill. Now at E. 925 Princeton Ave., Spokane, Wash. Letters returned and the postmaster at his home town tells us that he thinks he is in Spokane. Letters sent to that address, General Delivery, finally reach him. He graduated from Rush in '03 and has had out his shingle as physician and surgeon ever since. Doing well and has managed to accumulate about $10,000 since leaving Valpo. Married in December following his graduation in June.
Darst, John, Galesburg, Ill. Letter returned and a reply from the postmaster says, “Our last records show that John M. Darst moved to Terre Haute about 1905.” Virgil Jalbert, who is our loyal representative at Terre Haute reports that he is unable to find any record of Mr. Darst.

DeMott, Chester W., Independence, Kans. We have never been able to get a response from him until this year when we received this brief reply, “Dr. C. W. DeMott is practicing medicine in Independence, Kansas.” When the doctor finds what we are doing, we are very certain that he will not be so brief in his communication.

Eastes, Walter S., Mt. Comfort, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Eddington, Royal Lacey, Enfield, Ill. Now at Lacon, Ill. Immediately after graduation, entered the Barnes University Medical Department and after obtaining an M. D. degree, spent one year as assistant physician in Milwaukee County hospital, six months abroad in post-graduate work and since has been practicing in the above town. Has a fine home, a lucrative practice and has recently been honored by an appointment as surgeon for the C. and A. R. R. Says the Annual is always received with a tingle of pride and that he still has a warm spot for Valparaiso.

Elliston, S., Chicago. Mail is returned after exhausting directory service. We have never been able to get into communication with him.

Finney, Earl T., Valparaiso, Indiana. Has developed into the typical traveling man. Enough avoirdupois, sober and industrious, yet withal has the same jovial, jolly old way that he had back in the laboratory. Represents Sharpe and Dohme in Northern Illinois and over into Iowa. Married Evelyn Higgins. Lives at Galesburg, Ill.

Fisher, William N., Mineral Point, Wise. Now at Duncombe, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later inquiries. We have had letters from him a year or more ago and sent one of our 1913 graduates to work for him. Both are such good fellows that they will stick together. We hear he is doing well in his drug business.

Foltz, Ernest Keitter, Kellerton, Iowa. Now at Deer Lodge, Montana. After much correspondence we finally have a short letter saying “Have been here at Deer Lodge for six years and will be for a long time to come, I hope.” This is written below a letterhead, which reads, “Cash Grocery Co., Wholesale and Retail, Capital Stock, $15,000.” No other news given us.

Fritsche, Alvin G., Lomira, Wise. Deceased. Letters returned from the postmaster, bearing the annotation, “Died some years ago.”

Garrett, Donald W., Stranger, Texas. Somebody reports that Garrett is in Salina, Utah, while Edd Lloyd says that he has just gone to Montpelier, Idaho to accept a new position. Letters sent to both addresses are neither returned nor answered.

George, Shaul, Oroomish, Persia. Never heard from him since graduation. Can anyone locate him?

Graham, Robert W., Livermore, Calif. A letter from his mother reports his death, July 2, 1901, caused from an accident the nature of which she did not state. His employer reports that he bade fair to be a very successful druggist.
Hafele, Adam Nicholas, Emlonton, Pa. Never heard from him since graduation.

Hamill, William Earl, Pocahontas, Ark. Never heard from him since graduation.

Hargraves, O. O., Chicago, Ill. Now at 4304 Lake Park Ave., Chicago, Ill. Is a practicing physician and enjoys a lucrative practice. Is in charge of a very large clinic in the Post-Graduate Hospital.

Hathaway, H. W., South Bend, Ind. Letters returned and the postmaster says he is unable to locate him. Dr. Keehn says he heard that he was a dentist in Indianapolis, but a letter written him by the doctor was returned.

Horsley, Thomas J., Barge, Georgia. Never have been able to find him. Letters are not returned.

Hubert, Henry, Jr., Phillipsburg, Mont. Now at Butte, Mont. Medlin says he has the most progressive and profitable small store in the Northwest and that he has acquired considerable property interests outside his drug business. Has been married for the past seven years. He is Medlin’s employer and seems to recognize a good clerk when he finds one.

Jalbert, Eugene, Brazil, Ind. Now at Terre Haute, Ind. Still in business in the above city, but never writes to us. Let Dr. Keehn try his hand on extracting news from him.

Jewett, George N., Gardner, Kansas. Now at Eskridge, Kans. Graduate from the Ohio Medical in ’02, then to Philadelphia, where he took a special course in women’s diseases and later a course in children’s diseases at the Philadelphia Polyclinic. Then after an internship in the Hospital for the Insane at Columbus, he took up active practice of medicine at Kent, Ohio, soon however, deciding to return to his native state of Kansas, locating first at Edgerton and after five years, moving to his present address, where he purchased an up-to-date drug store. This was burned in March, 1914, but as soon as the foundation cooled, he put up a new building and installed the latest model fixtures in mahoganyed birch. Besides looking after his store and optical business, he practices medicine between times. Married Carrie Borger, a Valpo graduate, in 1902, and has three girls.

Jones, Edgar Vance, Boone Grove, Ind. Left Wanatah, Indiana, and the dental profession and settled down on a fine farm near Boone Grove. Meet him once in an age here in Valpo. He never answers our letters.

Keehn, Edna Pearl, Valparaiso, Ind. Now Mrs. E. E. Wright, R. F. D., Malden, Ind. See last Annual. We have failed to get a reply.

Keehn, Jesse D., Valparaiso, Ind. Still in the dental profession here in Valpo, and doing well. Has accepted the position as secretary for his class and sent out letters in May. The next news of this class will be written up by the doctor and any of his classmates whom he may summon to his aid.

Lomen, Gustav E., Decorah, Iowa. Now at Leroy, Minn. See last Annual. Later letters unanswered. Mail not returned.

McNiven, James, Kankakee, Ill. Now at State Hospital, Cherokee, Iowa. Jordan says he is still in the State Hospital and promises to pay dues for him if he doesn’t write. We have a receipt made out for Jordan. Letters to McNiven are never answered and never returned to us.

Mahoney, M. J., Portage City, Wisc. Ryan reports that he was killed in a street car wreck in Indianapolis years ago.

Mannes, William, Ossian, Ind. Never have heard from him. Letters not returned to us.

Miller, George Philip, 1230 Independence Block, Chicago. See last Annual. Mail neither answered nor returned. Telephone directory gives the above address.

Murray, James Francis, Glencoe, Mich. Now at Malta, Mont. Has been at the above place and interested in the drug business since 1902. Also has a store at Havre, Mont., and is doing nicely in both places. Married and has a boy ten years old “almost ready to go to Valpo for a course in pharmacy, which he says he will do.”

Nesbit, Otis B., Washington, Kansas. Now at Gary, Ind. The doctor has lately moved to the steel city where he is Chief Medicine Man of their city schools. He is a lot of other things which he faithfully promised to put into writing for us, but we only know one of them. If he had kept his word he wouldn’t have been that.

Neupert, Frank E., North Judson, Ind. c/o Plaster Drug Co., Danville, Ill. Has been in business in the above town for the last seven years and admits that he is a busy druggist. Claims he can report quite definitely about just one of his classmates. Her name used to be Bertha Reck, but is now Mrs. F. E. Neupert.

Noel, Wm. H., Valparaiso, Ind. See last Annual. We do not have any late news of him.

Norton, R. A., Center, Mo. Now at Aronogo, Mo. H. B. Norton of ’06, helps us locate R. A., whom we had never reached since graduation time. Immediately after graduation, he took a course in medicine graduating from the Keokuk Medical College in ’02. Practiced for a time in Iowa, then moved to Missouri, where he is now engaged in the drug business with mining as a very profitable side line. Registered in Missouri and Iowa. Is doing well financially, having netted over two thousand dollars a year for the past five years. Married Mamie Hart in ’01.

Oberholzer, Edward J., Williamsfield, Ill. See last Annual. We have never heard from him direct. Mail is not returned.

Ort, Arthur D., South Bend. We have never been able to find him. Who can help?

Overfield, George T., Eldora, Iowa. Letters returned. Postmaster at his home town says “address unknown and can not find any one who does know.”

Parker, A. B. M., Manteno, Ill. Now at 922 West Madison St., Chicago. Letter returned marked “deceased.” A letter of inquiry to the postmaster failed to elicit anything regarding the time and circumstances of his death. Dr. Ames since reports him alive and well and located as above and a letter finds a real live doctor. He took Commercial and Scientific and some work in music before leaving Valpo. Clerked for a couple of years and took the Illinois State Board. Then worked a year and a half in the credit department at J. V. Farwell's; farmed until 1905 when he entered the C. C. M. S., graduating in 1909 and passing the State Board with an average of 88%. Did some post-graduate and interne work and soon after established the office which he still occupies. Has just purchased a new speeder, a "Lewis Six" and promises to run down to Valpo in it some day.

Pfender, George, Evansville, Ind. Never have heard from him. Mail is not returned.

Phillips, Roland Hodge, London, Ky. Now at 3100 West Madison St., Chicago, Ill. No word from Phillips, but Arnold says he is now professor of chemistry and pharmacy in the Chicago Veterinary College and Dean Emeritus, Department of Pharmacy, Loyola University. We also happen to know that he is a graduate of medicine and a practicing physician in that city.

Purdy, Arthur L., Oakland, Iowa. Never heard from him. Mail is not returned.

Rainier, T. E., Brookston, Indiana. Now at Covington, Ind. See last Annual. Have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned and we are satisfied that he is still in drug business at Covington.

Reck, Bertha L., Horatio, Ohio. Now Mrs. Neupert, of Danville, Ill. It will be remembered that she married her classmate and is still sticking to her bargain. They own an interest in the Plaster Drug Co. of the above city and are doing well. They own a nice home in which is to be found two boys, age seven and two, both pharmaceutically inclined.

Reed, Charles Frederick Leville, New Corydon, Indiana. Is high school superintendent in his home town. Owns a paint and wall paper store which he operates in addition to his school work. This has proved a very successful financial venture. Married Nora E. Ashcraft in 1900. Have two boys, ages six and thirteen. Sends us an address of D. W. Garrett of his class, but it fails to get Garrett.

Reynolds, Albert Euing, Galesburg, Ill. Now at Buckeye, Iowa. Reports that he has lost a nice fortune caused from sickness and is now trying again to start another one. Druggist in the above town and registered in Iowa. Married Hazel Carson, an Iowa girl in 1900. Has two boys of ten and thirteen.

Righter, Charles J., Livermore, Calif. First started to work with the Owl Drug Co., of San Francisco, a company owning twenty stores on the Coast at the present time. Was with them two years getting good experience. Later worked for several large stores in California, having had charge of four of them. The last seven years he has been in Nevada and in charge of Canns Drug Co. In Reno, five years and one year in Lovelock. Feels that he has been lucky in securing good positions. Gives news of several who were in school here at the time he was, both in the pharmacy course and others.

Rorabeck, Charles W., Wolverine, Mich. Now at South Bend, Wash. Went to the Dakota harvest fields immediately after graduation to replenish his pocket book, and back to Michigan in November. Married Philota S. Gilman, a school teacher, the next spring and in 1901, they went West to teach in the schools, he as principal and she in the grades. They both followed teaching for some time and two years ago, he entered the business of real estate and insurance and has been doing exceptionally well since. Received congratulations from the superintendent of public instruction of the state of Washington on his success as a teacher and on being a graduate of Valparaiso. Has two bright boys of eleven and thirteen.

Rose, Victor, Green Bay, Wisc. Now at Sweet Home, Oregon. His partner and classmate, F. M. White, reports that they have dissolved partnership and that Rose has moved to the above address. No further information was given and we finally have a word from Rose himself. He followed pharmacy until 1910, and then embarked in the hotel business, being now proprietor of a flourishing hotel at the above address. Married Alberta Van Danaker in '03.

Ryan, Thomas Clarence, Ransom, Ill. Now at Dougherty, Iowa. Still located in the above town where has has been for a number of years. Not only has a drug store, but owns his own building, his home and a small farm near town. Has a family of two boys attending school and a little girl of four. Visited Valpo some years ago and promises to come again. Claims a genuine interest in the Annual. Just lately announces the arrival of “Kathleen,” a lady weighing 10½ pounds.

Schriber, George F., Sylvania, Ohio. Now at 812 Second National Bank Building, Toledo, Ohio. This is the first news we have ever had of Schriber. He says that he has “long since ceased to practice pharmacy and am now following the profession of Architecture, returning, as it were to my first love. I might add that I have had a fair measure of success in my finally adopted profession. Would be pleased indeed to hear from any of my former classmates. It seems as though such strong friendships as were created during the time spent at Valparaiso should not be completely forgotten.” Visited here for a few hours three days after our alumni meeting, being unable to get here at the date of the meeting.

Sell, A. R., Lerna, Ill. Was at Estherville, Iowa, Box 34. See last Annual. Mail to Estherville is returned. Mail sent to his home address was forwarded to Eldon and then returned. A letter to his postmaster is ignored.

Snyder, Frank Lewis, West Depere, Wisc. Was at Plankington, S. Dak. See last Annual. Mail returned and we can not locate him. In fact we only had news of him before through a classmate.

Tiedeman, Rudolph J., Middleton, Wisc. Now at 506 West Mifflin St., Madison, Wisc. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Walkington, Elsworth, Waverly, Ill. Letters returned and we have never been able to get into communication with him.

White, Fred M., Lamoure, N. Dak. Now at Donnybrook, N. Dak. We finally got a short report from White, the first one ever. He is still in drug business and also has the telephone exchange for that section. Registered in North Dakota. Owns two drug stores, one in Donnybrook, and one in Church’s Ferry. Sends address of his classmate and former partner, Victor Rose and admits that he is getting along “O. K. financially.”

Whitmer, E. S., Lickingville, Pa. Now at Indiana Harbor, Ind. A four page tirade against everybody in general and pharmacists in particular was received with the demand that we “print all of it or none.” We referred the matter to a dozen alumni who were acquainted with the situation and their advice was “do not print it.” Our alumni over at “the Harbor” runs a grocery and market and, we are led to believe, supports the Socialist ticket both at election and between customers.

Wiesner, Edwin Elmer, Stines Corner, Pa. Now at Tamaqua, Pa. While in his pharmacy course, he aspired to medicine and took a course in anatomy here in Valparaiso under Dr. D. J. Loring. He remembers the ten students who were with him in this class and gives us all their names. It will be remembered that he went to the Medico-Chirugical, Philadelphia, graduating therefrom in 1903, and returned to the farm to recuperate and wait the State Board Examination, which he passed with a high average. He has practiced since in his home state, being for the last nine years at the above address. Besides his medical practice, he is a director in the Tamequa Bank, also a director in one of their local telephone companies, in both of which he owns considerable stock. He married Ella D. Sieberling in 1904 and has a girl of ten and two boys of eight and four. Longs to see Valparaiso and promises to test his touring car for this distance some time. Complains that he can not hear of his old classmates, even going so far as to upbraid his old chum, W. S. Cluxton for not answering his letters. Cluxton, you are on the carpet!

Wilson, Pendell J., Paxton, Ill. Deceased.

CLASS OF 1900.

Date of Graduation, August 9, 1900.

Class Secretary, DR. CLINTON A. NIXON, Valparaiso, Ind.

Armer, Victor E., Toledo, Ohio. Now at 1221 Chestnut St., Oakland, Calif. We received a Christmas card three years ago giving the above address. Letters sent to that address later are neither returned nor answered. Letters to his home address are returned “unclaimed.”

Alexander, H. Harvey, Sharpsburg, Ill. Now c/o Buick Motor Car Co., Indianapolis, Ind. Has forsaken pharmacy after practicing for two years in St. Louis. He then went with the Welsbach Company as chemist, later being transferred to their sales department. Was with them seven years, then came to the above address as assistant manager of the Indianapolis Branch of the Buick Motor Co. Married Lulu Smith of Edinburg, Ill., in ’04 whom he met as a student in Valpo in 1900. They have two children, a boy and a girl, and he adds, “If you want to see a happy family, just drop in on us any time.”

Buffum, Francis M., Clio, Mich. c/o Industrial Savings Bank, Flint, Mich. Still in the employ of the Industrial Savings Bank, where he has risen to the position of assistant cashier and manager of the Hamilton Avenue Office. He reports that he enjoys the work and has no complaint to make regarding the financial end of it. Promises to visit Valpo.
Brown, Fred L., New Petersburg, Ohio. Now at Greenfield, Ohio, Box 154. Taught bookkeeping for three years in the Chicago Business College, after which he bought a commercial school and ran it successfully for three years. Then entered the employ of a Textile Company and was for six years in the South as secretary of this concern. For the past three years has been secretary and purchasing agent back in the home office at Greenfield, where he has built a fine home and evidently expects to stay. Married Charlotte Davidson and has "two of the finest girls in the land." Visited Valpo lately with wife and baby. All look prosperous and happy.

Bouchard, Louis E., Jefferson, S. Dak. Letters to the above address are returned and a letter to the postmaster brings the reply: "Mr. Bouchard has not been heard from for a considerable long time and his whereabouts are unknown."

Bush, Charles O., Dern, Indiana. Now at Huntertown, Indiana. Clerked for about seven years after graduation, passing the Indiana Board with an average of 94 in 1905. Purchased a drug business at Linden, Ind., in 1908, then moved the stock to his present address. This new store has increased to about a $5,000 stock. Married Margaret Dooley in 1910.

Chambers, Martin T., Union City, Tenn. Now at Gotebo, Okla. See last Annual. We get no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Chambers, Sam D., Union City, Tenn. Now at Gotebo, Okla. See above report. Sam is like Martin in certain respects.

Clemens, Edward E., Jamestown, N. Dak. Secretary, treasurer and manager of the Clemens Drug Co., in which he holds controlling stock. Registered in North Dakota and Iowa. Married in 1904, and professes an interest in the Annual.

Craver, John A., Chicago, Ill. Now at 5 South Wabash Ave., Chicago. Is a prominent dentist and so hard worked that he hasn't time to fill out a blank for the Annual. Met him personally at the Chicago alumni banquet and spent a very pleasant evening with him. During the course of the conversation, he promised faithfully to write us something for the Annual. He proves to be the same genial liar as in days gone by. We will apologize heartily as we finally did get a letter from him giving some news of classmates, but nothing of himself.

Dougherty, James B., Greentown, Ohio. Now at New Berlin, Ohio. See last Annual. Binford of '02 reports him a very prosperous physician in New Berlin. We have never been able to get any reply from the doctor.

Foltz, Earl G., Kellerton, Iowa. Now at 1220 Kiernan Ave., Spokane, Wash. Is now in drug business in Spokane. Says that within the last year, he has traveled extensively, having been in ten states with his wife and eight-year-old daughter. Was in business with his brother at Humeston, Iowa, until 1905, at which date he went West. Worked in retail stores for five years and has since been with the Spokane Drug Co., Wholesale. Mrs. Foltz was with him in Valpo when he attended school.

Fox, Claude, East St. Louis, III. Letters returned and the postmaster at E. St. Louis could give us no information.
Funk, Chester C., 315 E. Spring St., New Albany, Ind. Graduated from the University of Louisville in 1903 and has been practicing medicine since. Has a "good healthy growing practice." Has lost track of all the boys excepting Pittsburgh.

Geer, William E., Lincolnville, Pa. See last Annual. We have never had a reply from him. Mail is not returned.

Gelow, John E., Chesterton, Ind. Now at Hampton, Nebr. Graduated from the Northwestern University in '05 and has been practicing medicine since. Married in 1910 and reports that "financially, fate has been very kind."

Gillett, Claude O., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at Hemet, Calif. Postmaster at the above address, but expects to resume pharmacy next year. Registered in Indiana and Oregon. Was married before entering school at Valpo. Is prospering in the land of "Sunshine, Fruit and Flowers," and has always been and is still a booster for Valpo.

Glock, Homer E., Roanoke, Ind. Now at 930 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Graduated from the Fort Wayne College of Medicine in '03. Practiced four years and took post-graduate work on eye, ear, nose and throat at the Philadelphia Polyclinic. Since that time has been located in Fort Wayne with a practice limited to eye, ear, nose and throat. Married in 1904 to Jennie Eckles of Harland, Indiana. Has three small boys, "who keep their paternal ancestor hustling to keep them supplied with shoe leather and other sundries."

Glock, Marion, Echo, Ind. Now at Arcola, Ind. On graduation, had to sell his Dispensatory to get a railroad ticket home, but managed to enter a medical college the next year and graduated in 1903 from the Ft. Wayne College of Medicine. Served as an intern for a year and has been in general practice since. Married in '03 and has a ten-year-old daughter. Has all the medical practice he can take care of, owns property in his home town and is president of the Arcola State Bank.

Goodwin, Clayton E., Wanatah, Ind. Now at Mentone, Ind. Clerked at North Judson, Indiana, from the spring of '02 until August '03 when he came to the above town and purchased a drug store. There being but one other store, he and the other druggist concluded to "pool" and reduce expenses of operation. They are located in a very rich farming district, carrying about $7,000 stock and are doing a fine business. He bought a 225 acre farm last fall and is interested in Agriculture as a side line. Promises to visit us in May.

Haddock, Ellsworth, Toledo, Ohio. Deceased.

Hanson, Abel A., Elliott, Ill. Now at Paxton, Ill. Graduated in dentistry in 1902 and has been practicing since. Married and has two girls of ten and thirteen. Owns a nice home and a Cadillac. Claims that his section of the Universe is the best place on earth to live.
Harris, Orive, Valparaiso, Ind. Deceased.

Hart, Adiele E., Hartsville, Ill. Now at Parma, Mo. It will be remembered that he took a B. S. degree from Valpo and an M. D. from the P. and S. in St. Louis in '03 that he was practicing in Sallisaw, Okla., where he also owned and operated a fine drug store. Married and has two children. He now writes us that he has moved to the above address and wishes us to know that he passed the Missouri State Board, Jan. 11th and 12th with a good grade. He offers this as evidence of the fact that he has not forgotten everything that transpired in the year 1900. Hopes to talk matters over personally in May.

Hart, J. Ottis, Simpson, Ill. Now at Benton, Ill. Never had heard from him until July, 1913, when he wrote us for a drug clerk. We do not recall now whether we were able to send him one or not, but we are certain we tried. His letterhead reads "Drs. Hart and Hart, Drug Store." Later letters are neither answered nor returned.

Havel, Matin V., Montgomery, Minn. Never have heard from him. Mail not returned.

Headings, Marshall P. Our letters are neither answered nor returned.

Hilger, William F., Menominee Falls, Wisc. Now at 2614 Vliet St., Milwaukee, Wisc. Graduated from the Marquet Medical in 1904 and has since done post-graduate work at Harvard. Married Miss K. Lauer in 1903. Owns a home valued at $15,000 and is otherwise comfortably situated. Sends us the address of one of his classmates.

Houtz, S. Murray, Allenwood, Pa. Cor. Sheldon and Madison Sts., Chicago. See last Annual. We met him by accident and got that report and his city address. Mail is never returned nor answered.

Hunt, Rufus Edgar, Pope, Ky. Now at Franklin, Ky. Letters are returned and upon inquiry, the postmaster says his address is now Franklin. A letter mailed to that address is not answered. His brother R. R. of 1906 reports that R. E. now lives at Franklin, having given up drug business on account of ill health. He is married.

Jackson, Cloud M., Bedford, Ind. Now at Elizabethtown, Ind. After all sorts of difficulty, we succeeded in locating Jackson at the above address, and find that he graduated from the Hospital College of Medicine at Louisville in '03 and has been practicing medicine since, having a fine country business in connection with his regular office work. Was very glad to hear from Valpo once more and said he had a copy of "How It Happened" lying before him as he wrote, which helped to bring up reminiscences of the past. Married Vannie M. Carson in '03.

Jacobson, Marie, Erin, Tenn. See last Annual. We have not been able to locate her for ten years. Who can help us?

Johnson, Field F., Pennside, Pa. Now at Route 1, Constantine, Mich. Worked for a time in a drug store at Three Rivers, Mich., then to Iowa and made his headquarters at a wholesale house and did relief work over the state, finding it an excellent school, then took a steady position for a time at Olwein, but decided that out of door life had more attraction for him, so he moved to his 120 acre farm near the above town where he has since been getting his share of the good of life. Mentions that his wife was a Valpo student, though not a pharmic.

Jones, Chauncey B., Burton, Wash. Now at Everett, Wash. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Jordan, Fred M., Muncie, Ind. Now at Agnew State Hospital, Agnew, Calif. Still holding down his old job in Agnew State Hospital, and says “read over what was in the last Annual, and you will have it all right.” Admits that a once impressive brush that topped a noble crown now contains a number of basting threads scattered throughout. Has saved “a four-bit piece for the baby to play with and busy saving on another one.” Besides his work in the hospital is doing a little manufacturing business on the side and is meeting with especial success, marketing Jordan’s Indelible Ink. Gives us a little information about McNivan of ’99 from whom, it seems, we can not hear personally.

Kaisersatt, John Jr., Montgomery, Minn. Never have heard from him. Mail is not returned.

Keating, Edward C., Monroe, Wisc. Alpine and Julien Aves., Dubuque, Iowa. Letters are neither returned nor answered. His brother, W. W., says he is at the above address in the drug business for himself and doing very well.

Keating, William W., Monroe, Wisc. Now at Lehigh, Iowa, Graduated from the Northwestern Medical College in ’04 and has been practicing since. Was in Hartford, Wisc., for a time, but has now taken up his home in Iowa. Married in ’07 and reported that a boy had come to live with them. In reply to the question whether he made an exceptional showing before the State Board, he says, “they didn’t catch me at it, I passed.”

Kro t, Edward A., Crown Point, Ind. On stationery reading “Edward A. Krost, Mayor City of Crown Point, Indiana,” he says “today I am simply writing to wish you a Merry Christmas and a Most Happy and Prosperous New Year. I am going to send you some news within a very few days.” That’s all. He was in Valparaiso a short time ago and called on Dr. Nixon and was alive, well and busy.

Law, Claude E., 712 Garrison Ave., Fort Smith, Ark. Still practicing medicine in the above city. His reply to inquiries concerning himself reads, “Just back from a deer hunt in Texas. Me for the Annual. I like to keep up with the boys and have no way of finding out except through the Annual. Haven’t seen a pharmic since Gip was a pup, but still have fond memories of both Valpo and Sagers. I just want to let you know that I am still on the map, and haven't forgotten your kindness in passing me when I couldn't hide my pony."

Leece, Robert H., Munith, Mich. By hard work in drug stores and hospitals, he obtained his experience while attending medical college, graduating from the M. C. M. S. of Detroit in 1904, being one of the five that were passed unconditionally and without ballot. Has succeeded fairly well owns the finest home in his town and drives an auto when roads will permit. Expects to take an extensive auto trip this summer. Registered pharmacist in Michigan. Married Agnes E. Parker in 1912, a graduate nurse of Lowell General Hospital. Asks that his letter be not published, but what's the use?

LeMaster, Benj. E., Bushnell, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Lewis, Theodore B., Columbia, Miss. Now at Greenville, Miss. Graduated from the Hospital College of Medicine in Louisville in '03 and has been actively practicing since. Married and getting along splendidly financially. Visited Valpo some time ago and promises to come again next year. Gives us some news of Stovall.

Light, George P., Ellis, Indiana. Now at Mesa, Ariz. Letter returned, marked "No such postoffice." Government informs us that this is served by rural delivery from Angola. A letter sent to that address is neither returned nor answered. His classmate, Dr. Craver reports that he is at Angola, and that my letter was forwarded to him by the doctor with a request that he report. We finally got a letter from Light informing us of his graduation in dentistry in '03, which profession he has been practicing since. Was located at Bisbee, Ariz., for nearly five years, but is now located at the above address in the Salt River Valley, 6 miles from the Roosevelt Dam. Married Elsa Garch of New Brunswick, N. J., a graduate of Cornell, in 1914.

Lovell, James E., Pope, Ky. Now at Bedford, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

McCarty, Mary, Good Thunder, Minn. Now Mrs. Edward McDonald, 243 Sidney St., St. Paul, Minn. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

McFarland, Charles A., Carlisle, Ohio. Now at Helena, Mont. A letter of June 6th, 1915, enclosing a money order of Sept. 10th, 1914, shows how prompt Mac has grown to be in these years. His reply is interesting. He says "Whenever a doctor or a dentist wants to know anything, he always asks me." To query number seven as to whether he made an exceptional showing before the State Board, he says, "Yes, I was the tallest man examined in ten years." Married? Yes, in 1907, but couldn't get a Valpo girl, as I was too well known there." Financially? "Just two jumps ahead of the sheriff and not bothered about rates of the income tax?" Promises to help out with news of his classmates by "writing to the warden of the state penitentiary for a list." Is a prosperous druggist and busy all extra time in "preserving neutrality by keeping the Dachshund away from the French Poodle."

Mackoy, Morris D., Little, Ky. Now at 501-2 First National Bank Bldg., Ann Arbor, Mich. Expresses himself as glad to learn we are to have another Annual and adds, "I sold out and moved from Port Huron in March, 1914, and am now located at the above address and doing fine.” Sends news of his classmate, J. F. Summers, and expects to have Summers build a new home for him soon.

Mateer, Everett T., Perry, Okla. Now at Santa Ana, Calif. At last we hear from Mateer directly. He is in the above city where he says he is exceedingly busy with a store that keeps seven of them on the jump. Says he has his share of downs, but is now getting a few “ups” with a fine business and making money. Mentions a “wife and two fine girls.”

Miller, Adolphus, Creal Springs, Ill. Now at Sunnyside, Wash. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. We hear indirectly that he is prospering in the drug business in the above city.

Miller, Riley H., Wayland, Mich. Now at Ingalls, Kan. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Mitchell, Fred W., Marietta, Ohio. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. See last Annual. Sometime ago the doctor met with a severe accident on the Monon, which incapacitated him for actively following his profession. For a time he feared he would lose an entire hand and forearm. He is now traveling and his address keeps changing so that Valpo as a forwarding address is probably not only the safest bet, but the only one.

Moseley, Edgar B., Guffie, Ky. Now at Argenta, Ark. A member of the firm of Moseley and Butler, at the above address operating two stores, invoicing over $22,000 and doing $46,000 worth of business a year, with plenty of prescription work and an expense of doing business amounting to 25% of their sales. It will be remembered that he was married when he came to Valpo. He now has a little girl eleven years of age. “All well and happy. Know nothing about any of the old gang except what I see in the Annual and can hardly wait for the next one to reach us.”

Movius, Alfred H., Lidgerwood, N. Dak. Now at Jamestown, North Dakota. See last Annual. We have never heard from him direct. Mail is not returned.

Mundt, J. Herman, Mason City, Ill. Now at Chelan, Wash. We got a long letter from J. H. quite recently. He gives lots of news of our Western Alumni. It will be remembered that he went into partnership with Rose Long of 1905 and she still retains him in the firm though they have since taken in a more active member. They have a very large and well equipped store building and a big stock. Also own the telephone exchange for that district, carrying between three and four hundred subscribers. It is a pleasure to get such letters as the Mundts write.

Nickel, Arthur, Chesterton, Indiana. Still over in his home town and doing a fine drug business. Has a model store and store room. Never writes but wishes us well.

Nixon, Clinton A., Muncie, Indiana. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Still active in the practice of dentistry here in Valpo. Prides himself on having a model office both in arrangement and equipment. Drives a fine car and takes a little leisure. Is decidedly interested in the success of the Alumni Association and was recently elected Vice-President, which position he stoutly maintains exempts him from all work. As secretary of his class he will soon see things in a new light.

Osborn, Ernest O., Fenton, La. Now at Knoxville, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.
Perry, Otis G., Willow, Ill. Now at 287 Delhi St., Dubuque, Iowa. Some time ago we had a letter from Perry in which he was desirous of selling his store as he thought he had just exactly the proposition for a recent graduate in an excellent location and in a place where good business would be certain. Our last communication from him is very brief and reads: "Will try and attend the meeting May 19th. Would like too very much." His letterhead indicates that he is still in business at the old stand.

Persels, Burdette R., Osceola, Iowa. Letters returned and the postmaster in reply to a letter of inquiry says, "We have made extended efforts and could get no trace of him. He has not been in this vicinity for some time."

Pitt, J. Ott, New Albany, Ind. Now at 313 Morgan Bldg., Portland, Oregon. Is located in the above city in the practice of medicine, having graduated from the Kentucky School of Medicine at Louisville in '03 and in active practice for ten years in Utah, during which time he became interested in a very substantial way in the development of the Twin Falls Tract in Idaho. During this time he had a surgeonship with the Oregon Short Line and as transportation came easy he looked that section of the Western country over pretty thoroughly, finally choosing Portland as the most desirable location. Is wearing out his third Cadillac and says there is no place on earth like the West for sheer enjoyment in automobile touring. He sends us a picture of the doctor in his automobile with a beautiful forest background. Tells us which parts of his letter to publish, and which not to, but you will recall, Pitt, how prone we always were to do as we pleased.

Preston, Della May, Petersburg, Ind. Now Mrs. Gray of Petersburg, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned. A student from there tells us she is well and prosperous.

Preston, Henry B., Kalamazoo, Mich. Letters returned and the postmaster says in reply to a special inquiry: "I am unable to ascertain the present address of Henry B. Preston. I have made inquiries, but with no success." We have heard that Preston took a course in medicine at a Cincinnati school, but have never been able to locate him.

Przybyski, Frank A., Chicago, Ill. His classmate, Dr. Craver, reports that he was in the drug business in Chicago at 3663 S. Paulina St., when he met with an automobile accident resulting in his death. He leaves one child and a widow who continues the business.

Roper, James W., Elberfield, Indiana. Now at 418 Woods Bldg., Evansville, Ind. Graduated from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery in '02 and has been practicing dentistry since. Has been located in Evansville for some time where he has an extensive and lucrative practice.

Sargeant, Laurrie D., Beallsville, Pa. Now at Washington, Pa. Graduated from the Western University at Pittsburg, in '03 and has been practicing medicine since; in Beallsville, Pa., until 1912, then took a post-graduate course in N. Y. City, specializing on internal medicine, then to the above address, where he is "getting along nicely." Married Naomi Linton, a Pennsylvania girl in 1914.

Schmidt, Julius, LaMars, Iowa. Still in business in his home town and prospering. Registered in Iowa, Illinois and formerly in Indiana and South Dakota. Is not married and gives us his reason that a druggist hasn't time to take care of his business and a wife besides. He says if you want to know how he is doing financially, refer to Bradstreet and Dunn. Suggests that we have some of the old boys tell a little of the inside history of the days gone by, jokes on their classmates and even goes further and suggests that they tell some on the teachers. He asks of many of his classmates some of whom we hope this Annual will succeed in reporting. Writes us a long interesting letter and makes us want to see him back in Valpo some time.

Schneerer, Fred B., Norwalk, Ohio. Now at Deadwood, S. Dak. We have been sending mail to Schneerer to Deadwood, Colo., all these years with no results. We are glad to know that he is in South Dakota. Graduated from Bennett Medical in '03 and has been practicing medicine since. We have reason to infer that he must be practicing part of the time among the Indians, because the only vestige of communication outside of direct and brief answers to the stereotyped questions was "How Tim?" Married Verda Mary Phillips of Deadwood in '04 and has two daughters.

Shutt, Cleveland, Burnette Creek, Ind. Now at office of hospital commissioner, St. Louis, Mo. Sends us a neatly bound book of about a hundred pages, which we find entitled "Annual Report of the Hospital Commissioner of the City of St. Louis," and appended below is the name of the little sixteen-year-old Cleveland S. of 1900. After graduation in medicine, he appeared before the Illinois Medical Board in '04, winning the highest place in his examination for physician's license. Married Alice Bock, daughter of a St. Louis Physician in 1914. They spent their honeymoon in Havana, Cuba. He suggests that to make the Annual better, get a few ideas from successful Alumni for recent graduates. The suggestion is a good one. We have asked for a paper from one of our most successful graduates, a certain St. Louis physician. Watch and see if we get it.

Smith, Simeon E., Barber, Ala. Mail returned marked "no such postoffice." A letter to the postoffice department gets the information that Barber is now served through the postoffice at Five Points, Ala. Letters to that place are neither returned nor answered. It will be remembered that he graduated from the C. C. M. S. and was for a time interne in Cook County Hospital.

Stovall, William S., Darbun, Miss. Dr. Lewis says, "You can get Stovall by addressing a letter to Columbia, Miss." We tried two letters, neither of which were returned nor answered.

Summers, Jacob F., 1204 Wells St., Ann Arbor, Mich. Worked as a pharmacist in the Upper Peninsula for some time, but preferring outdoor work, took a job as trainman on a railroad for a couple of years, then settled down to carpenter work and has been a very successful contractor in the above city since '04 with the exception of one year spent on the Pacific Coast. Enjoying married life since '08 and owns a nice new home. Sends news of two of his classmates.
Townsley, Frank L., Idaville, Ind. Now at 219 Calumet Bldg., E. Chicago, Ind. Practiced pharmacy at several Indiana towns after graduation, finally entering the P. and S. College in Chicago, graduating therefrom in '09. Served an internship and was then employed by the Milwaukee Hospital Association, being stationed at St. Joe, Idaho, where he obtained lots of practice for the railway and for different lumber camps. Finally located in East Chicago in '11 where he has been practicing since. Married Cora Winters of East Chicago in 1913.

Vicars, Lawrence G., Livingston, Mont. Now at Billings, Mont., Box 1123. His letterhead reads: "Vicars Brothers, Reliable Druggists," and he informs me that they have two stores, one in Livingston and the other in Billings, he having charge of the one at Billings. He says "I am happy to tell you that I am doing nicely in business for myself." He doesn't mention wife or children, so we wonder if that really means that he is doing business just for himself.

Wagar, Leonard S., Pentwater, Mich. Now at Florence, Kans. Graduated from the University of Kansas in 1901 and has been practicing medicine since. Has an excellent practice and is doing well. Married Bertha V. Smith in 1902. Their acquaintance began at East Hall. Sends news of his classmate, R. H. Miller, but doesn't know where he is located.

Webb, John W., Stuttgart, Ark. We meet John and his wife at the A. Ph. A. meeting every time. Two years ago in Nashville and this last year in Detroit. He is in partnership with his father in a drug business, carrying a stock of about $8,000. Has a half interest in a jewelry store with a stock of $4,000, and two-thirds interest in a hardware store of $6,000. He is also interested in farming, particularly in rice culture, having just finished planting 150 acres with plans for another 150 acres of corn, peas and small grains. In all, they have about a $70,000 investment and are making more every year. Married Avis Barnes, an Ohio girl, in '03, having become acquainted with her here in Valpo. They have a boy now almost ten years old.

Weldon, L. J., Marshall, Texas. Now at 1825 Albion St., Denver, Colo. See last Annual. He is still a prosperous physician in Denver. Recent letters to him receive no reply, but are not returned. We had a letter or two some months ago.
CLASS OF 1901.

Date of Graduation, August 15, 1901.

Class Secretary, CHARLES TIMMONS, Wolcott, Ind.

Ball, Seymour, Ethelridge, Riverside, Calif. Now at 3404½ South Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, Calif. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Bellinger, Chester Thaddeus, Laurens, Iowa. Now at 4th and Pike Sts., 209 Northern Bank Bldg., Seattle, Wash. Passed the State Boards of Iowa, Washington and California, making over 91% in each state. Is now located in Seattle, running a strictly prescription pharmacy. He is located in a doctor's building on the second floor with reception room and office and a large prescription room. Does analytic work and the preparations of solutions for doctors. Reports that he is doing fine financially.

Bothe, Edward, Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. He is no longer in business at 4259 West Madison and is not listed in the telephone directory. Cody of '01 says he meets him frequently, but gives us no further news, although we wrote, asking specifically about Bothe.

Buck, George Milton, Green Hill, Indiana. Now at Burrows, Indiana. Never had a line from Buck. See last Annual. We learn that he is practicing medicine in Burrows and doing well. Mail is not returned.

Clites, A. Merritt, Palmer, Indiana. Now at West Point, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Cody, William Edward, Leopold, Ind. Now at 4455 North Clark St., c/o Annex Drug Co., Chicago, Ill. Has been engaged in pharmacy ever since graduation. Recently sold his own store to Jenkins of 1910 and is now managing the Annex Drug Co. at the above address and at the same time, keeping an eye out for another good location. Was successful in the state examinations, passing when the percentage of those getting by was very low. Still single, but is anxious to know when next leap year comes. Promises to attend the annual meeting this year.

Cowsen, Charles Calvin, Mapleton, Ill. Now at Schaller, Iowa. Was located in the above town for ten years as proprietor of the Rexall Store, until last June when his business was entirely destroyed by fire. Instead of rebuilding, he embarked in the real estate business, handling principally his own lands in northern Iowa and southeastern Dakota. It looks from here like he was prosperous.

Crane, Clyde Eastman, St. Louis, Mo. Now at Plateau, Ala., Box 70. After leaving school took a turn as pharmacist in the Navy for a time then with a real estate firm in Chicago for several years. Put in the year '11 and '12 in the Jenner Medical College, but the grind was too much and he went South for his health. Bought a 28 acre farm near Daphne, Ala., and "led the simple life for two years and a half." He is now office manager for a firm engaged in the manufacture of cigar box lumber and says he is "re recuperating financially as well as physically." Married May 20th, 1908, but doesn't tell us where he found the present Mrs. Crane. Later gives us a more extended report, but the principal addition to the above is that he married a Chicago girl. He also does not understand how any one of his classmates could be heartless enough not to answer our inquiries. It may be even Crane will keep in closer touch with us from now on.

Crow, Oliver Lee, Blue Mound, Ill. Now at Assumption, Ill. Took a course in medicine and has been engaged in active practice at the above location since '03, only taking time enough off for a short post-graduate course in Chicago in '08 and one in '14. Family consists of Mrs. Crow and an adopted son. Very well pleased with financial success and willing to leave professional success to the public whom he serves.

Crowl, Chester Jackson, Elysburg, Pa. Now at Shamokin, Pa. He is still at the above address working in a wholesale and retail store. He owns his own home and a farm near the city. So is independent of a clerk's job if he didn't like the business. Expects to be a proprietor and continue in his chosen line of work. Writes us regarding the attitude of the Pennsylvania Board which situation we have succeeded in changing to the decided advantage of the Valparaiso graduates.

Cummins, Wm. Murphy, Sullivan, Ind. Letters to his home address are returned and the postmaster at Sullivan says, "he is unknown among the drug men of this city."

Denton, Everett, Winslow, Ind. Never succeeded in locating him. Mail is not returned.

Dieterich, Harry Chritzman, Versailles, Ohio. Now at 5th and Main Sts., Dayton, Ohio. Begun practicing pharmacy as soon as he graduated, took out assistant's papers and in January, 1907, passed the Ohio Board for full registration and has been employed at Todd's Pharmacy in the above city since that date. Married May Albright of Arcanum, Ohio, in '08. This is the first he has heard of the Annual or the alumni and he wishes to get better acquainted with what we are doing.

Dirstine, Isaac C., Lind, Wash. Now at Connell, Washington. Ike doesn't write, but his brother John of 1897 says "he is no longer why hy·, but just a rancher." Why not "speak up, Ike, and 'spress yo'self?"

Dixon, James Edmond, Hartsville, Ill. Now at Sims, Ill. See last Annual. We have no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Farmer, Emmet Eugene, West Lima, Wisc. Mail to Spokane address is returned. See last Annual. A clipping sent us tells us of his marriage to E. Frances Worley of Rockford, Wash., in Sept., 1914. A letter of inquiry to Frederick Stearns gets the information that he is no longer in their employ. A letter of inquiry to Mc Daniels of '02, who lives in Rockford elicits no reply. Where is Farmer? We know. Now at Weiser, Idaho. He lost his diploma in a fire and writes for a duplicate. We find him manager of the Walker & Ford Drug Co. and full of his old time enthusiasm.

Frentzel, Louis W., St. Louis, Mo. Mail is returned after exhausting directory service. We have never been able to get into communication with him.

Fitch, William Harvey, St. Louis, Mo. Mail is returned after exhausting directory service. We have never been able to get into communication with him.

Germain, Alexander, Somerset, Wisc. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.
Hawkins, Andrew P., Spring Valley, Minn. Now at Waubay, S. D. Letters sent to his Chicago address and his old home address are returned. On personal inquiry his postmaster gives us the above address at which we finally found our old friend "Si" whom it will be remembered was somewhat prone to sample Materia Medica specimens. He graduated from the P. and S. College in '04 and has been practicing since. Also owns a half interest in a drug store, as well as his Waubay home and land in the vicinity. Married and has four children in school.

Hayes, Halbert R., Albany, Ind. c/o Anderson Drug Co., Anderson, Ind. Through H. R. Monroe's efforts we learn that Hayes and his wife have been spending the winter in Florida and expect to be in Anderson after April 1st. He has been hunting for health and reports are favorable. We finally get a line from Hayes and learn that he is now partner in the Hayes-Heaton Drug Co., established in February and doing a good business in the above city.

Hoose, Fred Henry, Westfield, Pa. Now in Roulette, Pa. Is now in business for himself at the above address where he has been located for the past three years, owning his own drug store and doing very well. Registered in Pennsylvania and Iowa and not married.

Hutchinson, William, Denver, Colo. Now at Gibson, N. Mex. Graduated from the Denver U in 1904 and in the fall of the same year was appointed local surgeon for the Victor-American Fuel Co. at Delagua, Colo. In 1910 resigned and went into private practice, also operating a drug store at Aguilar, Colo., in 1911, he was offered the position of chief surgeon for the American Fuel Co. in its New Mexico division, whereupon he sold out his practice and drug business and moved to the above address. Married Harriet B. King, in 1904, an Indiana girl, formerly residing eight miles east of Valparaiso. He reports that they are enjoying all of the necessities and some of the luxuries of life.

Johnson, Milton George, 1958 West Chicago Ave., Chicago, Ill. Owns a very fine and very large drug store at the above address. Never replies to our letters.

Johnson, Norman Emmert, Annawan, Ill. Now at Silvis, Ill. Has been enjoying a nice dental practice ever since his graduation from the C. C. M. S. in '01. First located in Annaway until 1910, then in Sherrard until 1913 and since then at the above address. Visited Valpo some months ago and promises to come back for alumni meeting.

Kelley, James Oliver, Macedonia, Ill. Now at McLeansboro, Ill. Still in drug business at the old stand where he has been since 1910. Is running a large enough establishment to require two clerks besides himself and is hustling for success. Married and has a boy almost four years old.

Kline, James Franklin, Tamaqua, Pa. Letters returned and the postmaster at his home address says: "the person to whom you refer is unknown."

Kramps, Anthony Hugo, Bellgrave, Minn. His old friend, Weyrens, informs us of the death of Dr. Kramps. He was in drug business at Royalton, Minn. He married a lovely woman, and had a happy home. Was prosperous, but death came about four years ago.

Leonard, Thomas High, Wabasha, Minn. Now at Lincoln, Ind. The rumor came to us that Leonard had crossed the Divide, which same we published. Like the report of Mark Twain’s death, “It was grossly exaggerated.” He graduated from the C. C. M. S. in ’04 and is now superintendent of the Lincoln State School and Colony of the above address. Married Caroline M. Gehlback in ’04. Wishes to associate himself more in detail with the interests of the Alumni.

Littlefield, Hollister Hanson. Now at 1169 West 9th St., Des Moines, Iowa. Purchased a drug store immediately on leaving school and ran it successfully until in ’06 when he started in medicine at Keokuk, transferring to Great Medical in ’08, graduating therefrom in 1910. Served an internship in Mercy Hospital, opened an office and is still doing business at the old stand. Purchased an eighteen room house in 1912 with a view to opening up a private hospital. Keeps up his registration in Iowa. Married Eva B. Frank in ’04, who was a student in Valpo in ’02.

Lloyd, Edward Walter, Denver, Colo. Now at 126 S. 1st West St., Salt Lake City, Utah. Moved from Vernal without sending us his change of address and missed the Annuals of ’11 and ’13. Has grown to be a veritable shark in organic chemistry, living on graphic formulae and eating only because he acquired the habit when young. Complains that he is land poor because it takes all his money to pay his taxes. Has the delusion that he would like to be a teacher, which from experience, we would try to banish if he would listen to good advice. “Still married; same old Milwaukee girl.” Gives us news of some of our graduates with whom we had never gotten in touch. Lately moved from Eureka, Utah, to the above address. Still back of the prescription counter.

Luck, Hilda Helena, Pipestone, Minn. Graduated from a medical school in St. Louis, from there to Bristol, S. Dak. to practice, then to Mankato to enter a hospital and we heard later had gone abroad. We have never been able to get into direct communication with her.

Lusby, Edwin William, Garden City, Mo. Now at Algona, Iowa. Still in business at the above town, operating the Penslar Store. Reports a fine business for 1914, however has the unfortunate report to make that he may have to hunt a different climate on account of his wife’s health.

MeCord, Roy D., Monon, Ind. Now at Idaville, Ind. Worked in drug stores in Indiana towns until he was forced to go South for his health. Spent four years in Texas and completely recovered, weighing 112 pounds in and 165 out. Bought a store in the above town in ’13 and has been doing well since. He is an ardent supporter of the Nyal line and employs Cochran of ’14 as his head clerk. Married and has two girls and a boy.

McDaniel, Asa Benton, Greentown, Ind. Now at Hill Top Stock Range, Spokane Bridge, Wash. Was in drug business at Rockford, Wash., for some years, but traded his store and store building for a 400 acre stock ranch, which he says would cover a section if it were smoothed out and rolled down. Besides being interested in stock, he reports prospects of 10,000 lbs. of cherries for sale within the next few weeks. Mentions two boys which he says "have the Old Nick in them." We think this was a typographical error and that he meant "have the old Mac in them."

McLeod, John Daniel, Lightfoot, Tenn. Now at Ripley, Tenn. Has been practicing pharmacy at the same place ever since graduation, starting as a clerk, later buying part interest and finally, a year ago, buying out the entire stock. This year he has just bought the three story brick, so he is now proprietor of a drug store in his own building and room to rent. Registered in Tennessee, going up against the State board alongside the Vanderbilt boys and made good. Married in 1909. Considers that he owns about a $15,000 business besides home and other real estate.

Mason, George Alfred, Eldridge, Mich. Now at Cedar, Mich. Still at the same location with a good drug business, especially in the prescription line. Registered in Michigan. Has been married six years. Last but not least, came a folder which contained a printed report of the condition of the State Bank of Cedar and lo and behold, it read "G. A. Mason, President."

Mitchell, Ottie LeRoy, Eaton, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Morris, Charles Lucius, Carson, Iowa. Now at Laurel, Mont. Doesn't write, but Mrs. Linger of '02 tells us that he is still in Laurel and still single in spite of "designing Mammas." That he enjoys a great reputation as a trout fisherman and incidentally, as making money.

Murphy, John Raphael, Portland, Oregon. Letters from Cashmere, Wash., where he was formerly located, were returned, the postmaster at that place could give no information, then the Secretary of the State Board to whom we appealed said, "John R. Murphy, a registered pharmacist in this state was last at 169 North 21st St., Portland, Oregon." Letters to that address are not returned and are not answered.

Murphy, Roscoe E., Greentown, Ind. Now with Claypool Drug Co., Indianapolis, Ind. Worked in Denver until last May when he came back to Hoosierdom and located as indicated above. He is now manager of the Claypool store, and says "if you want to see the best store in the state, come down and I'll show you through." This is one of a number of stores owned and operated by the Weber Drug Co. Promises to come up in May.

Parker, Bert Ross, Oakland, Iowa. Now at Laton, Calif. See last Annual. A card received from him in March, 1913, says he was four years a hospital steward in the U. S. N. That he now owns two stores, one at Laton and the other at Riverdale, Calif. Married five years, wife also registered and manages the Laton store. Registered in Iowa, Wisconsin and California. Mail sent in 1915 is returned unclaimed. We'll try sending the Annual to Laton.

Pocock, Retta, Argos, Indiana...c/o Westfall's, Oklahoma City, Okla. Still at Westfall's where she very materially assists in the management of the biggest drug business in the Southwest. She has been with this firm for the past nine years and is drawing a very attractive salary. Does not write.

Reynolds, Edward Cecil, Jacksonville, Ill. Iola, Kans. See last Annual. Mail is neither answered nor returned.

Rousseau, Victor, French Lake, Minn. Now at Maple Lake, Minn. See last Annual. Mail is neither answered nor returned.

Sauerman, Harvey Aurich, Crown Point, Ind. Deceased.

Schneerer, Karl Everett, Norwalk, Ohio. Graduated from Bennett Medical in '04 and has been practicing medicine since. Getting along O. K. financially “except with the Era Mining Stock.” Well, bless you, Schneerer, some of the rest of us have the same financial report to make, although it sure looked good. Married in 1910 to a Norwalk girl and has two boys.

Shellman, Vance Irwin, Gratis, Ohio. Now at Dietrich, Idaho. Clerked in Battle Creek in the City Drug Store for a year, then accepted a better position in the same city where he remained for six years, soon going into partnership with the proprietor and spending most of these six years as owner of a half interest, selling out and going to Colorado on account of his wife's health about 1908. Clerked at Rocky Ford, Colo., for three years, when he gave up indoor work on account of his own health, and took up carpenter work, with ranching on the side. Married LaVerne Smith of Battle Creek, in '03 and has one child living, having had the misfortune to lose two little girls and a boy. Refrained from answering us just because he wasn't in pharmacy. Shame on you, Shellman! We are all just as glad to hear from you as if you were.

Small, George Edward, Sheridan, Wyo. Now at Portersville, Cal., Box 787. Still in lower California trying to furnish Porterville oranges for as many of the Alumni as possible. It will be recalled that he quit the drug business five years ago on account of ill health, and has been following the above mentioned healthful and profitable business. However, he still keeps up his registration. Hopes to see some of the old timers on their way to the Panama Fair.

Smith, Victor Crichtet, New Carlisle, Ind. Who should stroll into Room H one day last fall but Victor C., a smile on his face and a kind of bet-you-don't-know-me twinkle in his eye. Well, he sure was mistaken. He is now proprietor of Hotel Hudson at Hudson Lake at the above address and says it is more fun to run a summer resort than a drug store. He tried it, worked one day at pharmacy, was in the telephone business for five years, then back to his old home and settled down as above stated. Married and has another “big Smith” who will be four years old soon.

Stanford, Maye Eldred, Titusville, Pa. Now Mrs. W. W. Stanford, 30 North Franklin St., Titusville, Pa. See last Annual. We have never heard from her. A student who was quite familiar with Titusville tells us, “she never did live at 30 North Franklin St., or anywhere in that immediate vicinity.”

Stonehart, George Vincent, Brazil, Ind. Now at Rosedale, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Taulman, Clarence Webster, Marling, Ind. Rucker reports him clerking in Worthington, Ind. Some one else says he is in Crothers-ville, Ind. Mail to both places is neither answered nor returned. Marling is now a discontinued postoffice.

Timmons, Clifton Kersey, Otterbein, Ind. Now at 202 S. Madison, LaGrange, Ill. Still with the C. B. and Q. where he has been engaged as surgeon almost since his graduation. Married Bernice Cota of LaGrange, Ill., in 1913 and was so enthusiastic in reporting the arrival of a nine pound girl Feb. 25, 1914, that he failed to tell us anything about himself. Promised to write a paper for this Annual on some subject of interest and does it just like most of the rest of you do things for the Association.

Timmons, Charles, Otterbein, Ind. Now at Wolcott, Ind. Has been engaged in the practice of pharmacy ever since graduation, just now completing his tenth year in the same store at the above town. Married and has an eight-year-old girl. Sends three pages of news of classmates and nothing further of himself. Send your news to him and help him, as secretary, to make next year's report the best you ever had.

Wagar, Hugh Augustus, Gladwin, Mich. Now at 711 North Richardson St., Roswell, N. Mex. Still owns his drug business at Gladwin, Mich., but his health has been such as to force him to seek a dryer climate. He has left his brother in charge of his Michigan interests while he stays on the side lines as coach. He was for a time in grocery business as well as drugs, but sold his grocery store in 1912, and has confined himself strictly to the drug business since. Spent the winters of '11 and '12 and '14 and '15 in North Carolina, but concluded that there was too much rain there. Health is much improved and he expects to stay where he is for some time yet. Registered of course, in Michigan. Married and his wife and nine-year-old boy are with him.

Weyrens, Joseph Peter, St. Nicholas, Minn. Now at Taylor, N. Dak. After graduation, entered the University of Minnesota for a six-year medical course, receiving his B. S. and later his M. D. degree, following this took one year of laboratory work in the Minneapolis City Hospital and one year clinical work at the St. Paul City and County Hospital. Then moved to the above town where he has been practicing since. How successfully may be judged by the further statement that "I also have an interest in a bank, in a drug store, in a lumber yard, etc." Stood second in class average throughout his four years in medical school, and second highest at the state medical examination. Married in 1910 to Bertha T. Pallausch, a Minnesota girl, and now has a family of two boys and a girl.

Williams, Ley West Lamar, Mo. Now at 2301 South 6th St., St. Joseph, Mo. We do not hear from Williams, but Mrs. Fairchild of '95, says that he is one of St. Joe's prominent business men. That he owns his own store and has a fine business. Married a Valpo girl, whom he has taught pharmacy and who is now his assistant. They have a little daughter almost four whom he is also teaching. She has become expert at filling capsules with MgSO₄.

Zimmerman, Joe Jacob, Hampton, Iowa. Letters are returned. We have never been able to get into communication with him.
CLASS OF 1902.

Date of Graduation, August 14, 1902.

Class Secretary, WHITE LANE MOSS, Pineville, Ky.

Ackelson, Samuel S., Burgettstown, Pa. c/o Alexander Drug Co., Oklahoma City, Okla. See last Annual. We can get no reply from him since. Mail not returned.

Adams, Samuel Herbert, Enslow, Pa. See last Annual. We have never been in touch with him.

Aimone, John, Toluca, Ill. Now at Granville, Ill. Practiced pharmacy a while and is registered in Iowa. Graduated from the P. and S. College June 4th, 1907. Married Della Stringfellow in September, '08, and now has one boy and two girls. Besides a good medical practice, he is connected with the Granville State Bank as one of the directors, besides having several other good investments in his home town.

Alexander, J. Clayton, Portland, Ind. Now at Hope, N. Dak. Is registered in Iowa, but has been practicing medicine since 1907. Was married in 1902 to Mertie Carnihan, who was with him in Valpo when he took pharmacy, she taking work in music at the same time. The doctor reports that he left Valpo owing $5,000, and today has his own home and attends to his lucrative practice using horses or auto as suits his fancy. He moved to Hope, N. Dak. in Nov. 1913. Says he still plays solo cornet in the Shrine Band and occasionally in church. He is secretary-treasurer of the local ice company, boss rooter at all baseball games and such an inveterate hunter that he invites us up to try a week's sport with him.

Allshouse, William, Arcola, Ill. Now at 116 South California Ave., Chicago, Ill. Registered in Illinois, but is still traveling for a pharmaceutical house, representing them especially with physicians. Married Marie L. Sullivan of Chicago. Visits Valpo whenever there is anything doing and sends us news of many of his classmates.

Anderson, Axel Hjalmer, Laurium, Mich. Now at South Range, Mich. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Anthony, John Williams, Columbus, Ind. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Bailey, William Thomas, Akron, Ind. Was at Vermillion, Kans. A letter to his home address is forwarded to Winona Lake, Ind., then back to Topeka, Kansas, and returned. A letter to the postmaster at his home town says that a druggist informs him that Bailey is working in Toledo. A letter is sent to him at Toedo, addressed to a drug clerk, but without any street address. This is returned.

Batterson, Charles Edgar, Petersburg, Ill. Now at 2500 W. Van Buren St., Chicago, Ill. Has written us twice for a clerk, but does not give us any further news of himself. Later a card says, "Still doing business at the old stand where I landed after leaving Valpo in '02. Would be glad to be back in May and will surely do so if I can get away."

Batterson, Perry Allen, Petersburg, Ill. Now at Oakford, Ill. See last Annual. We have his Oakford address from C. E. Mail is not returned nor answered.
Beavo, Maybell Slack, Latty, Ohio. Now at Willard Hospital, or 4111 North Springfield Ave., Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. We hear she is at Willard Hospital. She never replies to letters. Mail sent to both addresses above and not returned to us.

Binford, Oliver Florin, Beloit, Ohio. Now at 8 N. Mill St., Massillon, Ohio. "I am located here in the real estate business and this summer will manage a 90 acre allotment on which we are beginning to build 100 houses to be finished Sept. 1st. As you know, I took a year off, motored 8,000 miles and caught a ton of fish, etc., and so am a poor man now. Any friends desiring to contribute, kindly send cash or draft, (no personal checks, please) to 8 North Mill St., this city." Binford spent a very delightful year of rest in Valpo last year and is now out in the fight again.

Bonsnes, Nick, Martell, Wisc. Never was in communication with him. Mail is not returned.

Bottom, C. John, Citronelle, Ala. Now at Madison, Ill. Some time after leaving Valpo, he attended a pharmacy college in Chicago and after graduation from there, went to East St. Louis for three years, then put in two years in Meyer Brothers laboratory. Soon after this located in Madison, where he has succeeded so well that last winter he put up a $25,000 brick building, a postcard picture of which he sends me. The awning across the front says "C John Bottom for drugs," and also announces that he has both the Rexall and the Nyall agencies. His sister is in the dry goods business next door, while on the second floor of the new building are doctors' offices and "John's bachelor headquarters."

Bozarth, Ernest LeGrande, Knox, Ind. Now at Henryetta, Okla. See last Annual. We hear later he is at the above address, but letters sent there are neither answered nor returned.

Burroughs, James Roswell, Hopkinsville, Ky. Letter returned and no reply from his postmaster.

Bush, Brian S., Westfall, Oregon. Letters to his home address are returned. We have never been able to learn anything about him.

Clifford, Henry William, Brothertown, Wisc. Now at Palermo, N. Dak. Has recently moved to the above address and is in the drug business strictly, as he says that all really professional pharmacists are glad to see the enactment of laws putting the booze seller out of business. Registered in North Dakota and Montana. Reported a boy in the last Annual who is now five years past and now has a girl of two. Says that with good crops this year and high prices, things are looking prosperous.

Cowan, James Clarence, Pleasant Mills, Ind. Now at Monroeville, Ind. See last Annual. We get no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Cox, William John, Batesville, Miss. Never have had a reply from him, but mail is not returned.

Curran, Charles Benjamin, Menomonie, Wisc. Now at 422 Bellinger St., Eau Clair, Wisc. Went West after graduation and got several years of good retail experience. Later traveled three years for Yahr Lange Drug Co., Milwaukee. Now has a fine store with a good trade in the above city. Registered in Colorado and Wisconsin. Not married and says he is making the effort of his life to dodge arsenic and matrimony. We suggest that he write Merwin to learn whether A. C. or Miss Jessie Payne wishes that dose of arsenic had been a success.

Dashiell, William Clide, Lind, Wash. Now at Krupp, Wash. Dashiell doesn't answer a letter but Diristine says he has just married this year and "has got us all going when it comes to grabbing the coin." Very much later, we have a letter from Dashiell, wishing the alumni association "a long and prosperous life," but gives us no news of himself.

Dayfoot, Bertram Guy, Georgetown, One. Letters are returned and a letter addressed to the postmaster was handed to Dayfoot's sister, who says, "We have not heard from my brother for ten or eleven years and can not give you any idea of his whereabouts. The last we heard was from Seattle on hotel stationery. We regret that we are unable to give you the information desired."

Dykstra, Charles, Hamilton, Mich. Now at corner of 16th and Central Ave., Holland, Mich. Promised to come to the alumni meeting in 1912 "unless something happens." Well, something happened. Still in business at his old stand where he has been for years. Owns his own home, store and store building, in all $10,000 to $12,000. Resolved while a clerk to own his own store and to not keep it open on Sundays, which resolution he has now held for nine years. Registered in Michigan, Iowa and Illinois. Married Georgia Sheffield, a Valpo student in 1905, and has one girl and three boys. Admits that he didn't look at the 1913 Annual close enough to know whether there was a personal item of himself or not; but there was. Visited Valpo May 19th, but couldn't stay for the banquet.

Eckholm, David G., Swea City, Iowa. Now at Buckley, Wash. Left his position in Des Moines and went West a little over two years ago on account of his wife's health. Is now secretary and treasurer of the Shaw department store and is doing well. His wife has fully recovered and they are looking forward to the day when they will move to their Texas farm and settle down to rural life.

Farabaugh, Ballard Vester, Cypress, Ky. "No such postoffice." Government information says Cypress is now served from Clinton, Ky. A letter to that address is not returned, but is unanswered.

Fry, Herbert James, Brighton, Ill. Deceased.

Fryman, Maybell, Berrien Springs, Mich. Now Mrs. Oliver, 3 South Ave., Battle Creek, Mich. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Gerhart, Frank Hamilton, Wawpecong, Ind. Now at Kokomo, Ind. After graduation, clerked until 1905 when he purchased the store which he now owns and where he is getting along nicely. Regular attendant at the State Association where we have had the pleasure of meeting him. Married Blanche Truax in '04 and has two girls and a boy.

Gilchrist, Leon, Pentwater, Mich. Now at Hydro, Okla. Worked a short time in Michigan, then a year at Whiting, Ind., when he obtained a good position in Oklahoma. However, he held this only a couple of months, when he purchased a drug business and started in for himself. In two and a half years, he sold out and moved to the above address where he purchased a much larger store and has prospered since. Married Lillian R. Ward, a music student of Valpo in '02 in Chicago, and has one girl and three boys. Glad to get in touch with the old students once more.
Hamilton, William Henry, Caldwell, Idaho. Never have been in touch with him. Mail is not returned.

Hartman, John Adolph, Red Wing, Minn. Now at 3201 Pennsylvania Ave., Minneapolis, Minn. Passed the State Board of Minnesota immediately upon his return from school. We hear he had a prosperous drug business in his home town and a letter from him gives his address as the above city, but he comments on old times and many of his friends without saying a word about himself except to make this promise “I will be coming your way and stop a few days before I go to the Pan. Show.”

Heil, Edward, Meno, S. Dak. A letter sent to his old home address comes back with the annotation, “removed, address unknown.”

Hook, Burnley B., Wickliffe, Ky. Now at Paducah, Ky. Passed the State Board of Kentucky immediately upon his return from school. We hear he is still prospering in the drug business in Paducah.

Kaven, Gottlieb Henry, Unionville, Mich. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Keiser, J. H., Columbia City, Indiana. Has been in the same store in his home town since graduation. In ’09, he and a brother clerk purchased the store from their employer, and the first of the year he bought out the interest of his partner, so that he now has a business which he compares with the Heineman and Seivers store of Valparaiso. Registered in Indiana. Married Anna H. Ergenbright, a former student of Valpo in ’02.

Kirkman, Leslie, Berryville, Ark. Deceased.

Lee, Sidney Leander, Madison, Wisc. Now at Ventura, Iowa. Postmaster at Madison says that he can not locate Lee. Suggests that we write to the postmaster at Stoughton, Wisc. From this postmaster, we received the above address. Letters sent there are neither answered nor returned.

Lee, Rhodam Edwin, Kellerton, Iowa. Now at Grant City, Mo. We have never been able to get into touch with him before. This time his postmaster helps us locate him in the above town. He writes, “I have been located in this town about two years and am doing a good drug business.” Then follows with news of other members of his class, but tells us nothing more of himself.

Lilves, Ernest Merwin, Wolcott, Indiana. Now at Grand Junction, Iowa. Still in drug business at the above town, where he has been for the past ten years. Enjoying a fine trade. Reports lots of work to do, but plenty of pleasure along with it and getting younger every year. Homesick for Valpo and hopes to be with us in May.

Lutyens, Henry, Rochester, Ill. Now at Farmingdale, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

McCUTCHEON, Luther Newton, Apple Grove, W. Va. Now at Horning Falls, W. Va. After a long search and some help from the postmaster we get this report: “Was in drug business since graduation until recently. Owned a store in Richmond, W. Va., and registered in that state. Upon selling his store a short time ago, he bought a farm at Jefferson, Ohio, for $15,000 and has settled down to the life of a country gentleman.” Promises to show us the country in his new auto if we would inject a little more chemistry into his cranium. Never mind the chemistry lecture, McCutcheon, let's get busy and have a good time. Later we had a card from him bearing the above address.

McKown, Walter Carlton, Frankfort, Indiana. After years of clerking, he now reports that he is "Proprietor of the best drug store in Frankfort, Indiana." Registered in Indiana and is proud of the report that out of a class of 95 who took the examination at that time, only four passed, three of whom were Valpo graduates. Married Carrie Merrill and has two boys of ten and seven and a girl nearly two. Reports that he is prosperous financially.

Merwin, Alfred Clair, Leon, Iowa. Now at Pawnee, Ill., Route 49. Our letter from him reads: "Have been a traitor to pharmacy twice since graduation." Was in the West over a year but came back to the farm, then clerked for Green and Bentley, at Oskaloosa, Iowa, three years, but quit there in July 1914, to go back to the soil, where he is now engaged in farming, although he keeps up registration in Iowa. In 1909, married Jessie Payne, whom he met in Valpo in '02. He says, "We were introduced to each other by Charles Curran."

Miers, Ferdinand William, Greenwich, Kansas. Now at Trent, S. D. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Miller, Clinton Jennins, Bascom, Ohio. Now at Lorimer, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Minder, Emma, Plato, Minn. Now at Ortnville, Minn., Box D. Listen how her letter starts: "I haven't a bit of gossip for the Annual. And a woman! Absolutely abnormal." Reports that she is running a farm on the side as a matter of relaxation from the strenuous work in the drug store, as she is still prescriptionist where she has been for several years past. Says nothing about 'Ninhydrin' but declares that "corn and clover are my specialties, upon which subjects I always have information on tap." Is planning an extended vacation this summer and hopes to make Valpo during the rounds. Inquires about her classmates and Mabel Beavo in particular.

Morgan, Harry, Okawville, Ill. Now at Lessor, Ill. Bill Allshouse says, "Harry is now a flourishing M. D., married and practicing medicine in the above town." Letters sent to him are unanswered.

Morgan, Inez Malcolm, Henry, Ill. Now Mrs. Linger of Park City, Mont. As all her classmates know, she married Charles P. Linger of the Pedagogical Department the year she graduated, 1902. They went West almost immediately and she admits that she has never practiced pharmacy, signing herself "housekeeper." In reply to the question about finance, she modestly says "doing very well for ranchers," and then says, "we have a thousand acres of land, six hundred of it under cultivation, 400 of which is in winter wheat and looking fine. Some of us who are now buying five cent loaves of bread which measure 3\(\frac{1}{4}\) inches in diameter, realize what 400 acres of good wheat will mean. She gives us news of C. L. Morris of '01 and winds up with "come out and see us and we will take the car and show you the sights."

Moss, E. Bruce, Columbus, Ky. Now at 3540 West Jackson Blvd., Chicago. Moss doesn't write, although he visits us occasionally, ostensibly for relaxation and to meet the old bunch, in reality on the still hunt to see what was actually done with the dollar he contributed to the Annual. Allshouse, however, reports for him that he married Ethel M. Davis, formerly superintendent of the Francis Willard Hospital, and that they have a year old daughter.
He further adds that it is hard to tell which is the bigger kid, E. B. or the daughter.

Moss, White Lane, Pineville, Ky. We wrote everything there was to say about him in the last Annual and will refer you to his open letter at another place for the personal touch with White Lane.
He is to be your class secretary next year so you may expect 100% to be accounted for.

Still in drug business at the above town where he has been for ten years past. Has been lately appointed postmaster, which will materially add to his profits. Promises to come down and see us soon.

PaysINGER, THOMAS BROWNING, Bryson, Tenn. 1328 West 6th St., Austin, Texas. Took a “wandering” course in pharmacy after graduation which carried him to several points in Alabama among which was Birmingham, where he stayed four years. From there to Nashville, Memphis and New Orleans, finally landing in Texas.
Spent one year in Dallas, two in Austin, and some little time in Galveston, when he took a position with E. R. Squibb, traveling Texas territory. On the side, he started a little wholesale-business on his own account, but the Kaiser put a crimp in that where he says, “two of us are grinding out about 140 prescriptions per day.”
This is in San Antonio, but he asks that his address be left as above.
“During my stay in Dallas, I was adopted by a young lady who believed that she could take better care of me than I could of myself, and up to date, I have found no cause to differ with her. Incidentally, I may mention that there is nothing running around my house, not even a yard fence.”

See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Mail not returned.

actively engaged in the drug business in Salem, Iowa, then to Mt.
Carroll, Ill., and back to Lovilis, Iowa. Last August he sold out and engaged exclusively in the jewelry and optical business. Has been married for twelve years. Has lost track of his classmates and wants an Annual sure.

Rantz, Worthington, Silver Lake, Ind. See last Annual. Never have heard from him. Mail not returned.

Remington, George Albin, Manton, R. I. Now at 2208 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. Visited us at last alumni meeting, motoring down with his wife from Chicago. Allshouse tells us that he had the misfortune to lose his wife in July 1914. Remington fails to write.

Ridgeley, Edgar Alva, Olney, Ill. Now at corner 6th and Broadway, Gary, Ind. Now chief stockholder, president and general manger of a $40,000 corporation which operates three stores in Gary.
At one time last summer, he had five Valpo men in his employ.
Clerked in East St. Louis for a time after graduation. Married in 1905, started in East St. Louis in '06 with a partner and $500 cash. Bought and sold three stores, then moved to Gary with the above result. Registered in Iowa, Illinois and Indiana. An enthusiastic plugger for Valpo. Elected vice-president of the I. P. A. at LaPorte this year.

Robb, Earl Eugene, Toledo, Ohio. Letters are returned. The postmaster at Toledo says that he is unable to find Robb, but thinks that he graduated from a Medical College in that city some years ago. Letters to the Toledo Medical College gets no reply.

Ross, Lucretia T., New Richmond, O. Now a resident of Valparaiso, Ind. After graduation went to Jacksonville, Fla., as Supt. of Brewster Memorial Hospital. Remained three years and took the federal examination for nurses. Was for a time in Indian service and being soon promoted to the position of supervising nurse of the Dept. of the Interior. Traveled very extensively. Resigned September, 1914, and settled down to rest in Valpo.

Ryder, John Youngs, Valparaiso, Ind. Was in Chicago in business for a long time. Letters are returned marked, "Name not in the directory." He was very prosperous for a time in Chicago, but we can not get any track of him of late.

Sack, Bertrand, Monte Vista, Colo. Now at 121 High St., Ames, Ia. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Smithson, Olive Grace, Roackdale, Indiana. Now Mrs. Hugo Weightman, M. D., Creighton University, c/o Dr. Hugo Weightman, Omaha, Nebr. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. In fact, she never did answer an inquiry.

Stephens, Samuel E., Walnut Grove, Ill. Now at 31 South Broadway, Aurora, Ill. Sam doesn't write, but Bill Allshouse says "he married an Aurora girl and is the proud father of two daughters. He is now living in Aurora and working in the Benton Drug Store."

Stewart, Charles F., Palmer, Ind. Now at Eskridge, Kansas. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Strong, Charles Grier, Atoka, Tenn. Never was in touch with him. Mail not returned.

Swedenburg, Charles J., Maiden Rock, Wisc. Now at Cannon Falls, Minn. Has left the West and returned to "the good old bread and butter state." Left the Coast country in 1911 and re-engaged in the drug business in the above town. Has a real estate venture on from which he expects to realize in the near future and retire from active drug work. Hopes to come back to Valpo on a visit at some future time.

Thomas, William Edmond, Milburn, Ky. Now at Danville, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Tunnell, Edward Lynn, Citronelle, Ala. Now at Abercrombie, Alaska, c/o Copper River and Northwestern R. R. A letter to the Citronelle, Ala., postmaster receives the reply "definite information concerning him may be obtained by corresponding with Mrs. Mary Tunnell of Medford, Ore. She proved to be his mother, who gives his address as above.

Tyler, William Charles, Ada, Ohio, Route 1. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.
Vaughan, Henry Miller, Wolfe City, Texas. Now at Fayetteville, Ark. Who should drop into the college one evening about a year ago but a lengthy gentleman from a way down in Arkansas. Vaughan had business bringing him to Chicago so couldn’t refrain from coming down to Valpo for over night. His letterhead now reads, “Manufacturer, Jobber, Importer, Prescription Chemicals and Druggists’ Sundries” and very prominent is the statement “I sell to merchants only.”

Waldron, George Aldrich, Sampson, Wisc. Never was in communication with him. Mail not returned.

Wallick, Ben Shelby, Knoxville, Ill. Now at 704 South Chestnut St., Kewanee, Ill. “Am at present ‘main squeeze’ for E. D. Hirschy, druggist of the above city.” Registered in Illinois and Indiana. Getting along “first rate.” I invented a machine to sell postcards and it assisted me quite materially in a financial way.” Married Lottie Brown of Farmington, Ill., in 1903, and has two boys of seven and nine.

Watson, William Scott, Keilerton, Iowa. Letter returned marked “deceased” and upon inquiry of the postmaster, we learn that he died about five years ago. Later his classmate, R. E. Lee, tells us of his death, fixing it at about nine years ago.

Winger, Benjamin John, Cropsey, Ill. Now at Williamsport, Indiana. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Yerian, Clyde Edwin, Alma, Mich. Now at Montebello, Cal. See last Annual. A newspaper from the above town dated Sept. 3, says the Yerian boys have a fine drug store there where they have been for the past nine months. Just previous to this change they sold their business in Tehachapi where C. E. was also serving as town trustee.
LETTER FROM PROFESSOR HYNES.

My Dear Professor Timmons:

In accepting your invitation to write a greeting to the boys (and girls) of the 1903 class for your forthcoming Annual, I feel like more or less of an interloper. My brief sojourn in your school during the summer of 1903 scarcely qualifies me to deliver a message to the students of that class. However, I have been in rather close touch with the school, its progress, and its work in the dozen intervening years and, perhaps, if I were to meet one of the boys of those days, I might, after all, be able to tell him something of the school since the day he marched in cap and gown across the street from Science Hall over to the Auditorium to receive from the grand old President the documentary evidence entitling him ever after to call old "Valpo" his Alma Mater. Or what has happened since that bright June morning when I looked out during Chapel and saw him wandering over the Green with a Fairy who also found it within her conscience to "cut" the morning exercises.

And, speaking of Chapel, do you know it has always seemed to me symbolic of the school that they stopped in the middle of the morning to pray? Time out of mind peoples have begun the day with prayer, but only those, seemingly, who felt an especial closeness to the Creator of things interrupted their pursuit of mundane things to consider their why and wherefore.

However, I am wandering from the text. Were I to tell him of the school (which he may not have visited since graduation), three things would crowd to the foreground. First, perhaps, the "Spirit" of the school as I see it now after years of retrospection. Second, the steady and rapid progress of the Pharmacy department—particularly during the latter half of the elapsed time. And third, of the value to the individual, himself, of active allegiance to his Alma Mater as I see it here in a great city where nearly every college in the country from "Siwash"—up or down—has an active Alumni Association.

The Spirit of the school—that undefinable something which invades the very fiber of the student and tints all his life—is the Spirit that must prevail if the Ideals of Americans are to endure. It is the Spirit of Labor, of Service, of Clean Living, and Sane Thinking. The Spirit which believes in no reward without effort and of giving 100 cents in value (or more likely 101) for each Dollar of return. This Spirit as opposed to a growing "Standard" in this country of giving less than you receive, doing as little as possible for your pay, of using "drag" instead of work to get ahead, of "getting by" without the qualifications, and of "getting yours" and letting the other fellow look out for his.

I did not relish those 6:30 (A. M.) classes any more than I suspect you did, but I realize now that the policy of a school which permits scheduling a 6:30 class is a policy which not only aims to give the student his money's worth, but which demands that he, in turn, shall make some effort (it is an effort, I assure you) to earn what he receives. I run across many of your students here. No trouble for them to open the store at 8:00 A. M.

I would, perhaps, take more pleasure in telling him of the progress of the Pharmacy Department than anything else and he would, undoubtedly, prefer to hear about it. Comparing my first impressions with present knowledge of it, I would have to record tremendous strides in a short time. I would have to tell him of your vigorous branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association, which brings speakers from all over the country, of the lengthening of your course to the accepted American standard, of the growth of your library in books and magazines, of the virtually unanimous recognition of the school by the various states, and, above all, the esteem in which the Pharmacy Department is held by pharmacists and Pharmaceutical educators, generally. He would like to hear about this. We all love progress. Did you ever see a man who was glad his Alma Mater was defunct? Never! He wants to see her prosper. It reflects glory on himself. He is glad to be the successful son of a successful parent. And this would bring us up to the point where I would have to show him (you see one can't break away from the habits of the pedagogue) where his help and co-operation were needed in his Alumni Association.

I have recently been the victim of a terrific Alumni campaign to raise funds (always funds, you know) to build some sort of a building on the campus—it is immaterial what kind. The old boys got together at noon time, after work, on Saturday P. M., etc. They boosted, they shouted, they talked, they work, they renewed acquaintances, and, of course, they raised money. But that is beside the point—the raising of the money. One would have to be very stupid not to see that the individuals, themselves, derived the benefit. They received that undefinable, though very real, reward which comes to those who do for others—especially those who co-operate with others in working for an idea or an ideal.

And I would ask our Alumnus to forget his pills and powders, his stamps and stationery, his grocery bill and his grouch (a druggist can, you know, get a grouch in 12 years), and get in touch with the Alumni Association, come to the annual meeting, or at least write a letter, or send the name of a prospective student. Not so much to help the School as to help himself.

It is in Human Nature to accord allegiance to something or somebody. Fidelity to one's family, loyalty to one's friends, allegiance to our college, and Patriotism for our country, all spring from the same basic principle in human nature and when we suppress or neglect any of these, we deprive ourselves of some of life's greatest rewards.

So what I would say to our old Alumnus, should I casually meet him, I want to say to all the members of the class of '03, wherever they may be. I'd like to meet them all again. I'd like to urge upon each one individually to get out of his rut (if he is in one), come to the next Alumni meeting, renew acquaintances, take a squint at the world thru a new angle, note that the others are getting gray, too, and then go back home better satisfied with the world and with Life.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. HYNES.

Chicago, Ill.
CLASS OF 1903.

Date of Graduation, August 13, 1903.

Class Secretary, DR LOREN E. LEWIS, Valparaiso, Ind.

Adams, Jesse Elssworth, Scales Mound, Ill. See last Annual. Was with the Western Wholesale Drug Co. of Los Angeles, but mail sent to the address given in the last Annual is returned.

Andrews, James Carlton, Conneaut, Lake, Pa. Now at Truesdale, Iowa. Proprietor of the Truesdale Drug Co., which business he has owned for the past five years, before that having worked in various places in drug stores since his graduation. Health is splendid. Married and says his wife charges him with being somewhat bald. Registered in Iowa and Missouri.

Antes, William Leland, Booneville, Ind. Now at Carmen, Okla. Registered and practicing in Oklahoma, passing the State Board in 1903 with an average of 90. Married a Hoosier girl and has a six-year-old boy. He is well established in the drug business and has one of the finest drug stores in Northwestern Oklahoma. He also took a course in optometry and has a large optical business and jewelry store in connection with his drug business.

Bennett, Raymond W., El Paso de Robles, Cal. Now at Turlock, Calif. Still following pharmacy and still single. He is registered in Illinois and California. Reports that he worked two years at $95 per month at San Jose and saved nothing and two years at $75 at Paso Robles and saved $800, upon which he went into business at Turlock in 1910, owing $5,000. This business is now clear, which isn't doing half bad. He helps us find Judson Smith.

Blandin, Ralph, Mapleton, Ill. Deceased.

Bondy, Raymond Marble, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 6426 Dante Ave., Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. We learn by telephone communication with his people here in Valpo that he is at the above address, still in the practice of dentistry and doing well.

Brothers, Commodore, Martz, Ind. Was at Linton, Ind. Mail returned. A letter to his original address returned marked, "No such postoffice." Referred to the General Postoffice. They reply that Martz is served through Shelburn. A letter to that address is returned with the face of it covered with forwarding addresses, none of which reach him.

Charlier, George D., Schiller, Wis. Now at Victor, Idaho. Spent the first three years after graduation in the Hospital Corps, U. S. Army. The next year was a fireman in the San Francisco Fire Department. The next six years was a drug clerk at different points in the West, then married and went into the drug business for himself. Besides the wife, he reports as earthly possessions a good store, a millinery store, and a ranch all in Victor, Idaho, or vicinity. Registered in Iowa, Utah and Idaho.

Cody, James Edward, Leopold, Ind. Deceased.

Copeland, Wm. Henry, McCutcheon, Ind. Now at 3722 Rokeby St., Chicago. Reference to last Annual will show what hard luck we had in trying to locate him. However, one stormy evening a year or more ago, while standing at the corner of Van Buren and Wabash, who should come along but Copeland. We eyed each other a moment and agreed that we were acquainted. A later letter informs us that he started in medicine but was unable to complete his work and drifted into the accounting field where he has risen to the position of assistant auditor for the Continental Casualty Co.
(the largest in the world of its kind) located at 910 Michigan Ave.
“August, 1909, I married the girl of my choice and am now the daddy of two fine children, a boy and a girl. Think we are the happiest little family in Chicago.”

Crew, William Franklin, Knoxville, Iowa. Now at Pella, Iowa.

dress where he owns one of the most modern, best equipped and up-to-date drug stores in the city. He makes a specialty of prescription work and is exceedingly busy. He has a concrete building on a corner and very comfortable apartments above which makes it very convenient for him. He has three children, two girls and a boy, the eldest eight and the youngest, the boy, four years old. Says that he has had just one week’s vacation in 1907, since leaving school, which means that he is attending strictly to business.

Cutright, Amy, Tarris, Pa. Now Mrs. H. M. Vaughan, Fayetteville, Ark. It will be remembered that she was married a year after graduation and that they had settled in the above town as manufacturers of prescription chemicals and jobbers in druggists’ sundries. She stays at home and manufactures the goods and takes care of the house while H. M. goes out on the road and fulfills his part of the contract. She sends us news of several classmates and others outside the pharmacy department and asks to be remembered to all old classmates who return in May.

Dawson, Franklin P., Petersburg, Ill. Never was in touch with him. Mail is not returned.

Dempsey, Dominic Patrick, Spillville, Iowa. Now at Kellogg, Minn. Acknowledged receipt of the 1913 Annual and recalls many pleasant memories of the old days. Corrects our statement regarding the reported death of Dr. Leonard. Later writes again, acknowledging that he is not married, but wishing us to attach no blame to him, giving as his excuse: “I am so busy attending those who are that I have not much time left.” Suggests that in the coming Annual, we give an account of all the teachers of the Institution not only in pharmacy, but in other courses as well. We take kindly to this suggestion, and hope we will find time to carry it out.

Duff, Mamie, Volga, Iowa. Now Mrs. Wm. Glasgow, Garden City, Kans. We receive definite information of her through a classmate, Miss Cutright and later a letter direct from Miss Duff, in which she acknowledged the receipt of the Annual and was only disappointed in that some of her classmates had responded with news in a similar manner to herself. She married William Glasgow, a Scientific of Valpo, soon after graduation, and in the fall of '08, they went West and took a claim, which they held down while Mr. Glasgow taught school. Later he received an appointment as mail clerk at the above city, near which they own their farm. They must be now in a position of retired farmers, and, at the same time, taking in a good salary in connection with the profits of the farm.

Duncan, Leslie Albert, Filley, Mo. Mail returned and can't find him. He was for a time in school at Fargo, N. Dak., and may be registered in one of the two Dakotas. Letters are returned from both Fargo and Filley. Letter to North Dakota State Board says an A. Duncan is in Arco, Ind. Wrote him there and letter was returned.

Eby, Robert, Griswold, Iowa. Now at Atlantic, Iowa. It will be remembered that he was in the drug business for a long time with his brother in West Liberty. Sold out there a couple of years ago and purchased a drug store in Riverside, Iowa, which he has just recently sold and is now looking for another location. The above address is temporary but the best that can be given. Married eight years ago and of course, registered in Iowa.

Fleckenstein, August P., Pierz, Minn. Now at 724 Lyons Ave., Kansas City, Kans. Sold out his drug store in Traer, Kans., and is just closing a deal for a drug business in Kansas City. Doing well and feeling fine and hopes to visit Valpo some time in the future.

Fletcher, William, Knox, Ind. Now at Salem, Wisc. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in '07 and has been practicing since. Specializes on eye, ear, nose and throat, and not only does a regular optician's work, but his own surgery in eye, nose and throat operations. In 1912, he married Jennie Ogden who was in Valpo in '03, and they now have a boy. Owns a $4,000 home and is now running his third auto, a 1915 Buick and a little “salted away.”

Giddings, Lyle Clinton, New Milford, Ohio. Now at 869 Wasco St., Portland, Oregon. Letter to his home address was returned, but his postmaster in reply to our inquiry gave us his father's address, who in turn gives us the above address for L. C. A letter sent to him to this address is unanswered. His father's address is J. R. Giddings, Akron, Ohio.

Gollobith, Edward Frank, Baldwin, Iowa. Now at Hanover, Ill. Letter returned. Wrote his postmaster, who called up E. F.'s father by 'phone and gets the information that E. F. is at the above address. A letter sent to him there is unanswered.

Goodpaster, William H., Kouts, Ind. Now at Option, Pa. It will be remembered that he graduated in medicine from a Pittsburg college and established himself in practice in a suburb of that city. He now has a fine practice and was lately appointed to a place on the board of health, and has been conducting a campaign of sanitation, which has not only brought him high compliments, but definite results in the way of decreasing infant mortality in the mining communities. Married and has two children, a boy and a girl. Visited us May 19th and enjoyed his return to Valpo.

Gregory, Roy Garfield, Magnolia, Ill. Letters to the Gregory boys were returned unanswered. A letter to the postmaster referred me to their father, J. Y. Gregory, who in turn gives news and addresses. Luke replied while Roy does not. The father's report is this: “Roy is at Los Angeles. He has been in the drug business ever since he left school, clerking in drug stores for some time, then got into wholesale stores and held responsible positions in Duluth, Des Moines and Portland. I have not seen him for six years. I will send your letters to the boys and they can tell you what they want to.” Luke makes us a very nice report. Roy evidently doesn’t “want to.”

Gregory, Luke Henry, Ralston, Iowa. Luke says, “I certainly admire your pluck and perseverance.” His reason for not answering is that he considers himself a back-slider since after practicing pharmacy for three years in Iowa and Illinois and meeting with exceptional success, he concluded that could not do so well financially as though he would farm. Went to Dakota and raised wheat on a large scale for five years. Sold out last year and is now back to the home district. His father says that he has the reputation of being a great seed corn man, having won many premiums in his state. All of this makes us very proud of him, instead of feeling that he is a back-slider.” While practicing pharmacy in Sheffield, Ill., he met and married Alice Powers in '06. He admits that his knowledge of pharmacy and chemistry have been a great help to him in his business. He also reports Roy is now working for Uncle Sam in Los Angeles.

Harth, Louis, Ambia, Ind. Now at Beach, N. Dak. Was in drug business until 1910 when he changed to banking, although he still keeps up his registration and is a member of the N. Dakota Pharmaceutical Association. He came to N. Dakota in the spring of '07 and in June passed the State Board with the second highest mark in chemistry. He is now assistant cashier of the Beach State Bank and busily engaged in selling farm mortgages.

Hayes, Ida Augusta, Detroit, Mich. Had a letter of inquiry from Miss Hayes from Fort Laramie, Wyo., but letters addressed to her there later were not answered. The postmaster suggests that we try Ft. Lupton, Colo. Mail from the latter address also returned.

Hines, Myrtle A., Elyria, Ohio. Now Mrs. Forrest King, at Muskogee, Okla. While at Pryor, Okla., she was joint owner and manager of the Palace Drug Store and was known as a very successful pharmacist. Visited in Valpo for a month this summer and timed her trip so as to be here the 19th. Spent most of her time looking after a very active second edition of Forrest S.

Horstmann, Frank Marion, Barron, Wisc. Now at 725 South Central Park, Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Howard, Fred A., Spokane, Wash. Now at Sandpoint, Idaho, practicing medicine. Meiners confirms the above address as does also Mundt. Letters are never answered nor returned.

Hunt, Thomas, Beech Grove, Ky. Last Annual said: “Letter returned.” This Annual would read, “Not returned nor answered,” which would be the end of the notice were it not for Shively of '07, who says that Hunt is really at Beech Grove and manager of the Cumberland Telephone Co. “The reason he don’t answer is that he is trying to get married and has about put it over. She is a Kentucky belle.” Now Hunt, if you don’t like this notice, answer the letters sent you and write your own next time.
Ingvalson, Alfred, Flandreau, S. Dak. Now at Arlington, S. Dak. In business for himself in his home town for a time, later came to Valpo for post-graduate work, then to the above city, where he has been for the past three years, owning and operating a prosperous drug business. Has just lately bought a home and was busy taking possession when he wrote. Married and has three boys. Sends us news of one of his classmates.

Johnson, Edward Arthur, Monroe, Wisc. We have never been in touch with him. Letters to Monroe were forwarded to Seattle and then returned to us.

King, Forrest S., Lamartine, Pa. Now at Muskogee, Okla., and again embarked in the practice of medicine. He is limiting his practice to eye, ear, nose and throat work. After leaving Pryor, Okla., he took post-graduate courses in New York and Chicago, enjoyed a period of sickness and sojourned for a time with the Mayo Brothers on account of it. Now is back and on the job with the advantage of having office practice.

Koerner, George Charles, Cullom, Ill. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. After graduation, worked in a drug store at Kempton, Ill., for three years, returned to Valpo, and has been engaged in plumbing and steam-fitting since then—pharmacy not being calculated to separate the dear public from their money rapidly enough. Married Leona Nickerson of Valpo in 1907 and has one girl of four years.

Koster, Samuel William, Francesville, Ind. Now at West Liberty, Iowa. Worked at drug work until the fall of 1912 when he went into the flour and feed business and is now postmaster at West Liberty. Married Maude Smith, a graduate of the State University of Iowa. Keeps up his registration in Iowa, even though he is not actively engaged in drug business.

Kurt, Nicholas John, Cascade, Iowa. Now at 5200 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Kurt doesn’t write, but Quinn says he owns his own drug store at the above address and is doing well. Also that he was married last year. Kurt and his wife attended the alumni meeting and banquet this year and we wish them many happy returns. That is even better than writing us.

Lee, Ameshberry, Theresa, N. Y. Now at Pickerell, Nebr. Worked in Chicago a year and then attended a business college in the West, again worked in a drug store in Beatrice and later in Omaha, while attending medical college. Graduated from Creighton in ’10 and has been practicing medicine since. Married Cecil Mayer of Beatrice, Nebr., in 1912. He built a nice new home and is getting along fine.

Lewis, Loren E., Hebron, Ind. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Continues the practice of medicine here in Valpo. Was again elected to the office of county coroner, which in itself, keeps him fairly busy. Accepted the duties of secretary of his class and will be writing all of you again one of these times for news for a new Annual. Please respond.

Manring, Clarence Delmar, Greentown, Ind. See last Annual. No reply has been given our later letters.Mail not returned.

McCabe, Floyd Cameron, LaFayette, Ind., c/o LaFayette Pharmaceutical Co. Still in the employ of the LaFayette Pharmaceutical Co., where he has been for the past seven years. Feels that he is doing better. financially and at the same time, enjoys his work better than in a retail store and he has tried both. Wears a coat of mail which has effectually turned Cupid’s dart to date. Wishes to know the whereabout of Christopher Gibbs, a Commercial of ’03. We can find nothing except his original address here in the University records. Who can help out our friend, McCabe?

Meiners, John, Danforth, Ill. Medical Lake, Wash. Went West and tried the farming game for a couple of years, but found it was too slow a way of “separating the dear public from their loose change,” so he got back into the drug business at the above town. Registered in North Dakota and Iowa. Married and has one boy and three girls. Doing fine financially.

Morgan, Warren Paul, Francesville, Ind. We have never been in touch with him. Mail is not returned.

Mosley, Elmer William, Kemp, Ill. Now at Aurora, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Mundt, Gustoff Henry, Mason City, Ill. Now at 6300 South Halsted St., Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. We have had no recent communications from the doctor. He was very efficient in getting data for last Annual and I am sure can and will be of much help to Dr. Lewis in reporting for his class this next year. He often drives his big car down to Valpo to visit relatives over Sunday, bringing his wife and two babies with him. By the way, he has grown to be a 200 pounder and his professional growth has kept pace with the physical. He would surprise the old classmates in more ways than one.

Olson, Herman Orlando, Flandreau, S. Dak. Now at Hatland, S. Dak. Was in business for himself at Andover, S. Dak., but sold out and is clerking in the above town while looking for a suitable location in which to re-invest. This news comes through his classmate, Ingvalson. Olson does not answer letters.

Parker, James Harvey, Little York, Indiana. Now at Austin, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to recent letters. Mail not returned.

Payne, Dayton Clyde, Terre Haute, Ind. We have never been able to get a word from Payne. Virgil Jalbert says in a reply to our request for news of him, “Dayton Payne is here in Terre Haute and general delivery would easily get him. He is a fine musician and his business is furnishing music in our theatres. I know him well.” So do we.

Peek, Everett J., Palmyra Ill. Now at White Hall, Ill. After graduation from C. C. M. S. in ’07, he established a practice at Modesto, Ill., but later moved to the above town, where he is now “relieving humanity of their suffering and money.” Married over two years ago, but we fail to learn the name of the poor woman. He says in closing: “If you have any inquiries, you may tell them that I am still authority on the color of red sandstone.”

Quinn, Wm. Charles, Strawn, Ill. Now at Chatsworth, Ill. Still in the retail drug business at the old stand and of course, long since registered in Illinois. Married Lucy M. Reinhardt, a Chatsworth girl, in 1912. Last summer, he and Mrs. Quinn made a trip to Europe and were caught in Germany when the war broke out, spending three weeks there during the war. Visited Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, Germany and Holland. He omitted to say how he was getting along financially, which statement it seems in the light of the above, is unnecessary. Sends news of several of his classmates. Later visited Valpo, May 19th with his wife and took one of our latest girl graduates back to work for him.

Sneary, George Earl, Roann, Ind. Now at Des Moines, Iowa, 1212 17th St. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in '06 and is now engaged in the retail drug business at the above address, being financially interested with his brother. Married Sylvia Fiesel of Des Moines in 1912. "Doing nicely."

Snyder, Clarence Henry, Delta, Ohio. Now at 601 6th Ave., Des Moines, Iowa. Worked in his home town for a number of years after graduation, then bought a half interest in an Ohio store, sold out and worked in Elkhart for a short time, then to Cedar Rapids and at last to the above address in 1913, purchasing the Victoria Pharmacy. Registered in Iowa and Oklahoma. Not married yet, but still has hopes and is especially encouraged by reading the reports in the Annual of the marriage of some of his classmates.

Stone, Harry Belvin, Dillonvale, Ohio. Now at 2819 LaFayette St., Ft. Wayne, Ind. Clerked in a drug store for eight or nine years, then got a position as chemist for the W. M. Griffin Co. of the above city, which position he not only holds now, but has become a stockholder and vice-president. Owns a fine home and is prospering financially. Passed both the West Virginia and Indiana State Boards without trouble. Married Almeda Jackson, a sister of his roommate, having met her on his way home after graduation.

Torkelson, Peter Theodore, Morris, Ill. Now at Lyle, Minn., Box 12. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in '08 and has been engaged in the practice of medicine since. Married and modestly admits that he is getting along "fairly well." Sticking to the same old place and same occupation and nothing to add to the write-up in the 1913 Annual.

Tyler, Roy Homer, Maumee, Ohio. Deceased.

Walker, Louis Earl, West Liberty, Iowa. See last Annual. Have not been able to locate him since.

Whysong, Clem C., Pleasant Lake, Indiana. Now at Angola, Ind. Worked in the drug business for two years after graduation, part of the time as clerk and later as owner of a business. Two years ago his health failed him and forced him out into the open, so he engaged in the business of truck farming on a large scale, making a specialty of onions and potatoes. He expects to put out ten acres of onions, 35 acres of potatoes and three acres of dill. Says he made more clear money the first year of farming than he ever made in the drug business, but is still a druggist at heart and intends to own a store soon, though keeping up his farming as a pleasant diversion. Registered in Indiana. Making good grades before the state boards. He wants the address or information of his classmate, Jesse Adams. Married Joy Haines in '04. She is a graduate of the phonography department and has had two years very practical application of her training before marriage.

Wickstrom, Alfred, Kron, Minn. 26th and Princeton Ave., Chicago, Ill. Still in business for himself at the above address. Has added the title of D. C. to his name this last year. Gives no other news of himself.

Wilson, Harvey Elmer, Piper City, Ill. Now at 5501 South Halsted St., Chicago. Came through Valparaiso last summer on an auto trip with his family. Is prospering as a city druggist and enjoying life. Never answers a letter.
CLASS OF 1904.

Date of Graduation, August 11, 1904.

Class Secretary, DR. WILL E. RUSSELL, Wautoma, Wis.

Acton, Albert M., Sulphur Springs, Ky. Deceased.

Bannister, Iowa, Stewart, Minn. See last Annual. Meiners says he is on a ranch at Stillwater, Minn. Mail sent to that address is neither answered nor returned.

Barkes, J. Edgar, Columbus, Indiana. Never had a line from him. Mail is not returned.

Barnes, Frederick R., Homer, Ill. See last Annual. Letters to his Indianapolis and to his old home address, returned. A letter to his home postmaster gives us his mother's address in Indianapolis, as Mrs. Lottie Ahles, 124 North East St., Flat 4. A letter sent to her asking for information concerning F. R. Barnes is unanswered.

Beck, Joseph E., Oro Fino, Idaho. Graduated from the Iowa State University in medicine in 1887, then, after graduating in pharmacy, took his above credits and graduated from the American Medical College in 1905. Registered in Washington and California, passing the latter state the first time and without trouble. Is now practicing medicine and pharmacy in Carmel, doing a good business and enjoying recreation hours in a 1915 Overland. Suggests a reunion at the San Francisco Fair, which is worth taking up by you boys in the West, especially. Reports that he is married and enjoying life on the edge of the Pacific.

Bell, A. Howard, Petersburg, Ind. Now at Gary, Ind. Writes us nearly two years ago, inquiring about the 1913 Annual. The letterhead used shows that A. Howard Bell is auditor for the board of education of Gary, Indiana. He was asked to act as secretary of his class and write invitations to all of you to attend the alumni meeting in May, but we never heard from him.

Bennett, Frank, Peterson, Iowa. Now at Linn Grove, Iowa. We have been definitely informed by two different students that his address is Linn Grove, Iowa, and letters sent there are not returned. We also received the announcement of his marriage to Sarah Ellen Reese in October, 1913, at Sioux City.

Brenner, John A., Belmore, Ont. Now at Hinckley, Ill. Practiced pharmacy until 1911 when he graduated from the N. W. Dental Dept. and has been practicing dentistry since. Says that the high cost of living interferes with plans of matrimony and avers that the high cost is less expensive and more fun. Drives an auto and presents a general air of prosperity and happiness which appears to prove his point.

Brock, Keller T., Owenton, Ky. 2538 West Michigan St., Indianapolis, Ind. After graduation, went to Chicago and clerked for some time, then to Indianapolis, taking the state board and working there for three years. Purchased the store where he is now located seven years ago and doing good business ever since. Married five years ago, but has no children. Rearing a nephew, whom he hopes to send to Valpo. Met his classmate, Bell of Gary, who was down at the State Capital interested in a little legislation. Hopes to take a motor trip through Northern Indiana and expects to stop at Valpo.
Carpenter, George H., Defiance, Ohio. Mail returned. Unable to locate him. Followed a suggestion to try Portland, Ore., but did not find him.

Chambers, Ben C., Monroe, Wis. Now at Clinton, Ill. Worked in Madison, Wisc., two years after graduation, then in Chicago a year, then a flying trip to western Canada and back to Duluth for a time, then to Superior, Wisc. Finally back to Chicago in 1909 where he worked until last November, at this time buying a store of his own in the above named town. Gives to Valparaiso the credit of his success. Registered in Illinois. Married Lucille Hewitt, who was a music student in Valpo in '04. Has a little girl three years old.

Crockett, Earl N., Olympia, Wash. Now at 463 Simpson St., Portland, Ore. Practiced pharmacy for five years, then went on the road for Woodward, Clark & Co., of Portland, and still remains with them. Aspirations along the line of medicine led him to address a letter of inquiry to us and that explains how we found him.

Deason, John, Murphysboro, Ill. Now at 122 South Ashland Blvd., Chicago, Ill. After graduating in pharmacy, he taught in high school, returning to Valparaiso and completing the courses B. S. and M. S., continued high school work and also practical assaying, doing research work on the rare metals, finally went to Kirksville, Mo., and took up osteopathy in 1908, doing special work in Chicago University during the summer sessions. Had charge of the work in physiology and bacteriology in the osteopathic school and later became a member of the faculty. His research work brought him prominence and he was chosen in 1913 as director of the A. T. Still Research Institute. He now devotes half his time to research and half to practice. Married a graduate and post-graduate of the Kirkville school, who is now his assistant in research work. Is making in salary and practice, $5,000 to $6,000 a year. Writes us a letter occasionally, abusing drugs and praising massage.

Dixon, Scott, Metropolis, Ill. Never have been in touch with him since graduation. Mail not returned.

Dugan, John W., Elwood. Now at 825 Main St. See last Annual. We have not had a letter from him since. Mail not returned.

DuTall, Wilbur E., Allentown, Ill. Now at Mackinaw, Ill. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Ealy, Mrs. E. T., Cassopolis, Mich. Now at Barnesboro, Penn. Says she is an assistant in a doctor's office, putting her pharmacy to practical account. She says further, "Doctor and I and son Lyle are intending to drive through by auto to Cassopolis, Mich., during the month of June. We expect to go to Chicago and want to stop at Valparaiso. We are getting along nicely." They stopped and sure gave us evidence of prosperity, if a handsome car is any sign.

Eaton, John B., 403 North Avenue, Chicago, Ill. The doctor gives us a humorous description of his three months' wait for his first patient. But he is now taking vacations each year to Europe or to the mountains, and at the same time, saving half of a good salary. So it seems that things come to him who waits. Married Elfrieda Heese of Chicago, in 1913, and now has a "bumping boy of 30 pounds, as fine a chap as you ever did see." Modestly admits that he is working thoroughly and quietly with the best of success.
Elwyn, S. Curtis, Girard, Kans. Now at 770 Aubert Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Has given all his time to drug business since graduation with the exception of a year and a half spent with the Prudential Life Insurance Co. He has had experience both as clerk and proprietor and is at present clerking in a drug store in the above city. Registered of course, in Missouri. Has never met one of his classmates since leaving school. Married in '07 and has a little girl two and a half years old.

Fetterman, Alfred L., Conneautville, Pa. Now at Central City, Nebr. In last Annual, we have had no reply to later letters. We were informed that after his marriage he took up his residence in the above city. Mail so directed is not returned. News of him might be gotten by addressing his mother at the old home address, I am informed by a distant relative here in Valpo. At the last moment, here comes a letter requesting me to certify as to his time here in school and a promise to write about himself later. He had received all of our letters of inquiry of course. His letterhead reads, "Chiropractor."

Fritz, Mark, Francesville, Ind. Deceased.

Gibbons, Samuel C., Brownsville, Pa. Mail is forwarded to three or four other Pennsylvania cities and finally returned to us. A letter to his postmaster suggests that we write a relative living in Grindstone, Pa. A letter to him has as yet received no reply.

Gieseking, Samuel, Altamont, Ill. Now at 3321 Block Ave., Indiana Harbor, Ind. Gieseking does not reply, but D. D. Miller of '13 says he is at the above address and has quit the analytical department of the steel company, now being employed as captain of the night police force, with extra duties as a plain clothes man. Not married. Mail to him is never answered nor returned.

Gilmore, Arthur T., Fort Smith, Ark. See last Annual. We have never been able to get in touch with him.

Groppel, Louis H., Jerseyville, Ill. Located in the drug business in Persia, Iowa, until '07 when there was an opening in his home town, where he held a position until 1911 and was compelled to quit on account of rheumatism, upon which he embarked in the automobile business which has proved profitable and at the same time, given him open air and shorter hours. Not married. Says the second letter makes a fellow feel like being called down in class. We sincerely wish it affected more of them that way.

Hall, Roy B., Persimmon, Okla. Now at Mutual, Okla. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. His sister of '11 says "Roy is farming now and doing fine. Still interested in pharmacy, but more familiar just now with the price of wheat than of quinine."

Harsen, Frank S., Hutchinson, Minn. Letters to his home address are unanswered. We learn that for a time he was at Pocatello, Idaho, but a letter sent to that address is unanswered. See last Annual. We can not find him.

Holliday, Clarence G., Greentown, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned and we are very certain that he is still in Greentown.

Hunter, Malcolm C., Scranton, Iowa. Now at Buffalo Center, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. Some classmate writes us that he is still at Buffalo Center. and doing remarkably well. Hunter wrote us a year ago asking about our course in dramatic art, but not for himself.

Ivetz, John, Torrah, Minn. Now at 586 St. Petre St., St. Paul, Minn. We had letters the fall of 1914 from the above address. He had lost his diploma in a fire and wanted a duplicate. Also wanted a statement of work done here to help him in a course in optometry. We supplied his wants and have not heard from him since. Mail not returned.

Jennings, Robert G., Brainerd, Minn. Now at 108 Sibley St., Hammond, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Kiley, William J., Cullom, Ill. Now uses a letterhead reading, "W. J. Kiley, Drugs and Jewelry, Cullom, Ill." Located at this place five years ago and being a native of the town, naturally found the people agreeable with good savings from the start. "No, not married yet, they know me here. I have been left single and am living with mother. However, I am quite contented." Quinn tells us that Kiley also owns a big garage and is selling almost as many automobiles as pills.

Kruger, Ella D., Westfield, Wisc. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Lee, I. W., Casey, Ill. Now at Dudley, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

McCord, M. M., Alfordsville, Ind. Now at Enid, Okla. Worked at Washington, Ind., for three years after graduation, then went to the above address, clerking there for two years, then going into partnership in the store which he now owns, having purchased all remaining interest in this business in 1912, where he has accumulated $15,000 above all liabilities. Married Rose Marquis in '09 and has a bright four-year-old boy already slated for Valpo. Owns two residence properties in his home town and interested in a grain business, and last but not least, is a member of the House of Representatives of the state of Oklahoma, being on half a dozen very important committees. We also receive a program of the state pharmaceutical meeting in which McCord figures very prominently as an official.

Mollison, Hugh D., Austin, Minn. Now at Tolley, N. Dak. Letters returned. The postmaster refers us to his brother, W. T. at Faribault, Minn. The brother says, "Hugh is in Montana somewhere, or was when last I heard from him. I am sorry I am unable to give you his exact address."

Pifer, E. Philip, Big Run, Pa. Never heard from him. Mail is not returned.

Reese, George, Somerset, Pa. Now at 5901 Woodland, Cleveland, Ohio. Letters returned. His postmaster says he is in drug business at Cleveland. A letter to that address reaches him and gets the information that he is operating a retail drug store and manufacturing patents. That he is getting along better than 95% of the retail druggists do financially and is registered in Ohio.

Roberts, Francis M., Rose Hill, Iowa. Never heard from him. Mail is not returned.
Russell, Will E., Westfield, Wisc. Now at Wautoma, Wisc. It will be remembered that he graduated from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery in 1907 and has been enjoying a fine dental practice at the above address ever since. He now writes that he has a new and modern home and that he has recently invested in the latest model "Detroiter" five passenger and expects to find that pleasure and business can be mixed without developing any incompatibility. He married in 1909. Has a daughter whom he expects to start to school in another year. In reply to the question, "What suggestion have you to make the Annual better?" he says, "Let's have better co-operation of all the alumni." We are of the opinion that he has sounded the keynote of the situation. Co-operation is going to solve the entire problem and solve it successfully if every fellow will lift his share, and it is a great satisfaction to know that there will not be a very great burden on any one, the only essential being that every one lift a little. Just for that suggestion he is to be your secretary. Give him your news.

Schafer, Joseph G., Poseyville, Ind. Reports that he is the happy father of half a dozen youngsters, and that with the high cost of living, he has only been able to gather together a little matter of $25,000, starting with nothing. On the side, he has the agency of the American Express Co., which is a very considerable financial item, as they shipped over 26,000 baskets of canteloupes during the six weeks season in 1914. Suffered a severe case of typhoid fever some time ago, in which he fooled all the doctors in the neighborhood. Promises to visit us next time he is in Chicago.

Smith, Judson G., Canton, Ill. Now at Reno, Nev., c/o Red Cross Drug Store, 127 North Virginia St. Has followed pharmacy in Oklahoma, Idaho, Washington, California and Nevada and has now finally settled at the above address. Is registered in every state mentioned above and when asked about the exceptional showing says, "I always get by." Has lived well, had a good time and saved enough to start in business for himself whenever a good opening is found.

Spratt, Edward L., Holbrook, Iowa. Now at Oxford, Iowa. "Been in the collar most every day since I left old Valpo in '04." Got his first job in the store which he now owns, clerked about a year, then worked in several Iowa towns, including Des Moines, resigning each time to take a better position, when finally after four years at the one store in Des Moines, he resigned to go into business for himself. Married in 1912 and reports a young son. Promises to come down to Valpo and bring his wife the next time he has business in Chicago. Sends news of his classmates.

Stappenbeck, Henry D., Utica, N. Y. Now at Schleisingerville, Wisc. Sold out his business in Edgerton, Wisc., and re-invested at once in the above town where he is doing an excellent business. Still owns his property in Valparaiso on College Ave., which he continues to rent.

is now associated with the “Peoples’ Dentists” at their Grand Avenue Office.

Swedenburg, A. Wilhelm, Ellendale, Minn. Now at Ashland, Ore. Had the misfortune to lose his wife some time after the publication of the last Annual. Later he moved to the above address where his brothers had previously located. He, together with F. G. are taking care of a good medical and surgical practice and at the same time, trying to develop their city into a health resort on the merits of mineral springs located there. He has two children, a girl and a boy, the girl being now old enough to be in school.

Ulmer, Leslie J., Alexandria, Ind. Now at 2240 Kenwood Ave., Indianapolis, Ind. Sold out at Terre Haute in 1912. Managed the Central Pharmacy at Anderson for 18 months, one of the Hook Drug Company stores in Indianapolis for a year, winning first prize in a “good-store-keeping contest,” nine stores being represented. The first prize was a chest of silverware. Managed HUDER’s Pharmacy No. 2, also in Indianapolis, for six months, then became representative for the International Correspondence Schools of Scranton, in which work he is doing very nicely. Married Lurain V. Salisbury of Valpo in ’05. Registered in Indiana.

Upton, Lawrence, McLeansboro, Ill. Now at 1203 West Franklin St., Evansville, Ind. Went to Evansville immediately upon graduation, clerking three years for one drug firm, resigned to take a better position with Theo. Gerke, and after clerking there for two years bought an interest in the store which is now known as Gerke Drug Company. In 1914, they built a new building a short distance from their old location where they are now carrying a $12,000 stock and doing a good business. Registered in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, and not married.

Vornholt, Paul, Markle, Ind. Now at Glasgow, Mont. Sold his store in Dakota and is now looking for a new location. He is at present with the Glasgow Drug Company at the above city. Promises to visit us on his next trip East and gives us news of several of his classmates. Sends a postcard showing interior of his store where he works, with Paul at left entrance front.

Wallace, Robert More, Cleveland, Ohio. Postmaster at Cleveland says, “Unable to locate him.”

Went, Edward C., Los Angeles, Calif. Now at Mishawaka, Ind. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned. He was present at the banquet held two years ago, but since then, we can’t hear from him.

Whitlock, George A., Piasa, Ill. Now at Arcadia, Ohio. See last Annual. Never gave us a reply to letters. We often wonder why. Mail is not returned.

Winn, Lowden, Rising Sun, Indiana. Deceased.

Wormley, Frank H., Marseilles, Mich. Now at 20 Oak St., Council Bluffs, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. We had notice of his marriage and the above address was given us. Mail so directed is not returned.

Wright, Albert M., Hartwich, Mich. Now at 421 Herkimer Ave., Buffalo, N. Y. Has been in the employ of the Lackawanna Steel Company of Buffalo as chemist for the past ten years, and has had several increases, both in salary and standing since then. He has. reached a development which will enable him to take full charge of a laboratory of this kind. Married and doing well.

Zinn, Norman I., Cavalier, N. Dak. Now at Bowden, N. Dak.

CLASS OF 1905.

Date of Graduation, August 17, 1905.

Class Secretary, MRS. CECELIA M. TIMMONS.

Abrams, Charles W., Salem, Ind. Letters are returned and the postmaster at his home town reports that he is unable to locate him.

Bacon, Charles C., Crown Point, Ind. Worked in a drug store in Chicago for six months after graduation, then on account of the illness of his father was compelled to quit and go back and manage the farm. Married in 1907, but had the misfortune to lose his wife in 1911. He is doing so well financially on the farm that he has decided to remain there.

Barnhart, Sherman H., Canton, Ill. Now at 3 Stevenson St., Freeport, Ill. Now proprietor of a prospering business in Freeport, Ill., where he employs one of our later graduates, A. A. Haas, as an assistant. The store purchased by him has been in operation for many years and he fell heir to a number of very old and valuable books, a collection of which he sent us here at Valpo. They make a very valuable addition to our library and are heartily appreciated.

Bowers, John T., Maiden Rock, Wisc. Now at Gully, Minn. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Breed, Arthur L., Edgewood, Iowa. Now at Rock Elm, Wisc. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Burnstad, Carl G., Watertown, S. Dak. Sold out his drug business in Florence, S. Dak., a year ago and took the management of the Watertown Drug Company a little later, from which he is just now resigning, and expects to go into business somewhere as soon as he can find a good location.

Campbell, Charles O., Friend, Nebr. Now at 1410 Harney St., Omaha, Nebr. Is now traveling salesman with the W. G. Cleveland Company of Omaha, owning stock in the company and being a member of the board of directors, and doing well financially. Registered in Iowa and Nebraska. Married in July, 1908, to Otley M. Duke, Eaton, Ind., a Valparaiso student.

Canfield, Richard W., Hanna, Ind. Now at LaPorte, Ind. Clerked one year in Indianapolis and four years in LaPorte. Has been in business for himself there since, a matter of over four years. Has a good location and is doing a fine business. Married a LaPorte girl in 1912 and has a fine baby girl. Won't write, but we went to LaPorte and got this news.

Carson, Harry R., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 1834 West Washington St., Phoenix, Ariz. Graduated from the Northwestern University in '09 and has been practicing medicine since, first serving an 18 month internship in St. Luke's Hospital, then two years in Princeton, Ill., then assistant superintendent at the Steuben Sanitarium at Hornell, N. Y., until lung trouble, contracted while at the sanitarium, forced him to move to his present location where he has now recovered his health and is meeting with success in medical practice. Married a student of the Northwestern music department and reports an 18 months old baby girl. Some time ago, sent us a specimen of plant used by the Indians in preparing a prophylactic for use in their celebrated snake dance, together with descriptive matter, which was highly appreciated.

Dickey, LaVerne P., Butler, Pa. Now Mrs. John Keys, 494 Indiana Ave., Kankakee, Ill. Miss Dickey finally writes us a long and very interesting letter in which she tells us that "Church work, club work, company, husband and baby have claimed so much of my precious time," well, it is easy to see what she is doing. Her husband has been teaching in the above city for the past two years. They intend going to Madison this summer to do some post-graduate work and Miss Dickey expects to own a drug store of her own as soon as she can arrange for her mother to come down and live with them and take care of "the dearest little girl in all the world," who bears the name of Kathryn LaVerne.

Dirstine, Pearl H., Lind, Wash. Now at Pullman, Wash. Graduated from the Washington State College in 1912, having practiced pharmacy for the five years previous. The week of graduation was elected to the faculty and is now assistant professor of materia medica, therapeutics and physiology in the Washington State College at Pullman. Registered in Washington and Oregon, but not practicing pharmacy any more. Married Jet B. Evans of Valpo, class of 1905, and reports that he is prospering. Phillips, of his class, sends us the news that a baby boy has arrived at Pearl's house and that he and Pearl are evidently preparing for war.

Duty, Delos Leon, Marion, Ill. Has given up pharmacy and become an attorney and is now candidate for the office of state's attorney for the county in which he resides. While he has retired from the practice of pharmacy, he still owns a prosperous drug business, "which is under the efficient management of F. E. Parks of '12, who exemplifies to a marked degree the business efficiency and professional elegance that has always characterized the boys from Old Valpo." Doesn't that just sound like an attorney making a good impression for his client on a bald-headed jury?

Fears, Ethel H., Nez Perce, Idaho. See last Annual. Letter to Fears at Gifford is returned and a letter to his postmaster asking about him is unanswered. We get no reply from Nez Perce, though this letter is not returned.

Fling, Harry S., Winchester, Va. Now at Alderson, W. Va. Has served as clerk or manager ever since graduation. "Never been out of a position fifteen minutes when I wanted work. I never failed to hold a position as long as I desired." Is considering going into business for himself. Married Grace B. Hudson in '07, and has a six-year-old daughter. In July '13, he sent us a report of their W. Va. Pharmaceutical Association, which shows that they certainly do things better than we do them here in Indiana. He is considering joining the A. Ph. A.

Fox, Ray D., Reese, Mich. Now at 111 South Jefferson Ave., Saginaw, Mich. Still in business for himself at Saginaw. Married last August. Wishes that the class of '05 could have a reunion and wonders how it can be brought about. Some of you 1905 folks tell him. Ask your secretary, Ray.
Garriott, J. Preston, Par, Indiana. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail to his address is not returned.

Gentry, John William, Arthur, I. T. Now at Alpine, Texas. See last Annual. Some time ago, he wrote us sending us some post cards, illustrating Mexican border troubles. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned. Just of late a post card saying, "heylo."

Gladish, Herman A., Oakland City, Ind. Now at St. Paul, Ind. Still following drugs and "don't want to know anything else, as it just suits me." Married Mabel Shook in 1908 and has a five-year-old girl. Doing fine in business and so strong on A. D. S. that he is often called "A. D. S. Glad." Writes news of many of his classmates and reminiscences of old times.

Greathouse, George C., Mt. Carmel, Ill. Now at Evansville, Ind. c/o Best Drug Co. Sold out his drug business on account of ill health and took a position in the largest pharmacy in Evansville, having full charge of the prescription department, including the buying for same. Averages 100 prescriptions a day and feels that he has the best position he has had since graduation.

Hamilton, Frank L., Westfield, Wisc. Now at Dixon, Ill. Graduated from the C. C. D. S. in '08 and has been practicing dentistry at the above address. "Am doing very well here, have a nice home, the best wife and baby on earth, and a good wish for everybody. What else can a man ask? Ham."

Hansen, Oscar A., Chicago, Ill. Now at Kamerun, W. Africa. Letter mailed in January, returned in April marked "Onbestelbaar-oorlog, undeliverable, war," together with the suggestion to the postmaster that he collect 3d.

Hoyer, John T. W., Ackley, Iowa. Now at 221 East Main St., Washington, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. A year ago he wrote for his credits to apply on a course he was taking at the Bradley Polytechnic. He was then at the above address and supervisor of manual training.

Huestis, Robert W., Bradley, S. Dak. He is reported dead in Moss' mailing list two years ago. Letters are returned with no comment.

Humphreys, Charles J., Jr., Arkadelphia, Ark. Now at Morrowton, Ark. Since leaving school has been clerk, manager and now proprietor. Spent seven years in Hot Springs, then moved to the above address, going into business for himself. Passed the Arkansas board in '05, making the highest grade given at that examination. Married Florence Jenkins of Paris, Ill., whom it will be remembered was a student at Valpo when C. J. was here.

Janousek, John, Montgomery, Minn. Now at Browerville, Minn. See last Annual. No reply to later letter. Mail not returned.

Jensen, Emma A., Waukegan, Ill. Returned to San Juan, P. R., and taught there another year, then back to the States and after visiting for a time in Chicago and in Wisconsin came to Valpo where she remains at present. Hardly considers returning to the Island. A late letter reports her at The Iowa, Apt. 56, Washington, D. C.

Joyner, James S., Marion, Ill. Deceased.

Jones, Guy W., Detroit, Mich. Now at Addison Hotel, Apartment 604, Detroit, Mich. Has forsaken pharmacy and is now branch manager for the A. G. Morse Co. of Chicago, having full charge of Detroit and vicinity. Still keeps up full registration in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa, having done work from the time he left school until 1909, part of the time in Hammond and later in Chicago. Answers in the same sentence that he is not married and doing well financially. Meets our boys when we take a trip to Detroit and shows us the city. He was in the classes of '04 and '05, graduating in February, '05, and thus did not get his name on a regular class roll. This explains why his name appears in the '05 list for the first time.

Keister, Harry S., Upper Tract, W. Va. Now at Middleton, W. Va. Letters returned and the postmaster at his home town informs us that he is now in Middleton, W. Va. Letters sent to that address are unanswered. After graduation, worked a short time in Chicago, then back to West Virginia, passed the state examination, took a position in Morgantown, holding it for one year, and then going to Fairmount for a better salary, holding this position until '08 when he entered the C. C. M. S. for medicine. Graduated in '12 and has been practicing medicine since. Always drew the best salaries when a drug clerk and did his work with ease. A thirty-second degree Mason and Shriner. Just purchased a new automobile "and can afford it." The last bit of information which can be closely related to the preceding is, "I am not married."

Kendall, Maurice, Galveston, Ind. Now at 65 Milby St., Houston, Texas. "Reared as a farmer, taught school fourteen years, after preparation at Valpo, became a railway clerk, then a locomotive fireman. Disappointed with all because the income was too small for the amount of energy expended, with wife and small son, returned to Valparaiso for pharmacy. Spent two years in Chicago, getting practical experience in the drug business, then to southern Texas in '07 on account of failure in health. Managed a pharmacy in Bay City that year and the next spring, built a drug store and residence in Blessing. In the fall of '11 sold out and came to Houston, building the Park Avenue Pharmacy and residence, where I am now living and in business. My son of 19 years is now a senior in the Scientific department of Valparaiso University. Valpo is the place to attend school, but South Texas is the place to live and enjoy life."

Kime, R. Roy, Rossmoyne, Pa. Now at 165 Broadway, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., New York. Worked at pharmacy in several Western states for a couple of years after graduation and then went into the employ of a cement plant in Concrete, Wash., as their chemist, until 1910, leaving them to enter the employ of the Westinghouse Manufacturing Co., and devoting his time to the study of electrical engineer, finally in 1912, landing in New York City as their sales engineer. Married Noble Lewis in '06 while living in Seattle. Have two boys going to school. Receiving a good salary and has bright prospects for the future. In reply to a letter to Mrs. Timmons, his wife tenders their regrets that they could not be with us at the alumni, and wishes a "jolly and happy day for all present, and a prosperous year for the college." Their home address seems to be 2643 East 19th St., Sheepshead Bay, N. Y.

Lane, Shirley W., Chebanse, III. Now at Kankakee, Ill. Completed his course in medicine in '08 and after practicing and teaching in Chicago for a short time, he moved to his home town where he was located for four years. He has very lately moved to Kankakee, where he has been having office hours during the afternoons for a year past. He says that while he has never practiced pharmacy, he finds it of very great advantage in his large practice. Mentions moving his family, but gives no definite news of them.

Lepak, Frank John, 405 East Fourth St., Duluth, Minn. Graduated from the Northwestern Medical in '09, and has been practicing since, having graduated from the Scientific course before taking pharmacy. Served an internship in St. Mary’s Hospital in Duluth, and then opened up an office in that city where he has been doing well since. Married Helen K. Iciek in 1911, she just having returned from a music course, 1910-11, in Valpo. He has two boys and reports life certainly worth living.

Liland, Ingvald, S., Abercrombie, N. Dak. Letters returned and the postmaster in reply to an inquiry suggests we address him c/o of George Liland, Lee, N. Dak., which same we did without result, the letter not being returned.

Long, Rose Lillian. Now Mrs. J. H. Mundt, Chelan, Wash. It will be remembered that she married J. H. Mundt in September, 1905, and that they moved to Chelan, her old home, in April, 1906. She worked in the store until Christmas, 1913. In March, 1914, a young pharmacist arrived at their house and since then, her time has been divided nine-tenths with the “new clerk” and one-tenth with J. H. and the store. They live in the “most beautiful spot on earth” and are enjoying life and making money. She was lately urged repeatedly, Herman tells us, to accept the office of County Supt. of Schools, but in her hardness of heart, flatly refused and Herman still has to hustle to make the living. He says prospects looked pretty bright for him for a while though.

Lorton, Thomas S., Herrick, Ill. Now at Pana, Ill. We finally get in touch with Lorton. He finished the Scientific course at the Northern Ill. Normal School and later graduated from the Medical department of the Washington University with the class of 1910. Served a two-year internship in a city hospital and one year assistant surgeon for the United Railway Co. of St. Louis. Now engaged in private practice in the town and doing well. Married in January, 1915.

Marchall, Frank L., Ackley, Iowa. Now at Oskaloosa, Iowa. Still following pharmacy and more interested each year in the work. While clerking, he reached a salary of $1,500 a year and now owns a half interest in the Pike Drug Co., “the best retail store in the best county, in the best state in the Union.” Married and happy.

Melby, Olaf, Westby, Wisc. Now at Summit, S. Dak. “Still at the old stand and doing fairly well. Have spread out by going into the farm implement business as a side line, representing the International Harvester Co. Sometimes get ball bearings mixed up with pills, but have never had anything serious happen because of a little mistake of this kind.” Sends greetings and best wishes to all.

Meredith, R. Mitchell, Holland, Ky. Now at Scottsville, Ky. Permanently located in the above place and in partnership with Herschel Smith of '12. Business good and improving all the time. “Am married and have settled down to the fate of a druggist, which is long hours, close confinement, hard work, and a darn good profit, which helps some.”
McCammon, Bert C., North Grove, Ind. Now at 1740 E. 10th St., Indianapolis, Ind. Still at the above address where he has been for the past eight or nine years. Started to work on $8.00 a week and now owns one of the prosperous drug stores of our capital city. How busy he is may be judged by the statement that he would like to attend the alumni meeting, but “May is a busy month and I will have to forego the pleasure.”

McNamara, Charles J., Gladwin, Mich. See last Annual. We have tried every suggested address, Gladwin, Detroit, East Jordan, etc., and no letter is returned. What do the postmasters do with them, anyway?

Millikin, Caroline E., Greenway, Ark. Now Mrs. Glascock, Marmaduke, Ark. A short letter from her confirms the above name and address. It will be remembered that she put in three years as a pharmacist, married and turned housekeeper. She says, “I am raising pharmics. Will furnish you two in about ten years, Miss Ruth and Master Richard.” Gives news of classmates, but no more of herself.

Montgomery, Harry E., New Amsterdam, Indiana. Now at 513 E. Third St., New Albany, Ind. Worked at drug work for a time, but has lately given up indoor work on account of his health and is in the employ of the Southern Railroad Company. However, he expects to go into drug business for himself at a later time. Married in '08 and has two sons.

Morrison, C. R., Mt. Vernon, Ill. Now at 136 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill. A letter of inquiry from him helps us locate one who was completely lost, as he graduated at a time of the year which precluded his name appearing on the class roll. He is now just completing his senior year in medicine in the C. C. M. S., and will surely be heard from by the time the next Annual is out.

Olson, Andrew, Elliot, Ill. Now at Wentworth, S. Dak. Worked for two years as drug clerk, then started in business for himself. Bought a bankrupt drug stock for $1,400, his resources at that time, being as follows, $26 in hard cash, a warm suit of clothes, high hopes and a remembrance that Mr. Brown said “work is good for folk.” “Still working and pleased to say have made good.” Not married. Registered in Texas and South Dakota. Sends the news of Trawick’s death.

Orndoff, Benjamin H., Harveys, Pa. Now at 1925 Marshall Field Annex Building, Chicago, Ill. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in '06 and while establishing and caring for a practice, he at the same time, fitted himself for teaching. He is making a specialty of very accurate diagnoses and has a very extensive equipment for this purpose. Has spent two summers abroad, besides much time in Rochester, Battle Creek and New York City doing post-graduate work. Married in '07 to Bernice Harvey of Rutan, Pa. For rest and relaxation, he tends towards automobile touring.

Ott, Clarence R., New Winchester, Ohio. Now c/o U. S. Marine Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. See last Annual. No answer to late letters. In July '13, we had a letter, saying he was still in Uncle Sam’s employ, but is expected to leave Memphis soon for some other stations. In May '14, we again hear from him, still at Memphis. He inquires about our Ph. C. course and seems to be contemplating a return to Valpo. That is the last we hear of him.

Otwell, Eugene C., Plainview, Ill. Now at 705 South Walter St., Albuquerque, N. Mex. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned to us.

Pabst, George A., Anderson, Ind. Now at Klemme, Iowa. Has been in business for himself in the above town for the past seven years. Married a young lady of Klemme six years ago and has a fine one-year-old daughter. Both business and bank account have grown nicely.

Phillips, Albert S., Leroy, Ind. Now at Hobart, Ind. Still in business in the above town, where he started clerking on leaving school. Is now in partnership with Byall of '10, as owners of the Rexall store. Reports the arrival of a baby boy last June who is just now learning to walk. Last August, accompanied by a Hobart dentist, he walked from his home town to Davenport, Iowa, in eight days, taking pictures and collecting drug store labels as curios, en route. "I gained ten pounds. Try it." No thanks, Phillips. I am heavy enough.

Plaas, Henry J., Red Wing, Minn. Now at Princeton, Minn. All sorts of letters to Plaas remain unanswered. A clipping sent us by his classmate, W. E. Pool, reads as follows: "The C. A. Jack Drug Co., at Princeton, has been incorporated by C. A. Jack, Eva Jack and H. J. Plaas." We finally get a report from Plaas, which runs about as follows: He went to Waseca for a year, then to Plainview for a year and then to the above address, where he has been ever since. He has just recently become a stockholder in the drug firm above mentioned, which is a $50,000 corporation. Married Hazel H. Heath in '07 and they now have a robust four-year-old son. It will be remembered that his wife was a graduate of the Kindergarten department the same year Plaas graduated in pharmacy.

Pool, William E., Jolly, Ohio. Now at Pipestone, Minn. Says he is in the same old store which is the most modern and up-to-the-minute store in the state, where he is busy taking care of a most excellent business. Sends news of several of his classmates and wishes the Annual all sorts of success.

Potts, Edd, St. Francisville, Ill. Now at 1706 North Second St., Vincennes, Ind. Since the publication of last Annual, he has been unfortunate enough to spend part of his time in the hospital, doing drug work at intervals when he was able. He sends us a veritable class report, giving news of many of his classmates. He is considering coming back to Valpo some time to take special work.

Purpus, Arthur H., Quincy, Ill. Now at 1142 State St., Quincy. Quit work in the drug store last August and has been traveling salesman for Mulford and Company since that time. Has ranked all the way from fifth to eight, from the top out of sixteen salesmen in the district in which he worked, which sounds pretty good for a new man. Also has gained twelve pounds. Registered in Illinois. Reports a second druggist now almost four years old. Says prosperity has not "side-stepped" him entirely.

Quick, Nannie Jane, Albany, Ill., now Mrs. Fred Sheets, at 201½ N. Bivay St., Oklahoma City, Okla. After this long time we succeed in getting a letter from Nancy. She has done no drug work since she was married, but admits she would enjoy managing a drug store of her own. Sends a picture to her classmate, Mrs. Timmons, which we believe, on the quiet, was taken when she was here in school, as it doesn’t look a day older than when she was filling prescriptions over in Room K.

Roe, Hallie J., Markle, Indiana. Now at Dunkirk, Ind. His brother Roy, of 1914, says he has bought a store in the above town, but could give us no other information. It will be remembered that he married Margaret Neal, of Montpelier, in 1912. Letters to the above address are neither answered nor returned.

Rucker, Shiveral G., Brownstown, Ind. Now at Seymour, Indiana. Taught school the following winter after graduation, then began work in a drug store in Seymour, in the spring of 1906. Married Pearl Deputy in March, 1908. Worked in Indianapolis the year of 1909, at which time he passed the state board and in 1910 bought a store at Crothersville. In 1912 sold out and started a new store in the above town. Not only reports a fine store and a good business, but two baby girls, aged one and four.

Rust, Roy Alvin, Underwood, N. D. Deceased.

Russell, Otto, Tindall, Mo. Now at DeSoto, Ia. Letters to his home town are returned. Someone suggests that he is near Des Moines, Ia., and that the Des Moines Drug Co. can tell us where he is. A letter to them gets no information. Then one to the state board of pharmacy of Iowa locates him at the above address. He says that he first went to work at Lincoln, Ill., at six dollars a week, paying four dollars and a half for his board and room, but he stuck for six months, registered in Iowa, got a better position, worked there eighteen months, moved to another place and got a little more money for six months, then over to his home town at seventy dollars a months for three and a half years. Took charge of a store in Sharon, Iowa, for a time, then quit the drug business, to enter it again at the above location, buying a stock for one hundred dollars down, and in three years had it paid for completely. Married Lola Eaton, an Illinois girl, in 1908. Registered in Missouri and Iowa.

Sadilek, Louis B., Cedar Rapids, Ia., 402 6th St. W. Still in business in the above city where he is doing well financially. Makes his own remedies from which he realizes an exceptionally good profit. Is a prospective automobile purchaser this spring. Registered in Iowa. Married and has two boys and a girl.

Sassaman, John V., Edwardsburg, Mich. Now at Charlotte, Mich. Still in business in the above town where he has been for seven or eight years. Met him at Detroit at the A. Ph. A. meeting and found he bore every evidence of being prosperous and happy. Looked for him down the 19th of May, but was disappointed.

Scott, James J., West Finley, Pa. Now at Eau Galle, Wisc. No reply to letter. Mail to the doctor is not returned.

Shallenberger, John F., Amanda, Ohio. Practiced medicine in Chicago for some time after graduating from the C. C. M. S. Kept bachelor's apartment at 766 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago. Visited Valparaiso occasionally. Letters addressed to Chicago address are returned. The telephone directory does not list the doctor and a letter sent to T. Shallenberger, Amanda, Ohio, requesting information concerning J. F. is unanswered. This latter address was the one given by J. F. on registering at the college office, in 1904, as the one to which communication should be sent in an emergency. Who can help us to locate him?

Share, Chas. D., Ludington, Mich. Never have had a line from him. Wrote George for news of him and got no reply. Mail to George to forward to him is never returned.

Sharpnack, Frank J., Carmichaels, Pa. See last Annual. Letters to Burrola are returned marked “no such postoffice.” The Washington general office suggests this may have been Bunola, but letters sent to that address are neither answered nor returned.

Shearer, James R., Minooka, Ill. Sends word to us that he is still with the alumni in spirit. The Shearers had the misfortune to lose a child in a very distressing accident this spring, and we can excuse him for not writing. Promises to be with us some future year.

Sheets, Fred C., Salama, W. Va. Now at 201½ N. Bivay St., Oklahoma City, Okla. We finally got his address again through his brother. A letter sent to his original address was returned to us covered with forwarding postmarks. We have a very nice letter from the doctor's wife saying that the doctor is still practicing medicine, although he has been interested in oil property very much for the past three years. During this time he has always kept a physician's office, and is now located in the above city, this time "permanently."

Shull, Lonzo L., Greentown, Ind. Now at Sharpsville, Ind. Has added a fine furniture store and undertaker's business to his drug investment. Passed the embalmer's examination a couple of years ago with a grade of 95 1/3%. Reports two girls and a baby boy. This letter was in 1913. Later letters are not answered and not returned.

Slocum, John L., Wanatah, Ind. 5th and Adams St., Gary, Ind. We hear he is at the above address but cannot get a line from him. Mail is not returned. Who gets it?

Smith, George D., Dwight, Ill. Now at Bristow, Okla., No. 494. After graduation obtained a position with the Corn Product Refinery Co. as “only” chemist. Finally landed in Dallas, Texas, in 1907 and registered in that state. Clerked for a time and finally entered a drug firm until his health failed him. Back to Cincinnati and on to Winnipeg, Canada. Regained his health and came back to his home town. Registered in Illinois and clerked there until 1914. Came under the spell of the wanderlust again and entered the Federal service. He is now a U. S. Officer in the Bureau of Animal Husbandry, having charge of the work in Creek Co., Oklahoma. Has prospered financially and is still single. Sends us a picture of himself with blanket and lariat in evidence.

Solverud, Tollef, Hayfield, Minnesota. Now at Mankato, Minn., 307 Kruse Bldg. We finally succeeded in locating him at the above address. Practiced pharmacy for a time, then took a course in the Davenport College of Chiropractic, which work he is now engaged in. He is considering taking a course in medicine. Married and has a “dandy four-year-old boy.”

Springer, Bert C., Springerton, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned to us.

Spurbeck, Cecelia M., Salem, Ore. Now Mrs. G. D. Timmons, Valparaiso, Ind. Very much interested in club work. Attends the national A. Ph. A. meetings. Belongs to the Women's Section and is chairman of the press committee. Gave the response to the address of welcome at Detroit last year. Is secretary of the class of 1905 and already begins to realize what it means to write a hundred letters and get thirteen replies. Watch her report for this class next year. Was elected president of the Women's Section of A. Ph. A. at San Francisco in August.

Searns, Guy L., Underwood, N. D. Now at 107 Philadelphia St., Detroit, Mich. It will be remembered that he worked for several years in North Dakota, in which state he was registered with a very high average. Also registered in Montana. Married Mae E. Lampman, a Detroit girl, in 1911, and took up his residence in that city, at the above address. He has since been employed by the Detroit Drug Co., at their 2344 Woodward Ave. store. We visited him, when in Detroit a couple of years ago, and found he had a nice place to work and was making good. He now reports a boy nearly two years old who is making home interesting for him.

Stratton, Otto, Oblong, Ill., R. F. D. No. 4. Plead's guilty to desertion from the pharmacy ranks. He was in the drug business for several years but with the death of his mother a year ago he went back to the farm and is now engaged in farming making a specialty of raising fine hogs. Invites us to a vacation of rest on a diet of fried chicken and squirrel.

Svebakken, Otto, Waterville, Iowa. Now at Waukon, Iowa. Since graduation and service as interne, he has been practicing in his home town with the exception of a month or two each year on post-graduate work or trips to the Montana Rockies. In 1913 he spent six weeks getting married. We are afraid to try to spell his wife's name. Some of you may remember the doctor's handwriting. He is now in partnership with a graduate of the C. C. M. S. running a hospital in connection with their regular practice, from which they jointly cleared almost twenty thousand dollars last year.

Talbott, John D., Bardstown, Ky. Passed the Kentucky board immediately upon graduation and has been practicing pharmacy ever since in his home town. In addition to the drug business he is now in the Federal employ, being deputy collector of the district in which he lives. He gives us an idea of the extent of government taxes on whiskey by the statement that he personally collected over two million dollars last year on whiskey taken out of bond in his district. We are still looking for some of that brand which he finds with cobwebs on it. Married Congressman Ben Johnson's daughter and reports three fine babies.

Trawick, Thos A., Francis, I. T. Died at Wentworth, S. D., June 4, 1912.

Wakeman, Leroy B., Union Mills, Ind. Now at North Judson, Ind. Came to the above address immediately upon graduation working there until the following spring when he bought the store which he still owns. Has since moved to a new building and put in a fine set of new fixtures. Reports that the future looks brighter than ever. Registered in Indiana. Married in 1907 but had to go to Canada for his wife. It is plain to be seen that he did not improve his time along all lines while in Valparaiso, however well he may have done in pharmacy.
Wallace, Robert T., Springfield, Ill. Now in Springfield, 1008 Fayette Ave. Sends us a postcard full of news of a classmate, and down at the bottom adds: "I have sold my store and am clerking at present. Will fill out the blanks in a few days." The letter finally came and reads "There are three of us now instead of two, a baby girl a year and a half old. I will sure be in Valpo in May if I can. Best wishes to all."

Walsh, William A., Aberdeen, S. D. Now at Sisseton, S. D. Failed to hear from Walsh this year, but a student in the Scientific class here in Valpo, from his section of the country, makes the following report: Registered in Dakota soon after graduation, bought an interest in a store in Bristol, sold out in the spring of 1911 to take a better position as manager of the store in the above town. Left this place for Lead, S. D., for a year, but early in 1914 was persuaded to return again to his old position in the above town where he now has complete charge. Is unmarried. Later we had a good letter from him wishing he could be with us in May and sending best regards to all classmates, but adding nothing to the information received above.

Weathers, Claude C., Marengo, Ind. Now at 437 State St., Hammond, Ind. Immediately after graduation took a position in New Albany for a year and a half, then went to Omaha for six months, when he left the retail drug business and took up pharmaceutical manufacturing, which branch of pharmacy he is still following. Was for a time with the Quality Drug Co., of Kalamazoo until 1912, when he took a position with the F. S. Betz Co., in Hammond. Married in 1912 to Agnes McMorrow, of Kalamazoo, and reports a baby girl. Mentions some of his classmates, particularly John Williams, whom he ran across in Denver, in 1905.

West, John F., Kankakee, Ill. Now at 3452 N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill. Completed medicine at the C. C. M. S. in 1910. Practiced in Iroquois, Ill., until the early part of 1915. Has just completed a post-graduate course in eye, ear, nose and throat and is looking for a location. Married Sue M. Olson while here at Valpo. She still lives with him and helps materially in caring for two big boys. Still keeps up his registration in Indiana. The above is his forwarding address.

Wilkinson, Leonard, New Bedford, Mass. See last Annual. We have not heard from him this year. Mail to his Denver address and to his home address is not returned.

Williams, John D., Omaha, Nebr. We have never heard from him directly, although classmates have informed us that they met him in Denver, also in Omaha some time ago. Mail is not returned.

Williams, Fred W., Vogt, S. D. Never heard from him. Mail not returned.

Worth, August, Stoughton, Wis. See last Annual. All letters are returned. A letter of inquiry to the postmaster at his home address puts us into communication with the family with whom he made his home. A letter from them showed great anxiety to again get into communication with him, they having lost track of him. We traced him to Minneapolis but failed to get him located more definitely and letters to that address are returned. Who can help us?
CLASS OF 1906.

Date of Graduation, August 16, 1906.

Class Secretary, JOHN EBLE, Valparaiso, Ind.

Amick, Charles L., Scottsburg, Ind. Now at Wakarusa, Ind. Graduated from the University of Louisiana in 1911 and has been practicing medicine since, in Filmore, Ind., until November, 1914. Promised to attend the next alumni meeting, but failed to get here. Married Miss Alva Edy in 1911.

Armstrong, Roy, Springfield, Ill. See last Annual. Letters to his Oregon City address returned. Postmaster at his home town of Springfield, Ill., reports that he is at 896 Union Ave. N., Portland, Ore. A letter sent to him there is not answered and not returned.

Arvin, Owen Dorsey, Alfordsville, Ind. Now at Washington, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Barrows, Roy Edgar, Mishawaka, Ind. Now at 808 Commercial Ave., Cairo, Ill. Graduated from Northwestern University in 1909 and has been practicing medicine since. Served as an interne in Cook County for eighteen months, then was two years in the iron-mining district in Northern Minnesota, and for the past two years has been associated with one of the leading surgeons in southern Illinois. Married Gertrude Ellsomer, of Mishawaka, in 1910.

Barton, William Clinton, Eldorado, Ill. Now at Chinlee, Arizona. Letters to Eldorado returned. Postmaster there says he is in Defiance, N. Mexico. A letter to that address is returned marked "No such postoffice." A letter to the general postoffice, at Washington, says "Defiance is on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, and persons living at that place receive their mail through Allison." We wrote him at Allison finally receiving a reply from Chinlee, Ariz., in which he gives us the following information. "Taught a term of school, then matriculated in the Barnes Medical. Graduated therefrom in 1911. Won an internship at the St. Louis City Hospital. Later entered the government service and have been on a reservation since that time." The letter is headed "Department of the Interior, U. S. Indian Service" and he tells us that they have a well-equipped hospital of forty beds. During his attendance in medical college, he spent all of his extra time in a drug store and thus secured the necessary experience to enable him to take the Missouri Board examinations, which he passed successfully in 1911. He sends us some post cards illustrative of the section in which he lives and tells us something of the conditions of the country, especially of the fine scenery, being only one hundred fifty miles from the Grand Canyon.

Bean, George Washington, Anna, Ill. Now at 223 N. Main St., Pueblo, Colo. Clerked for three and a half years in the store in which he is now financially interested, starting as a stockholder with a small amount of money saved out of his salary, first buying land, and then trading it for drug stock. He is registered in Colorado, admits that he is doing better than the average financially and admits further that he is not married. Sends us a clipping telling about the opening of their new store where G. W. is manager. If half the things they say about "magnificent new mahogany fixtures, unsurpassed by any drug store anywhere, proving that we do not belong to the Glooms family," be true, it would indicate that they are not on the road to starvation.

Blake, Straude, Mauckport, Ind. Now at 918 S. 4th St., Terre Haute, Ind. Registered in Indiana. Was married in 1911 and promises that he will send his son here to college in 1925. Besides holding down a good position as druggist, he has been for the past two years teacher in the Terre Haute Veterinary College, holding down the chair of chemistry and pharmacy. Sends us news of classmates, whom we had never succeeded in locating.

Boon, Charles Lester, Washburn, Ill. Now at Towanda, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Borman, George, Metropolis, Ill. Now at Roselle, Ill. Remained in Valparaiso the next year after finishing pharmacy taking out his B. S. degree, then entered Northwestern as a Junior Medic, graduating therefrom in June of the following year, and has been practicing medicine ever since. For the past three years he has been doing post-graduate work in New York for three or four weeks each year. Married Isabel Potter whom he met at Valpo, and is now planning to send a boy, aged two, to take a pharmacy course, and perchance to select for his life partner a daughter of some of the doctor’s former classmates. He also reports a girl three and one-half years of age who will likewise be educated at Valpo.

Boyd, Edward George, Holt, Ohio. Was at Estancia, N. M. See last Annual. No reply to late letters. Mail is not returned.

Boyd, Russell Stuart, Galeton, Pa. Was at 1631 Holman St., Covington, Kentucky. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail sent to both the Kentucky and home address and not returned in either case.

Burnett, Alta Lawrence, Crab Orchard, Ill. Was at Silverton, Colo. See last Annual. No reply to late letters. Mail is not returned.

Carlson, George Charles, Escanaba, Mich. Lynden, Washington, is his present address. Carlson reports that he has been West two years, spending eighteen months in Bellingham, Wash., before moving to his present location. Likes the West better than the East and is now busily engaged in studying Newth’s Chemistry getting ready for the Washington Board. Married last June in Seattle to a young lady from his home town in Michigan.

Chowing, E. O., Shelburn, Ind. Now at Dugger, Ind. Still editor of the Dugger Tribune and also reports that he married a Miss Dugger of Dugger. He admits that he is making a living, which is quite a concession from a newspaper man.

Cockerill, Cecil, North Fort, Va. Now at Boonville, Mo. The postmaster at his old Virginia address helped us locate him at Boonville. He reports having taught five years in Texas and the last four years he has been professor of languages in the Kemper Military School. Of his eight summer vacations two were spent in Mexico studying Spanish, one each at the University of Texas, University of Chicago, and in Colorado, and three at the University of Wisconsin, where he received the Master of Arts degree in 1912. Reports that in none of the schools did he find that spirit of good fellowship prevailing among students and teachers which helps to make every Valpo alumnus so loyal to his Alma Mater.
Creasy, L. E., South Wayne, Wis. Graduated from Northwestern medical department, in 1908 and has been practicing medicine ever since and in connection with his medical practice he owns and operates a drug store. Reports that he located in his present place in 1908 on borrowed money, bought out another doctor and a drug store in 1910, and is now worth twenty thousand dollars. Married Anna W. Glatt, a Valpo girl, in 1904. Has a daughter five years old. Writes for one of our students to come and enter his employ.

Dale, David Harrison, Centerville, Okla. Now at St. Peter, Ill. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1909 and has been practicing medicine since. Registered in Iowa. Married Lola Wood, a trained nurse from the Frances E. Willard Hospital, in 1910. Doing well in his work.

Dicks, Robert L., Monica, Ill. His classmate, Norton, says Dicks is located at Galesburg, in the drug business, but we can't get anything out of Dicks. Finney tells us that Dicks is in Galesburg employed in the drug store of Dr. C. H. Burt.

Duff, John T., Harrisville, Pa. Was at Ilo, Idaho. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Dye, Sparrell Hill, Memphis, Tenn. Deceased.

Eble, John, Bethany, Ill. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Completed the Scientific course after graduating in pharmacy. Taught school in South Dakota, coming back to Valparaiso each summer. Several years ago he established the "Eble's Teachers' Agency," which has now grown to such an extent that it is occupying all his time. Married Dorothy Sletten, a South Dakota girl in 1914. We are sorry to report that married life doesn't seem to agree with John as he is down to a mere shadow, weighing only about two hundred and ten. Of course he and his wife were at the banquet, May 19th. John is also made class secretary and all you 1906 fellows may expect to hear more than ever from him.

Engstrom, Richard Emmanuel, Red Wing, Minn. Now at Geraldine, Mont. Was employed by the Drake Drug Co., at Conrad, Montana, a couple of years ago. Letters sent to Conrad were forwarded to Missoula and then returned to us, while letters to his home town are neither returned nor answered. A student here in school gives us the above address, but no news.

Ernster, William Thomas, Masonville, Iowa. Now at Brandon, Iowa. Bought a run down store and has built it up into a fine business in two years time. Now owns this business and is doing well. Married Mable Goodwin "in 1908, I think, and have a boy that runs the house and the store, too."

Fry, Roy Emmet, Cowden, Ill. Two years ago he was in Burke, Idaho, where he had been clerking for a number of years, but he said he liked the West and intended to see more of it. Later he wrote to us that he expected soon to leave the Idaho town and would write us when he got settled. Since then we have not heard from him. A letter sent to his home address is returned, stamped "unclaimed." His classmate, Newton, says, under date of Feb. '13: "Received an announcement of Fry's marriage last July, but have not been able to locate him."

Fuller, Fred D., Winamac, Indiana. See last Annual. A later address of 719 Oakwood Blvd., Chicago, was given us. Mail sent to Chicago and Winamac returned. Who will help us find him?
Garner, Harold Douglas, Ashland, Ill. Now at Lee Newstead Pharmacy, St. Louis, Mo. Marlow says Garner is at the above address; that he meets him often and knows that he is doing quite well. Further reports that "he is not married, but in love." Garner doesn’t write. Mail not returned.

Gardner, Clyde, Russellville, Indiana. Now at Opera House Drug Store, Decatur, Ill. After spending five years in the drug business in Chicago, he came to the above store where he has been for the past three years. Married in 1913 "to the best girl on earth, of course, even if she wasn't a Valpo girl." He also adds: "Would love to attend the alumni meeting in May but—I'm married now."

Glenn, Robert Richard, Ashland, Ill. Now at Keokuk, Iowa, 422 Main St. Has been in Keokuk for the past two years. Registered in Illinois where he expects to go into business for himself before long, unless he makes up his mind to take medicine. Has held his job without registration in Iowa against representatives of three other schools, which speaks well for his ability as well as for Valpo. Married for the past three years.

Goldsmith, Ora Earl, Whiting, Ind. Now at Big Heart, Okla. W. F. Graubman reports that Goldsmith is in Big Heart, Okla., having purchased a store there last April and from all reports is doing very well. A letter sent to Goldsmith is unanswered but is not returned.

Gronde, Franklin Joseph, Alta Vista, Kansas. Now at Commonwealth Club, 182 Hudson Ave., Red Bank, N. J. Practiced pharmacy four years in Rocky Ford, Colo., then took a B. S. degree from Bucknell University preparatory to entering medical college, but never got started in medicine. Has been teaching for the past three years and is now principal of the high school at the above address.

Greisbaum, Philip, New Baden, Ill. Now at Lebanon, Ill. Graduated from Washington University, St. Louis, in 1910, where he received honorable mention throughout his medical course. Has since been engaged in the practice of medicine in which he is succeeding exceptionally well. Married in 1913.

Hershman, Charles Edward, Tefft, Ind. Now at Alliance, Neb. After completing a medical course at C. C. M. S. he did an internship of one year in Chicago Hospital, practiced a year in London Mills, Ill., and then came to the above address where he has been engaged in the practice of medicine for the past four years. He says that it is an up-to-date Western town of five thousand and offers a good business as well as a nice place to live. Married a little over a year ago, but not to a Valpo girl.

Hofmann, Andrew, Wibaux, Mont. Now at 554 State St., Hammond, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. We are sure he is still practicing in the above city. His father-in-law here in Valparaiso, tells us he was over a couple of weeks ago in a fine new car. Brought his wife and two boys.

Hunt, R. R., Adolphus, Ky. Now at Martin, Tenn. Has a retail drug business with a five thousand dollar stock in partnership with Mayhew, of 1912. This store was originally opened by Hunt Bros., but R. E. retired in 1913, Mayhew taking his place. Married Fanny B. Mayhew in 1909. Has a four-year-old boy and a fifteen-months-old girl. Promises to send the boy to take pharmacy in 1928.

Isaacson, Ida Christina Louise, Chicago, Ill. Now at Swedish Hospital, Minneapolis, Minn. A postal card informs us that she is as busy as busy can be attending to her many duties as superintendent of the hospital and graduating a corps of trained nurses this spring. She was back in Valpo for some time a year or more ago.

Jacobs, George, Hedrick, Ind. Now at Isabella, Tenn. Never had a letter from him. We hear he is practicing medicine in the above town. Mail is not returned.

Jalbert, Brazil, Ind. Now at 17th and Poplar Sts., Terre Haute, Indiana. Still engaged in pharmacy at the old stand in Terre Haute. Registered in Indiana and a very active worker in the State Pharmaceutical Association. They allow him to play on the fat man’s ball team, although he only weighs two hundred and sixty pounds. Married Ethel Reed, of Terre Haute, “one of the best looking girls in the city.” We have scanned the papers closely to see if there is any news regarding Jalbert in the Terre Haute specials, this spring, but it seems he has escaped the snares of the politician. Jalbert proves to be one of our “old reliables” when it comes to getting news or responding promptly to a request for assistance on the Annual. The very latest is that he is a candidate for State Senator from Vigo county. Now we may hope for some real pharmacy legislation.

Johnson, David Byres Ray, Augusta, Okla. Now at Dickson, Tenn. Embarked in the drug business immediately after graduation where he remained for three years. He found that the long hours did not agree with him, so he went back to teaching. Soon rose to the rank of superintendent. He later returned to Valparaiso with his wife and finished the A. B. course in the Educational department. Both he and his wife are now in the public schools at the above place, he as superintendent. He intends to put in two hundred acres of wheat this year and teach through the winter, thus combining farming and school work.

Jones, Homer E., Shoals, Ind. Never have had a word from him. Mail is not returned.

Kime, LeRoy Frederick, Rome, N. Y. Now at Taloga, Okla. Visited us last fall and expressed an intention of entering medicine, but after he got back home decided that he was doing well enough. His history, briefly, runs like this: He learned that his first job was to take the place of one of our former graduates, so he did not accept the position even though he had gone to the expense of going to it. Later got a job at Indianapolis, where he worked for a year, then went to Oklahoma where he found excellent opportunities until he decided to go to his present location and start in for himself. He is now general manager for the Kasco Medicine Co., as well as being actively engaged in retailing drugs. Registered in Iowa and Oklahoma, in the latter case being one of fourteen out of a class of seventy-six. Married an Oklahoma girl in 1909. “To make a long story short making good money.”

cousin is, but Woodland, Pa., ought to get him if mentioned ‘im¬ portant.’” Later we got a letter from R. B., giving Zanesville as his address, with the following news: “Never have received an Annual. Am a salesman for H. K. Mulford and Co. Married last Christmas. Have a nice, comfortable home, a six-cylinder Buick, and a few cents to the good.” He also tells us that he spent three years “rolling pills” before he went with the above firm, whom he has been representing in Ohio for the past five years. Dropped into Science Hall for a few minutes one day last December, but could not find us in the very short time he had to spare.

Knepp, Seymour Ivan, Shiloh, Pa. Now at Caro, Mich. Working as a chemist in a sugar factory, where he started five years ago at seventy-five dollars a month, now getting considerably more than double that sum. Has never received an Annual, but is interested.

Kyllo, Adolph Leonard, Red Wing, Minn. Now at Grants-burg, Wis. See last Annual. Never answered a letter. Mail is not returned. A student here in school says he is at the above address, but gives us no other news.

Lacy, Arthur Bailey, Crofton, Ky. Now at Nortonville, Ky.
Worked at drug work until 1909, when he had obtained sufficient experience to allow him to appear before the state board. He passed with an average of 77, the passing mark being 75, which he considers very good for a man who had been three years away from the technical training of the school. At once he went into business for himself at Crofton, Ky., and remained there until 1911, when he sold out and came to his present address, buying a half interest in an established business, which, by the way, is the only drug store in the city. Later was appointed postmaster which adds to his income.
Married Maud Brasher, whose father was a registered pharmacist in Crofton until his death many years ago. They have two children, a boy of three and a girl of one, and Lacy reports plenty to eat and wear.

Lee, Stenef L., Minneapolis, Minn. Now at 929 Lake St., N. E., Seattle, Wash. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

LeFebvre, Joseph, Champion, Wis. Now at Pulaski, Wis. In the drug business at the above location for the past five years. Also has been appointed postmaster, which adds about twelve hundred dollars to his income. He has established a branch store at Denmark, Wis., a nearby town, and has an exceptionally good income from both the stores. Owns a beautiful home and rides in a 1914 Buick roadster. Married Florence Urbanek, a teacher, in January, 1914. Hopes to visit Valpo some day.

Livingstone, William Wallace, Peoria, Ill. Now at 1601 17th St., Denver, Colo. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. We are certain he is still in Denver and prospering. Mail is not returned.

Marlow, Bascom Mortimer, Americus, Mo. Now at 4301 Mc-Ree Ave., St. Louis, Mo. In business for himself at the above address since 1908, having bought the store in which he clerked for the previous two years. Since then has enlarged the store and increased the stock very considerably. He is located just one block from the famous “Shaw’s Garden.” Promises to show us St. Louis in his Studebaker if we ever come that way. Registered in Missouri and Kansas. Married an Arkansas girl in 1909. Sends us news of his classmates.

McCausland, Harlouen Saunders, Bournemouth, Eng. Now at 926 Barry Ave., Chicago. Still working for the Abbott Alkaloidal Co. Long a member of the American Chemical Society and later joined the A. Ph. A. Writes us long ago calling attention to his change of address, The Leon, 2703 N. Clark St., but we find the above address given in the last directory of the Chicago Branch of the Chemical Society. Letters so directed are not returned nor answered. We see Mac occasionally at the meetings in the city.

Millikin, Lester Allen, Greenway, Ark. Now at 5127 Shaw Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Graduated from St. Louis University in 1910. Served an interneship in St. Mary’s Hospital during 1911 and 1912, and has been practicing medicine since. Registered in Arkansas and keeps up his registration. Surgeon to the Christian Hospital in St. Louis, and the youngest man on the staff. Makes bone work a specialty for which he has invented an electric operating device. “Not married, but willing to be”.

Monroe, Harley Ross, Albany, Ind. Now at Tampa, Fla., c/o Orange Hotel. Since leaving Valpo has worked in Gary and later in Chicago, then with Wright and Lawrence, prescription druggists, on State Street, Chicago. Registered in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Oklahoma. The firm for which he worked had two exclusive prescription stores in the loop and are up-to-date pharmacies from the standpoint of real pharmacy. Visits Valpo occasionally. Later we hear from him in the sunny South where he is still interested in the practice of pharmacy.

Nelson, David Edwin, Anoka, Minn. See last Annual. His name is no longer in the Chicago telephone directory. Mail to Anoka is not returned and not answered.

Newburn, Lee Roy, Dewitt, Iowa. Now at 806 N. 11th St., Centerville, Ia. Worked in Nebraska for a few months after graduation, then in Colorado, working for the Howe Drug Co. Passed the Colorado Board in 1910. Went into partnership with Horn of ’96 and Bean of ’06, under the name of Pueblo Drug Co., established at that city, and ran two stores for some time, doing a good business. The altitude was too high for Mrs. Newburn, so he sold out and returned to her home in Iowa. Passed the Iowa Board and expects to go back into business as soon as he can find a desirable location. although he is considering a government position under the new drug law. Married Della Raney, of Centerville, in 1911, at Boulder, Colo. Sends to us for some text books on Chemistry.

Norton, Harry Bradford, Center, Mo. Worked in Colorado for a few months after graduation. He entered Drake University, graduating therefrom in 1910. Spent one year in Iowa Methodist Hospital, at Des Moines, then located at his home town, where he has been doing a general practice since. Not married. Sends us news of his classmate, Robert Dicks.

O’Brien, Francis Patrick, Eden Valley, Minn. “Same old Irish O’Brien with a little green spot way back in my memory for Old Valpo and the friends I made there.” He is not working in a store now, but expects to start one of his own before long and “be boss, and see how that goes.” Is coming to Chicago in May and promises to be with us the 19th, but failed to get here.

Ogle, H. E., Midfall, Ind. Somebody tells me that Ogle is now taking a course in medicine in Chicago, but they are unable to give either the school or his street address. He was last in the drug business at Donnellson, Iowa. See last Annual.

Owen, Ernest Preston, Cobden, Ill. Now at Anna, Ill. Owns one of the most modern drug stores in southern Illinois and has been making good ever since opening the store. Registered in Illinois and Iowa. Married Madge Stokes, of his home town, in 1911.

Patch, Roy Clare, Romeo, Mich. Deceased.

Proctor, Albert Aaron, Tindall, Mo. Now at Princeton, Mo. Now proprietor of the Rexall Drug Store in the above town, which he purchased in 1913. Registered in Missouri in 1907, winning second honors. Married Leonora Fowler, of Jefferson City, Mo., in 1910. Sends us addresses of several of his classmates, which help is certainly appreciated.

Proctor, Harper Lane, Lacedale, Miss. Now at 1604 Main St., Jacksonville, Fla. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1907, having taken his first two years in the University of Alabama. Registered in medicine in Illinois and in several other states by reciprocity, in Florida by examination in 1911, making the third best showing. Registered pharmacist in Florida, where he has been practicing medicine since 1911, and at the above town since 1913. Married Sara Maude Gross, of Sylvania, Ga., in 1913. Is state medical director in the Modern Woodmen and is a Mason and K. of P.

Rimer, Ernest Wesley, South Bend, Ind. Now at Breckenridge, Minn. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1908, and has been practicing since. Registered in Iowa. Married Jennie E. McLain, in 1912. She was at one time a Valpo student.

Sandidge, C. E., Flora, Miss. Now at Inverness, Miss. Passed the Mississippi Board immediately upon graduation, making 100 in organic chemistry. Started to work in Jackson, Miss., at $85 per month and raised to $100 that fall, for which consideration he ruined his health in two years time. Emigrated to Texas and “tried to farm two years.” Learned in that length of time that he was a flat failure as a farmer. Returned to the above town, borrowed a thousand dollars and bought a half interest in a drug business, giving notes for the balance. This firm has now a large drug stock, their own pressed brick building, a frame store for rent, and some vacant property. Mr. Sandidge owns a home in Texas, as well as one where he resides. Feels that he is twelve thousand dollars to the good, the accumulation of which he attributes in part to the assistance of the Hoosier girl, Mable Franks, whom he married in 1907 and by whom he has a boy of six and a girl of four. Hopes to visit Valpo within the next year or two.

Scotten, Benjamin Miles, Sedalia, Mo. Started as a clerk for a firm in his home town immediately after graduation. Later was given charge of a branch store and is now president and general manager of the Scotten Drug Co. Has a beautiful, modern store and is doing a nice, clean drug business. Expects to build a new, modern home this year. Married Florence Hershman, in 1911, a sister of his classmate, Dr. Hershman. Registered in Missouri and Iowa. Visited Valpo this last year but only had time to see us a moment.
Share, George Alonzo, Ludington, Mich. Now at 1913 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. We have met him a couple of times over at the dental college. Last fall we received his wedding announcements, Estelle Jewel Carroll being the chosen lady. No reply to later letters and mail not returned. Maybe the honeymoon is not over yet.

Siepel, Philip, Fairfield, Iowa. Now at Center Point, Iowa. Worked a short time over at Lowell, then went to Iowa where he worked for W. H. Ryan, and later for T. C. Ryan, remaining with him until the spring of 1910. Bought a half interest in a store at Aredale, Iowa, selling out in the summer of 1913. A little later he bought at the above address where he now has a prosperous business. Married Rena Buttjer, an Iowa girl, in 1913.

Slater, Harry P., Annaway, Ill. Now at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, c/o Howard-Holt Co. Spent four years in the retail drug business in Solon, Iowa. Then entered the employ of the Howard-Holt Co. in the above city as manufacturing pharmacist, and declares that he likes it better every day. He has been married seven years. Was in Chicago this winter but failed to come down to Valpo, for which we do not propose to forgive him. Sends us news of some of his classmates.

Smith, Grover Eugene, Alta Vista, Kansas. Now at San Diego, Calif., with the Monarch Drug Co. Last heard from in Wichita. We now hear from him in the far West, where he is head prescription clerk for the above firm. Keeps up his registration in Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, New Mexico and California. Married Sophia Weber, of his home town, in 1907. A baby boy, born to them in 1909 died within a year. A second son, William Weber, arrived this year, 1915. As to finance he says "my ship is on the way."

Stewart, Ollie Reed, Ripley, Tenn. Now at Palatka, Ark. See last Annual. No reply to later letters but had an acknowledgement, a remittance and a promise to be with us in 1914. Well, make it 1916, now, doctor.

Swenson, O. L., Lamberton, Minn. See last Annual. We have never had a letter from him. Mail to his home address not returned to us.

Swift, Frederick James, Maquoketa, Iowa. Now at Baldwin, Iowa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned, so we presume the Doctor is still in Baldwin.

Toothman, Lorenzo D., Hendley, Nebr. Now at Keswick, Iowa. After graduation went to Iowa and registered on his diploma, working first in a retail store and later in a wholesale drug house in Omaha, Neb. In the spring of 1907 he bought the drug business in the above town where he has an excellent location and has done well. In 1907 he married Selva Whittaker, whom he first met at East Hall, in 1906. He has a son six years old.

Trautvetter, William George, Warsaw, Ill. Now at 551 E. 50th Place, Chicago, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. We hear he is now at the above address. Mail is not returned.

Travis, David Leonard, Washburn, Ill. Letters returned. In reply to a letter of inquiry, his postmaster says that he is at LaSalle, Ill., but could not give his street number. Letters sent to LaSalle are returned, after having been checked over by all the city and rural carriers at that office. Who can locate him?
Walker, Charles Melmer, Cartersville, Ill. Now at Edmond, Okla. By writing to his postmaster, we got his father's address and through him finally located Walker. He is still in drug work, having been located at the above town for the past five years. Reports it a fine school town, one hour's ride from Oklahoma City by interurban. Hopes to be in business for himself one of these days. Registered in Oklahoma. Married Geneva Udell in 1909, a daughter of Dr. C. N. Udell, of Valparaiso.

Werner, John Harris, Hanover, Kansas. Now at Manistee, Mich. L. B. No. 263. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1911 and has been engaged in the general practice of medicine since. He is now medical inspector of the public schools in Manistee. Feels that he is doing better financially than the average. Married Ollie Kurth, of St. Paul, in 1908.

Wiesjahn, William Herman, Wanatah, Indiana. Does not reply to our letters, but his brother, R. J., of 1914, says "William is at the International School of Chiropractor." We find, on inquiry, that this school is located at 421 Ashland Blvd., Chicago. A letter will reach William at his home address. We might add, however, that there is no assurance that it will be answered.

Wertz, Clyde S., Frontier, Mich. Now at North Adams, Mich. Worked successively at Monticello, Delphi and Rushville, Indiana. Then he went to Michigan and worked two years in Jackson where he had charge of one of the large down town stores, then to Detroit for two years, in a large down town pharmacy. He felt that he had had experience enough, so purchased a store at Hillsdale, Mich., selling it soon after and working in the same store until he found an opening in the above town in a drug and grocery business. Registered in Indiana, Iowa and Michigan. Married and doing well financially.

Williams, Alzie Edward, Temple, Okla. Now at Hammon, Okla. See last Annual. Mail neither answered nor returned.

Zinn, Edgar Nelson, Walkerton, Ont. Now at Goldfield, Iowa. Slater says he is prosperous and practicing medicine in the above town and that he is a customer of the firm for whom Slater acts as pharmacist. Zinn doesn't write. He was also with Slater on the trip to Chicago this winter.

Zoesch, John Ferdinand, Butternut, Wis. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

CLASS OF 1907.

Date of Graduation, August 1, 1907.

Class Secretary, ROLLA SIEVERS, Valparaiso, Ind.

Beck, William Henry, Hot Springs, S. D. A letter from his father reports his death in 1911, from pleuro-pneumonia. He was not married.

Bline, James Andrew, Milltown, Ind. Now at Walla Walla, Wash. Dr. Baughman reports Dr. Bline a physician, of Walla Walla, Wash. Letters sent there are not answered and not returned.

Borah, Oliver Clarence, Golden Gate, Ill. Now at Olney, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.
Boslough, Elmer E., Storm Lake, Ia. Now at Mott, N. D. Managed a store at New England, N. D., but later moved to the above address, where he is now manager for the Mott Drug Co., which represents an investment of twelve thousand dollars. Registered, of course, in North Dakota. Two years ago expected to take up a valuable claim in Montana and at that time was married and had two children. He reports nothing further along any of these lines.

Buckman, Lee, Farmingdale, Ill. Now at Elkhart, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. We know he is in Elkhart and that he is doing well. We do not know why he does not give an account of himself.

Bryant, W. M., Pittsfield, Ill. Now at Greenville, Calif. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Butler, Mary Theresa, Glendive, Mont. We have never been able to get any news from her, either directly or indirectly, since publishing our last Annual. Very recently, her classmate, Miss Hoepfner, tells us that, owing to the death of her mother, Theresa was called home to take on the cares of the household and is still there.

Butler, Marcella Cecelia, Glendive, Mont. Now at LaGrande, Ore. Received an announcement of her graduation from St. Vincent's Training School, Portland, Ore., June, 1913. Have never been able to get any further news from either of the Butler girls. Later a letter from her classmate, Miss Hopfner, says that Miss Butler is now head nurse in an emergency hospital, LaGrande, Ore., and is doing well.

Butler, Ralph Adolphus, Paducah, Ky. Now at Clermont, Ia. Graduated from the University of Iowa in 1912 and after passing the state board with an average of ninety per cent, he began what proved to be a very successful practice of medicine in the above town. Married Bertha Milos, while at Valpo. She was a student in the music department.

Cade, Calvin Elijah, White Heath, Ill. Now at Parsons, Kans. Worked in Chicago immediately after graduation for half a year and then went West, working for a time in Oklahoma and then returning to Wichita. Later he went to Independence and while there the store was sold to parties in Parsons and he moved with it. Registered in Kansas and Oklahoma.

Carpenter, Frances Eugene, Yerington, Nevada. Someone tells us that Carpenter is a member of firm of Carpenter and Edwards, wholesale and retail cigars and tobacco, Portland, Ore. Letters sent to that address are neither answered nor returned.

Christison, James Chester, Owatonna, Minn. Letter returned. An inquiry to his postmaster is ignored and an appeal to Dr. Andrist, of 1897, to hunt him up meets with like response.

Coburn, Ernest Harlan, Portsmouth, Ohio. Now at 168 Gallia St., New Boston, Ohio. After graduation worked in a pharmacy in Gallison and later in Mansfield, Ohio. Then he worked in the Lackawanna Steel Company's laboratory, at Buffalo, after having taken the Ph. C. degree at Northwestern University. Later he worked for Stearns and Co. in Detroit until he took the management of a drug store in that city. Passed the Michigan state board while there. Finally he went to Portsmouth where he worked for a time and later to a suburb of that city where he has been running his own drug store ever since. He married Ethel Dugan, a Valparaiso student of 1908, in 1911, who died September, 1914. This misfortune had been preceded by a financial loss caused by a flood in 1913, and store and household goods by fire in June, 1914. He has faced disaster but now has a new, modern brick building, with two flats and a large store room. His store is equipped with oak fixtures and he is meeting with the success he deserves.

Cox, Edward Frank, Pana, Ill. Now at Oglesby, Ill. Graduated from C. C. M. S. in 1910. Was interning in the Frances Willard Hospital when he received a better appointment at the Alexian Brothers Hospital where he had made a high rank in competitive examinations. Completed the full competitive course there as resident physician and surgeon, and at the expiration of his service located in the above town. "I admit confidentially, and I trust modestly, that I have had marked success professionally and financially." He is planning to have a little more leisure this season, having just ordered a six-cylinder touring car, still keeping the roadster for business use. Married and has a really truly American family—a girl and a boy. His wife was from his home town and a graduate of the West Side Hospital Training School, of Chicago.

Creech, Enoch B., Poor Fork, Ky. Now at Elkhart, Ind. Returned to Valpo later and took the senior year of the two year's course. He graduated with the 1911 class, preferring to take out a diploma representing a two-year course. More of him will be found in the 1911 notes.

Doty, Ross Elsworth, Albion, Ill. Now at Bellmont, Ill. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. We have reason to believe that he is still cashier of the bank in Bellmont.

Duff, Chester E., Chavies, Ky. Now at Jackson, Ky. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Duvall, Ethel Ermon, Savage, Ky. Now at Arkansas City, Kansas. After some experience in Texas and Kentucky, she came to Hammond, Indiana, and took charge of the drug department in a department store there, which she managed very successfully until a year ago when she decided to go into business for herself at the above city. In addition to her other work she has just installed a new Bishop-Babcock-Becker soda fountain which she finds adds very materially to profit as well as work. Sends news of some of her classmates and wishes she could be with us graduation time.

Duvall, Walter Jilson, Savage, Ky. Now at Hutchinson, Kansas, c/o Duvall's Pharmacy. Duvall never writes but Ethel tells us something about him and his brother who is just graduating in pharmacy this year tells us a little more. He has a big drug business in the above town and has also just added to his burden by putting up a new building for an auto supply house which he had established just half a block from his drug store. Married a couple of years ago and still lives with his wife.

Fisher, William Hayward, Linna, Ind. Letters returned "no such postoffice." The government says Linna has been discontinued and the district served from St. Francisville. A letter so addressed is returned undelivered. Anybody a suggestion? Ask Cluxton and Freshour to help, Rolla.

Fletcher, Edgar Holmes, Capon Springs, W. Va. Now at Philadelphia, Pa., c/o U. S. Weather Bureau. Still employed as Observer in the U. S. Weather Bureau, having been transferred from Richmond, Va., to Philadelphia, about a year ago. Getting along fine and has pleasant work. Reports that while he isn’t married, he is looking forward with hopes to the year 1916.

Fletcher, Elmer S., Capon Springs, W. Va. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Hopfner, Louise, Helmiville, Mont. After graduation she worked in a drug store in Butte, Mont., for a year and liked her work and got along well with it, but long hours and confinement made her think more of health than of prescription work and so she went back on the ranch with her mother, who was left to manage alone. She sends us news of some of her classmates and informs us that she expects to visit Valpo at the next alumni meet in 1916.

Joachims, Walton Wright, Bellmont, Ill. Joachims doesn’t reply but a student from his home town makes the following report: “Owns the finest pharmacy in southern Illinois, has the most modern fixtures including a magnificent soda fountain. He has the only drug business in the city, and is making good money. Married and has a boy one year old.” Why not write for yourself “Jo?”

Koons, James Franklin, Higgins, Pa. Letters to the above address are returned marked “No such postoffice.” At last account he was attending the Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia, and said he had passed the Pennsylvania State Board. A letter to the Secretary of the Pennsylvania State Board receives the reply “We have no record of him since 1908, as he has made no renewal since that time. The postal authorities at Washington inform us that the discontinued postoffice of Higgins is now served through Higgins, Schuylkill Co., Pa. Letters so addressed are neither answered nor returned.

Lage, Edward Joachum, Paulina, Iowa. Writes us for some information regarding a stock food formula on paper bearing a letterhead “Lage Bros. Pharmacy.” Says he is getting along nicely, enjoying a good business and “making a little money.” Promises to visit Valpo the next time he comes to Chicago.

Lien, Oliver Gilbert, Coon Valley, Wis. Now at 5012 W. Ohio St., Chicago, Ill. Still chemist for the National Malleable Castings Co., of Chicago, with whom he has been ever since graduation. Member of the American Chemical society since 1911. In August 1914 he married Alma Webb, a Valpo B. S. of 1912. Has just moved into his own home and is “very busy fixing up the place evenings and spare time.”

Mangrum, Carl Waldo, Princeton, Indiana. Still with Shop- taugh in the above city where he is well satisfied “working for the best man on earth.” Says he would be called “head man” were it not for the fact that he tries to keep things running under such a system that no head man is needed, because every fellow is carrying his part of the responsibility for a successful business. He gives us the subject of a lecture to the graduating senior, the text of which is “Learn to work without a boss. The world wants a man who can see things to do.” We might add that Mangrum remembered us last watermelon time by sending us a sample of southern Indiana melons, which were, without doubt, the largest and best watermelons that ever came our way. He closes by saying: "Wife and four-year-old daughter is the extent of the family."

Matheson, Murdock, Chinook, Mont. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Mendez, Rafael Martin, Lares, P. R. Still busily engaged in the drug store which he has owned since graduation, having returned to his native town with his Chicago bride, upon completion of his school work. She was a student in Valparaiso while he was here. They now have three children. He is not only doing well in a business way, but is mixed up in politics. He sends us news of Porto Rico boys. He also takes occasion quite frequently to send us unique pieces of apparatus for our museum as well as Porto Rican drugs for the materia medica collection.

Merten, Peter Joseph, 458 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Miller, Ernest Andrew, Lewisburg, Pa. Now at 310 Elm St., Bunker Hill, Kansas. After graduation at the C. C. M. S. in 1910, he served a year's internship at Grace hospital and then practiced in Chicago for some time. Finally concluded that he would rather be a "big frog in a small pond" and moved to the above address where he has been for the past three years and is prospering, both professionally and financially. Married Agnes Sperry in 1911. Wishes to know something of his classmates, particularly mentioning some of them.

Mills, Ward Magoon, Battle Creek, Mich. Mail is returned. We have never been able to get into communication with him.

Nelson, Oscar Emil, Anoka, Minn. Now at Deerwood, Minn. Dr. Baughman tells us that Dr. Nelson is in Truman, Minn. Letters sent there are forwarded to him. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1910 and served as an interne in the Frances Willard Hospital for fifteen months, then established a general practice in Truman, Minn., later moving to the above address, where he is busily engaged in practice as the only physician in town. Doing well financially. Not married and knows nothing of any of his classmates.

Pelham, Franklin Edward, Geneva, Ind. Now at 116 S. Elm St., Muncie, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned. Wrote us some time ago for a statement of time in school, intending to take the state board. Have not heard from him since.

Pounders, Jewell Talmadge, Sidney, Ark. Now at Batesville, Ark. Worked in drug stores for a time and finally acquired an interest in one, but was compelled to quit the business on account of ill health. In January, 1914, he retired from active drug work and moved on a farm. Keeps up registration in Arkansas and Texas. Married in 1913.

Rab, Alwil John, Moneo, Ill. Now at 1788 West End Ave., Chicago Heights, Ill. Enjoyed two years sickness after graduation, then got a job in Chicago but soon resigned for a better position at the above address, which place he has held for two years. Registered assistant in Illinois and expects to take full registration examination.
Ramsey, Joseph Harley, St. Francesville, Ill. Now at 1522 N. Second St., Vincennes, Indiana. Still in business at the old stand. By hard work and diligent attention he has established a good, money-making business. Married nearly two years ago and reports a baby boy. Always found boosting for Valpo.

Ritter, J. Bradley, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at Hammond, Ind., c/o Lion Store, drug department. Has been following the drug business since graduation and is now manager of the drug department in the Lion Store at the above city. Has good hours and a good salary. Registered in Indiana and made an exceptionally good showing in laboratory work. Married Frances O'Keefe, of Valparaiso, in 1912.

Roman, Borges Ulises, San Sebastian, P. R. Now at Santurce Sta., San Juan, P. R., Box No. 2. After graduation spent one year in a bank. Then established a drug business in Moca and was doing well when he lost his store in a fire. A short time after he bought a drug store at the above town and operated it so successfully that he later established a branch store. His wife, to whom he was married in 1909, is also a registered pharmacist in Porto Rico and it was to her that he left the management of one of the stores. Business depression on account of the change of tariff on sugar led him to fear a financial crisis and he sold both his drug stores at a good profit, planning to go into the manufacturing business when along came the European war, upsetting this plan. He is now organizing a commission business selling drugs and sundries throughout the Island. Passed the Porto Rico Board with the highest grade made in his class and the highest that had been made for several years.

Shideler, Earl Wilkinson, Dayton, Ohio. c/o C. F. Ware and Co. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned.

Sievers, Rolla, Valparaiso, Ind. It will be remembered that Rolla was in the employ of the Heineman and Sievers Drug Co. when he attended school. He has never left their employ and is now senior clerk for this prosperous firm. Married Elsa Mae Price, of Barnesville, in June, 1912, and is to be found every evening at their new home on Main street. Is selected as secretary of his class and gave notice that he would call on some of you for assistance in writing up the report as he was partly in this year and partly in another and hence not so well acquainted with all of you as he might have been.

Simon, John, Bosworth, Mo. Later at Sanborn, Ia. We have written to the postmasters at Bosworth and Sanborn, and examined the Chicago directory, but can get no trace of Dr. Simon. It will be remembered that he graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1909, served an internship and married one of the nurses in the hospital where he was interne.

Sorensen, George Lawrence, Wautoma, Wis. Now at Thompson Falls, Mont. Letter returned and our letter of inquiry to the postmaster was handed to Sorenson's father who says: "I take pleasure in informing you that my son is manager of a drug store at the above address. I have forwarded your letter to him." We have written him direct but have had no reply. The letter was not returned.
Sutter, Wilbur Miles, Storm Lake, Iowa. Now at Cherokee, Ia. Lock box 333. Clerked for a time in his home town, then went to a better paying job at Sheldon, Ia., where he remained for a year, then back to Storm Lake and bought a drug store, which he operated successfully until last June, selling to good advantage and deciding to clerk for a time until business steadied down a bit. Is now senior drug clerk in Cherokee, Ia. Registered in both Indiana and Iowa, making good grades before both boards. Married Maude Elder, an Iowa girl, in 1909.

Tatro, Zephers Guy, Ashkim, Ill. Now in Chicago, Ill., 7059 Wentworth Ave. After graduation worked for a time in Kankakee, then in Indianapolis, back to Kankakee, and finally to Chicago in 1908. In 1910 he took a position with Morrison Plummer and Co., where he worked a year, then back to retail business buying a store at the above address in 1913. Full registration in Illinois. Married Edna Eggert, of Chicago, in 1909.

Weaver, Leonard Webster, Brazil, Ind. See last Annual. We have not heard from him since he completed medicine. Mail to Brazil is not returned.

Wilhelm, William Floyd, Belknap, Ill. Now at 900 Penna. Ave., East St. Louis, Ill. Worked in Cairo for three years, then became connected with one of the wholesale houses of St. Louis, as traveling salesman, which position he held until two years ago, when he went back to retail work, expecting to go into business for himself within the next few months. Registered in Illinois and Missouri. Writes us a very interesting letter filled with reminiscences of the good old days.

Class of 1908.

Date of Graduation, July 30, 1908.

Class Secretary, E. W. Thralls, Valparaiso, Ind.

Allbaugh, Jason W., Kilgore, Ohio. Now at Mingo Junction, O. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1911 and has been practicing medicine since. Is now assistant surgeon to the Carnegie Steel Co., Mingo Plant, and “doing very well except along matrimonial lines.”

Ballangee, Lanta, Strange Creek, W. Va. Now at 1241 Hamilton Bldg., Detroit, Mich. After graduation he worked for a year in Richwood, W. Va., then as manager of the Glen Elk Drug Co., for two and a half years, then proprietor of the Angle Inn Pharmacy for a year. Since that time he has been working in Detroit as prescription clerk. Registered in West Virginia and Michigan, having made a general average of 88 in West Virginia.

Bay, John D., Valparaiso, Ind. Was in Denver, Colo. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. We hear that he is representing the Prudential Insurance Company and is in either Denver or Colorado Springs. For a time he was decidedly interested in the Battle Era coal mining proposition. In fact induced many of the rest of us to become interested financially. Conditions in the financial world, the failure of the managers of the Moffit Road to build a promised extension and the coal miners strike and war in that very section of the country all contributed to a severe financial loss to him and a lesser one to stockholders interested. It was not a case of dishonesty nor lack of efficiency and certainly it wasn't because he did not have a coal deposit of quality and magnitude. It was simply a combination of circumstances that demands today a Rockefeller's purse to withstand.

Browder, J. Orrison, Chicago, Ill. Now at LaJunta, Colo., Star Route. Was for some time employed as general manager by the Union National Drug Co. at Upper Sandusky, Ohio, from which position he resigned in May, 1914, to go West with his two brothers and embark in the business of stock farming. A relative here in Valpo gives us the above address, but we fail to hear from Browder. Later a letter from Browder says: "Homesteading with my two brothers on nine hundred and sixty acres. Finances uncertain but game to the last. I could write you a book on sleeping under horse blankets, drinking ditch water, breaking a bucking bronch, when I never rode anything more strenuous than a pony, and various adventures from rattlesnakes to dynamite, but you wouldn't print material so foreign to pharmacy in the Annual. In spite of the little inconveniences, I have never regretted throwing over the title of assistant general manager and a salary of two thousand dollars. Yours for better or worse."

Chase, Claudius H. J., Effingham, Ill. Now at 815 Main St., Kankakee, Ill. Worked for a time in his home town of Effingham, then went to Hamilton, Ohio, and from there to Indianapolis, working for K. P. Brock, of 1904; then accepted a position in the Indianapolis Hospital, but gladly gave it up to get back into drug work, and after a change or two settled in Kankakee, where he has remained since. Made a startling discovery in Kankakee—namely that there was a remarkable affinity between a pharmacist and a milliner, and is now interested in the latest style of hats as well as of pills. Registered in Illinois. The above named milliner was Miss Sigrid E. Rosen, of Waukegan, who changed her name in June, 1914.

Collette, Philip C., Ashkum, Ill. Worked in Chicago at the Consumers Drug Co., for three and a half years, having charge of one shift. Later assistant manager at LaSalle and Madison for six months. In 1913 his father and mother died within a period of three months, which brought him back to his old home. Bought out a physician who owned a drug store there, and has increased both the stock and the business. Hopes to be with us in May.

Cooley, Homer, Danville, Iowa. Now at Williamsburg, Iowa. Says he is not making history very fast, neither has he broken into the Wallingford class, but is making a good living and laying some aside for a rainy day. He is still sticking to his Williamsburg job. Registered in Iowa. Married Winifred Wolferth, of Burlington, and came to Valpo, in 1911, on his wedding trip. Sends us news of a few of his classmates.

Crum, Howard C., St. Marys, Pa. Now at 1405 Ninth Ave., Oakland, Calif. Wrote us two years ago about a mineralogy outfit and we were so negligent as to fail to answer him and as a result he is giving us a dose of our own medicine. We hear he was practicing in his home town and was very successful. A letter from a Mrs. C. W. Crum, evidently his mother, says that Dr. Crum has left St. Marys and is now located in Oakland, Calif.
Dodds, Harry W., Herminie, Pa., Box 446. Is not employed in pharmacy work at present although he has been for much of the time since graduation. Registered in Oklahoma and hopes to go into business for himself in his home state whenever he can convince them that he deserves registration. Married Amelia M. Marks, in 1909, and is getting along nicely.

Dunham, Ira, Union Mills, Ind. Now at Nappanee, Ind. Left the smaller town of Union Mills for a better location in the above named city, where he is now in partnership with his brother-in-law, W. E. Love, of 1914. Married Mabel Love in 1910, who took the teachers' course at Valpo.

Fleischfresser, Alfred H., Merrill, Wis. Never have gotten in touch with him. Mail to his home address is not returned.

Gayman, J. Banks, Millerstown, Pa. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Sold his business in Eaton, Colo., and has been traveling since looking for a location. Visited Valpo all commencement week. Was at the banquet with his wife, who took Scientific while he was here in school. Visited in Florida before coming here. Looked at a Gary store but concluded not to buy. Is now in Indianapolis, but leaves Valpo as his temporary address.

Gilmore, Lester D., Scottsville, Ky. Now at 301 Cedar St., San Antonio, Texas. Has been in the above city since 1908. Worked for two years, reaching a salary of seventeen hundred dollars, then tried business for himself and "went broke in 1911 flat as the dickens." Since then has managed to get together about five thousand with which he intends to go into business again. He also has a fund of experience which he didn't have before. Hated to write us until he had done something wonderful, so we'd be proud of him. Well, Gilmore, old boy,—these things come to all of us occasionally and I really like to get a letter once in a while that doesn't read, "prosperous as a prince, making money hand over fist." Married in 1911 and has a two year old girl. He is always shouting for Valpo and says we are going to be proud of him yet,—just as though we were not now.

Graubman, Henry F., Chesterton, Ind. Worked in Hammond, for three years, then a three months' trip to Minnesota, in a drug store in Gary for a year, then to Hegewisch, and later to Flora for a short time. Now back in his home town and considering starting into business with his brother, W. F., of 1911. Sends news of classmates and promises to be here in May. Registered in Indiana and Illinois and in 1908 made an average of 94, which was the best grade made for assistant's papers, which he was taking out at that time. Was here the 19th of May.

Harris, Fred, Stonefort, Ill. Was in St. Louis, Mo., corner of Grand and Washington Boulevard. See last Annual. We never had a line from him. Mail is not returned.

Hayes, Jay F., Carbondale, Ill. See last Annual. Tried both Chicago and Carbondale. Mail to Chicago was returned and to Carbondale was unanswered.

Hess, Mahlon, Momence, Ill. Now at Kentland, Indiana. Was in business at Melvin, Ill., where he held a local registration. Sold out last September on account of ill health and has been traveling salesman for H. and D. shock absorbers. Expects to take a trip to San Francisco in his Ford, in June. Married Gertrude Ross, a childhood sweetheart, in 1910. Had the misfortune to lose their only child, a boy, at the age of six months.

Hudson, Oswell, Bairdstown, Texas. Now at Canadian, Texas. We reproduce his entire letter: “Dear Sir: O. Hudson, wife and son, Frank Stewart, are enjoying health. Can report a little prosperity in the drug business. Superintendent of the Sunday school and mixing a little in politics, having recently been elected mayor.”

Kendall, Clarence W., Galveston, Ind. Now at 2819 N. Halsted St., Chicago, III. Went to Texas after graduating and worked at drug work for a year, but became dissatisfied and came to Chicago, taking a position with the Chicago Elevated, where he has been since. Financially “A little better than breaking even, which is certainly good enough for these times.”

Lavell, Ephraim, Hibbing, Minn. His classmate, Walker, says: “I think Lavell is dead, although I haven’t received a funeral notice.” Whether this is news or a joke, we are unable to say. Mail to his home address is not returned to us.

Lutes, Emory, 241 S. Main St., Wilkesbarre, Pa. Thralls says he is at the above address in his home town, but we fail to get any reply from him. Mail is not returned.

MacArthur, Fred, Fairview, Okla. Now at the Selkirk Hotel, Oklahoma City, Okla. Is now back in the drug business and in the employ of Westfall’s Drug Co., working in the same store with Miss Pocock. Claims there was a personal news item of him in the last Annual, in fact “too personal.” Registered in Oklahoma, and to the query concerning marriage says “nothing doing,” and in reply to the one regarding finance, “do not care to discuss this painful subject.” Sends us news of other alumni, for which we are grateful. An urgent letter of inquiry about Miss Pocock and Sam Ackelson is not answered.

Martin, Earl C., Chalmers, Indiana. Now at Earl Park, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. We are quite certain he is still in the drug business at Earl Park and doing well.

Maxwell, Guy B., Millersburg, Ohio. Now at Fredericksburg, O. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1911 and has been practicing medicine since. Reports that he has a country practice of three thousand five hundred a year. Married Beatrice Browning, an Indianapolis girl, in 1912.

Peirce, Joseph A., Valparaiso, Ind. Was for a time on the road for a hardware house, but later took advantage of his musical talent and concluded to devote his time to orchestra work in Chicago, later in Des Moines, and again back to Chicago. His home address will reach him.

Reissig, Francis E., Hobart, Ind. Worked in the steel mills and clerked in his home town. “Just as the Gary people were ready to give me a hundred dollars a month, I quit. Like the Democrats, I can’t stand prosperity.” Now in business for himself, owning one of the two drug stores of Hobart. Will be here in May unless sick abed. Has a Scientific of the vintage of ’08 as an aid and comfort.

Remington, John M., Providence, R. I. Now at Morse Block, Franklin, Mass. He has been working for the Singleton Worsted Co., in the dyeing department ever since graduation. Complained that he has not heard from any of the boys and particularly wants to hear from Schanz. Is not married but promises news in this line before another Annual comes out.

Robinson, Arthur M., Genoa Junction, Wis. Now at 530 Willamette St., Eugene, Ore. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. Soon after the last Annual was issued, we received an announcement of his marriage to Inez Sims, a Eugene girl, Sept. 24, 1913.

Schanz, William, Chicago, Ill. After clerking in Denver for some time he came back to Valparaiso on his way to Florida where he intended to assist an uncle who owns a large fruit farm, giving us a Tampa address. We wrote there repeatedly but the letters were returned. A black-bordered envelope comes from his parents announcing his marriage to Inez Sims, a Eugene girl, Sept. 24, 1915—the day before the alumni meeting.

Schwartz, Benjamin H., 2522 Calhoun St., Ft. Wayne, Ind. See last Annual. Later letters are not answered, neither are they returned to us. A letter of inquiry reached us from B. H. in July, 1913, wanting a line on a registered man to work for him.

Smith, Viola L., Wakeman, Ohio. Now at Hyannis, Mass., Box 179. Took a position in a physician's office at Norwalk, Ohio, where she remained for three years, then went to the above address to do real work in a drug store. The old laboratory training was a little too strong for her, so she has established the New England Experimental Laboratory, with Viola L. as chemist and bacteriologist, still holding her position with the Guyer Drug Co. Took a vacation last fall to visit her home, but did not get as far west as Valparaiso. Just lately passed the Massachusetts board for full registration papers.

Specht, Bernhardt M., Valparaiso, Ind. Is now in the big Specht–Finney Co. store down town. Got enough of Montana life, it seems. Never answers a letter of inquiry and probably thinks we know about him anyway.

Stein, Arthur W., Belleville, Ill. Thralls reports that the postmaster informs him that Stein is at the above address, Rural Route No. 1. Letters to Stein are unanswered.

Tannar, Curt, Stone Fort, Ill. Now at Power, Mont. His classmate, Thralls, reports him at the above address. Mail is neither answered nor returned.

Teeter, Elmina, Groton, N. Y. Now at 426 E. 42nd Place, Chicago, Ill. Attended the meeting in 1913 and had an enjoyable time. Was then a teacher in the MacFadden Institution over at Chicago. Later she moved to San Diego and established herself in a business of her own. Later returned to Chicago where she is again doing professional work and looking for just the right place for a location.

Thimlar, J. Wiley, New Haven, Ind. Now at Fort Wayne, Ind. See last Annual. Never answers a letter but did make the trip clear across the state to be with us the 19th—and we appreciated it, too. Come again, doctor.

Thralls, Ernest W., Blackville, W. Va. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Still in the College Pharmacy as a very efficient manager. Is getting so aristocratic that he recently went to Battle Creek a week for his health. Is also walking very erect and is addressed as Second Lieutenant, Co. L, 3rd Infantry, I. N. G., but has not yet checked his baggage for Berlin. Was selected class secretary and met with more than average success in getting replies. He will be responsible for the class report of 1908. Help him make it the best of the twenty-two. He has just gone through a very serious operation and after a short vacation at his W. Va. home is back in the harness again.

Walker, Oren A., Larna, Ill. Now at 420 N. Hazel St., Danville, Ill. Has been in the employ of the Schultz Drug Co. for four years and getting along nicely. Married in 1908, registered in Illinois. Gives us some news of his classmates and declares he would give one eye to be with us in May.

Weed, Hoyt, Grove City, Ohio. Now at Fairview, Okla. Went to work without experience at forty dollars a month. Three years later the proprietor of the store died, leaving him in charge of the business which he has successfully managed since. Is married and has a boy and girl. Owns his own home and drives a Buick thirty-seven, in which he expects to travel back to his old home in Ohio this summer. Registered, of course, in Oklahoma.

CLASS OF 1909.

Date of Graduation, August 5, 1909.
Class Secretary, THOMAS CANTRALL, Athens, Ill.

Adelman, James Chester, Central, Pa. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned.

Allen, Fred, Lima, W. Va. Now at Horton, W. Va. Still with the Whitmer Drug Co. as manager. He sent us a program of their West Virginia State Pharmaceutical meeting which indicates that they are a live bunch in West Virginia. He reports the hunting and fishing fine at the top of the Allegheny Mountains, where he is located, and extends an invitation to the boys to come and try it.

Bolstad, Herbert Clarence, Chicago, Ill. Now at 940 E. 7th St., St. Paul, Minn. Graduated from the University of Illinois, medical department, in 1913, and has been practicing since, a short time in Chicago and later in St. Paul. Is medical examiner for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and for several fraternal orders. Married Alcinda I. Auten, a niece of two very prominent St. Paul physicians.

Cantrall, Thomas LeRoy, Athens, Ill. Still in Athens running the same old stand and admits that he is "still one jump ahead of the wolf." He sends us a student each year in the person of a clerk whom he has broken in the previous year and infected with a desire to go to Valparaiso. In fact he claims he is running a preparatory school for the Department of Pharmacy at Valparaiso.
Registered in both Illinois and Indiana with good marks. Gives us news of some of his classmates, and is always ready to respond promptly when a call for help is made from this quarter.

Chapman, Clarence Frederick, Yale, Ill. Now at 42d and University Sts., Des Moines, Ia. Has developed into one of those fellows whose business takes all his time, is his opening admission. Two years ago he started the store known as Chapman's Pharmacy and while he denies being in the Wallingford class, he admits that there is money in drugs. Mentions a Mrs. Chapman and a Miss Coleen, aged fourteen months. Says a lot of good things of Valpo and closes with the familiar remark of some of the boys, "we will now sing hymn No. 202."

Donaldson, John Thomas, Twelve Mile, Ind. Now at Denver, Ind. Began work first in Kokomo for very low wages and after a year of it went to Logansport where he got to fill a prescription once in a while, then emigrated to Goodland where he got all the prescription trade he wanted and started in at Denver, Ind., doing business for himself. He says: "If you ever come near, don't look for Pike's Peak, but for Donaldson's drug store." Almost forgot to report to us that he was married and had two prospective pharmacists.

Ducrest, Alphonse, Valparaiso, Ind. Was at 2127 Yale St., Houston Heights, Texas. Served for a number of years as right-hand man in the college office, being first assistant to Miss Corboy. Later resigned his position and went to his home state for a short visit and then to the above location, which is a new addition or a suburb of the city of Houston. He has taken a position in a drug store, but feels the wanderlust and is considering either going back north or farther west. A recent enclosure came from him from Westville, Okla., but gave no news.

Kimel, John Edward, Shelbyville, Ill. Now at 1708 Knoxville Ave., Peoria, Ill. Took a position in Hammond immediately after graduation and a little later entered the Northwestern holding down his job in Hammond and going to school at the same time. Obtained a Ph. C. degree from there in 1911. Passed the Indiana board with the highest average made at that time, 90%, then went to Gary to work in the steel laboratory. Wasn't so well suited with this so took a position with the William S. Merrill Co., in Cincinnati, resigning there in six months to take a place in the American Rolling Mill Co., at Middletown, Ohio. When the steel business began to get dull he received an offer from Allaire, Woodward Co., at the above city, where he is now established as chemist, botanist, assistant manufacturing pharmacist, etc. Married Norma Rhodes, a girl from his old home in Illinois, in 1913, and reports a Helen Elizabeth, one year old, "who now speaks a dozen or more languages fluently, but very little English."

Lunn, Abraham E., New York, N. Y. Now at 802 W. 31st St., Chicago. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail is not returned but we feel certain he is no longer at the above address. The Chicago telephone directory lists a Dr. A. E. Lunn, at 802 W. 31st St.

McCoy, J. Kenneth, Ashley, W. Va. Now at Kingwood, W. Va. Borrowed money to come to school at Valparaiso. Clerked for some years and two years ago went into business for himself. Sales for 1914 between $8,000.00 and $9,000.00, with a net profit of 18%, and made the last payment on his store in December. Married Olive V. Smith, of Frew, W. Va., in November, 1909. He is, of course, registered in West Virginia.

Oak, David D., East Enterprise, Ind. Now at LaCrosse, Ind. Is located in the above town in the practice of medicine and in partnership with a Valpo student and alongside a dentist who was at one time a student here. Dr. Oak's practice had reached such proportions that he had to take in a partner to help care for it. He occasionally visits Valpo in his automobile and is exhibiting some avoirdupois, which is in perfect harmony with his bank account. He gives us news of many of his classmates, and absolutely nothing about himself.

O'Brien, Lewis Etienne, Providence, R. I. Mail returned. Someone tells us that he is still traveling for Sharp and Dohme and they will get his address, but up to date it has not been received.

Palmer, Carson W., Osterdock, Ia. Now at Cassville, Wis. Completed medicine at the C. C. M. S. in 1911, spent a year at Willard Hospital, then to Eagle, Neb., and practiced for a year and was quite successful, but seeing a good opening in a larger place he moved to the above address, where he has already established a good practice. Married Kathryn E. Zapf, of Elkport, Iowa, in 1912, and has a fine baby girl.

Ritter, Lyman B., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at the drug department, Lion Store, Hammond, Ind. Clerked in Valpo a short time, then in Chesterton three years, then joined the hospital corps of the U. S. Army, working in the dispensatory, and later in the pathological laboratory. Spent part of this time in Manila. For the past year and a half has been working in the Thune drug store here in Valparaiso. Took the Indiana board in January, 1914, and was successful. Married Florence C. Smith, a Valparaiso girl, last February. Lately accepted a position under his brother Jay, of 1907, in the Lion Store in the above city.

Rozynek, Stanley A., South Chicago, III. Now at 3009 E. 92d St., So. Chicago, Ill. Dropped into a drug store on 92d street and who should be back of the counter but Stanley A. Doing well physically and financially. Thinks of going into business for himself. Wrote us 'way back in 1913, saying he had received the Annual and liked it, and that he was still "fat, happy and unmarried."

Sorenson, Soren, Valparaiso, Ind. Faul says that Sorenson is in Valley City, N. D., in the tailoring business. Letters sent to the above address are returned and Bracco says Sorenson is back in St. Paul, in the tailoring business.

Stanfield, Delno N., Annapolis, Ill. After graduation worked in Crawfordsville until last September, when he went back to his home town and into partnership with his brother-in-law in a drug and general merchandise business. He reports fine trade and good profits. Registered in Illinois in 1913.

Strand, Martin E., Elk Rapids, Mich. Now at Hiteman, Iowa. After graduation went up into Saskatchewan, Can., and engaged in farming for a time, but couldn't resist getting back into pharmacy. Took a Ph. C. course at Highland Park, and passed the Iowa board in the spring of 1914, and expects to start in business for himself as soon as he finds a desirable location. Gives news of some of his classmates and asks about others.

Whitley, George Luther, Proctorville, Ohio. Now at 125 Center St., Ironton, Ohio. Wrote us some time ago for a certificate of attendance that he might take the Ohio board. He had just taken the West Virginia board but had not had time to learn of his success. Had been working for the same firm at the above address since graduation. Mail since then has been neither answered nor returned. We presume he will write again when he wants something.

Woodruff, Herbert H., Bone Gap, Ill. Now at 1522 So. Belmont Ave., Indianapolis, Ind. Sends us a very brief report. It seems he has forsaken pharmacy and is now claim clerk for the N. Y. C. lines in Indianapolis. Registered in Indiana in 1909, with a general average of 90%. Not married as yet, but promises us a different report before the year is out. In response to a pressing invitation to be at the alumni meeting, we received a letter which says: "I am to be married Thursday evening, May 20th," which seems a very good excuse for not being in Valparaiso. I am sure I voice the sentiment of the class when I say "Here's congratulations."

CLASS OF 1910.

Date of Graduation, May 26, 1910.

Class Secretary, MISS NEVA SYLVESTER, 1230 Emerald Ave., Chicago Heights, Ill.

By some mischance I have lost from my files the commencement program for 1910. Can some one supply me with a copy?

Professor Linton.

To the members of the Classes of 1910, 1911, 1912 and 1913; Greeting:

Although it is a far cry from the shores of Puget Sound to those of Sager's, my memory frequently carries me back to the four years spent at Valparaiso. A glance over the pages of the old class books is sufficient to bring back your faces, and I see in succession each of the four classes gathered before me again. You are widely scattered now, but I will venture that wherever you may be, each of you at times lives over again those strenuous but not wholly unhappy hours spent in the laboratories and classrooms of Science Hall.

Although I have been on the Pacific Slope for two years, I still miss the students from Kentucky, Illinois and Wisconsin, and a class does not seem quite complete without one or two from the hills of West Virginia.

To every one of you I wish a full measure of success. A few of you still write me at intervals. I would be more than pleased to have others do so. I am just as busy as when you knew me, but will find time to answer.

Sincerely yours,
Arthur W. Linton.

University of Washington,
College of Pharmacy, Seattle.
Arnold, Ferris M., 1955 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Now at 118 S. Winchester Ave., Chicago, Ill. A senior medic in Loyola University, from which he will graduate in May. Married Mildred Stephens, of Muncie, Indiana, in June, 1914. Of course they got acquainted at Valpo. Worked in a store in Chicago after returning from the West where he had experience in sugar chemistry, and has filled the position of assistant in therapeutics and instructor in pharmacology in the college which he now attends. Sends us news of others.

Brasfield, Alse L., Dora, Ala. Now at Burwell Mines, Alabama. Worked as a pharmacist some time after leaving Valpo and then went into the mining business at which he has since been engaged. Evidently finds it profitable for he mentions ownership of an automobile and further that he has lately married.

Byall, Sherman W., Larwill, Indiana. Now at Hobart, Ind. Went directly from Valpo to Hobart where he clerked for a year and a half, then went into partnership with Phillips, buying the Rexall drug store of that city, where they are enjoying a fine business. He is building a fine residence this summer.

Coley, Lynn T., Pittsfield, Ill. Now at 429 N. Main St., Bloomington, Ill. Has been in Bloomington for the past two years, "holding down the best job for the best boss any man could have." Aspires to own a store of his own. Is now enjoying the best of health and is happily married. Lately passed the Illinois board for full registration.

Collazo, Ramon, Manati, Porto Rico. Mendez reports that Collazo now owns and operates a drug store in his home town. We have no reply from Collazo, though mail is not returned to us.

Curtis, Francis T., San Jose, Ill. Now at Bluffs, Ill. Went into business for himself in Bluffs, and suffered a very severe fire loss last August. Rebuilt and has started in again and is doing fine. His wife surprised him with a very substantial start on a new pharmaceutical library last Christmas, replacing the one lost by fire. He sends us news of old classmates and makes himself generally useful as usual.

Dame, Alfred W. Texmo, Okla. Now at Leedey, Okla. We get our first communication from Dame since he left here in 1910. He was in Kentucky for two years, but is now back in Oklahoma. Says he has not practiced pharmacy but does not tell us what he is doing. Does not regret taking the course as he has found it very useful to him. A letter to his class secretary says he will be at Weatherford, Okla., until Aug. 1st, but that Leedey is his home town.

Dorsey, Alexander H., Scottsville, Ky. After graduation worked in Chicago until 1911, then in Nashville, and later in Jackson, Tenn., until 1913, during which time he passed the board for assistant's papers. Was offered a good position in his home town and started to work there in 1913, suspicious feature of which is shown in the next statement, "Married Mary S. Crowe, of Scottsville, Ky., Oct. 1, 1914." A clipping announcing their wedding says that the bride is an accomplished musician, having taught in prominent conservatories in the West.

Ebert, J. A., Lowell, Ind. Now at Tulsa, Okla. Completed medicine at Northwestern. Was for a considerable time in a hospital in Buffalo, N. Y., as house physician, and later moved to the above city where he has established himself in a profitable practice. He says: "Tell the boys the latch-string is always out at Tulsa."

Eubanks, Roy, Ida, La. Now at Texarkana, Arkansas- Texas. See last Annual. Later letters receive no reply, neither are they returned to us. Roy's business is evidently taking up all his time. Miss Sylvester will get news out of him, though. Watch next year's report.

Garn, Wallace, Kendallville, Ind. Went to work for the Portland Cement Co. up in Michigan soon after graduation, then to a better position with a gypsum company, of Chicago, where he remained nearly three years, part of the time in Illinois and part of it in Michigan and Virginia. He then came back home and is with his step-father in the wholesale cigar tobacco business. "Still single and no prospects." Intends returning to Valpo in September for more advanced analytical work.

Gray, Frank S., Allendale, Ill. Practiced pharmacy for a year after graduation and then entered the National Bank in his home town as bookkeeper, where he is still to be found. Spent a part of last winter in Florida, but doesn't like it well enough to emigrate. Was successful before the Indiana board, being one of eighteen out of a class of eighty-odd who took the examination. Makes plenty of money to keep up his premiums on life insurance.

Gurtner, Daniel W., East Dubuque, Ill. Now at Cedar Rapids, Ia. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. We had a Cedar Rapids address given by some classmate. Mail so directed was not returned.

Guy, H. G., Scottsville, Ky. Now at Richmond, Ky., c/o Madison Drug Co. After graduation worked for a short time in Elkhart, then got a position with J. W. Gayle, Secretary of the State Board of Kentucky, where he remained almost two years. Later worked for a time in Henderson, Ky., going from there to Hot Springs for a better position, but found it too hot for him and returned to Kentucky where is now a manager of a retail drug store in a town as large as Valparaiso. Registered in Kentucky. He suggests that notice of his marriage might be premature in this Annual. Gives news of classmates, sends the address of a prospective student and suggests that we have the Annual yearly. He sends a long letter of hearty greetings to his classmates through their secretary, Miss Sylvester.

Hoskins, Thomas H., Scranton, Pa. Now at 4455 N. Clark St., Chicago, Ill. Has been working in and about Chicago ever since graduation. Worked for quite a while in Gary and later in Chicago where he is now the manager of a store at the above address. He has lately passed the Illinois board as a full registered man. The latest and best news he has to send is that he is a much married man, having taken to himself a Scranton girl in whom he was very much interested while here in school.

Jenkins, J. T., Scranton, Pa. 3448 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago, Ill. After a short experience in Chicago he took a good position in Elkhart, which he held until the fall of 1913, when he resigned and went back to Chicago serving a few months on State street, and then taking a course in optometry. Later he bought a drug store at the above address from Cody of 1901. He also has a postal station and is agent for the American Express Co. This and his optical business, together with the drug work keeps him so busy that he is almost disgusted with pharmacy.

Jenkins, Sadie B., Scranton, Pa. Now at 3448 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago, Ill. The migrations of J. R. may here be re-read, as his wife still stays with him. She complains that the druggists’ hours are long, but still persists in her belief that chemistry and pharmacy are fascinating pursuits. She tells us that her husband is rather modest in his personal news so she added enough to fill out his personal sketch. She says she is reading some nowadays but has largely substituted standard works of fiction for those of chemistry.

Jett, Mark, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 2201 Liberty Ave., Terre Haute, Ind. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail is not returned and we are satisfied that he is in business at the same place. We’ll have to set Jalbert on him if he doesn’t reply. We learn that he is teaching chemistry in a veterinary college in his city.

Kunkler, Paul, St. Anthony, Ind. Worked at Terre Haute almost since graduation excepting some time spent at his home because of illness. Gives a little news of his classmates, but admits that he is not in touch with many. His home address will reach him.

Lantz, Joseph, Kokomo, Ind. Now at Lansford, N. D. Worked in a drug store in Chicago for a short time and then went to Marion Normal College where he was given credit for work done in the pharmacy course in their scientific and classic courses. He graduated first from their scientific course in 1912, then taught a year and finished his classic course. He filled a superintendency at Francisville for two years, and has just now finished a year in a similar capacity at the above address where he has contracted for the next year at an increase in salary. Says he failed to answer our first letter because he had not followed pharmacy and feared we would not be interested in him. Why must the old boys feel this way? We are always interested.

Ledwich, Demain J., Broken Bow, Neb. Now at Butte, Mont., c/o Paxson and Rockefeller. Medlin says he is now located at the above address. Since leaving school he has roamed quite a little, working his way from Omaha to California and back to Seattle, finally reaching Butte. He sends word that the ladies have all his spare time. We presume this is his excuse for never answering a letter.

Medlin, Will R., Butte, Mont., c/o Henry Hubert. Now at 927 N. Excelsior St., Butte, Mont. As soon as he landed back home he immediately went to work in one of the drug stores in Butte, being given charge of half the store at once. After about a year’s work he accepted a better position with our Henry Hubert, of 1899, where he still remains. Has had a machine for the last three years in which he takes extensive trips. Was at the train to meet Prof. Linton as he passed through Butte, en route to Washington. Is in partnership with a young engineer and actively engaged in the installation of an elaborate cyanide plant on their own property, where they expect to “make a big cleanup. If we do, we will see you a little later.” Still single.
Patterson, Floyd E., Vine Grove, Ky. Now at Rock Haven, Ky. Is in business in partnership with his brother at the above address. They are dealers in general merchandise and have little competition as there are no stores of any size within ten or twelve miles. Has been married for two years. Expresses a desire to be with us in May, but hardly thinks he can be present at that time.

Peters, Perne E., New Salem, Ill. Now at West Salem, Ill. It will be remembered that he was married the last year he was in school. Shortly after graduation obtained a position at a small salary near his home; the next spring got a good position at a good salary in a neighboring store where he remained until 1913. At this date he and his brother bought out a drug firm in the above town, where they are doing very well. Registered in Illinois and Arkansas. In his examination, where 130 went before the board, only about a third were successful, he among the number. Hopes to visit Valpo in the near future. Sends us a picture of his store, with himself at the front door looking as natural as he did five years ago. Just reports the arrival of a daughter.

Saarheim, Einar, Rio, Wis. Now at 356 E. 59th St., Chicago, Ill. Writes us from the above address saying he has a position for a good pharmacist, a man with backbone and common sense and pleasing personality. Suggest that anyone of the 1910 class would fill the bill, but in case they are not available, would accept one of later vintage. Tells nothing about himself. His class secretary gets a good letter, but only one thing will interest the folks of 1910, namely, “I would like to come down in May, but being newly married, my wife won’t let me get so far away from her.” Well, bring her along, Saarheim, they all do.

Schoetzow, Ray E., Marcellus, Mich. Followed drug business in different towns in Michigan until last fall, when he went to Ann Arbor for further work in pharmacy. Registered in Michigan with a good showing. In a letter to his classmate and also class secretary he says he expects to remain in Michigan another year, that he is working alongside Perkins, of 1913, and that he has met his classmate, Todd, several times in Ann Arbor.

Sharp, Finis, Wetumka, Okla. Mr. Linton had a letter from him at Chouteau in the spring of 1912, but we have no later letter. Letters to the Chouteau address are forwarded to Muskogee and returned. Mail to his home address is not returned. A student in school here now says he came back to Wetumka with a “navy bean in his ear” and at last accounts was trying for a pharmacist’s job on board of Uncle Sam’s boats.

Spangler, Ira J., Dahlgren, Ill. After graduation went back to his home town and continued his drug business. Passed the state board in 1911 and was able thereafter to take full charge of his store. Glad to register himself as a loyal graduate of Valpo.

Speegle, Arthur A., Palestine, Texas. Graduated from the C. C. M. S. in 1913, passed the Illinois board at once, took four months post-graduate work and then nine months as house physician in St. Elizabeth Hospital, Lafayette, Ind. Received his Texas license in 1914 and at once went into partnership with his father. Married a girl whom he met here in Valpo and reports a fine boy, Arthur the Second, who is over a year old.
Sylvester, LaClare, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 6 Illinois St., Chicago Heights, Ill. Still at the Vannatta drug store in the above town where he has been working for some time. Has his mother with him and seems to be settled down as happy and contented as a married man. Gives us news of classmates and puts us next to a new student every time he can. Was over the 19th and had an enjoyable time. Home that night so as to go to work the next morning as usual.

Sylvester, Neva, Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 1230 Emerald Ave., Chicago Heights, Ill. Filled a position as stenographer for a large coal company in Cincinnati until Sept. 1913 then came to the above address where she and her mother are keeping house for Ted and at the same time Neva holds down a position as bookkeeper for The Weber-Costello Co. Both Ted and she attended the N. A. R. D. convention last year and enjoyed it immensely. Promises to come back to Valpo some day, and gives news of some of her classmates. Agrees to act as secretary of her class until further disposition is made of the office and at the general meeting the 19th, which she attended, she was chosen permanent secretary. If 1910 does not have a snappy writeup, it will be a sure sign that Neva is changing from what she was in 1910.

Todd, Robert A., Welsh, La. Now at Lansing, Mich., c/o State Dairy and Food Department. Took a position in Chicago Heights in a drug store, and from there he went to Frederick Stearns’ in Detroit, as manufacturing chemist, where he remained until the fall of 1911, at which time he entered Ann Arbor, receiving his Ph. C. degree the next spring. Went to Chicago to a position as chemist where he remained a short time, being appointed assistant state chemist of Michigan. Since then he has been advanced to state drug analyst. Besides his regular drug work, however, he does considerable work in foods, oils and various stock foods. Last year he represented the state in over fifty cases, losing but one. Was also called in one federal case. Christmas, 1913, he received a surprise from the University of Michigan in the form of a degree of Bachelor of Science in Chemistry, for excellence in work done while there. Has an ambition to enter federal service soon. Married two years ago. Has been instrumental in obtaining news for us from many of his classmates. Also sends us reports from the Michigan state laboratory, which are of decided interest.

Tolley, Harley A., Hampton, Ky. Now at 802 S. 4th Ave., Tucson, Ariz. Was at Umap, a late letter gives him at Tucson. After graduation went first to Oklahoma for a year, working in a drug store, then six months experience in Chicago and back to Oklahoma in 1912. Had measles and typhoid, so at the doctor’s suggestion he moved to a better climate and is now store keeper for the Southern Pacific at the above point. He keeps reading up in his drug journals and hopes to get back into drug work some time in the future.

Turner, George H., Allensville, Ohio. It will be remembered that he continued in school after graduation, completing the scientific course in 1912, and taking the first year of medicine. Unfortunately his father’s death compelled him to drop out of school to care for his aged mother. He taught school at Royal, Ohio, the past two years, but expects to enter medical school this fall.
Walker, Ernest R., Indianapolis, Ind. Now at 4101 E. Michigan St., Indianapolis, Ind. At last accounts he was in the employ of the Weber Drug Co., but letters sent to that address fail to elicit a reply and we suspect they were landing in Weber's waste basket. After a little "sleuthing" we find him at the above address as proprietor of the Kalker Drug Co., where he has been for almost two years, happy and contented with a store of his own. Married a young lady from his old home town of Oakland City and now has a little daughter three years old.

Whetstone, David F., Everett, Pa. Entered business for himself in his home town immediately after graduation where he has been doing exceptionally well. The year of 1914 he more than doubled the previous year's business. He has since had some experience with other pharmacy schools and is loud in his praise of Valparaiso. Passed the Pennsylvania board. Has become a strict observer of Thanksgiving day, since on that date, 1914, he was married. He intended to take in Valparaiso on his wedding trip, but the severity of the weather caused him to decide on Ft. Myers and Jacksonville, Fla., as more compatible with the occasion.

White, Arthur J., Ottawa, Kans. Now at 112 Maywood Ave., Peoria, Ill. In the last Annual we had followed his peregrinations up to Kansas City with the Swift Packing Co. Soon after he went with the Allaire-Woodward people of Peoria, where he is now in charge of the manufacturing of their Galenical preparations, making a specialty of powdered, solid and fluid extracts. As a diversion, he is cultivating a small drug garden, obtaining many of his plants from the drug firm by which he is employed. He sent us a number of samples some time ago, which we were very glad to put in our materia medica collection. In a letter to us two years ago, he informed us that he was now "an old married man" but since then he has given us no further information. His suggestion for the betterment of the Annual is "let's have it oftener." Had all plans made to attend the alumni meeting when the sickness of one of the foremen threw some work onto him that he could not evade.

Zwalsk, John J., Elizabeth, N. J. Now at 3361 St. Clair Ave., Cleveland, O. Remained in school for several terms after 1910, doing part of the medical work. Later wrote us from the above address asking for a certificate of attendance as he intended taking the Ohio board. Said he had not been without drug work since he left here. Later letters are not answered and not returned.
CLASS OF 1911.

Date of Graduation, May 25, 1911.
Secretary, WILLIAM F. GRAUBMAN, 5th and Virginia Sts., Gary, Indiana.

By some mischance I have lost from my files the commencement program for 1911. Can some one supply me with a copy?

Blayney, G. E., Paw Paw, Mich. Now at Bremen, Ind. Sold out his business in Elkhart and purchased a drug store in Fairfield, Ill., in January of this year, and in February traded one-half interest in it for an eighty-acre farm near there, but does not expect to farm any. Registered in both Indiana and Illinois. Married an Elkhart girl last August, at which place he had been in the drug business for three years. Later wrote from the above address saying he had sold out at Fairfield and expected to work in Indiana for a time.

Creech, Enoch B., Harlan, Ky. Now at Elkhart, Ind. Owns his own drug business in the above named town, where he is found employing Valparaiso graduates as assistants and very naturally making good. Registered in Indiana and married in 1912. Writes us for a student to assist him in his kodak work.

Dahlen, Daniel, Rock Island, Ill. Now at 3000 Fifth Ave., Rock Island, Ill. Immediately after graduation took a position in Rock Island, leaving there in 1913 for a year's travel in Sweden. Bought the Elm Street Pharmacy at the above address where he is now prospering. The store he purchased is the one in which he served his apprenticeship. Sends a friend to take pharmacy and expects to be here next year when he graduates. The next acquisition he expects to report is a blue-eyed, flaxen-haired Viking girl. He voices the sentiment of all of us when he quotes from his class poem:

“Yes, we love our Alma Mater,
Never let us her forget,
But prove worthy offspring ever
As thru life a pace we set.”

Drollinger, Ralph A., Ashton, Idaho. Sends us a post card saying that he is still holding down his old job in his home town. Also informs us that he is keeping paid up on his Indiana certificate, but does not give any further news.

Freshour, Orville C., St. Francisville, Ill. Hasn't lost a day's work since he left school. Still at the same job but advanced to manager and buyer the first of last year. Makes a good salary and extra commission. New oil field opened up in his section which is making business boom. Hopes to send his brother to Valpo for pharmacy in a couple more years.

Glover, John T., Central Station, W. Va. Deceased.

Graubman, William F., Chesterton, Ind. Now at 5th and Virginia Sts., Gary, Ind. Is now in the employ of Steele's Pharmacy at the above address. Hopes to have a certain report to hand in for the next Annual, after leap year. Gives news of several of his classmates, but almost nothing of himself. Was with us in May and met several of his classmates.

Hall, Gertrude A., Mutual, Okla. Now at Greensburg, Ind. Still working at the McGee Pharmacy at the above address, where she found a position immediately upon graduation. Passed the state board in the spring of 1914. Getting along fine and decidedly in love with drug work. Came to Valpo the 19th of May and had the good fortune to meet some of her classmates.

Harper, Chelius M., Chattanooga, Tenn. c/o Live and Let Live Drug Co. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. Mail not returned. In October, 1914, we received a Chattanooga paper containing a full page adv. of the above store with C. M.'s photo appearing labeled "Manager Prescription Department." That is fine—but he might write us of his advancements anyway.

Helberg, Gustav A., Painesdale, Mich. c/o Central Drug Store, Astoria, Ore. Now clerking in Astoria, Oregon. Assistant registration in Michigan and registered in Oregon, passing their board the first time with a fair average. Married in Chicago the summer he graduated and now has a boy almost big enough to help in the store. After working in Chicago a short time went to Calumet, Mich., where he worked for two years, receiving managership of the drug store, but with the appearance of the copper strike he moved, first to Duluth, but did not like the climate. Next he landed at the mouth of the Columbia River, where he feels he will remain.

Hinton, Roy P., Adolphus, Ky. Now at LaGrange, Ky. Worked in Elkhart for a time, having preceded this by a short experience in Chicago, then went back to his native state and has been busy dealing out drugs since. Is now at the above address "with nice people and at a good salary." We had the pleasure of meeting him at the A. Ph. A. meeting in 1913.

Hollis, E. Frank, Port Huron, Mich., Gratiot Ave. and Elmwood St. Still at the old stand where he has been in business almost since graduation. A loss of one of the main industries of his city has affected trade in his neighborhood to his detriment, but with the return of better business conditions things are now coming right again. He has been administrator for a couple of estates, has a notary's commission, and selling old line life insurance on the side. So, taken all together, he is not worrying over hard times. Registered in Michigan. Married Marion Jean Paton in April, 1913, a girl whom he met here while taking his senior year.

House, Byron H., Parish, N. Y. Worked for a time as pharmacist in his home town, then at Syracuse, but seemed to find that his health and the drug business were incompatible. Accepted a clerical position with the N. Y. C. R. R. where he has remained since. Studies music at the Syracuse University and has been teaching music on the side for the past three years. Says he would like to visit Valpo and see his old classmates once more.

Johnson, G. Granville, Snyder, Texas. Now at Lubbock, Texas. See last Annual. We have had no reply to later letters. In 1914 he wrote us several times and in one letter gave this history. Left school for a job in Snyder at $65.00 per and saved enough to pay John Moser for all the clothes bought of him while in school, then to Canada at an advance in wages, then to the above address, working for two different firms there and later buying out one of the businesses. Registered in Indiana and Texas. Sends us new students and the address of Paysinger, of 1902, of whom we had never heard anything since graduation.

Jordan, Calvin C., Dutch Hill, Pa. Now at 1340 Valland, Ann Arbor, Mich. Now a student in the medical department of the University of Michigan. Took the position of Dean of the Pharmacy Department of Fremont College, Nebraska, the fall after graduation, serving in that capacity for three years, at which time he resigned to complete his medical course and expects to graduate in 1916. Married Naomi Johnson, in 1912, whom he met here in Valparaiso. Gives us news of classmates and best wishes.

Kelsey, Warren E., Kelsey, N. Y. Letters to his Chicago addresses returned and to his home address unanswered. We finally got a letter from his sister announcing his death last February, of tuberculosis. He was working in Chicago, as a drug clerk, in the employ of J. A. Lowney, 2756 W. Harrison, where the sister says she is proud to know he was showing a clean record.

Kiley, Frank E., Cullom, Ill. Now at Mantino, Ill. Who should we meet last August, at the National Association in Detroit, but F. E. and his bride, on a honeymoon trip. Visited the Ford establishment together, but didn’t make a purchase. He has a fine position in the above town, which he has held for two years.

McPike, Cyrus William, Muscatine, Iowa. Now at Rock Island, Ill., c/o Bengston’s Drug Store. Went to work in Chicago immediately upon graduation, remaining in the employ of the same man until he resigned for a better position in the above city. Took the Illinois examination in January this year and was one of seventeen, out of a class of seventy-five, who passed. Intends to buy a store of his own whenever the prospect looks right. Tells us news of other alumni and promises to come back in May.

Moe, Robert S., Faulkton, S. Dak. Was at 4140 Cottage Grove Ave., Flat No. 3, Chicago, Ill. Worked in Rensselaer for a time, then in Valparaiso during which time he took the Indiana board and made full registration papers. Later he resigned his position here and went to work in South Dakota, but soon after decided that Indiana was better. Did not remain here long, however, but took a position at the above address in Chicago, where he has been for some time. Occasionally visits Valpo, but thinks Chicago is the best place to work after all. Was present May 19th. Just recently resigned his position in Chicago and took a long vacation in Dakota. He will soon return to Valparaiso for a time.

Muotka, Einard, Hancock, Mich. Mail is not returned and we are unable to locate him.

Pfeiffer, John E., Shelbyville, Ill. Now at Wilmington, Ill. After graduation worked for a drug firm in Odell, Ill., for six months then to Dwight, Ill., until 1913, when he bought a drug business at the above town and has been busy ever since. Passed the Illinois board the first time he appeared before it. He now reports a John Jr., over a year old, who is to be successor to Pfeiffer’s Pharmacy in years to come.

Piper, F. Bernard, Niles, O. Now at No. 7 Lenox Ave., Warren, O. Has been in drug work ever since graduation and expects to own a drug store some day. Passed the Ohio board in January, 1914, and was married in June, 1914, to Elizabeth Wadsworth, a Valparaiso kindergarten graduate of 1911. “Finances great for a newly wed.”

Quinn, Thomas J., Chatsworth, III. Now at 1333 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Entered the C. C. M. S. at once and graduates this June. In a competitive examination against Rush, P. and S. and Northwestern, and other students for an internship in St. Mary's Hospital he won first place, and at last accounts was planning to enter a competitive examination for a place in Cook County Hospital. Was down the 19th of May and came single.

Rogers, John M., Edwardsburg, Mich. Now at 221 W. Jackson St., Elkhart, Ind. He is now employed by Houseworth Bros. in Jenkins' old place, where he has been for the last year and a half. Registered in Indiana and still single.

Salih, Gindi, Assiout, Egypt. Never had a word from him since he graduated.

Shrock, Riley R., Kokomo, Ind. Now at Des Moines, Ia. Someone tells us that Shrock is at 115 Davis Ave., in the above city. Letters sent to that address are neither returned nor answered. He was with Fisher of Duncombe, until he went and married a Des Moines girl.

Smailis, Joseph J., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at 6502 Fleet Ave., Cleveland, O. Worked in Cicero, a suburb of Chicago, for nearly three years, then moved to a better position in the above city. Passed the Indiana state board last year and is preparing to take the Ohio board now.

Smith, W. Russell, Crown City, O. Soon after graduation took a position in Chicago, and a little later moved to a better one with a former graduate, N. J. Kurt. Took the Indiana board and passed it in 1913. In 1914 took charge of a store in Marion, Ind., and remained there until January of this year when he suffered an illness from which he had not fully recovered at the time of communicating with us. Intends to take the Ohio board as soon as he is quite well.

Stromstad, Norton J., Coon Valley, Wis. Now at Barrett, Minn. Went from school to a North Dakota town and in a short time on to Conrad, Mont., where he remained a year; then to a better position at Havre for a short time. After that he returned to his home for a short vacation, and then went to Lake City, Minn., for nearly a year and finally to Rock Island, working there almost a year. From there the wanderlust took him to the Northwest again, around to Terre Haute and back to Chicago. From Chicago he went back to Rock Island where he is now located. Sends us news of several of the boys. McPike says he is going to quit his job the last of April and go to work for the A. D. S. people, intending to work his way West to take in the Fair. Later letter from the above address says he has bought a small store and settled down.

Stuckey, Asa S., Everett, Pa. Was at Hotel Kern, 160 Eddy St., San Francisco, Calif. Has forsaken Chicago for good and all, it seems, going first to Denver for a time, then to Salt Lake and finally landing in San Francisco. A later letter tells us that he has made all arrangements for a three years' trip into Alaska, intending to start for there the last of May. He is to be chemist and general drug man and expects to come back loaded with gold. Still has a nose for news and sends us more definite information about his classmates than you would imagine a man could pick up if he were here in Chicago instead of in the far West.

Timmons, Gregg, Sheridan, Indiana. After repeated and pressing invitations similar to those sent out to many of the rest of you, we get a reply from Gregg. It will be remembered that he worked for a time in Elkhart, and later in his home town, and that still later he bought a drug store at the above place. He has since enlarged his stock and moved to a fine, new building, where he feels that he has a far better business outlook. Married Mae Scott, a Sheridan girl, soon after graduation, who still consents to live with him. Promised to come to the banquet in May, but has done that before, so we didn't expect him and were not disappointed.

Williams, Homer Gaines, Galatia, Ill. Now at 2230 E. St., Granite City, Ill. After some experience in the Colorado towns of Silverton and Pueblo, he returned to the above place where he is still located. On salary, as yet, but intends getting in business for himself soon. “Hope the other folks are not so slow in writing you as I have been and hope the Annual may be an assured fact. It certainly does one good to hear from the classmates and to learn of the continued success of the school. May success come to you and your co-laborers in increased measure each year and may your department soon become known in the pharmaceutical world for just what it is—the most practical and thorough school of pharmacy in the country.”

CLASS OF 1912.

Date of Graduation, May 23, 1912.

Secretary, W. C. HOWERTON, Valparaiso, Ind.

Alberts, Melvin Lee, Kewanee, Wis. Now at 834 Downer Ave., Milwaukee, Wis. After clerking for a short time in Lowell he went to Milwaukee where he has been for the past two years with the same man. Passed the Wisconsin board in 1913 and reports that Valparaiso scored. Says the reason he isn't married is that he has to sleep in the back of the store.

Arbaugh, Rufus Conrad, Jasper, Ark. Writes us that he has resigned his position as Sunday school teacher and gives all his time to business. It will be recalled that he owned a drug store in Jasper, Ark., before coming to school. He is prospering in business at the “old stand.” Installed new fixtures a month ago. Registered with the Arkansas board on his graduation certificate, and has the very encouraging report that since graduation his business has increased almost seventy per cent. Sends news of his classmates and the name of a prospective pharmacist.

Arroyo, Armando, Yauco, Porto Rico. Worked in Porto Rico since graduation. Took the state board examination and passed successfully. Managed a drug store in the capital of the island and at last accounts intended starting a store of his own. Mendez reports that Arroyo now owns his own drug store. Later we have a letter from him confirming the above and telling us that after working as manager of the store for some time, he took the examination for Inspector of Health and passed. After that he put in nine months in the government service. Opened his new drug store in April, 1915.

Bell, Jerry S., DePauw, Ind. Now at Odebolt, Iowa. Wrote us from his home address last September that he would be unable to return and continue his medical course at the time. We hear nothing further from him. Took typhoid soon after leaving school and spent the winter after his recovery at his home. Is now at work on a farm in Iowa and expects to continue his medical course as soon as he has gotten finance past the convalescent stage.

Bradford, J. B., Mole Hill, W. Va. Now at Clarksburg, W. Va., Cor. Pike and Main Sts. Went to work immediately after graduation at Plymouth, Ind., and while there went home to "take the West Virginia examination." Incidentally he married Leila Demming, of West Virginia, November, 1912. On returning to Indiana he went to a position at Rochester, and in 1913 resigned for a better position in the above town. Reports that in his West Virginia examination he was one of three out of seventeen applicants to pass, and he received the highest mark of the three. Sounds good for Valpo. A later letter tells us he has bought the Angle Inn Pharmacy at the above city and is now a prosperous proprietor.

Casey, Charles Brooks, Boxley, Ark. Now at Siloam Springs, Ark. Casey's first report is that he is married. This happened last October. Also reports that he is enjoying life far beyond his fondest expectations. Incidentally he has been working at the drug trade ever since leaving Valpo, and in closing, his advice is "get married." Arbaugh reports later that Casey has sold out at Berryville and bought an interest in a store at Siloam Springs, Ark., where he is doing a good business. He also tells us that Casey's wife, Miss Viola Spears, was a daughter of Judge Spears, of Jasper, Ark.

Davila, J. Marquez, Lares, Porto Rico. Now at 271 Waterloo St., Detroit, Mich. After his experience as a government employee in biological work in Porto Rico, he returned to the States, doing a year's work in a medical college in Baltimore. He then returned to Porto Rico, where he passed for full registration and worked at drug work until fall, when the longing for the States brought him back and he landed a good job in the Export Office, Spanish Department, of Frederick Stearns and Co., which place he is successfully holding down. Met him at the A. Ph. A. and found him still the same old Davila, dressing well and plenty of money.

Gaebe, George W., New Salem, N. D. Still manager of the Gaebe Pharmacy with which he expects to be financially connected before the year is out. Reports that a brother will enroll with us in September for the pharmacy course.

Griffiths, Evan J., Taylor, Pa. Now at 3448 N. Crawford Ave., Chicago, Ill. Worked for a time in Gary when he received a tempting offer from California, where he went, but after working there for a short time he found that he was not complying with the state board requirements so he gave up drug work and went back to his old trade, at which he made good money for a time. But the call of the prescription case was too strong and when an offer came to come back to Indiana for drug work, he returned. He is now in Chicago, working for his classmates, the Jenkins. Registered in Oklahoma and Indiana and has application in for transfer to Illinois. Sends news of his classmates and a long letter.

Groves, Daniel Ernest, Wallace, S. Dak. Now at Florence, S. D. Worked in a drug store about a year after graduation and decided to go back and assist his father on the farm for a time. He does not regret his course in pharmacy and says he finds it useful in many ways, in his present location.
Harshman, Clarence Harold, Sydney, Nova Scotia, corner Charlotte and Wentworth Sts. Worked for a time in the Iron City Pharmacy and later in the Rexall store, passing the Nova Scotia board while with the latter company. In the spring of 1913 he took over the Sydney Drug Co., which had failed and started in for No. 1. In May lost his entire stock by fire, collected what insurance there was and started again, when along came the European war, since which time he has been doing as well as anybody else in Nova Scotia.

Hoffman, Carl F., Akron, Indiana. Now at 902 Calhoun St., Fort Wayne, Ind. Worked for a time in Laporte and later accepted a position with Meyer Bros., of Fort Wayne. After six months received a substantial raise in salary and the position of chief prescription clerk in one of their four stores, which position he still holds. Not married, but tells us some things which we will not publish until the next Annual.

Howerton, William C., Attica, Ind. Now at Valparaiso, Ind., Box 272. Worked in Lafayette a short time after graduation, but in September came back to Valparaiso and is now serving his third year with the East Side Druggist, B. L. Brenner, which by the way is one of the nicest drug stores in the state. "Not married. Too much cost to high cost of living." He was chosen secretary of the class of 1912 and will show a writeup next year that will make them all take notice. But for all his report on cost of high living the 19th of August he went to Toledo and brought back Miss Kathryn Coutchure wearing the name of Howerton.

Jacobs, Roe M., Ithaca, N. Y. Now at East Chicago, Indiana, c/o A. G. Schlieker. Has been engaged in drug work at Gary or East Chicago since graduation. Sends us news of his classmates, but nothing about himself.

Johnston, W. E., Benton, Ky. Now at 202 Euclid Ave., Des Moines, Ia. Upon graduation took charge of a graded school in his home state where he was busily engaged until Feb. 1914, at this time a call came to teach materia medica and pharmacy in the Babcock Institute in Des Moines, which position he accepted and filled so well that he was employed for the next year at a very substantial increase. Came back to Valpo the summer of 1914 and expected to return this year to complete his Ph. C. work, but his school needed his services badly so he deferred taking his last term's work until a later date.

Kauffman, I. W., Lancaster, Pa. Now at LaGrange, Ill, c/o New Burlington Hotel. Many of you 1912 folks had a letter from him, as he volunteered to get us all the information possible from members of his class. The replies he has long since sent to us and they are now yours. As for "Jack" himself, he didn't give an iota of news. He worked in the drug store in the N. W. depot, a fine store too, for a long time, then to a place down in Missouri, I think, from which he sent us fine specimens of various ores, then to his present address, where he has been for more than a year. Doing well and enjoying his work. Visited Valpo some time ago. Will be of very material assistance to the new secretary, I am sure.

Kiskadden, Rober M., Freeport, Pa. Now at Chanute, Kansas. Left Pennsylvania for the West over a year ago, landing in Parsons, Kans., and registering at once. Later moved to the above address.
where he bought a half interest in the Dunning Drug Co., "the best store in town, invoicing over $6,000.00." He has been given complete charge of the drug and prescription departments and is doing well.

Klinglesmith, Ora, Cecelian, Ky. Taught school for a while in the West and later took a position with Lacey Drug Co., at Aberdeen, S. D., where his health failed him and he returned to his old home. He is now trying to make Kentucky grub and home care put him on his feet again.

Laake, John H., Ferdinand, Ind. Now at 63d St. and Wentworth Ave., Chicago, Ill. Doesn’t write us, but Spooner reports that he is the first man in his employ. He dubs him "the German Apothecary" and says his extensive Chicago experience makes him a valuable man.

Laatch, C. E. F., Lockport, N. Y. Now at 202 S. W. St., Alexandria, Ind. After working in Albion, Neb., for a time he accepted an appointment as pharmacist in the Soldiers’ Home, Lafayette, Ind., serving there until his resignation in November, 1914, when he quit work to come back to Valpo and take on some more "good dope" from the pharmacy department. While at the home he put up about three thousand prescriptions a month and had to manufacture very much of the material dispensed.

Mayhew, William Ezra, Adolphus, Ky. Now at Martin, Tenn.
Took a position in Nashville immediately upon graduation where he worked until 1913, when he bought a half interest in The Penslar Store at the above address, going into partnership with Hunt of 1906.
Registered in Tennessee, making a good grade. Married Emma Dearing, of Scottsville, Ky., in 1913. Happy and prosperous.

McCleskey, Claude Wren, Woodland, Miss. Now at Wynne, Ark. Soon after graduation took a position in Mississippi, later moving down to the Gulf for a short time. He then moved to the above address where he has remained since, being now promoted to manager at one hundred dollars a month. Passed the Mississippi board and later the Arkansas board. He reports the last examination a cinch.

McGrath, Kathryn, Rushford, Minn. See last Annual. No reply to later letters. Mail not returned. A letter in November, 1912, says she was teaching school and resigned to go quite a distance to accept a position in a drug store and found it was filled and that she had been misinformed. Naturally she was disappointed, provoked and discouraged.

Miller, Edward Newton, Valley Point, W. Va. Now at 2110 Jacob St., Wheeling, W. Va. Took a position in Wheeling soon after graduation, where he says he had all sorts of trouble and felt that he didn’t know it all by a long shot and in fact was a failure. After a few weeks of this, the boss called him aside and raised his salary $20.00 a month, and he soon had a place in the prescription department, where he is now employed. They make all their U. S. P. and N. F. preparations and many specials. Married Lizzie Cale, of Albright, W. Va., and now has a little son. He promises himself that he is coming back to Valpo for another year’s training some time in the future.

Morrill, Elizabeth, Holyoke, Mass. Now at 705 S. Ashland Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Completed her two years of medicine down here and remained to do one year of extra work that she might keep alongside her "pal," Miss Dahl. They went to the C. C. M. S. last fall and have their junior year completed. They are now full-fledged seniors, graduating next May. Never replies to a letter.

Parks, Frank Ernest, Marion, Ill. After graduation worked in Hammond for six months, then home and worked for a while, then to Murphysboro, Ill., in May, 1913, and worked for a year, then back home again to take charge of the "Duty Drug Co." Registered in Indiana while still in school and in Illinois in 1914 by examination.
Married Pearl Wiley, a Marion girl, in October, 1914. Hoped to be with us for commencement, but failed to get here.

Quinlin, John William, Fort Laramie, Ohio. Now at 5200 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Has been in drug business and on the jump ever since graduation. For the past year he has been in the employ of Kurt, of 1903, and likes the work fine. Reports about a number of his classmates. Registered in both Indiana and Illinois.
"Not married and enjoying life."

Saadeh, Joe, Launceston, Tasmania, Australia. Was around Valpo for some time, then over in Gary. We hear he is married but have never had a line from him.

Salerni, Nicola B., Long Island City, N. Y. Was at 121 Main St., Astoria, L. I., N. Y. Writes us enclosing a dollar asking that we notify him in advance as to his dues and tell him the happenings of the alumni association, but doesn't give us a bit of news of himself.
He finds some news of an alumna who was in New York, but tells nothing about himself. Came through here some few weeks ago on his way West "to make some more money to go to school on." Last heard from in Pingree, N. D., Box 56.

Smith, Albin Henry, Frew, W. Va. Now at St. Mary's, W. Va.
After graduation took charge of a store in Fairview, but in a very short time was taken charge of by typhoid fever and out of commission for a long time. He then went to a position in Sisterville.
Business became too poor to keep a good man at this place and he emigrated to St. Mary's, W. Va., where he is now to be found. Was successful in the state board examination without any review whatever, and after being out of school, when recent graduates both from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh failed. We suspect that Smith must have carried his lucky twenty-dollar gold piece to examination, as a sort of rabbit's foot.

Smith, Herschel, Scottsville, Ky. Began teaching school immediately upon graduation, traveling six miles for drug experience on Saturday. Kept this up until October, when he purchased a half interest in the only drug store in the above town, his partner being R. M. Meredith, of 1905. Registered in Kentucky in 1913 making a good grade. Still single but is willing to change the report for the next Annual.

Spoonser, Otto, Prescott, Mich. Now at 63d St., and Wentworth Ave., Chicago. First the heading reads: "SPOONER'S PHARMACY," second we hear that Spooner is growing a mustache. He doesn't tell us this. He worked in Hammond for over a year, at good wages, then to Chicago for another year at better wages, then a long vacation and started in for himself at Wentworth and 63d, where he is doing fine. Not only has the drug business, but has established a postal station at his store. Of course, he will be here in May.

Thomas, Fred E., Greenfield, Ind. Obtained a position in New Castle on his way home, but in a very short time changed to a better position in his home town where he is now head clerk “in one of the best Rexall stores in the state.” Registered in Indiana. Married in January of this year and expects to move into their new home before the Annual is issued. Visits Valpo at commencement time, except when the buzz wagon breaks down. Got here this year all right, and enjoyed himself. Pleased with the Annual but complained because he doesn’t see more school notes about Valparaiso in the drug journals.

Thomas, Harry B., Steckman, Pa. Now at Gary, Ind., Box 814. Began work as a chemist for the Illinois Steel, but after suffering an accident which nearly caused him the loss of a hand, he left the laboratory with six months experience and went into the employ of E. A. Ridgely, where he remained until about a year ago, forsaking pharmacy and entering the employ of a bank. Likes his new work very well. Sends us news of many of his classmates and visits Valpo frequently, although we suspect the attraction is not entirely in the pharmacy department.

Wilcox, Russell C., Milby, Quebec, Canada. Now at Thornold, Ont., Can. Worked six months for the U. S. Steel Corporation in Gary, then obtained a position in the Canadian Government Research Laboratories of Electro-Chemistry and Metallurgy, at Kingston, Ont., for two years. At the outbreak of the war a cessation of operation in the government laboratory caused him to accept a position as chemist in charge of the laboratories of the Exolon Co., abrasive manufacturers, at the above town.

Williams, Charles Talton, Hazard, Ky. Now at the Hospital National Military Home, Tennessee. Obtained a responsible position in a drug store immediately upon graduation where he remained for a year. Came back to Valpo and took the first year of the medical course, and soon after received an appointment as pharmacist in the Soldiers’ Home, at Dayton, O. He has lately been promoted and transferred and is now head pharmacist at the above address at a good salary with splendid quarters and board furnished. He deals with nothing but straight U. S. P. and N. F. preparations, so considers his work “ideal pharmacy.” Has full privilege in the clinical laboratory and is making the most of this practice. However, he intends to come back and complete his medical course at some future time.

Witters, John Roscoe, Hebron, Ind. Went to work in his home town immediately upon graduation and has very lately purchased the drug store in which he started. Passed the state board with a good grade in Jan. 1915. Married Miss C. P. Barnes, a former student in the professional course, in 1912. By the way, Witters, does C. P. stand for chemically pure? He reports a young man come to live with them in May, 1913.
CLASS OF 1913.

Date of Graduation, May 22, 1913.

Secretary, DONALD D. MILLER, 2150 Weisser Park Ave., Fort Wayne, Ind.

Adams, George F., Sellersburg, Ind. Now at 4311 N. Western Ave., Chicago, Ill. Robinson tells us that G. F. is clerking for Ellert G. Knudson, in Chicago, having been there for the past year, at the above address. We knew he was in Chicago but sent letters to his home address in hopes they would be forwarded. These letters have been neither returned nor answered. Has been in Chicago since graduation with the exception of six months spent with Eli Lilly and Co. immediately after leaving Valpo. Would have continued with them but the Indiana board did not recognize laboratory work in a wholesale house as experience. Is getting along fine.

Ault, Charles, Kalispell, Mont. Now at Presbyterian Sanitarium, Albuquerque, N. M. Took a position in Duncombe, Iowa, until his health failed. Married Louise Jungjohan of Valparaiso in July, 1914, but has been suffering from ill health for the past year and is now in the land of sunshine recuperating. We get no reply from him, but mail is not returned.

Bedrossian, Vahan K., Dardanelles, Turkey. Was at 408 Arch St., New Britain, Conn. A letter sent to his New Britain address is neither returned nor answered.

Bennett, Jarvis C., Athens, Ill. Now at Springfield, Ill., c/o Hullet's Pharmacy. Took a position in Indianapolis after graduation, having passed the state board successfully. Later went to Illinois, but we do not hear from him.

Cameron, A. Austin, Wellesley, Mass. Now at Duncombe, la. Has been working for one of our old graduates ever since graduation, and writes a letter full of enthusiasm about business conditions and the hope they have for the season of 1915. Gives the addresses of some of the old boys and also a prospective pharic.

Deffenbaugh, Elmer R., Staunton, Va. Now at 1844 Adams St., Chicago, Ill. Went back to Virginia after graduation for six months in two different drug stores, then to Chicago where he has been successfully filling a position since. Sent for certificate of graduation a short time ago with the intention of going after assistant's papers.

Dreibelbis, Wright M., Orangeville, Ill. Now at Spring and Vincennes Sts., New Albany, Ind. Just had a notice from Dreibelbis that he has the East End Pharmacy for sale. He doesn't say how long he has been in business, but that he wants to go on in medicine and desires to sell out for this reason. A description of his stock indicates that he has a good business.

Dublasiewicz, John M., Ashland, Wis. Now at Raymond, Wash., Box 412. Had a letter some time ago telling us he was in drug work in the far West and liked it. No later reply. Mail to the above address is not returned.

Dunham, Howard, Union Mills, Ind. Now at Kokomo, Ind., Kingston Corner. Has been clerking in the above town "in one of the best stores in the state" since graduation, has a fine job and likes it. He attended the last alumni meeting and expects to come this year. Has already sent in his order for an extra "spud" for his wife. His wife, mark you, having married last August. Later we had notice that on account of a bereavement he would not be able to be with us at the banquet. He sent best wishes to all of 1913.

Fritch, Lewis M., Viola, Ill. Now at Mattoon, Ill., c/o F. J. Rit-ter's drug store. Dunham says that Fritch can give both Lippincott and himself a few pointers, having been married for some time and sporting a year old boy. He confirms the above address, but we can't hear from Fritch. We had a letter from him in October, 1913, when he was working in Aledo, Ill., where he was getting fifteen per and had a better position offered him. Again in January from the above address asking for a statement of time in school as he was thinking of meeting the Illinois board.

Geiger, William E., Fayette, O. Now at 1223 Collingwood Ave., Toledo, O. Admits that he got both our former communications, but with the third one decides to "fulfill the promises made while at Valpo and write." He was at Montezuma for a time, but later moved to Danville, Ill., where he was for some time in the employ of one of our old graduates, Neupert, of 1899. Mentions a number of the old boys and gives more news regarding them than he does of himself. Later we hear from him at the above address. He intends to try the Ohio board soon.

Greene, Max S., Chicago, Ill. Now at 759 Jennings St., Bronx, N. Y. Letters addressed to his Chicago street number are returned, and efforts to locate him are unsuccessful. Later we have a letter from him at the above address asking us to certify that Max Samuel Breenburg and Greene are one and the same individual. He is arrangeing to take the New York board when he has sufficient drug store practice in addition to his time in school.

Harvey, James F., Rutan, Penna. Continued his work in medicine after graduation, taking special work in the summer of 1914 and will finish his senior work in June, 1915. He gives his Chicago address, 1940 Congress St., but after graduation time his home address will probably reach him better until he establishes himself in practice.

Howard, Chester A., Stevensville, Mich. Now at 924 N. 8th St., LaFayette, Ind. Worked in a drug store in Michigan City for a year and then accepted a position in LaFayette, where he is getting along nicely and wishing for the time to pass until he will have full four years' experience. Has had his salary increased several times and shares the burden of managing the Lafayette store with the owner. Got and held his position in competition with student applicants from Purdue.

Jensen, Carroll, A. B., Butte, Mont. Now at 333 So. Montana
St. Has been actively engaged in drug work in his home town ever since graduation. Passed the Montana board without any difficulty.
Contemplates entering medicine next fall, selecting Valpo as the proper place to get the right kind of instruction.

Love, Walter E., Union Center, Ind. Now at Nappanee, Ind.
Dunham tells us that Love has gone into partnership with Ira Dunham at the above town. Love is too busy to write.

Lippincott, Ross M., Elkhart, Ind., c/o Houseworth Bros. Dunham says he was married the 31st of March, which probably accounts for the fact that we can't get a word out of him. We hear he has been busily engaged in drug work ever since graduation.

Maloney, Michael M., Gad, W. Va. Now at Montgomery, W. Va. Employed in a drug store in the above town “at a fair salary and enjoying the work.” Registered in West Virginia. Married in 1913 “and now walks the floor at night with a fine boy named Richard.”

Mangus, W. Rush, Stoyestown, Pa. Now at 609 Elder St., Johnstown, Pa. Worked in a drug store about six months after graduation, and then went back to his old profession of teaching, being now principal of a suburban school in the above city. He is still keeping in touch with his work and particularly with chemistry, hoping to find a position as chemistry teacher in a high school. Not married.

Mays, Albert R., Kuttawa, Ky. Now at Richmond, Ill. After leaving school rested until October and then went to work in the above town where he is still employed. Has a good boss and is getting along fine. Intends to register as soon as he gets his experience. Planned to be with us in May but was unavoidably kept at work.

Miller, Everett, Big Reedy, Ky. Now at 1131 Udell St., Indianapolis, Indiana. Has been working in Indianapolis ever since graduation, with a good position and good pay. Likes it more every day. “Think I have the best place in the city.” Passed assistant’s examination and later for full registration with good averages. Hoped to be with us in May, but failed to appear.

Miller, Donald D., New Haven, Indiana. Now at 2150 Weisser Park Ave., Fort Wayne, Ind. After graduation soon found a job at Gary where he worked six months as analytical chemist, then took a job in a drug store, doing little except fill prescriptions and make official preparations. But fifteen dollars per was too little so he again began operating a couple of combustion furnaces for the Inland Steel Co., at Indiana Harbor. Admits, with apparent regret, that he is not married yet. Sends news of many of his classmates, as well as of some other alumni. Also brings us some fine samples or iron and steel products and pretends that he is really interested in chemistry to this day. Later we wrote him, asking that he act as secretary for his class, but since he had moved to Fort Wayne the delay in forwarding left him very little time to get letters to his classmates. Was with us in May and accepts the position of permanent secretary for his class, so you may expect all the ’13 folks to be heard from next year.

Moore, Harold W., Middlebourne, W. Va. Since graduation worked a short time in Chicago, then in Plainfield, Ill., and Laurel, Neb., and is now back at work in his home town. Expects to enter dentistry in the fall. Sends us news of some of his classmates.

Palmer, John R., Valparaiso, Ind. Now at Winamac, Ind. Worked in the College Pharmacy for a couple of years between his junior and senior courses. After graduation continued his work there until May, 1914, when he took a position at the above address and reports that he is getting along fine. Passed the Indiana board in 1913, with a good grade. Married a young lady from his home town in 1910 and took a fine baby girl with them when they moved away from Valpo. He and his wife were over May 19th and are getting along fine in their new home.

Arbor, Mich. Came back to Valparaiso and worked a year as assistant in the chemistry and pharmacy laboratories, then went to Ann Arbor to continue work along the line of pharmacy and chemistry. His merit was soon appreciated up there and he received a flattering offer as an assistant in organic chemistry, which position will enable him to remain there at a financial as well as intellectual profit until he obtains his doctor's degree, as he expects to take out a Ph. D. in chemistry.

Robinson, Louis T., Selvin, Ind. Now at Tennyson, Ind. Took a position in the Central Pharmacy, at Crown Point, resigning last September and returning to his "native haunts" to serve as principal of the Midway public schools. Passed the Indiana state board in January with a creditable grade, having registered as assistant the previous April. Wishes to buy a small store in the northern part of the state. Sends us news of some of his classmates. Visited us while looking for a location.

Rowe, E. Russell, Sheridan, Mont. Is back in the bank at his home town. Says he has been sorry a number of times that he didn't get in pharmacy and stick, but an immediate offer of $100.00 a month looked good. Has a dream of going to Honolulu and going into real pharmacy, but has not yet put it into execution. Checked up his answers to all the questions I had asked and concluded he had made 90%. Sends news of some of his classmates and others in his section.

Sessions, Clifford H., Fennville, Mich. Was in Valpo for some time after May, 1913, but we have lost track of him since.

Sherman, Charles A., Anderson, Ind. Now at 501 S. Main St., Elkhart, Ind. Went to work at once in the above town and has been at it ever since. Registered in July, 1914. Would consider going into business for himself if an advantageous location offered itself. Sends more news of his classmates than he does of himself. Still comes to Valpo occasionally, but the attraction is a profound secret. Ask Elsie. Visited Valpo the 19th of May, of course.

Smith, Claude A., Raymond, Kansas. Now at Pine Village, Indiana. Started to work in Lowell after graduation, taking a visit to his old home in Kansas and back to a job in Crown Point, from which he resigned in the summer of 1914 to go into business for himself in the above town. Married Joy McFarland in January, 1914, a Louisiana girl whom he met while in school at Valparaiso. His wife wrote an article which won first prize from the Bulletin of Pharmacy on the subject: "If I married again, would I marry a druggist?" We hope to read another article from her on this subject ten years from now, as a matter of comparison. Later she wrote a fine article for Smith to put in the Bulletin of Pharmacy which we at once put in our last catalog. If you haven't read it write us for a copy. The very latest is a dainty little square card which reads, "It's a boy."

Teel, Howard C., Mentone, Indiana. Wrote us about a year ago from his home address asking to have his time in school signed up. Never a line since. Mail is not returned, therefore Teel gets it. It's up to his class secretary now.
CLASS OF 1914.

Date of Graduation, May 21, 1914.

Secretary, N. J. BALLARD, Valparaiso, Ind.

An extra copy of "The Record 1914" is left with me for sale. If some one who wanted a copy at graduation time and did not have the $2.50 to spare is now on Easy Street and wants to read the "Therapeutics of Red Sandstone" or see the class pictures once more, just let me hear from you.

Anderson, I. William, Wittangi, Sweden. Now at Denison, Ia., Box 9. Landed a job in a drug store in Denison, Iowa, which he has been successfully holding down ever since. He says he would rather argue evolution than to try to wheedle the people out of their dollars. Reports that he is enjoying pharmacy and appreciating it more than ever before. Finally he asks the pertinent question: "Why is there never anything in the journals about the pharmacy department?" Later we hear he is in Rock Rapids, Iowa, and contemplating a change to Walkerville, Mont.

Ballard, Noel J., Belmont, Ill. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Took a position in the College Pharmacy where he is to be found every day and half the Sundays. Married Florence Lowe and has assumed the management of the Monadnock, where he is reported as being a good landlord.

Bracco, Angelo, 809 Elm St., Calumet, Mich. Now at 98 State St., Hammond, Ind. Has been working in Hammond ever since graduation. Had the misfortune of going through a fire at his rooming house, losing all his chemistries, and is therefore inconsolable. Wants to trade a Ford for a drug store, but at the same time admits that he intends to enter a dental college next fall. Sends news of many of his classmates.

Hostner, Grover Cleveland, Marble Hill, Mo. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Worked in the analytical department of Allaire Woodard, of Peoria, under one of our old graduates, A. J. White, of 1910. In September he returned to Valpo and has been assistant in the pharmacy department and at the same time completing the Ph. C. course. He expects to take a position on the corps of teachers and remain with us another year.

Coburn, James B., Halle, La. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Remained in Valpo through the summer and in September became assistant to Mr. Speer in the chemical laboratory, at the same time working on his Ph. C. course. He intends to remain in school all of next year. Lately married and away on his honeymoon.

Cochran, Guy W., Idaville, Ind. Has been working for one of our old graduates, R. D. McCord. Took the state board in January for registered assistant and passed, and will be up for full papers as soon as he has experience enough. McCord says he is still looking after the girl referred to in their class Annual.

Conway, Frank J., Goodland, Ind. We have failed to get any reply from Conway. Mail is not returned.

Cruger, LeRoy E., Deerfield, Wis. Now in Milwaukee, Wis., 1130 State St., c/o The Mueller Pharmacy. Has been working for the Mueller Pharmacies since graduation and likes it fine. Expects to take the state board as soon as he has had experience enough and hoped to meet the boys in May. Later reports that he passed the Wisconsin board without any review and without any trouble.

Diab, Abu-Haider Kalil, 617 Chartress St., New Orleans, La.

Has been practicing pharmacy since graduation, but was not working at the time of writing us. He is registered in Mississippi and qualified in Louisiana. Wrote us a good, long letter in October, 1914, at the time he was getting his credentials ready for the boards above mentioned.

Dixon, Clarence E., Harrisburg, Ill., Route No. 2. Worked for half a year after graduation in Martinsville, and later in Crown Point, Ind., but is now working in the machine shops at the above city. Wishes to get back into drug work whenever he can find a place for an unregistered man.

Duff, Etta M., Harrisville, Pa. Now Mrs. Walter P. Hammer, No. 1824 W. Adams St., Chicago, Ill. An announcement of her marriage, Dec. 26th, 1914, to the medical student with whom she became acquainted here in Valparaiso has lately reached us. We now know that those pills she was compounding, shown in Schap's lantern slide, were certainly efficacious.

Faul, James M., Richmond, Ind. Now at Fountain City, Ind. It will be remembered that Faul married while in school, and he now reports a little Faul, arriving Christmas time, a nine-pound girl. After working in Michigan City for some time, Faul moved to Chicago to a position at the Blackstone Pharmacy. Sends news of many of his classmates and best wishes to all the old people, particularly Prof. Weems. Later he moved to Richmond and still later to the above address, where he is now to be found.

Fischer, Hubert Henry, Kendallville, Ind. Now at Bremen, Ind. Has been helping his father in the drug store since graduation. Registered by examination. Gives news of some of his classmates. Says that he and Lyons are like Jerome and Thaw, neither goes any place without the other accompanying him. The latest word is that he has taken a position at Bremen, Ind., where his father owns an interest in a drug store.

Furgason, Waymond R., 1011 E. Jackson St., Elkhart, Ind. Now at Anderson, Ind. Passed the board in July and bought a store in Anderson, in October. Doing well but sincerely wishes that he were back in school at Valpo. Sends addresses of prospectives. Visited us the 19th of May, and inquired about the Judge.

Gullstrom, Frank A., Chesterton, Ind. Gullstrom does not fill out his blank but we understand he has been working in drug stores in and about Gary most of the time since graduation. Later we received a card saying that he is working in the Lion Store, at Hammond, Ind., so we presume he is in the department with our old time graduate, Jay Ritter. The very latest report is that he is working at Whiting—a position secured for him by Prof. Sahm. Gullstrom makes his final report in person and is evidently prosperous, for he had an extra dollar to leave with us.

Haas, Arthur A., Peru, Ind. Now at No. 3 Stevenson St., Freeport, Ill. Has been working for Barnhart of 1905 since graduation, serving in the capacity of manager. His letters indicate the pride he is taking in the drug business. Sends us a number of very valuable old books on pharmacy and materia medica. Promises to bring Barnhart over to visit Valpo some time.
Henderson, Carl J., Havana, N. Dak. Now at 10 Broadway, Fargo, N. D. Got a position in a drug store at the above address, where he is doing well, filling ten to twenty prescriptions per day besides doing considerable analytic work for two of the foremost doctors of the city. He wants the class in physiological chemistry to know that there is real money on the side.

Hugi, George, 27 Hatfield Place, Port Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y. Soon after graduation he obtained a position with Schieffelin and Co., and after serving them for a few months was promoted from the patent medicine department to the chemical and biological departments, where he is now to be found in his element and thoroughly enjoying life. Later we hear, indirectly, that he is located in Detroit, but nothing definite can be offered. Lastly, we have a letter. He was for some time with the Lackawanna Steel Co., but is now with the DuPont Powder people at Parry Sound, Ontario, Canada, and likes his job immensely.

Jones, N. Franklin, Florence, S. D. Now at Canton, S. D. Took a position with the Red Cross Drug Store at Huron, S. D., as soon as he graduated and later accepted a better position at Canton, where he expects to stay for some time. Passed the South Dakota board easily last July.

Jones, Roy Lee, Mason City, Ill. Now at Sedan, Kansas. Took a three months’ vacation on the home farm after graduation and then accepted a position in Sudan, Kansas, working alongside his classmate, Earl Warren. Enjoys drug work and expects to register on his diploma in the state of Kansas as soon as he gets sufficient experience. Gives news of his classmates.

Kallstead, Andrew C., 2137 50th Ave., Oakland Ave. Now at Hammond, Ind., Box 334. Remained in school after graduation until the opening of the March term, 1915. Went right to Hammond and took the position from which Quigley resigned. After a short time in this store, he accepted a better position in the Lion department store, being particularly interested in handling drug sundries. He was present at the alumni meeting and banquet May 19th.

Kaupas, Julius B., 10806 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. Never had a word from him since he left. Mail is not returned.

Keller, Samuel L., Dakota City, Neb. Now at Fremont, Neb., c/o Fremont College. Was given the position of Dean of the Department of Pharmacy succeeding C. C. Jordan, of 1911, who had resigned to complete medicine. Keller writes us a very interesting letter about his work and the talks he has to make in chapel. He is reorganizing the department and thinking of putting it on a two-year basis.

Koger, Oda Benton, Savage, Ky. Now at Norwich, Kans. Went to Hutchinson and worked for Duval until last December, at which time he went to the above town and in partnership with his brother, a practicing physician, took over the Norwich Drug Co., a business invoicing nearly $7,000.00. He feels that he has an excellent proposition and that prospects are bright. Registered in Kansas on his diploma. Promises to visit Valpo whenever he can. The latest is Koger married Florence Robbins of Norwich Nov. 2.

Lippard, Leon H., Salida, Colo. Was at Franklin, Ind. Has been working for the Franklin Pharmacy at the above address since graduation, but expects to leave this summer for Colorado. Sends regards to all classmates and maintains he is interested in the alumni. We just see that he is back at his home address and has quite recently passed the Colorado board.

Lyons, Cyril D., Derby, Indiana. Now at Louisville, Ky., c/o Newman Drug Co. A letter of August, 1914, says: "I am with the Newman Co. and doing fine. We fill on an average two hundred prescriptions a day." Later letters to him get no reply. Mail is not returned.

Meyer, Max, 4910 Jackson Blvd. After graduation last May went to Manitoba, Can., and spent the summer there canvassing. Returned the latter part of November and took a course in show card writing at the Koester School in Chicago, and is now working in a drug store at Oak Park, Ill.

Miles, Carey F., Enid, Okla. Wrote us in November, 1914, that he had a place in the leading prescription store of Quincy and was in love with the work. Later letters to him are not answered. Mail is not returned to us. Now at Kiowa, Kan. Writes that he has a good job and likes it. He is arranging to register in Kansas from his diploma.

Molter, Elmer J., Marshall, Minn. Has been at Luverne, Minn., since last September. Has a good place and a store without a fountain. Expects to change soon. Admits that he knows nothing of his classmastes excepting Meyers. Asks that all mail be sent to his home address.

Quigley, Michael James, 821 North East St., Richmond, Ind. Got a position in Hammond where he remained until January, 1915. Took the January examination and passed with an exceptionally high mark. Returned to his home town and took out stock in the Quigley drug stores where they have lately opened two new stores. He reports that Skinner is employed alongside him in the store where they served their early apprenticeship. He gives news of several of his classmates.

Roe, Roy C., Markel, Ind. Now at 709 S. Winchester Ave., Rear Apt., Chicago, Ill. Since leaving school has been with the Chicago Germicide Co., employed as chemist, preparing various preparations of germicide, insecticide and disinfectant nature. Sends us news of a number of his classmates and showed us through his establishment one day when we called to see how he was progressing. Has a notion that he is going to own the establishment one of these days.

Rumsyre, Grant A., Columbia City, Ind. Now at Fort Wayne, c/o Meyer Bros. Co. Reports that he has been unfortunate in not getting any position with a drug firm since the day he got his diploma. A later postal card, however, informs us that he has just gotten a position with Meyer Bros., of Fort Wayne.

Ryan, Ernest H., Kendallville, Ind. Never had a report from him. Wrote him last fall and put him next to a job, but he was not in a position to accept, although he made no further explanation. Since then no reply to letters and no mail returned.

Schop (Zaldivar), Antonio R., Las Delicias, Cuba, Oriente Prov- ince. Now at Havana, Cuba, Box No. 331. Reports that "in a tropical country we always feel lazy," which is his excuse for not writing sooner. It seems the malady reaches farther than tropical countries. He is in a big drug store in Havana and getting fine practice... in dispensing. Expects to take the state board this spring, and further expects to succeed. Reports to us that Valparaiso diplomas are good in Cuba for admission to examination.

Sisco, Claude M., Osage, Ark. Now at Sedan, Kans. Worked in a drug store for a short time, then accepted a position as principal of the Osage public school where he taught until Christmas, leaving that for his present position in the above town, taking the place of "Our Sheriff—Earl Warren." Married Flora Casey, a sister of C. B. Casey, Nov. 15, 1914.

Skinner, J. Everett, Richmond, Ind., 310 National Road. Postal card says "working every day"—but no news. Quigley tells us that Skinner is working in one of the Quigley drug stores in his home town. In fact, in the very store where he learned to cut flaxseed with a spatula and feed the leeches. A later letter from Skinner confirms the above.

Spears, James Francis, Lonaconing, Md. Spears replies as follows: "Stayed the summer term, loafed, went to Gary, Ind., worked for the Meyer Drug Co., 848 Broadway, for four months. In October, I went East and worked in the West Side Pharmacy, Cumberland, Md., returning to Valparaiso March 3d to take a postgraduate course." Came and completed his course and soon is to have charge of a drug store in West Virginia.

Speer, William O. Now at Valparaiso, Ind. Remained in Valparaiso the summer term of 1914 and in September succeeded Mr. Papish. Has had charge of the laboratory work since and we are disposed to believe is fully as popular as his predecessor—and may be more so. Married yet? "Nope." Took in the A. Ph. A. meeting at San Francisco this August.

Stine, Kenneth S., Bluffton, Ind. Now at 126 W. Jefferson St., Fort Wayne, Ind., c/o Meyer Bros. Has been with the Meyer Bros. Co. since graduation, and doing well. Registered assistant with a grade of 91, and expects to take the board examination for full registration next January.

Vitkauskas, Zigmond, 2627 Calumet Ave., Chicago, Ill. Went to work for the Redmond Chemical Co. immediately after graduation. Sent us samples of a synthetic resin which they produce very much resembling amber. He also gave us a full description of how it is manufactured. At the beginning of the year, he resigned his position as chemist and took up the editorship of a Lithuanian paper. He sent us a couple of copies containing contributions from our friend, Vitkauskas, but these being printed in the Lithuanian language failed to interest us as they certainly must have if they had been couched in plain United States.

Warren, Earl L., Sedan, Kans. Now at Winfield, Kans. Went to work in his home town immediately upon graduation, going to the above town to a better position last February. His present employer is a member of the state board. Registered in Kansas on his diploma. Wants one of the Annuals sure.

Warren, Lovett A., Dunn, N. C. Went to work at once for Wilson and Lee in his home town, and is still there. Not registered as yet because he lacks some experience, but know he can pass the board whenever they will let him through the door. Not yet married. Notice he says "not yet."
Wieczorek, Walter Wladyslaus, 4800 Loomis St., Chicago. Now at Cor., 50th and Ashland Blvd., Chicago. Hunted Chicago over in despair for two weeks, but had no experience and lacked confidence in himself and was afraid to tackle a job when he saw one. After fourteen weary days of waiting he took charge of a store for a physician and ran it successfully until the doctor sold out. Getting the next job was easy and he now has a fine place. Not married, not registered, but expects to be both before long. Was down with us May 19th.

Wiesjahn, Robert G., Wanatah, Ind. Left his home town and father's drug store for a position at Logansport, where he remained until quite recently when he was called home to take the place of his brother, W. H., of 1906. Enjoys drug work and is doing fine. Was with us May 19th.

Zack, Archie R., 132 Washington Place, Passaic, N. J. We have never had any word from him since he left here. Mail is not returned to us.

CLASS OF 1915.

Date of Graduation, May 21, 1915.

Class Secretary, Preston Dunn, Eskridge, Kan.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1915.

I would that I were able to look at each and everyone of you so that I could see for myself what you are doing so that I might be able to give you all some interesting news. Much of that which I shall write will be indefinite, partly my fault and partly yours. I will undertake to tell as much as possible about each and every one.

(A few days ago Prof. Timmons made me agree to bring this report of Dunn's up to date as far as possible. Any additions I made are in parenthesis.—C. L. Cox).

Ada L. Bailey is at present in Schnectady, N. Y., where she went after leaving school. Part of her time she has spent nursing while the remainder she has spent recuperating and says she often thinks of her dear old classmates. She has fine prospects in view for her future.

J. W. Bell is in his old home town of Lindsay, Oklahoma, where he is working in the Corner Drug Store and in his own words says, "This is the life." His employer has been on the sick list all summer and he has charge of the store. Bell has not registered yet and as soon as he does he will go into business for himself.

Mary and Beulah Boyer are now in Emmetsburg, Ia., where they have complete charge of the drug stock in the most prominent store. They fill from ten to thirty prescriptions daily and enjoy their work. They are contemplating entering the drug business for themselves in the near future. (The Boyer girls passed the Iowa State Board in September with good marks.)

M. H. Breininger stayed at V. U. during the summer and was intending to go to Ann Arbor this fall to pursue higher work in Chemistry. He said he is living off the "fat" of the land and is still bald headed. (Some time ago we heard that "Breiny" and Beulah had been married for some time. Later we get a letter from Breininger at Giltner, Nebraska, saying that he had obtained a permanent position with the Brooks Drug and Chemical Company of Waelder, Texas, and that he would hereafter be found at that address. G. D. T.)

Vance E. Brickles is still married and enjoys both Pharmacy and married life. He is now registered in Indiana and is working with his father in Hamlet, Ind., where they have a good business.

Lloyd E. Calkins left V. U. last spring for Montreal, Canada, where he spent the summer working and he intended to come back to the States and get a position in a drug store that he might work out his experience as he has decided to follow Pharmacy as a profession. (Calkins returned to V. U. this fall and is teaching Analytics, Botany Laboratory, Second Inorganic Chemistry Laboratory and Medical Organic Chemistry).

Baudillo Castellanos is still in V. U. where he is continuing his school work after which he intends to enter the drug business in Cuba. (He says he will leave for the Island in April. Present address 357 College Ave., Valparaiso.)

P. M. Christley is still continuing school work in V. U.

J. J. Cizauskas is holding down a position in Cicero, Ill. At first Joe was very enthusiastic about the drug business and said, "I am living like a duck upon the water," but about three months later he has this to say, "My pay envelope is a little heavier, yet it gives me no satisfaction. I am displeased with this profession." His address is 4902 W. 74th St.

C. L. Cox is attending school this fall where he will stay for a few months when he will be in line for any kind of a job that comes his way. (Cox just lately got a job with the DuPont Powder people at Hopewell, Va., where he expects to go the middle of December. G. D. T.)

C. E. Davis is attending V. U. this year where he will be until March, when he will probably go to Mississippi in quest of a position.

Clair V. Dobson continued his school work at V. U. last summer and was going to Iowa to work in a store this fall. (Dobson is working in a store in Harrisville, Pennsylvania.)

Preston Dunn is still holding down a job in Eskridge, Kansas. (Dunn registered in September.)

J. C. Duvall is working for his brother in Hutchinson, Kan. He is registered and enjoys his work in every way.

Herbert Fowler worked a few weeks in the Palace Pharmacy of Cheyenne, Wyo., after which he took charge of a store in Cowley, Wyo., where he now is. He said he passed the State Board very easily. (In November he wrote me that he was unable to get "full papers" on account of not being 21 years of age, but is making good money working at Casper, Wyoming, for the Casper Pharmacy. He will be given the management of a store as soon as he can get his voting age behind him.)

Louis Glowaski is working in a drug store in Nanticoke, Pa. He says he enjoys his work fine and has such short hours, only has to work from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m. He will take the state board as soon as possible.
Ross Hackett expected to go to school this fall. His home is in Michigan City, Ind. As yet I have not heard from him. (Hackett is working for the Brenner Pharmacy in Valpo and attending the University. He is enrolled as a Pre-Medic.)

Harriett Harger worked a few weeks for the Humston-Keeling Co., of Chicago, when she was offered a position with Frederick Stearns & Co. of Detroit, Mich., where she now is. She is enjoying her work and would like to hear more often from her old classmates. Her address is 365 St. Aubin, Detroit, Mich. (Harry Hipple Hopple registered in the state of Nevada and opened a store in Ruth, Nevada, November 1st.)

Wm. L. Juergens is at home, in Sutton, W. Va. He spent the summer recuperating from his two years of college work and this fall will go to work in a store near his home. (Bill is working for McCutcheon Pharmacy at Richwood, Va.)

John A. Latstetter returned to his home in Clarksburg, W. Va., where he remained for a while. He intended to get a position in a short time and to take the State Board as soon as convenient.

H. L. Mayo returned to his home in Prestonsburg, Ky., where he looked after some business interests most of the summer. During the latter part of August he left for Texas.

W. C. Middleton continued his school work last summer. I have not heard from him. ("Midd" dropped in to see us after taking the Michigan State Board in November. He says it was easy for him. He thinks he will be back in V. U. this winter and work out the B. S. in Phar. degree.)

Eugene Mills continued his work at V. U. last summer after which he intended to procure a position in a laboratory for the coming year. (Mills will go to the laboratory of the Gary Steel mills at the end of this (fall) term.)

Vincent Pfister is working on his father's ranch in Lusk, Wyo., where he is enjoying life. He does not intend to follow Pharmacy for a time. (Fowler says "Pfister is punching cows for himself.")

Albert G. Press is working in a store in Oakland, Neb. He enjoys his work and will take the State Board in February, after which he will enter the drug business for himself.

Michael Regan was in Valparaiso most of the summer. I have not heard from him. His home is in Dickinson, N. D. (Mike is still in Valpo.)

Charles A. Riccio will continue his school work this year. He spent most of the summer in Bridgeport, Conn., where he enjoyed himself immensely. (Ricció was in school all summer. He left at the close of the term standing on the rear platform of an east bound train waving farewell to Valpo with the sheep-hide he held in his hand.)

Octave A. Rousseau is working in a drug store in St. Joseph, Mich. He does not intend to stay there any longer than necessary and is considering Central Illinois as a good field.

Arthur Runyan is still in Valparaiso where he is continuing his school work. ("Bunny" is making good in the laboratory of the Gary Steel Mills. The Assistant Chief Chemist said he had been promoted over five men since he went to work there.)

Chauncey Smith has charge of a drug store in Froid, Mont., and is doing nicely. (The store Chauncey was managing was sold shortly after he got in there. The new owner took charge and Chauncey returned home. Have not heard from him since.)

D. D. Sparks is continuing his school work in V. U. He intends to enter the teaching profession. (Dale is Laboratory Assistant to W. O. Speer.)

Floyd A. Timmons continued his school work last summer and this winter will be assistant to W. O. Speer. ("Little Dick" is assistant to G. C. Ghostner, who is instructing in Manufacturing and Volumetrics.)

Eleanor Uhler is still in Walnut, Neb. Will take the State Board soon.

Floyd E. Weeks worked in a drug store in Three Rivers, Michigan, for a short time, but now has a position in Norwall, Ohio. (The "Rabbi" was campaign manager for the "Drys" at Norwall.)

Lee Weiss is working in a store in his home town and enjoys his work. His address is Lakefield, Minn.

CLASS DAY.

In late years there has been felt the necessity of giving to the Alumni, as much as possible, the time at "The Alumni Banquet," for it is really theirs. Each year a large number return. Many would like to express their joy and gratitude at being back in "Dear Old Valpo" once again. It was decided this year by the Senior Pharmacy Class and Mr. Timmons to set aside a day and designate that as "Class Day."

Undoubtedly there would be interest in our exercises—class exercises—shown by our friends and by the Alumni—Pharmics and friends of Pharmics are loyal—but those exercises, heretofore given at the Banquet, are decidedly class affairs.

In order to enjoy them—to appreciate them—you must be familiar with the time, the work, the class itself.

How would a graduate of '97 enjoy the rhapsodies of Our Poet, the vagaries of Our Prophet, and the chronicles of Our Historian? Before these can be fully appreciated by the public they must have mellowed with age.

Perhaps the main reason, however, was the necessity as we saw it, of making the exercises at the Banquet more brief. Our exercises in themselves filled an entire evening.

We contemplated having "Our Day" at Flint Lake—a fine program was prepared—a ball game between the front and rear rows, as seated in old Room I, was scheduled. The best of our program was to have been a picnic lunch—a regular old-fashioned lunch—where everybody sat upon the grass and helped himself.

Owing to the rainy day, we postponed the exercises until evening and met in the I. O. O. F. Hall. We had our program just the same, and our lunch—our picnic lunch.
Everybody expressed his enjoyment and hoped this would be an annual affair.

We cannot reproduce the splendid music by the College Quartet, the readings by Miss Smith, nor the vocal solo and encore by Mr. Mulford, but we give you following, the numbers exclusive of the above and hope they have mellowed sufficiently for you to enjoy them, even though in a slighter measure than we did.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

By Lee H. Wiese.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

In behalf of the Pharmacy Class of 1915 I extend to the faculty and friends a most hearty and cordial welcome to join us in our day of outing.

To the faculty; I take this opportunity to offer our appreciation for the untiring efforts they have put forth in our behalf; and I know of no better way for us to show that appreciation than to go out and enter the field of our chosen profession and becoming "real pharmacists," in the broadest sense of the term. Prof. Wisner told us at chapel the other morning that when he was a boy, his father wanted him to be a farmer. His mother, like all good mothers, had day dreams of her boy as a great man and wanted to send him to college to acquire an education. He told us he took after his mother's wishes and entered college to become a "great man."

He studied along different lines for a while but soon found that Pharmacy was the right road; so you may see that when we chose Pharmacy as our profession we made a step at least in the right direction.

Classmates, this is the time we have been looking forward to for two years or more, and in one short week we will have parted and gone and left our college days behind us.

In these two years of work side by side there have been formed many ties of friendship that will be hard to break; and while we have been looking forward to graduation it is with regret that we realize that our good old college days are over. As we go out from here next week to join the ranks of our time-honored profession I think of no resolution that will better serve us than that one of our professors: "Go as far as you can," nor a better motto to keep in mind than Viam reperiemus aut faciemus.

CLASS HISTORY.

By Preston C. Dunn.

In presenting to you a history of our class, I find it difficult to make it as interesting as it should be, no fault of yours, I assure you, but more my own. I will endeavor to make its action stimulating, not hypnotic, and ask you to turn back the leaves in your book of memory, which perhaps is not so easy to do, for at this time we have a tendency to look forward into the future and what is to be, rather than looking backward into the past and to that which has been.

No doubt many of the incidents, and perhaps accidents, I have forgotten, but nevertheless I have remembered many things which have transpired during our daily life in the class room on the hill.

We came here together from the four ends of the earth, from the busy city and from the farm, and most of us arrived in Valpo in September, 1913, amidst inclement weather, which perhaps caused many to think more of mother and home than they had anticipated. You remember how anxiously we awaited the school year to open, how we wondered whom our classmates would be, and how we were first at Chapel, something that has never happened since, and listened to the grand old man, who stood upon the platform and informed us of the laws and rules of this institution, and then sent us to Room H for our organization. There it was that we first met our Dean and he strove to make our hearts light with joyful words and our burdens heavy with work.

During our first term's work we were scattered and intermingled among the student body and did not become acquainted as we should, but during the second term we began to know each other better, and under the tutorship of "Daddy" Weems, "God Bless Him," we studied botany. Many were the stormy sessions which he endured and seemed to enjoy under his cloak of remonstrance. Well do some remember the botanical trip to the cemetery, a queer place for a happy crowd to go, without his permission. Our advancement in Chemistry was carefully guided by Prof. Timmons and Prof. Papish. Many were the amusing answers to questions which were propounded to and confounded by us. One of our classmates, when asked the size of an atom responded promptly, that it was of the proportions of a cricket ball and ever since he has been known as Lord Kelvin. A parallel incident was the reply that if one molecule of tombstone could not be seen that it would be better to take two molecules. The days rolled by and nothing of importance happened until the ball season and class rushes were announced when most of us had our full share of sport, if I may call it such. The year ended and many returned to their homes and elsewhere to pursue their work for the summer.

Having become acquainted with Valpo and her great multitude of people, we were all undoubtedly anxious to return to our second year's work, and anyway it beat plowing as Fenstermocker put it.

Most of our number returned apparently refreshed and prosperous and we entered upon our second year's work with a better idea of that which was expected of us. Here for the first time we met our professor and friend, Mr Wisner. As time passed only one event of importance happened which is worthy of our attention. With the co-operation of the Medical class, our department under the guidance of "Dick" proceeded to clean up on the debris which occupied that portion of the earth behind the Science and Medical Halls. We converted it from an ill-kept, evil-smelling sight-distingusting, factory like place into a garden of Eden, minus the apple trees. We presume that future classes of Pharmacy will plant them. We worked for several days grading and sodding our back yard and this spring, we further improved it by planting at the base of the slope, a botanical garden. At this time, Prof. Wisner introduced his individual examinations which called forth better work from the class.

Then came the first “passin on” party of the year and closely following it came the second term and its events. We succeeded in demonstrating to ourselves the physiological effects of Phytolacca Decandra, in all of its entirety. We breathed it, we smelled it, we sneezed it, we slept not during the night that followed, we had terrible visionary images, and groans were emitted in rapid succession. The hoarseness of our voice, the redness of our eyes, and the dullness of our brains impressed our sad plight forcibly upon our instructors.

Phytolacca Decandra will go down in our memories as one of the few drugs of the universe. “Dick” Timmons at this time was carefully and tenderly guiding us aright in organic and physiological chemistries. However some strayed away from the straight and narrow path of physiological chemistry by about 15 minutes each and every day and our Dean’s temper lost its equilibrium and he handed some bouquets in form of credits and others received their lemons. Also we demonstrated to him that our ignorance of organic chemistry as expressed in the daily class room was merely superficial and after all we could pass an examination in excellent style.

At this time our class entered the athletic field and proceeded to put a basket ball team into the interclass league. They made an excellent showing under the leadership of Octave Rausseau as manager and Lee Wiese as Captain. Bell, Parsons, Hopple, Fowler and Meyer played their positions splendidly.

Now began our last term and when the class rushes were started, we went on record as opposing and having nothing to do with them, and Dick smiled and said, “Something new and strange.” Many amusing incidents occurred and turpentine has really a remarkable history in connection with them. Lord Kelvin suggested that in order to make a volatile oil, terebinthinate, to add turpentine, then came Riccio with the statement that it was used as a massing agent in the manufacture of suppositories, while Michael Regan wanted to use it as a flavoring agent in emulsions. Riccio also suggested that in order to be sure that you have the right map of any country, that you had better pull down the map of the world. Many were the discussions on socialism, the Divinity of Christ, and the world war by our friend Cizauskas. With the opening of the ball season, two of our number made the Pharmic-Medic ball team, Bell and Press. The time approached when we began making preparations for our commencement exercises and class meetings were as frequent as “I don’t knows” in organic.

We have endeavored to make this university better by our presence during our brief stay here, have had the greatest of harmony among ourselves in and out of class, the best regard for our instructors and a band of real true friendship exists which shall always hold memory dear of our College days.
Ladies and Gentlemen:

Before reading to you the poem which I have written for the purpose of eulogizing the class of 1915, I wish to make a few preliminary remarks so that my position and attitude towards poetry may not be misconstrued by you.

In this great age of development and progress, we are slowly and surely leaving behind us many old customs and costumes, and many mannerisms of speech, and taking on new; we have inaugurated new methods of living, a few years ago, the thought of which would have sent the cold chills up and down that part of our forefathers' anatologies, commonly known as the spinal column. New inventions have replaced the old and useless, the whole industrial world has undergone and is undergoing a great change. There are still a few of the old school struggling along and great criticisms are hurled at the remainder of humanity by these same people, but I believe that the majority, as is usually the case, are progressive and are eager to accept and try any new ideas which may present great possibilities in any new line or lines that may improve upon the old.

We even have, ladies and gentlemen, a new hypothesis or theory, recently, very recently put forth, that nicotine is the product obtained after having denarcotized opium, after the most approved methods of chemistry.

Now with all these various developments along industrial and scientific lines, why not the same in literature, especially that part set aside and known as poetry. We have the development into new lines in prose writing, etc., as all of you probably know from having read the Cosmopolitan and like illustrious magazines, but the old style of poetry seems not to have changed much. Is it because no one has the "so called nerve" to branch out and brave the criticism, and all that, and diverge from rhyme, rhythm, feet, etc., and produce something that is entirely new, original, and masterful? That being the case as I have decided it, I beg leave, ladies and gentlemen, to read to you a few lines that are not governed by any rules made hundreds of years ago, or as far as I know, by any rules at all, unless by the rules of spelling as taught by Professor Wisner in Room I, after the latest approved methods.

If you have criticism, I fear it not, if you have praise to offer, do not burden me with it as I am a most modest young man. I will now read to you the poem, if you may call it so, which I herewith dedicate to the Class of 1915.

"Health, love and knowledge,"
Some great writer hath said,
"Maketh the wheels of progress rumble on;"
"Industry, efficiency, and knowledge," Sayeth Wisner,
"Maketh the Wheels of Pharmacy run smooth."

So, knowing these things, we should gabibble,
As boldly forth we step,—
For, of these requirements, at least we have four,
As for love—forsooth—Michael Regan will come,
As did the Samaritan of old,
And delve us a portion, then still be quite rich.
And so being endowed with all these great gifts,
It seems not so strange,
That we are a class of brawn and of brains,
Whose knowledge is great, in efficiency strong;
Our purpose on Earth is to serve mankind,
Our motto, via Sahm, "Get the Money."
To the ills of the people we'll administer the dope—
And they will come to us faithfully year after year;
For—to them we will give health and good cheer,
And, mayhaps, a few corns more or less we'll remove.
We honor the profession in whose ranks we now stand,
A profession born with the ancients;
And the world will see and understand,
Accepting our gifts with smiling mien,
And bid us welcome,—
Even as she did to those ancients,
In ages gone by.
Many a class of brave Pharmics
No doubt she has welcomed,
Who have left these old halls with banners aloft,
With hopes of the greatest, ambition the highest.
But with me, my kind friends,
You must now agree,
That we too are with bravery endowed,—
For with fearless eyes, and in warlike array,
In one hand a pestle, in the other a mortar,
We met our great enemy, emulsion, and conquered.
And so as the world beckons, we answer the call;
Upon us it may have wealth, or, perchance,
A wife to bestow;
It may have honor, who knows;
But we go, with ears that hear, and eyes that see.
Ego you say? Nay 'tis not so,—
'Tis merely the confidence of the pharmacist newborn,
The man who knows and knows that he knows,
Who can face the world and say, "I can."
We will the labyrinth of the future tread,
As we trod through the mazes of chemistry,
With its atoms and symbols, and affinities galore,
That two hands could not satisfy.
And these paths will all blend,
Culminating in one,
And the molecule of success will then have been formed;
Then—G. D.—from his haven from beyond the skies,
Looking down, will admire.
Sometimes on our journey towards the pot of gold,
When the road seems long and weary,
And our feet don't seem to track,
We will look back along the vista of the past,
And bring to mind old scenes in Room H.
Conjure in our minds the purin base,
And the wearisome hours attached thereto,
In raising the curtain that enveloped our brain,
And the elusive chase after those methyl groups,
And we'll remember how we caught them, nailed them down hard and fast,—darn 'em—;
Then—all this back in the vista having seen,
The way will no longer seem Weary,
All obstacles will seem as naught.
'Tis sad that behind us our mentors we leave,
But the scars of their prod we will take,
For its point was well sharpened,
And its effects,—ah those effects,
Long with us will they remain—
Of that rest assured.
If this, dear people, you think is a jest,
Just ask Lord Kelvin Glowacki,
Some twenty odd years hence,
The size of an atom and with what to compare,
And without hestitation nor scratching of pate, Back will come the answer,
"Why, 1,000 golf balls to be sure."
And then there's the big Russian,—
He of the inquisitive mind,
Ne'er will he forget
That the chemistry of Organics was born
When the Ark of old Noah was docked.
Oh comrades, on this the eve of our departure,
From our good Alma Mater,
On the verge of our entrance into the great professional world,
Remember the weapons to us she has given,
And keep them secure;
Keep them well polished,
Always flawless and clean.
And remember, oh comrades, forget not I beg you,
'Tis the unwritten law, that to dilute a fluidextractum,
And an infusion thus name it,
Is a crime in the annals unforgiven.
And when we grow gray, and our life's course is run,
And of us the world will inquire,
"Was the life worth the living,
Were my gifts to you worth the striving,
Hast thou gathered the fruits that I've offered?"
To that question, oh classmates,
One answer is given,—
If you have this life's work well done,
And the ethics of our time honored profession observed—
"Old world I'm rewarded,
You've given what was asked,
And now, to St. Peter I'm ready to go."
So, when with passports in toil hardened hands,
We stand before those golden gates,
Knocking for the admittance we know should be ours
Out of our ranks there will raise a great form,
And across the corridor of time there'll boom a great voice,
"Please, Mr. Timmons, sir, I do not see,
Just one more question I beg."

Dedicated to the 1915 Graduating Class Pharmacy Department, University of Valparaiso. By Lloyd E. Calkins, Ph. G.
About a week ago I began cramming for the term-end and final examinations and I suppose the worry of it may have unbalanced me a little, perhaps brought on a form of insanity.

What questions has Wisner framed up for us? How can I ever learn to spell all the words of the Materia Medica and Pharmacopoeia? And worse than that what will Dick give us in Organic Chemistry to get even with us for the one we slipped over on him last term?

All this together with worry over financial difficulties, drove me "nuts." I decided to shuffle off the mortal coil and to do the job right I would make a mixture of all the available poisons that I had studied in the Materia Medica. I limited this strictly to the organic drugs because they are the hardest to learn. I thought it would sound pretty well to have it said, "Here lies one student that Materia Medica killed."

I carefully weighed out twice the maximum dose of each and made a fluid-extract of them.

The cannabis indica and opium I reserved for a smoke, for I never would be able to die happy without my pipe.

I bottled up my fluid extract, put the opium and cannabis indica into my pipe, gathered up my Arny, Pharmacopoeia, Matty Med. Dispensatory and Organic Chemistry, and started for Sager's Lake where I could have a nice quiet place to die.

On the Nickle Plate a west bound freight train was holding the crossing, I saw an empty C. N. W. box car with the door open and I changed my plans about going to Sagers. Why not ride to eternity? I climbed in and shut the door.

As soon as the train started I prepared my death bed. I placed the Dispensatory under my head for a pillow and laid the others around so that no matter which way I looked my eyes would fall on at least one of those dreaded books. I drank my potion, then lit my pipe for my farewell smoke—in this world at least.

I was rather surprised at first, for I felt no discomfort other than the unpleasant taste of the drugs. My next feeling was one of remorse. How cowardly it was of me to quit just because I was down. But one look at the Matty Med., U. S. P., Organic Chem., and Arny, made me forget my remorse. I wish the drugs would hurry up and get to work.

Soon I began to feel drowsy, the books began to appear further and further away—due perhaps to the effect of the cannabis indica—the noise of the moving train grew less and less and soon all was silent. I was awakened by the blat of a sheep. I sat up, my books were scattered about the car which was half overturned and one end smashed open; grass, weeds, and brush, were growing through the cracks in the car floor. I went to the opening and looked out but could see nothing, for I was in a thicket of heavy brush. I climbed to the top of an embankment. Here was a railroad. How came that car to be down there out of sight and yet no signs of a recent derailment? I was puzzled. I rubbed my chin and found it covered with hair. Talk about your Rip Van Winkle stuff. I was it, R. V. W. himself.

Over on a side hill I saw a covered wagon and started toward it. I made up my mind that I would be a little leary about what I said if I should find any one around, for I realized that I would have a hard time explaining something about which I knew so very little.

I found a man there all right, so I played the hobo stunt and asked him for a smoke. After talking to him for a while I asked him how far it was to the nearest town. He said that it was 15 miles to Lusk.

I remembered that Fowler was from Lusk, Wyoming, so I took a long chance and asked him if he had ever heard of a fellow in that town by the name of H. B. Fowler. He scratched his head and said, "H. B. Fowler, yes I used to know him well. In fact I went to school with him in Valparaiso. Let's see, it was fifteen years ago, we came back from school together and got a job in the same store, but Fowler was so gloomy, grouchy and pessimistic the boss fired him before his first week was up. He then married a school ma'am who supported him for about five years, then both left town and I have not heard of him since."

I asked him why he did not stay with the drug business. He said, "A fellow came into the store for some croton oil and I directed him to take one teaspoonful or 4 c.c. at bedtime and the boss fired me." I knew then that beyond all doubt this sheepherder was Vincent Pfister. I asked him where his old roommate was. He said, "Oh, he is around in the brush here somewhere. I promised him a life time job as sheep dog if he found he could not deliver the goods as a drug clerk and now I have to keep him, but he isn't worth a damn. If he really was a dog I'd shoot him."

While we were talking Chauncey came up and I asked him for a chew. He said that Pfister only allowed him fifty cents worth a day and as he had the last ten cent plug in his mouth he was very sorry he couldn't accommodate me.

I told them what I had done to throw aside the burden of life and how it had acted and asked them if they could account for it, but they had forgotten all they learned about Matty Med., the day they got their diplomas, but said that they had heard that Harrold W. Fenstermocher was the greatest living authority on Materia Medica and Therapeutics and he could probably tell me all about it.

The next day Pfister staked me with enough to take me to Kansas City on the cushions and from there I knew that I could get a side door sleeper to any place East.

When I got on the train I picked up a newspaper. The only thing that greatly interested me was a short item in the society column—"A very pretty little romance was brought to light this morning that had its beginning at the dispensing table in the Valparaiso College of Pharmacy and in the Synagog ended here yesterday, when Rabbi Wise said the words that made Floyd E. Weeks and Elinora Uhler man and wife."

While in Kansas City I had the pleasure of hearing a famous soap box orator expound the doctrines of Socialism to a ragged rabble of ne'er-do-wells. I do not recall his name, but it sounded like a cross between a cough and a sneeze. (Cizauskas.)

I ran down into the state of Kansas a few miles to look up an old friend of mine, poor fellow he had been doing fine in the drug business up until the last ten years when he had to quit because he was so fat he could not get behind the counter. I remembered that he had started to get that way while in school and I had heard some of the boys remark that if he could fatten on the stuff he was getting at the Heritage, what would he do when he got out where he could get real feed.

Since Dunn does not smoke, chew nor ————, well anyway I soon got tired of laying around there and began looking for the way out. I went to the depot, soon found a freight going east with an empty box car. After the train started I discovered that there was another bo in the car. He asked me for a match. I gave him the last one I had. He filled his pipe and was standing in the door ready to light it when we swung around a curve. He grabbed for the edge of the door to keep from falling out and lost his pipe. He then made a cigarette but a gust of wind blew out the match. "That's my luck," he said, and began telling me his hard luck story. It was a continuous vaudeville of hard luck, one little part of which I remember.

He was in Kansas City, broke flat. He started down the street looking for a three-ball shop where he could pawn his watch; when he fell into an open manhole and lost his watch; a policeman let a rope down to pull him out; when he was within six inches of the top the rope broke and he fell back breaking his arm; they called an ambulance and got him out and started for the hospital; the team ran away, upset the ambulance and broke his collar bone; they finally got him to the hospital and fixed him up. The night before he was discharged a fire broke out and he narrowly escaped with his life and nightshirt.

When he finished I bet him my hat against his that I could tell him where he was fifteen years ago. He took me up. I told him that he was in the Valparaiso College of Pharmacy. He said, "You win. Unlucky Press is my name."

He had scarcely handed over his hat when the brakeman came in and made him get off. I gave the brakeman the hat I had won from Press and he let me ride to the end of the division.

I arrived there about sundown. On my way to the city lock-up I stopped to hear a street fakir giving his spiel. He was selling Harry Hipple Hopple's Heroic Hair Restorer. To prove the merits of this wonderful dope he would point to his own head of long jet black hair. Since there is only one man in this world with so much hair on his head, it was easy for me to guess that this fellow was M. H. Breininger. When I told him where I was going to spend the night he made me come with him to his twenty-five-cent lodging place where we spent half the night talking over old times.

He said that Calkins was very despondent and broken hearted; he had fallen in love, proposed and was accepted, but was unable to find any state in the union where they permitted a man to marry himself.

He showed me a newspaper clipping which told of a very peculiar accident. "Miss Harriet L. Harger while trying to fill a No. 1 capsule became overbalanced and fell in. Miss Bailey tried to rescue her, but also fell in. Their struggles to get out caused the capsule to roll off the table and was swept out by Batkevicz who had just completed his pharmacy course and was working in the store as janitor."
I asked Briny what became of Jeurgens. He said that he left school the night after the commencement and began work the next day on a $150 dollar job. When pay day came around he went up to sign the pay roll but found he was unable to spell his name and had to quit and get a job where they sign their name with a big X. He advocates spelling as one of the requirements for graduation.

The next day I caught a ride to St. Louis on a stock train. About half way there, we stopped at a water tank and one of the toughest, seediest, dirtiest, looking hobos came aboard to share my palace car with me. In talking about his better days he mentioned that he was a Ph. G. '15 of Valpo. Closer observation revealed the fact that it was Mike Regan. I hadn't the heart to tell him who I was. We reached St. Louis after dark. In getting out of the freight yards we almost ran into a cop who was standing on a corner fast asleep. I dipped his pocket while Mike pinched his gun and watch. After filling up on free lunch we went into the back room to divide the junk.

An inventory of the wad I got, showed forty dollars and some change, a Ph. G. class pin, and an identification card. The card started me on a reveries. Here was one of the class of '15 that had a job that he really could enjoy, sleep all day, sleep all night, sleep all the time. I wondered if there could possibly be another of that class 1915 who had found a job that suited them as well.

I handed the card to Mike. He stared at it, rubbed his eyes, looked again and said, "Floyd Timmons; my old classmate!" He got mushy and wanted to return the stuff, but I said, "Nix."

We shot craps for the pile and I won. My kindness of heart made me give Mike the pop gun and we parted.

Next day I soaked the watch for ten bones and was on easy street again; with a corn cob pipe in my face I felt like a perfect gentleman.

I caught a car for the depot and bought a ticket to Valparaiso. The nickle grabber on the car looked like Eugene Mills, but I didn't get a chance to talk to him.

Near a small town in Illinois we were delayed by a derailment. While watching some of the section men at work I became interested in two of the men. One of the men, apparently the foreman, closely resembled one of my old classmates. It was easy to see that the other one was C. V. Dobson, but who could this foreman be. I never found out until after we got started. I had noticed that he handed the conductor a message reporting the cause and effect of the derailment to be sent from the first open telegraph office. I asked the conductor to let me see the message, which he did. It was signed C. A. Riccio.

At the LaSalle Street Station, Chicago, I had my shoes shined by Octave Rousseau. He told me that the bootblacks union had elected officers the night before. He was candidate for president, but was beaten by a small majority. I sympathized with him, but he said he did not mind it because he was used to it.

Arriving at the Valpo depot I noticed several students standing around wearing badges marked "Alumni Reception Committee." I felt myself in luck, for here was a chance to sponge a ride to the hill and perhaps a few feeds. On the way up to the hill I was told that the Alumni organization met at the hill every year in May.
Also that they had a record of all the Alumni telling who, where and what they were. Of course I was anxious to know where, what and why, the rest of the 1915 bunch were. I was taken to the library and handed a big book. I went through it alphabetically to find the remaining sixteen of the class. This is what I found.

Bell, James Walker; present address, Lindsey, Okla., occupation, junk dealer. He probably developed a love for that work while smashing the drug mill.

Next I wanted to know about the Boyer girls. I remembered how they stuck together while in school, always inseparable. How Miss Beulah had cried when Prof. Wisner wanted to separate them in the dispensing room, and how Daddy Weems had advised them to sit with some fellows instead of together in the botany class. I wondered if they could now be together. They were together all right, both in the same paragraph which said that they were teaching in the public schools in Lone Tree, South Dakota. I can imagine Miss Mary saying, "well, drop your voice," just like she had learned it from Prof. Wisner.

Next I looked for Brickle, Adeps the Hoosier. I had always been interested in Brickle's from an experimental standpoint. I often have heard the remark that no man ever amounts to anything until after he is married. Why then should not Brickle be a model student while in school and since the school makes the man he should be a howling success after leaving school and I guess he is, for this is what the record showed:

Brickle, Vance I.; present address, Coney Island, occupation, peanut vender and bar room soloist.

Turning a few pages further I found Castellanos, Baudilio; present address, University of Havana; occupation, research worker, especially interested in an economic method of collecting Cascara Sagrada one year after being used.

A little further on I found old slow and easy, "The Arkansas Traveler," Davis, C. E.; present address, Salt Lake City, Utah. Occupation—just as I expected, for he had worked two days in blowpipe analysis trying to identify rock salt,—Now that he is trying to find a simple method of identifying this substance, perhaps he will eventually try tasting it.

Duvall, J. C.; present address, somewhere in Kentucky—I have forgotten the name of the town—occupation, druggist, and I think he is a very successful one judging from an article I found in one of the magazines a little later, in which he is advocating the "Direct to Consumer" plan. He says he can very successfully and profitably manufacture Spiritus Frumenti in a cave back of his store and he has worked up a large trade in this article. Its not "elegant pharmacy" but he "gets the money."

Glowacki, Louis; I did not have to look that man up to know what he is doing for his name is in the mouth of every one. His celebrated instrument for measuring molecules; his discovery of saw palmetto growing in the meadows; his treatise on blue ointment and its uses; his discovery that Glacial phosphoric acid is really acetic phosphoric acid. That de-narcotized opium is opium from which nicotine has been removed. It would take a book to tell all the things this man has done in science. He has made Edison look like an amateur.
The next man to look for was Hackett, the woman hater. I found Hackett, Ross S.; present address, U. S. S. Indiana; occupation, Navy Pharmacist. Here at least he could enjoy life with never a lady to bother him. I remembered how he used to say, "There are only two things in this world that I can not tolerate, one is ladies and the other is girls."

Next came Latstetter, John L.; present address, Valparaiso, Ind.; occupation, Professor of Penmanship. I heard afterwards that Prof. Wisner was one of his students.

The next page that attracted my attention was a well worn, thumb-marked page, which looked as if all the visitors of Valpo University had had their attention to one brilliant star among the Alumni. I had hard work making out the name of Mayo, Henry L., who had made himself famous by proving to the world that the formula for Sodium Chloride was NaCl₂ instead of NaCl. He even taught Davis a few things about this compound, but Davis is still unable to detect any difference in the taste. Of course there are lots of other things that Mayo knows, but as he says, "I-I-I know it all right, but I just-just can't explain it."

I would have liked to read the rest of that book but one of the junior pharmics came in and wanted me to come out and meet the millionaire, one of the Alumni. It was Rudolph Meyer. I got a chance to talk to him later and asked him how he was able to pile up so many rocks in fifteen years. He said, "I have always thought that all one needed was a start, then by shrewd investment, money would make money. Therefore all I needed was the start, so I got married, bought my wife a washtub, solicited the work and gave her half of what she made. From this small beginning I made myself rich.

Together we hunted around the hill until we found Middleton. He told us in his slow hesitating way that he was prospering and the future looked like duck soup to him but he couldn't pull that stuff over on me, for I have rented enough suits in my life to tell one when I see one. The white streak around his finger where a ring had recently been worn and his habit of reaching for a watch where there was none told me where he had gotten the stuff to rent the suit with. If I were a muck raker I could probably have found out more about his life, but I am not that kind of a fellow.

I asked for Sparks, Dale Sparks, the fellow who used to spend so much time with the girls. One night a week for study and six for the ladies. They said he was here, had his wife and family with him. We found them on the South Campus. Gee! it looked like an orphan asylum out for a picnic. Poor fellow, he certainly looked common.

Meyer showed me a letter he had received from Weiss expressing regret that he could not be with us. He had become a victim of his old habit and was bummimg around the country, a hobo telegraph operator, only telegraphing when he got tired of resting.

So that was all of them. I was disgusted. Not a half dozen in the whole bunch amounted to a tinker's damn, and not half of those six were Pharmics. I wanted to croak, but decided that it would be the carbolic acid route this time, for I wanted a sure job done. Nix on any more of the Rip Van Winkle stuff. I looked about for a drug store. I found one with the cobwebs of the night before still hanging across the door. I walked in but saw no one. I went to the back of the store and there was a fellow working over a rooster. He had a hypodermic gun in his hand and was preparing to inject something into the rooster's wing. He said he was standardizing some ergot. I asked him how he expected it to act. Well, you all know what he said, for it was Bunny Runyan.

I told him what I wanted and he at once suspected what I was going to do with it. He put this proposition up to me. "You are wanting to die. Why not give your life to the interest of Science. I have been working for the past ten years on an elixir of life and now I think I have it perfected. This elixir of life will turn back the hands of time five, ten, fifteen or twenty years, according to the size of the dose taken. I have tried it out on all the lower animals, but as yet had no chance to try it on a human.

"Now, since you want to die what difference does it make to you what route you take. Let me measure out the dose you prefer. If it kills you, you lose nothing anyway. If it is a success I make myself famous and you have an opportunity to mend the tangled web of your life."

Well, he had me. I told him to fix up a dose that would carry me back just fourteen years, eleven months and two weeks. That would be just enough to take me back to two weeks later than the date on which I had started on my boxcar ride to eternity.

He must have miscalculated the dose for I fell in a swoon. When I came to, the brakeman was kicking me off the train at the first town west of Valpo and I had to walk back to Valpo.

CLOSING ADDRESS TO THE CLASS OF 1915.

E. H. Wisner.

FRIENDSHIP.

There are at least four conditions of friendship. Mutual love is of course the basis of all. With love as a basis, there must be congeniality, heightened by contrast. In these elements man must answer to man as the reflection in a mirror. One cannot or need not be a second edition of the other, but each with his own personality must act as the complement of the other. Two impulsive men cannot form a lasting friendship. Both tempers generally erupt at the same time. There must be individuality as well as mutuality; the impulsive man needs to be balanced by the slow and cautious man.

A second condition I desire to name is, loyalty unshaken by disappointments. A friendship built upon ideal conditions is no friendship at all. Each person has his faults and each must know the other's failings and help him to mend them rather than running to a third party when his path is crossed. Any friendship that is worth while must be capable of living thru disappointments in one another, must have the power to see the reason for the friend's failure and reach out a helping hand, rather than to dismiss him from our circle as soon as he makes a mistake.

The third condition is, sincerity mixed with tenderness. Friends should be perfectly sincere with one another. There should not be the least dissimulation in the love that cements friendship. One should feel that he can trust his life with the other. Friendship formed for policy sake cannot possess this element, for vaulting ambition rules in the lives of one or both in such a case. Frank talks are often necessary but they must be seasoned with tenderness. Friendship must be sincere, truthful, and tender. In no other atmosphere can this delicate flower grow. Hypocrisy is a blight in the garden of friendship.

Fellowship enriched by unselfish service, is the last condition. In the coming years when you are scattered all over this great country, you may find a position open that a friend can fill. Drop him a line at once that he may get on the ground and with your help climb a step higher, and the day may come when such service will be returned tenfold. If you embark on life's stormy billows as a boat crew, handling the oars as one man, great progress can be made; but if each embarks in his own frail canoe, all may be wrecked or driven ashore.

Having enumerated the various conditions of friendship, I now desire to call your attention to the cost of friendship. This relation established for policy costs young men and young women their individuality, that steadfastness of purpose that any life that is worth living must possess. It makes you a weakling on whom responsibility can rest but lightly. It makes you a dummy, a cat's paw that some money uses to haul his chestnuts out of the fire. It destroys your power of decision and leaves you helpless, friendless and jobless, when the tide turns. Friendships sometimes cost a young man an inheritance, which is often great. Such a case may be cited in Jonathan who lost the king's favor and fortune because of his friendship for David. Such associations, however, seldom fail to more than compensate for the loss they caused. The young man who turns down a good chance because a father threatens to disinherit him, is a sort of policy man and loses his chance to develop into a strong, self-supporting individual.

People who complain that they have no friends will generally find on a very superficial examination that they have not been willing to pay the price. Friendship comes high. Emerson, in his Essay on Friendship, says, "It is no idle bond, no holiday engagement. He that offers himself for that covenant, comes like an Olympian to the great games where the first born of the world are the competitors. He proposes himself for contests where time, want, and danger are in the lists, and he alone is victor who has truth enough in his constitution to preserve the delicacy of this beauty from the wear and tear of all these."

To the class of 1915, about to leave this Institution, I wish to commend these words. In addition, I wish to call your attention to the fact that during the two years' close association here you have been forming friendships for each other, for the Institution, and for Humanity. Now the time for cultivation has arrived, or these delicate plants will die, choked out by the distance and the weeds that will spring up between. Drop a line to one another often. Compare progress made. Never lose an opportunity to call on one another whenever possible and you will find that this delicate flower, if kept alive, will yield a fragrance far beyond human expectation.

What I have said regarding friendship for each other applies to your friendship for the Institution. Cultivate it. Let us hear from you. If we know where you are and what you are doing, we may be of great service to you and you likewise to us.

My last thought is regarding your friendship for humanity, which I hope your stay with us has taught you to serve better. Twelve years ago last January, I learned one of those incidents in the service of mankind that is occurring unrecorded every hour. I was about to board a limited train on the Montpelier-Detroit division of the Wabash railroad, with Detroit my destination. A blizzard, known in this part of the country as a Northeaster, (a snow storm driven by a terrific gale from the northeast,) was raging. The train was scheduled 40 miles per hour, heading into this blinding storm every foot of the way. I walked to the engine; it was a ponderous machine, one of the largest and most powerful that the company possessed, six drivers, six feet six inches in diameter; the seething furnace was sending its fiery darts through the great boiler tubes; the steam gauge was registering the limit, indicating that the monster was nerved for its dash against the storm. Its great eye pierced the inky blackness of the night. It looked perfectly capable for its part of the work, but my eye fell upon the engineer—how great the contrast—a little man far on the shady side of sixty, long had he been in the service of the company and many were the battles won to his credit. When the signal was given, he mounted to his place in the cab, and set his face against the storm. With hand upon the throttle and eye upon the rail, the old man drove the great iron steed the one hundred and fifty mile lap of the train’s journey, on time at every point, and in the twelve trailing palaces three hundred people slept as safe as in their own beds. At the end of the journey, did this representation of humanity thank the man who had suffered for them? No, the Master Mechanic alone did that. It is a thankless public that we serve.

As I laid my head against the back of the upholstered chair, this thought came to me,—If Humanity rides in ease and enjoyment of the best planned for them, over life’s slippery and uncertain rail, some man’s face must be against the storm. In this friendship that you have developed for mankind, I hope you will put your face against the storm and drive your lap of the race so that all that is highest and noblest may be enjoyed by your fellow man, and when the great Master Mechanic summons you in his presence, may his words of congratulation be, “Well done, thou good and faithful servant.”
REPORT OF THE ALUMNI MEETING.

The recent Pharmacy Reunion which occurred during commencement week, May 16-20, was perhaps the best in point of attendance of any that have ever been held. Many old graduates, representing nearly every one of the twenty-two years were present, the majority of them bringing their wives.

Force of habit led visitors toward “the Hill” and Science Hall, where the Pharmacy Exhibit was on display. The old familiar scenes in class room and laboratory were true delights; the intervening years were forgotten and we lived again the days of pills and powders.

The exhibit was a credit to the department and to the University. Members of the graduating class who had charge of the exhibits gave excellent and interesting demonstrations of the subjects in hand. The refining of oil, the testing of milk, the analysis of steel and the manufacture of galenicals all proved very interesting.

Room “H” has added some fine new equipment. A lantern with many slides and a sliding blackboard back of the instructor’s desk which rolls up to disclose shelves with supplies for class demonstrations. When we looked for the Dean’s office near the entrance to room “H” we found a finely equipped balance room, the Dean’s office having been moved to the second floor left from the stairs.

Here we met Prof. Timmons, the present Dean,—and his smile. Here we found an office “chemically” clean, scientifically exact, and jolly-balanced and card-indexed as to arrangement.

It was a pleasure to note the improvements.

A short business session of the Alumni was held in room H, following the visit to the Exhibit.

The alumni banquet in the dining room of Altruria Hall, was a pleasant and happy occasion, perhaps unusually so because of the presence of so many former graduates.

The University Orchestra furnished splendid music.

Dr. C. L. Bartholomew sang in his inimitable way. Interspersed between talks and toasts the assembly sang old familiar songs—“Dixie,” “Old Kentucky Home,” “Star Spangled Banner,” “Tippery,” “We’re Here Because We’re Here,” etc.

The menu which served in “Pa Kinsey’s” beautiful style, was as follows:

Orchestra
Ladies, White Rose
Gentlemen, Carnation

MENU
Fort Meyer Grape Fruit with Strawberry Spring Chicken
New Potatoes in Cream
June Peas
Florida Tomato and Hot House Cucumber Salad with Lettuce
Warm Rolls
Creamery Butter
Strawberry Shortcake with Cream
Coffee

The class welcome by M. H. Breininger was well worded and pleasingly given, expressing the true spirit of welcome. The Alumni response which was to have been given by W. L. Moss, was omitted because of his absence. The Junior response given by James H. Parker, was an eloquent and able speech. He proved conclusively that his was a little the best class that was ever to graduate from this school.

Floyd Weeks told of the Valparaiso Pharmacy Association, its purpose and prospects. J. M. Morrison, the veteran wholesaler of the old Morrison-Plummer, now Fuller-Morrison Co., of Chicago, responded to "Precipitates." He told of experiences in the business world in a manner that the young graduate will never forget. (We very much regret that this speech was not committed to writing and is not obtainable for publication.)

"Reagents"—responded to by Prof. Timmons, proved to be, not a toast, but a "most excellent" paper. Keen logic, flashing wit, and literary excellence characterized it throughout. The ensuing applause indicated truly the place "Dick" occupies in the esteem of class and faculty.

"Women and Pharmacy," was a charming toast charmingly given by Miss Mary Boyer. "Just a Word"—by G. C. Chostner, gave much good advice as well as amusement. "Night Calls," a witty delineation in verse of the Pharmacists' delight (?) given by James W. Bell, won much applause. Impromptu speeches from Alumni and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought to a close this pleasant occasion.

Following the banquet the Alumni met in the parlors of Altruaria, for a social hour and final business session. In the absence of Mr. Moss, president, Mr. Thralls, vice-president, presided. After a "siege of motions" Mr. Chas. Wark, of Valparaiso, was unanimously elected president, Dr. Nixon, vice-president, and Prof. Timmons, secretary and treasurer and editor of the Annual.

Secretaries for each class were elected. They are to report to the general secretary concerning members of their respective classes.

Owing to the distance some of the members live from Valparaiso it was decided to hold reunions only once in five years. It is to be understood, however, that those living near have promised to attend every year if possible, and are most certainly wanted.

A vote of thanks was extended to Prof. Timmons for his untiring efforts in sustaining the Annual practically unaided, and a pledge was given to extend to him all possible assistance in the future.

Myrtle Hines-King of '03.

Dr. G. H. Stoner acted as toastmaster. His introductory remarks were so very interesting that we wished them for publication. He promised faithfully to write them out for us. What we got appears below.
Mr. Toastmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The class of 1915 greets and extends to everyone a most hearty welcome. There is something about an occasion of this kind which makes us feel a variety of emotions and sentiments. We are glad we are Pharmics. We are glad that we are seniors—that we have finished our work. We wish to apply the things we have learned. We want to begin the struggle to win a place.

With this there comes feelings more or less of sadness—that we must leave these halls and classrooms. There has come a close intimacy with old rooms I and H. They seem a part of us, and it is like saying good-bye to old friends.

The presence of the faculty here tonight indicates that they belong to us. That our ambition and trials and struggles have been theirs too. And these associations have become dear.

We realize, now that our time here is ended, just what our work means—what opportunities we have overlooked and neglected.

To you Juniors, who have yet the big year before you, we beg of you to make the best of every one of these opportunities. You have a course before you unequalled for wideness of scope and broadness of training for things vital to your vocation and a corps of instructors who are willing to give you the best they have.

"It's a long way to Tipperary," music by "Dick," words by Kinsey, but it's more than worth the struggle, even though the road is rocky with boulders of purin bases—the pathway slippery with castor oil emulsions. Your spotless linen may become spattered and soiled with fat and oils, but Mr. Wisner has the recipes for the removal of even a grass stain and a benzine ring.

You will be initiated into the mysteries of Bennett's varied and poignant humor.

You will at least sit up straight and take that kink out of your spine when you listen to Mr. Bowman. Once a week will do you good. "Now the next maxim."

You'll surely appreciate Dr. Stoner. His lectures are filled with common sense and practical suggestions. He has all sorts of potions to make this life more rosy and many a pill to end your sorrows.

After your bandaging and first aid you'll be able to do your own mending after class rushes, and after one lecture from Sahm your slogan for life will be, "Get the money."

By all means affiliate yourselves with the Pharmaceutical Association. Get the habit now and keep it up when you leave here.

To you Alumni, it is more than an honor to have you here. We feel humble in your presence—you men of experience that have grappled with the world and its affairs, striving to win your place. When we in the future years gather here, may we hope to honor them as you honor us now.

And now classmates, what can I say to you? Our pleasant associations have ended. We go each our separate way. It is an honor to be enrolled among the followers of this profession and everyone should be proud of his calling. It depends upon you and I in some measure what the future of it will be. Let us make it clean. Let us strive to have it take the position you and I know it merits.

Comparatively few of us if any have the gifts or the opportunities to become millionaires, governors or senators, but we can do our duties in that sphere in which providence has placed us. Each one of us believe himself something of a genius; we believe ourselves fitted for greater things. But great men are always exceptional men; and greatness itself is but comparative. There are larger things in the world than mere getting on, and more worthy things to worship than the great goddess of prosperity. But each one can act his part honestly and honorably and to the best of his ability. We can strive to make the best of life. We can use our gifts, and not abuse them. We can be true, just, honest and faithful even in small things. And its the little things that make this old world spin.

There is no one who has been more faithful and true and honest that I can cite you to than, "Our Pa Kinsey," God bless him. We take off our hats to him if that is a mark of deepest respect.

Let us do our part better.
Do more than is expected of us.
Not lack confidence in ourselves.
Study every part of our business when chance comes.
And be not afraid to hold our record up unashamed to let the world know what we are doing.
Opportunity is ready for us when we are ready for opportunity.

JUNIOR RESPONSE.
James Henry Parker.

Mr. Toastmaster, Members of the Faculty, and Alumni, Brother and Sister Seniors, Fellow Classmates, Ladies and Gentlemen: The Greetings of the Junior Class to you all, with the best of wishes for success to all you seniors.

We are here tonight to pay our respects to the senior Pharmacy class of 1915, having enjoyed a most hearty repast, we must now endeavor to share with them the first of pleasures which two years of careful, conscientious work has merited them.

You members of the Alumni, one, two, five, or ten years ago, experienced the change which one undergoes in a few years, while the college is going through a student, working all kinds of unheard of changes in his system. This experience is now fresh upon the minds of the seniors since the change has just finished working upon them. They are better able to speak authoritatively upon this subject. We poor juniors having gone through but half of the "wonderful mind changing factory" are not able to draw more than one conclusion. Just like the little boy who was playing on the street with his little dog, teaching him a few tricks when one of our senior friends came up to him saying: "Son, how is it that I can't teach my little dog to do such tricks?" The little lad looked up into the all-seeing eyes of our learned senior and said: "The reason is yer got to know more than the dog knows."
I notice that we are to have "Precipitates" and "Reagents" this evening. But before you get them I wish to give you an insight into "Catalytic Agents."

A "Catalytic agent" chemically is defined as "A substance whose presence promotes and accelerates a chemical change," for example, you all know that moderate heating of Potassium Chlorate will not cause the evolution of Oxygen. But if a little Manganese Dioxide were to be introduced chemical action would take place whereby Oxygen would be obtained and at the close of such an experiment the Manganese Dioxide would be one of the products, having lost none of its original chemical properties.

As we are to have two chemical talks this evening I will discuss "Catalytic agents" physically, and will endeavor to give you a junior's idea or conception of some of the "Physical Catalytic Agents" which he meets with every day in the various class rooms.

I want you all to imagine that all your books of learning are various quantities of Potassium Chlorate, and the Oxygen is the knowledge which we all wish to obtain. All of us students will be the manufacturers or chemists desirous of Oxygen or learning. The heat necessary to bring about the change will be our ambition and amount of energy which we put in our work. Then comes the time for introducing our "Physical Catalytic Agents!" We Pharmacy boys have a number from which to choose and eventually manage to make use of them all. The only important difference between a "Chemical" and "Physical" catalytic agent is Stability. After many years of such use as to which we put our "Physical Catalytic Agents" they begin to break down and change their original properties, for example, all you old graduates and graduating seniors will agree with me when I say that the fatty tissue is rapidly accumulating in the central region of our "Materia Medica's" body, and the voice of him who instructs us in "lower forms" and the "organs of the body" is becoming more frog-like every day, while our worthy Dean's head is not covered with as luxuriant growth of hair as one once could have seen; although this physical change threatens to cause his head to glisten like a mirror, he being a staunch and able Catalytic Agent chemically, is a very stable Chemist and always will be the same old Dick.

We of the junior class know that all you prosperous looking old graduates will acknowledge that you think that your class is "it." All ye seniors make the statement that there is, was or will be no other class like yours. Well,—we all know that as years go by and civilization progresses men and professions are raised gradually toward the "throne of excellence."

In conclusion I want to call your attention to this fact. 1916 will be one year older than 1915, and civilization will have profited in her one year of experience and growth—therefore,—I wish to extend to all the invitation to attend our Graduation Banquet, which takes place next year, 1916, and will be analogous to civilization. I thank you.
V. Ph. A.

IT'S ORIGIN AND PURPOSE.

By Floyd Ely Weeks.

The idea of our present V. Ph. Assn. was first born and nourished in the minds of Prof. Timmons and Linton and two of the members of the class of 1912 who on account of modesty preferred that their names not be mentioned. Through the incessant and untiring effort of these men, we now have our present association. In the latter part of December, 1911, the idea of association work was made concrete and consequently on the 28th of December of that year the first meeting was held. Mr. William Howerton was elected as president and at this meeting there were only twelve present, but by the following meeting which was held on the 17th of Jan. 1912, the membership had grown to sixteen, consisting of 12 seniors and 4 juniors. The membership began increasing very rapidly and by the end of the year of the Association's organization there were 26 active members. This number kept increasing until at the present time we have a membership of 75 composed of 36 seniors and 39 juniors.

The purpose and aim of the founders was to obtain men who are eminent in the profession to give lectures in order to stimulate professional interest among the students, to be able to gain ideas from fellow students who had previously been drug clerks, to promote good fellowship and social intercourse among the classes and members and train members for higher association work which they meet with after leaving college. These aims are being fully realized each year. At least once every term we have the privilege of listening to an eminent pharmacist, chemist or botanist and often at our semi-monthly meetings, papers are read by students who have had special experience along some certain line connected with pharmacy. This past year we have listened to such men as Mr. Hugh Craig, editor of the N. A. R. D. notes, Mr. G. Hoover, chief chemist at the U. S. Lab. in Chicago, Dr. F. A. Miller, botanist for Eli Lilly & Co., Mr. F. C. Dodds, who is secretary of the state board of Pharmacy of Illinois and within the past two weeks we had the privilege of hearing Mr. O. V. R. Smith of Parke Davis & Co. Thus you see the programs are always both interesting and indeed instructive. One very prominent feature of the Association and one which was introduced by the founders is that of bestowing an honorary membership certificate on members who graduate in Pharmacy. The requisites necessary to gain one of these is that the recipient must be a graduate of Pharmacy or one who is eminent in that profession. This helps to increase the membership materially, especially among the senior class.

As the class of 1915 is about to leave the halls of school life and enter the open stage of life's school we hope that we have run our lap of the relay well, and we now hand to you, the class of 1916, the chalk. We trust that you may begin the next lap with all your muscles fresh and with renewed vigor and it is the sincere hope of the class of 1915 that you may carry the chalk across the tape in record time and let next year's history say: “This is the best year our association has ever had.” In behalf of the class of 1915 I will say that as we leave dear old Valpo we wish you success in your association work and that every member of 1915 will ever be thoughtful of the V. Ph. Assn. Previously I have referred to the certificate of honorary membership. You have heard the conditions under which it is given and we have selected one whom we think is entitled to such membership because of his sympathy for the association and the interest he has taken in it. Therefore, in behalf of the Association I wish to present Prof. Wisner with the honorary membership certificate with greetings from The Valparaiso Pharmaceutical Association.

WOMEN AND PHARMACY.

Miss M. E. Boyer.

Mr. Toastmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen:

When I was asked by our class to speak at this Banquet I was also informed that Mr. Timmons' wishes were for us to make our speeches short. It amused me somewhat and it was then I wondered why he would have one of us girls talk. You would think to look at Mr. Timmons that he knew women better. We women in this day and age have so much to say and get so little chance to say it, that if we ever do get to talk, we don't like for even our superiors to say, "Make it short."

For a few moments this evening I will talk on, "Women and Pharmacy," and especially upon the criticisms given pharmacy by them. I can truly say that these criticisms are given by women who do not understand what Pharmacy really consists of and think that Pharmacy ends with dishing out "Soda in a Drug Store." I confess that I had not the slightest idea what it really is and class myself among the fortunate for having taken it.

One day while showing a very intelligent young lady around our laboratory, showing her work, which I thought was very interesting and very practical, she turned to me and said: "Why are you taking Pharmacy?" Another young lady upon entering our laboratory, threw up her hands and said: "This just makes me sick. Why I would die if I had to stay in here." Well, I told her I didn't know whether we were immuned to this place or not, but as a rule we didn't get sick unless Mr. Wisner had us grind phytolacca.

All the different professions, trades and works, women are wading into today are fine. I can almost appreciate them all. However, I cannot appreciate Latin. I know it is fine and that I ought to, but as I say, I cannot. I studied Latin for four years, or rather attended my Latin classes that long and I will have to say, with all due credit to my professors, for they were good, that I learned more latin while taking the pharmacy course than any other time in my life.

We don't have to study Greek or Latin to be able to talk so people can't understand us. Why, do you know Mr. Timmons has taught us a language every morning at 7:30 which would even make Caesar and Shakespeare sit up and take notice. We can talk in this same language and no one can understand us but a pharomic.
Domestic Science is fine. It surely is useful and practical. But ladies and gentlemen, I don't believe you know how much domestic science we really get in the pharmacy course. Why, do you know, Mr. Wisner is an absolute authority on pickling, making coffee and the removal of stains.

There is another criticism given pharmacy which I think is very unjust. This criticism is given by only a few and I am so glad it is only a few.

One day while sitting near a young lady, a gentleman chanced to pass. She said to me, "You know that fellow?" Yes. "You know he is a pharmic." Yes. "A regular rough neck." I didn't think it necessary to tell that young lady that he wasn't a rough neck, but I didn't like her very well. I want to tell you, ladies and gentlemen, that you would have to search this old hill with a brighter light than a searchlight if you would find a better and finer bunch of boys than the ones that are going to graduate tomorrow night.

It is true these boys smoke, some of them, but Mr. Timmons says, "This is the mark of a gentleman, especially if it is a Cob Pipe." And they chew—paraffin and spearmint, but Mr. Wisner says, "This is very stimulating." Well, since I always like to do as near as I am able what Mr. Timmons would have me do, I will make this short, but in closing I want to say to these boys and the three dear young ladies in my class and to my professors: as Priscilla said, "Truly you have been good to me always," and I also want to tell you that I have enjoyed being among you and have spent some of my happiest moments in the Laboratory.

REAGENTS.

Prof. G. D. Timmons.

You have been taught in your pharmaceutical jurisprudence that the principal is responsible for the acts of his agents. I would have you know further that he is often responsible for the acts of his reagents.

The bookish definition of reagent I could never use, but a practical definition is: that which by its action or non-action enables you to determine the composition of a substance,—that is the make-up of a body or what kind of stuff there is there. These reagents which you will have upon your selves will represent a great diversity of tests. They will also bear a variety of labels. They will represent on the one hand laudable rewards for the manifestation of certain properties and on the other gaudy offerings, gewgaws,—baits if you will,—to induce men to show their undesirable properties. These are not necessarily tests of solution, precipitation, or effervescence, but they are tests to determine character, ideas, and ideals. Still they may be, in a way, tests of solution if the acid brings out clear, lucid, acuteness, penetration and initiative and not the dregs and scum of sluggish mediocrity.

It may be the reagent will bring about ready precipitation, resembling ferroferricyanide, in the true blue of bravery, courage and valor; or it may be like the dirty black of CuS (which the uninitiated will think lacks another S) in a filthy residuum of coarseness, rudeness and vulgarity. The body tested may glow with the brilliancy of true humor, or flash and scintillate with sparkling wit; or it may burn with the rancor of irony or of caustic satire. It may effervesce with all the appearance of pure mirth and joy and gladness of soul; or the ebullition may be marked by fretful murmur, peevish invective, or petulant rage. Again, the effervescence may suggest the pop of the champagne cork and of a fascinating licentiousness. Or yet again, this effervescing reaction may bring to your senses the perfume of heliotropin or the coumarin of new mown hay in gentle friendship and lasting love. Or it may come like H₂S or with the vileness of a valerate in jealousy, envy, and suspicion, in malice, rancor and spite.

You may confirm the above results with some reagent analogous to your old time borax bead test, and for love you will get your cobalt blue, and for friendship your warm wine or amethyst, while for spite you will get your dirty iron yellow, or nickel brown, and for jealousy and envy, a duplicate of the chromium green.

It will be interesting to you to analyze those you touch elbows with. Here, the reagent gives a positive test for moderation, temperance and sobriety; and there, it shows up in all the ugliness and dissolution of the profligate. The strange feature is that there was originally absolutely no difference between the bodies under test. A clear case of allotropism. A red and yellow phosphorus; one labile and flaming up without an instant’s warning, the other fixed and stable even under the most trying circumstances; the one poisonous to a high degree, the other free from all toxic venom. Why? Only because of certain conditions. One would have been the other but for the action of certain reagents, certain environments, and you help make the environments. Better yet, the evil quality of the one may be lost by converting it into the other variety. Surely a splendid opportunity to make use of the right reagents.

From another point of view, one of your tests may be that of true loyalty to alma mater, or of abiding friendship for your classmates or your instructor. It can be made, I find, at a cost of two cents. I have literally and “literarily” applied this test thousands of times and never knew it to fail. Whenever your reagent reaches the right body, a response is certain. In any analytic process there is a certain and necessary waste of reagent. We deplore this, but cannot avoid it. But listen; why might not an allotropic change be brought about in these cases and careless procrastination be changed into prompt and obliging responses, thus doing away with waste of reagents in terms of Dick’s patience and postage.

Let me call your attention again to the wording of the definition of “reagent.” Any thing which by action or non-action enables you to determine the character of the body under test. We have so far been considering active reagents. Let us now turn our attention to the other phase—non-active. Silver readily precipitates with HCl or H₂S. Aluminum, which resembles silver, will not respond to these tests. Again Calcium oxalate is soluble in hydrochloric acid and this constitutes a test. Acetic acid is without action upon it; also a test. Now apply this. On the one hand, a man may readily respond to a call of duty, actively and positively so. However, if he be tested with flattery, or an unearned meal-ticket and fail to respond, his ideals are made clearer to you by his non-activity. The very non-action, the refraining from certain things marks the man and portrays his character.

These reagents have been discussed as though they were your agents to use in testing others. Do not lose sight of the fact that while ous tin is a good test for ic mercury that it works equally well if reversed, that when you put the caustic to the other fellow he may in time have curiosity as to your mettle (metal), that the property which you possess and so arrogantly call laudable pride he finds shades off very rapidly into vanity and conceit. Do not forget that your boasted economy may pass quickly through frugality and parsimony and be stamped by your neighbor who is making the test as “niggardly stinginess.” Keep in mind that what you call your versatility he may say is a happy faculty of looking wise and getting from under; your sweet disposition and meekness is made so by a spice of cowardliness; your modesty is found to be a notochord that never developed; your virtue due to indolence; and your heroism tests hot air. All this he may think of you. With this in view do not lose sight of the fact that you are to be tested as well as to test, that you may show when the reagents are applied —on being put to the test, that you are of a character which gives off an emanation as poisonous and as deadly as arsine; that in your very nature you are intimately related to brimstone, that you give the black smirch of ingratitude to the white porcelain surface of common obligation; and that you readily precipitate with the yellow streak which makes the analyst report you as As; or, may-hap you will show a shallow, fickle, frivolous, conceited ego which will cause him to add another S.

Let me also call your attention to the great adaptability of these reagents; that not only may they be used by you on others, and by others on you, but you may easily apply the test to yourself in a manner akin to introspection. Be on your guard, however, that you do not precipitate yourself into the pitfall of the scientist; namely, allowing your prejudice and your desires, your hopes, aspirations and dreams, and your everlasting egotism to see results that do not exist.

Let me here offer for your guidance a slightly modified set of rules from Van Dyke,

Four things a man must learn to do
If he would make his record true;
To think without confusion clearly;
To love his fellow-man sincerely;
To act from honest motives purely;
To trust in right and truth securely.

Any scientific dissertation of this character in which certain specific directions are given is never complete without a few dont’s.

First don’t get the idea that a test or two tells the story. Conditions readily modify the action of reagents. Even you children, you juniors, are all familiar with the fact that a short cut, a quick confirmatory test will lead you to call Sn——Al, or in applying a common test for lead, be misled and report Aluminum. In a full and complete test all indications must point to the same identical result. You do not say, "it is aurum, because most reagents indicate it so," but, "because all tests show pure gold." You do not say, "he is a perfect gentleman, with a few exceptions." It is these very exceptions that nullify the test.

Second, don't use a reagent that is not in itself pure. Imagine testing for traces of ammonia and in the test employing common tap water or applying the diphenylamine test for traces of nitric acid and in the test making use of commercial Sulphuric. As well might you set out to determine good in a man and in doing so apply vulgar, mean, impure means and methods. His nature could not respond with any degree of accuracy. Your results never would be trustworthy.

Again, you are aware that any reagent works best at a certain dilution. Even strong HCl may not precipitate a first group metal while the concentrated acid will precipitate a common salt, a fifth group metal, from a saturated solution of Na₂SO₄. Since dilution is so essential, in looking about for the most desirable diluent, you will find that humility and sincerity mixed in about equal parts works will. An addition of patience is often to be recommended. Mercy may added at times and to advantage, and I may add that the best quality to be obtained on the open market is never filtered or strained. But for the most desirable results the best diluent to be had is charity.

Then gently scan your brother man,
Still gentler sister woman;
Tho they may gang a kennin wrang
To step aside is human;
One point must still be greatly dark
The moving why they do it,
And just as lamely can ye mark
How far perhaps they rue it.

And, in closing, your success in this life depends, first, upon your ability to apply these reagents to others, and to interpret their reactions; and second, upon your faculty of responding promptly and properly when the test is applied to you. My wish to you, seniors, and to you all, is that you may have a record of such reactions throughout life that the Great Analyst may pronounce you "chemically pure salt of the earth."

PHARMACY OF TODAY, ITS PROBLEMS AND OPPORTUNITIES.

By George P. Englehard.

Commencement Day address before the School of Pharmacy of Valparaiso University.

The fame of the School of Pharmacy of Valparaiso University and the high place its alumni have won in the world outside, where efficiency is the every-day test of advancement, is proof that the foundation here laid is firm and proportioned for highest success.

I congratulate you, ladies and gentlemen of the graduating class, on the achievement of your college ambition and your choice of a vocation affording unlimited opportunity for beneficient serv-

You will begin your work in an age perhaps the most momentous in human history. Precedents are being annihilated; revolutions by the edicts of peace as well as of war are universal; not a land or a nation is exempt from an earnest, eager and determined public sentiment that, ignoring all opposing traditions, is moving swiftly forward, battling for the principle of equal opportunity for all and special privilege for none—for a new justice, for a new temple of human liberty, for the enthronement of man above money

Whence comes this revolutionizing power? Why its stupendous rising just now, what its purpose, and what is to be its culminating achievement?

Political liberty is ever associated with intellectual emancipa-tion and progress, and our own American Revolution, the natural, the inevitable outcome of conditions that in their course evolved the indomitable Cromwell and the fated Charles the First—the American Revolution, I say marked an epoch in human progress that gave tangible form to principles that flamed forth in fire and sword that meant a new birth for every kingdom and empire in Europe—that cried for vengeance in the French revolution, that gave birth to the Mirabeaus and Napoleon and Gladstones and Bismarcks and Garibaldis and Kossuths who, consciously or otherwise, were blazing the way for a nobler civilization. It made possible the period of intellectual freedom that stimulated progress in every department of human activity, until today the people of every nation stand upon the heights in full view of the promised land of a new era and a happier destiny.

What a privilege to live in the splendors of the present? The man of today, as compared with his fellows of a hundred years ago, lives a double span of life. Mere existence is not living. Living is seeing and feeling and knowing, and what marvels in human experience do we not behold in these early days of the presen century? The application of steam has linked the cities of this continent in closer association than would a thousand years of life under the old Roman dispensation. The telegraph and the telephone have made near neighbors of all the peoples of the earth, while the application of electricity in all its manifestations is but a type of the intellectual life that is flooding the earth with a brightness extending to its remotest corners.

The world today is ablaze with a titanic conflict that, rightly interpreted, in my judgment, cannot but promote rather than retard the march of human progress.

Sacrifices Demanded.

All great achievements demand sacrifice, and the greater the achievement the greater, as a rule, the required sacrifice. We must give in order that we may have. The sacrifice of life and treasure in our great Civil War was not without its glorious compensations and the appalling sacrifice now being enacted on the battle-fields of Europe will, we may be sure, in God's providence, be followed by a renewed consecration to the principles of peace through a clearer recognition of the causes that precipitated the present catastrophe and through a determination to prevent their repetition, a determination that will evoke and compel a new spirit of amity and cooperation dedicated to the welfare of all the people rather than the assumed rights of kings.

We are witnessing, therefore, a great world’s drama, terrible, appalling and tragic, one that means much to the life of all living and one that will make life more worth the living to the coming generations. Great, therefore, should be the joy of those now entering upon their practical life’s work in knowing that they will live, in actual living, a span of years longer than that of a Methuselah and know a greater and higher experience than was ever before vouchsafed to man.

But “peace hath her victories no less renowned than war.”

How marvelous the progress, the achievements, in the sciences and arts during the past quarter century. Chemistry is today no longer a mere dilettante recluse but a veritable captain in every line of industry. Botany contributes no longer merely to idle esthetic information, but to a knowledge that is increasing the output of our farms and gardens, that is adding to the supply of the necessaries of life, that is ministering to human health and happiness—while our materia medica has come in recent year to have a new interpretation, a new application and a new force as the intelligent and capable aid of medicine and pharmacy.

All the professions are girded as never before for new conquests—law, with its fairer expressions of equity and justice; engineering with its emulative achievements on land and water; medicine, with its miracles in the prevention and cure of disease, its making the blind to see and the maimed to walk; pharmacy, with its expanding knowledge of the uses, applications and preparations of plants and minerals for the beneficent uses of mankind—even our theology has emerged from the cobwebbed dogmas of a mediaeval past and is putting on the garments of an enlightened, progressive, man-loving and man-saving Christianity.

How important, therefore, that pharmacy be on the alert, that she take full account of her opportunities and responsibilities, that she perfect her equipment for greatest service, that she understand clearly her rights as well as her obligations, and that she be true to the highest welfare of the people. For it is only as she proves herself worthy of a place in the onward march that she can hope to have the co-operation of her peers and ward off the attacks that threaten her prerogatives, her reputation and even her life.

Responsibilities of the Pharmacist.

It may be truly said that no profession is charged with so many important and exacting responsibilities, or is so near the firing line in every conflict involving at once the physical and moral welfare of the community.

Is is proposed further to regulate or prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors? Immediately the drug store is involved. What shall be done about the druggist who perverts his store into a barroom or who barters the reputation of his profession for the paltry profit on practices he knows to be both illegal and cowardly?

How, on the other hand, shall the druggist be protected who cherishes the letter and spirit of the law and who holds the honor of his profession dearer to him than life itself? How can the pharmacist be permitted the exercise of his just prerogatives as a dispenser of medicines, including those containing intoxicants, and at the same time be immune from the harassments and dangers that ought to visit the man who abuses his prerogatives by deliberate evasions of the law?

These are questions that have to be met whether the problem be one of regulation or prohibition and, whatever the law may say, the hapless druggist is still left in the line of direct fire by the warring factions. The course of the honest and patriotic pharmacist is clear; it is to obey the law in letter and in spirit and to join in hunting down the traitors and cowards in the profession who fail to do so.

The Evil of Narcotics.

But there is still another public evil even closer to the druggist and more deadly even than the drink curse in many communities. It has developed into proportions so extensive and threatening as to invoke defensive measures first by the states and now by the national government.

Cocaine, heralded but a few decades ago as a foe of pain and one of the kindliest of aids in surgery, was soon revealed as perhaps the most destructive and remorseless peril with which our civilization has to deal.

Used in seemingly harmless remedies it found its way into use by men and women by countless thousands who, all unconscious of their danger, gradually succumbed to a habit that unpityingly robbed them of mind, soul and body. To the weak in quest of a stimulant, it promised exhilaration and contentment, then inflicted the depths of degradation and despair.

Cocaine comes with fair face and garlanded brow promising kindliness and joy only to dupe her victims with a chalice of deadliest poison. It is no respector of persons; be they high or low, rich or poor, untutored or learned, its kindly mask is removed only when its victim is already writhing in agony and perhaps beyond the hope of salvation.

Thousands of happy homes have been its victims, thousands of men driven from high positions to lowly graves, thousands of good women lowered to the dregs of the street and this while it was preying on the ignorant or careless on a scale that threatened the morality and safety of whole communities, particularly among the poorer classes in the southern states and in all the larger cities of the north.

The dispensers of this awful curse are, for the most part, either doctors or druggists or their accomplices, and to the extent that they have been willfully guilty of this crime all will agree they merit being pilloried as professional outcasts and assassins of a type no decent community will tolerate. Let them be driven from the ranks; let the national law be supplemented by state laws and local ordinances everywhere in order that intra-state as well as inter-state prohibition and penalties may hurl this curse from its seat of power, may give due protection to the people and at the same time defend medicine and pharmacy from further association or contact with its polluting presence.

The Druggist in Politics.

In securing legislation of the kind proposed, druggists cannot be too affirmatively active. Indeed in all matters of government, local, state and national, they have duties proportioned to their opportunities—duties they cannot afford to shirk. "It doesn't pay to mix in politics," I may be told. It may not always pay in dollars and cents but it will pay a thousandfold in an expanded intelligence, a broader vision, a larger soul and a happy consciousness of membership in the noble order of men who live not for themselves alone.

The man who isn't willing to sacrifice something for his citizenship isn't fit to be a citizen; the man who isn't willing to give of himself for right government doesn't deserve to have a government at all or at least any but a bad government; the man who won't make a fight for his liberties and for pure and honest government deserves to be robbed of his liberty, possessions and opportunities; he has no right to take and not give; in politics as in everything else it is more blessed to give than to receive because it is in the giving that a single torch may light a city, the brook live the life of a majestic stream or the soul produce a Washington or Lincoln. It was the giving at Valley Forge and again at Gettysbury and Antietam that created and preserved our beloved country and it is the citizen who in the piping times of peace as in the fearful days of war gives of his mind and strength to the public weal who will have earned the rewards he will count the richest of his life.

If this be true of the citizen of average opportunities, what shall be said of the druggist and his opportunities? As the one place of business in a community not devoted exclusively to trade—as the one business place where a degree of professional education and culture may be expected to reside—as the natural center of an intelligent clientele—the drug store and the druggist have it in their power to do more to shape public sentiment rightly than any other local agency, not excepting even the local newspapers. Exercised with discretion, sincerity and courage and avoiding mere personalities and factionalism, this potent influence of the drug store could not but add to the distinction of the pharmacist and druggist and to the honor of his profession.

The Druggist's Profits.

You will pardon me if in these references to the pharmacist in his relations to the public I do not make extended mention of his great profits from the sale of postage stamps, his immense revenue from the public use of the city directory, his huge fees from after-midnight calls or his swelling fortune from the general information bureau he is obliged to maintain. Neither will I refer to the palatial soda fountain, the shining cigar case, the bouquets of confectionery and other modern necessities as adjuncts of drug store revenues—all these may seem out of harmony with the dignity of pharmacy—with a calling claiming equal rank with any other profession in public recognition.

But it should be borne in mind that pharmacy is commercially in a transition state; and must resort to unusual measures to bridge over its difficulties. It has been in great measure despoiled of its rightful function in the exclusive dispensing of medicines. The laws of practically all the states assert the exclusive right of licensed pharmacists "to retail, compound and dispense medicines," but with the proviso that physicians shall have the right to supply their patients "with such remedies as they may deem proper." The physician may know nothing about pharmacy, may not be able to distinguish one drug from another, may never have looked into the Pharmacopoeia, may never have compounded a medicine or seen one compounded in his life, may be wholly ignorant of doses or incompatibilities, but because, forsooth, he holds a medical diploma, he is privileged to usurp the functions of the pharmacist and do what nobody else is allowed to do. Why this glaring discrimination in his favor? No other civilized country on earth permits this privilege. Think of the danger to the people, the injustice to pharmacy, the travesty on pure drug legislation!

The Dispensing Doctor.

The doctor is privileged to enter the sick chamber, be he competent or incompetent, to diagnose the disease, whether rightly or wrongly, to determine upon the remedy, whether wisely or un­wisely, to select the remedy with the risk of taking it from the wrong box or bottle, to administer the remedy, whether with a desire to cure or even, mayhap, with intent to kill, and in the event of a fatal termination, to write the death certificate, thus burying with the patient all possible knowledge of his incompetency or error or perhaps criminality!

Is it strange that other nations think so startling a combina­tion of functions too much to be vested in one man especially in moments of distress and distraction when the liability to error is at its height? How often does it happen that druggists are called upon to correct prescriptions that, if dispensed as written, would have caused the death of a loved one? Multiply this grave liability a hundredfold and you will have a fair conception of the unquestionably numerous tragedies justly chargeable to dispensing by physicians. Why should this perilous condition be longer permitted? Of what avail is it that a long term of preliminary training and years at a college of pharmacy are deemed essential for profi­ciency in the science and art of pharmacy when any physician without a suggestion of pharmaceutical training is privileged not only to prescribe but to dispense also? Why require so much from the pharmacist for public protection and nothing from the physi­ian?

Let the full extent of the evil be known. Fully seventy per cent of all the medicines now prescribed by physicians are dis­pensed by themselves; having little or no knowledge of pharmacy, they are accustomed to have their remedies put up ready-made by manufacturing houses, and this stuff, made up often of the cheape­st and most worthless materials, they dispense daily with blind faith in the inerrancy of the manufacturer and blinder faith in their own work. "See here, John," said an irate physician to a wall­paper hanger doing some work in his office, "do you consider that a good job? Can't you see that paper doesn't hang straight?" "Yes," said John. "I see now, but I did my best and I can't bury my mistakes." Fortunate, indeed, is the dispensing physician whose work is not open to review or appeal and whose errors rest safely in the city of the silent!

Shall pharmacy continue to see this great wrong—this colossal crime—growing and thriving without a word of protest? Will the American people continue to pass stringent laws for pure drugs and honest pharmacy and exempt seventy per cent of all dispensed medicines simply because physicians demand the privilege of supplying their patients with such remedies as they may deem proper? Is it right or consistent in physicians to demand pure drug laws leveled at everybody save those most in need of supervision—the physicians themselves?

There are cities today of five, ten and twenty thousand population where all the drug stores combined do not put up a dozen prescriptions a week; Othello’s occupation is wholly gone in many communities, partially gone in others and threatened with extinction everywhere. My plea today is for an organized protest by pharmacists against a continuance of this great wrong; the remedy is simple. In cases where a physician dispenses his own medicines, let him in every case be required to write a prescription and hand it to the patient just as if the medicine were to be dispensed by a pharmacist, and, in cases of fatal termination, let the local health office certify the cause of death and not the attending physician. The dispensing privilege under these conditions would not require specific prohibition; it would, save in homeopathic and other harmless forms of treatment, involve too great risk and would thus be certain automatically to disappear. I have full confidence that this or some other effective remedy will come ere long either through a public demand or through the insistence of the better class of physicians who deplore the present dispensing handicap on medical efficiency and who recognize the necessity of an early divorce of the dispensing from the prescribing function.

I look forward with confidence to a restoration of the rightful heritage of pharmacy and to the day when the profession, standing shoulder to shoulder with her co-workers in the cause of human health and life, will by her courage, efficiency and devotion take first rank in public esteem and reflect highest honor on her followers.

To the graduating class let me say again, speaking as I feel sure for all present, our best wishes go with you. You have fought a good fight, you have kept the faith; our hearts beat with yours for your greater success as pharmacists, as business men and business women, and as soldiers in the army of a great America; our eyes look into yours with cheer and confidence; our hands are in yours and we wish you godspeed.
THIRTY-SEVEN GET DEGREES.

Clipping from the Valparaiso Vidette of May 21, 1915:

Thirty-seven young men and women were graduated from the pharmacy department of the university last night at the commencement in the auditorium, the main floor of which was nearly all occupied with an audience comprising the friends and relatives of the graduates, and many who came to the place for the express purpose of listening to the excellent program offered. G. P. Engelhard, editor of The Western Druggist for the past 35 years, was the speaker, and gave thought which will be long remembered by those in his hearing, especially by the ones who were receiving the degrees. During his discourse Mr. Engelhard touched upon the practice of selling whisky and cocaine over the drug counter. Only the renegade follows this, he said. "Pharmacy and Patriotism" was his subject, which was handled in a splendid way.

Miss Helen Axe Brown sang and received an ovation. Miss Stella Ruth played the opening march and Dr. J. M. Gelston gave the invocation. The Orpheus Brass quartet, scheduled to appear, was called away by a conflicting engagement. According to the usual custom, Prof. O. P. Kinsey conferred the degrees.

The graduating class was one of the finest in the history of the school, Prof. G. D. Timmons stated. The members have remarkable ability, as was evidenced by the high grades they all attained. Included in the number were Arthur Runyan, Dale Sparks, and Beula and Mary Boyer, all of Valparaiso.
Department of Pharmacy

This department is adequately equipped for instruction in both Pharmacy and Chemistry. Eight commodious laboratories are provided, giving ample opportunity for practical work. A fine balance room, well equipped with Sartorius balances, is convenient of access to the analytical laboratory.

In the curriculum the outline of the National Syllabus Committee is followed, thus assuring our graduates a training in conformity with the State Board examinations. In every subject a greater number of hours are offered than are required in the Syllabus.

Four courses are presented: The Graduate in Pharmacy Course, comprising two years of thirty-six weeks each; the Post-Graduate Course, one year of thirty-six weeks; the Pharmaceutical Chemist Course, two years of forty-eight weeks each; and the Bachelor of Science in Pharmacy Course; three years of forty-eight weeks each. A greater number of hours of actual work is offered in these courses than is usually given in corresponding courses. A special catalog giving full particulars mailed on application.
